Senator Jones.

There are some grains of truth, couple with a bushel or so of lies, which the St. Louis Democrat has to say in the following about United States Senator John P. Jones:

The unluckiest man on the Pacific slope, in point of wealth, is Senator Jones of Nevada. There has, perhaps, never been so vast a fortune so quickly scattered as that of Jones'. In spite of popular belief Senator Jones to-day is poor, comparatively speaking. When he was elected to the Senate in 1873 he was worth at least $10,000,000. To-day he is not worth $50,000 above his debts, and his salary is no longer despised as a source of income. It would be hard to tell where Jones's fortune has gone, or, more correctly speaking, hard to tell where it hasn't gone. No man ever sunk so much money in chimerical schemes, invested so much in bogus friendships, or became so easy a prey to financial sharks as Jones. He sunk $2,000,000 hard money in mines in Panamint, Cal., which never yielded a dollar. He sunk another million in the Sumner mine, in Southern California. He built a railroad in Southern California twelve miles long, and it cost enough to have had every tie of mahogany and every rail of silver. The Central Pacific afterward bought it for about $1,000 a mile. He bought every ranch ever offered him; indeed, he bought one in Nevada which has never been located to this day. Jones' agent could never find it. He started an ice factory in New Orleans and a daily newspaper in San Francisco. He never saw the ice factory, and never but once or twice the man that go him into it. He opened the St. James Hotel in New York, and, of course, it never paid. The last cruel wipe that Fate had in store for Jones was the "Sierra Nevada deal," as Californians call it, of four years ago. On a mere prospect the stock was jumped from $3 a share to $275. Jones got in at about $200 on the drop. The stock is selling now for less than $3 a share. The Bank of Nevada is believed to be carrying Jones' stock for him yet. At the time Jones was talked of so strongly for Secretary of the Treasury, Californians, who remembered how well Jones had taken care of his own money, could not repress a smile that he should be thought competent to take care of the people's.

THE Bodie Evening Miner is heartless enough to discourse thusly on "The Owens Valley Hog," as a subject:

He is of Swiss-cottage style of architecture. His physical outline is angular to a degree unknown outside of a text book on the science of geometry. The country razor-back prowls around in the sagebrush, lives on worms, beetles and roots; when he can spare time he climbs under his owner's fence and assists in harvesting the corn crop. In this respect he is neighborly to a fault, and when his duty to his owner's crop will allow, he will readily turn in and assist the neighbors, even working at night rather than see his crop spoil for want of attention. Crossing the razor-back with the blue-blooded stock makes but little improvement. The only effective way to improve him is to cross him with a railway train. He then becomes an imported Berkshire or a Poland-China hog, and if he does not throw the train off the track, the railroad company pays for him at a dollar a pound, for which they are allowed the mournful privilege of shoveling his remains off the track. The ham of the razor-back is more juicy than the hind leg of an iron fire-dog, but not so fat as a pine knot.

A WISCONSIN millionaire divided his estate among his three children, with the provision that half of each portion is to be kept by trustees until the child to whom it is left is thirty years old, and then it is not to be delivered until proof is given that at least one-half of the portion previously paid has not been squandered.

Health of Miners.

It is evident that the greatest necessity for healthful mining is good ventilation. With air currents sufficient to carry off noxious gases, powder smoke, and at least the most of the dust, mining becomes not merely a healthful but an agreeable occupation, notwithstanding all that has been said about its perils and drawbacks. The latter may seem a bold statement to those whose experience in mines is limited to a single visit, but it is the testimony of the great majority of miners, and is confirmed by the well-known fact that men who go from farms and shops to work for a season in the mines rarely go back to the old work. There is something about the comparatively free-and-easy life of the miner, who is to a great extent his own boss, the uniform temperature—which in most mines ranges from 45 to 65 deg. Fahrenheit, according to local circumstances, the year round—and perhaps the spice of danger which is always present, that makes the miner, once initiated, cling to that work the rest of his life. Nor is that life necessarily a short one, though the appalling frequency of easily-avoidable accidents reduces its average length far below what it should be. No comparative statistics of the average length of miners' lives or of their liability to disease have ever been published, but old men are common among them and are still hale and hearty for their age. Their principal diseases are miners' asthma, consumption and rheumatism, and among those who have worked long in badly-ventilated places, dyspepsia, tremors, vertigo and other troubles arising from blood poisoning. The two principal causes are dampness and bad air. Pumps and precaution obviate the one and proper ventilation the other.

It is the opinion of Dr. J. T. Carpenter, of Pottsville, formed from long personal acquaintance with the subject, and sustained by the almost unanimous testimony of practicing physicians, mining engineers, colliery owners and miners themselves, that were it not for accidental injuries and deaths, the mining class would show as good average health, as fair a per centage of longevity and as low a death rate as any other class of manual laborers; that the hygienic conditions of American mines are receiving more attention and consequent improvement year by year; and that if the average miner could only be taught to exercise caution and common sense about his work, the list of fatal accidents would be materially shortened, and mining would lose most or all of the terrors which now invest it in the minds of the general public.—S. F. Scientific Press.

A Vast Enterprise.

A bill is pending in Congress to allow the Southern Pacific and other railroad companies to consolidate as one corporation for the purpose of owning and operating a trans-continental road, extending from the Pacific to the Atlantic. Those portions of the Southern Pacific which lie beyond the borders of California are chartered under the names, respectively, of the Southern Pacific of Arizona and the Southern Pacific of New Mexico. East of El Paso the Southern Pacific line takes in the Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio Railroad, and Morgan's Louisiana and Texas, which carry it as far as New Orleans. The plans of the Southern Pacific syndicate are by no means limited to the ownership and operation of a road from San Francisco to New Orleans, but extend, as the bill referred to shows, to the construction of an all-rail route from ocean to ocean. This gigantic scheme is almost completed, for while Messrs. Stanford, Crocker and their associates have been pushing their work on one side of the continent, Huntington has been no less active on the other. From Vermillionville, La., 145 miles from New Orleans, a short road is now building to the Mississippi at Baton Rouge, which will obviate the necessity of taking the business of the line destined for Eastern points as far south as New Orleans. The Mississippi Valley road from Baton Rouge to Memphis forms the next link in the Southern Pacific route, but this portion will not be completed until some time during the coming year. At Memphis the Valley road intersects with the already completed Chesapeake and Ohio system, over which trains are now running to Washington, Richmond and Fortress Monroe. The Atlantic terminus of the system is to be at Newport News, on the north side of Hampton Roads, opposite Norfolk, but by that law of their existence by which railroads are irresistibly attracted to the great centres of traffic, it is plain that before many years the Southern Pacific will secure running rights over some of the northern roads which will take it direct to Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

PROFESSOR YOUNG, in the light of Meyers' calculations, regards it as highly probable that the comet of 1880 was a return of that of 1843. Concerning the comet of 1868 too little is known to form the basis of a theory as to its identity. He is quite certain, however, that the comets of 1880 and 1882 are not the same, as they have periods too great to be consistent with such a view. He thinks it more likely that they are twins, moving in nearly identical orbits, with perhaps a common origin in some ancient disruption, like that which divided Biela's comet in 1846.

SCIENTIFIC investigation by Professor Ponfick, of Breslau, has verified the suspicion that all common mushrooms are poisonous. Washing and boiling deprive them of their poisonous qualities in a greater or less degree. Dried mushrooms require at least a month of drying, and are not really safe until after four months.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 6.....1883

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY
JAMES E. PARKER.

THE Los Angeles Commercial states that the Chaffey Bros., a landed firm in that section, intend to donate to the University of Southern California 320 acres of choice land for the endowment of a College of Agriculture. The land is now worth about $100,000. From the proceeds of the sale of the land a building will be erected at a cost of $10,000. At least $30,000 will be expended in erecting buildings and in the appointments of the institution, leaving $60,000 for an endowment fund. Other wealthy and philanthropic citizens of Los Angeles have donated valuable tracts of land to the University. It is just such items as the foregoing that makes one sick when contemplating the possibilities of making a great State and County school out of the Camp Independence property, and yet to think how strangely opposed to the idea some people are.

THE genial character of Southern California, as well as the wide range of its productive capacity, is well illustrated in the following Christmas item we find in the San Bernardino Times: "We are indebted to Dr. D. N. Smith, of Arrowhead, for a sample of fruits spread at his hygenic dinner on Christmas, of which we append a list: Apples, pears, peaches, cactus fruit, Japanese persimmons, tomatoes, strawberries, figs, oranges, lemons, limes, bananas, dates, raisins, grapes, chestnuts, walnuts, pecans, pinoles, filberts, etc. Most of these fruits were raised here, and, for Christmas Day, proves what a variety we possess." A similar exhibit might have been made anywhere in Southern California, had the same care been taken.

IT is predicted that a larger number of people will come to the Pacific Coast during 1883 than any year since the early days of the gold excitement. The Triennial Conclave of Knights Templar will hold their session in San Francisco in August, and it is said that at least 10,000 Knights of the Eastern Commanderies will visit the State. To this number may be added at least as many more who will accompany them. The coming and going of this crowd will be embraced within the period of three months. This is merely one item in the great tide of travel to and from California. During the other nine months we may safely say that there will be a very large number of visitors, many of whom will make arrangements to stay or return.

A PROSPECTOR recently arrived at Reno from Luning on the Carson and Colorado Railroad, where he has been prospecting for some months, bringing with him samples of ore that are astonishingly rich. He was interviewed by a Gazette reporter, who says he had about 100 pounds of black sulphurets, and others of horn and ruby silver. He has sold a quantity—about two and a half tons—of the former kind of ore to the agent of the Melrose Reduction Works for $1,200 cash. The samples containing the horn silver are sandstone—nothing else—from a large reef about twenty miles east of Luning. It is not an entirely new feature in mineralogy, but is seldom met with in this section of Nevada, though found in Southern Utah.

HON. JOSEPH MEDILL, editor of the Chicago Tribune, made an able speech before the Convention of Agriculturists, recently in session in Chicago, on the tariff question. The speaker said he had been born and bred in the high tariff school of Henry Clay and of the higher tariff school of Pennsylvania Domocrats. Time, reading and observation had led him to change his mind and begin to doubt whether high duties were good for the American people, especially for farmers. Mr. Medill calculated from the amount of goods manufactured and the amount imported that the farmers alone pay $200,000,000 to $300,000,000 annually more than they should for their necessaries.

THE varied resources of Callfornia have been developed with such rapidity that public attention has been diverted somewhat from the fact that this State is still the best gold field yet discovered in this country. It is expected that the yield this year will be at least $15,000,000. It once reached as high as $40,000,000 to $50,000,000 per annum. Some authorities claim that the gold product in this State from 1851 to 1857 was from $55,000,000 to $60,000,000 per annum, and that in 1863 it reached $65,000,000. Since 1848 the gold yield of this State has probably been $1,444,000,000. Some claim $100,000,000 more, but the inside figure is supposed to be the nearest to the actual fact.

AT the White House reception on New Year's day Hon. Elish H. Allen, Minister from the Hawaiian Islands, dropped dead from heart disease.

"A LAND OF PROMISE."

The Territorial Enterprise of Virginia City, Nevada, comes to hand with a three-column article descriptive of this valley and the surrounding mining districts. While the writer makes some manifest errors in his geographical locations of the several districts mentioned, the article as a whole is the best ever yet published by an outside paper concerning this county. Omitting the long references to the mines, we quote the concluding remarks, as follows:

AGRICULTURAL RESOURCES.

A beautiful and most valuable feature of this region is the Owens River Valley. Owens River runs down through the center of this valley, while on the east lie the vast mineral ranges of the Inyo Mountains and on the west the mineral-bearing hills bordering the main Sierra Nevada range. From Bishop Creek through to Lone Pine are seen many fine farms. On these are grown hay, all kinds of grain, and vegetables of every kind. There are in this section several flouring mills. It is also a fine stock country.

There is here a region of farms from sixty to seventy-five miles in length. Thus far the water used for irrigating the lands of the valley has been taken out of the cañons and small creeks putting down on the west side from the Sierras. The river itself (Owens River) has not been utilized. Now, however, a start is about being made to take water from the main river. The farmers near Bishop Creek are digging a new ditch, which will run down through the fine valley lands on the east side of the stream. The fact is that the people have only fairly commenced to develop the resources of the country. There are thousands on thousands of acres of lands that will produce fine crops, once water with which to irrigate is brought upon them. The first settlers very naturally took possession of those lands which lay near to where creeks and cañons (natural ditches) came down from the mountains. In doing this they did not always get the best lands, but they got such as could be brought under cultivation with very little outlay of money.

ORCHARDS AND VINEYARES.

In the valley are many fine orchards and vineyards. Apples, peaches, pears, plums and all such fruit flourish finely. As regards grapes, it is said by men of extended knowledge and European experience in the wine business that this valley will produce as fine wines as are to be made in the valleys of the Rhine and Rhone. The grapes here do not contain so much sugar as do most of those of California. They are said to have precisely the same flavor as the grapes of the celebrated European wine-producing sections mentioned above. Thus far, however, the people of the valley have done next to nothing in the way of wine-making. They have been occupied with so many other matters that they have had very little time for making experiments. The day is not far distant, however, when the wines of this valley will make some noise in the world.

THE SEVERAL TOWNS

Of this region are quite flourishing, notwithstanding the many disadvantages under which they have labored through their isolated position and lack of cheap and speedy transportation. Benton, Independence and all the leading towns and camps are favorably situated and have many natural advantages from which they will derive great benefit as soon as they are brought into communication with other parts of the world and as soon as capital comes in to give new life to the mining interests of the bordering regions.

There are are good schools at Bishop Creek, Irving, Big Pine, Darwin, Independence, Milton, Round Valley, Lone Pine and Union. The Bishop Creek school has ninety pupils, with Dr. Howell as principal and George Willis as assistant. The Avena school has fifty scholars, with Miss Baker, of San Francisco, as teacher, and all the other schools are well attended and well conducted.

A GOOD OPENING FOR SETTLERS.

From what has been hastily sketched above in regard to the Owens River Valley and its mineral surroundings it will be seen that it is a region which promises remunerative employment to men of all trades and professions; that it is a good place alike for the capitalist and the poor man. With the cheap and rapid transportation which will now be given by the Carson and Colorado Railroad, we shall see new life infused into all branches of business and traffic. It is seldom that so fine an agricultural region is found in the heart of so rich and promising a mining region. All through this Owens River country are mines that are only from three to fifteen miles from the railroad, and the hauling will all be down hill.

The railroad will take in coke, machinery and all kinds of supplies, and will cheaply distribute lumber and timber through all parts of the country. The road will not stop in this valley, but will be pushed through to a connection with the Southern Pacific, at Mojave, as soon as possible. In all parts of its course it will tap sections of country rich in mines of gold, silver, copper, lead, iron, etc., and in deposits of salt, soda, borax and other such minerals.

THE SCENERY

Of all this region, it may be mentioned in conclusion, is picturesque and grand. While up toward Oregon the Sierra Nevada range spreads and flattens out, showing peaks of but insignificant height, in going southward the range constantly rises and grand peaks of bare granite are sent up to an immense altitude.

In places where have been formed at the sides of these peaks gorges of immense depth, the view is stupendous and awe-inspiring. In places are groups of these peaks, towering and toppling above the almost bottomless cañons that wind between. While at some points all is stern and rugged, at others the savageness is softened by groves, springs and grassy vales.

Those who are curious in regard to ancient craters, lava flows and the distorting action of volcanic upheavals will find in a great number of places food for days of investigation and study. In the vicinity of Bishop Creek and at other points on the west side of Owens Valley will be found fields of lava of all kinds and colors snd many craters of extinct volcanoes. In places, too, winding down from the peaks of the mountains will be found solidified rivers of obsidian or mountain glass. This is to be obtained not only in great transparent blocks, but also in many of the finer and more beautiful forms which the mineral assumes, which forms have names of their own, particularly when they come into the hands of the jeweler after having been wrought upon by the lapidary. Arrow-heads and many other relics of Indian art may be picked up in all this section of country. There are also to be seen in places hot springs, mud volcanoes, and many other natural curiosities.

Next Summer this new and wonderful region will be of easy access to the tourist, as well as to the peospector and business man, and a vast deal of travel will no doubt be seen in that direction. Already not a few prospectors and capitalists are pushing through to the newly-opened country, of which we have given a hasty sketch.

THE Washington correspondent of the Springfield Republican says of the reports started periodically as to General Sherman being Blaine's and Logan's candidate for President. To illustrate its absurdity, this little story is told: "Logan gets very peppery when the subject is mentioned in his presence. He said the other day that Sherman was the only man he ever knew in the army who would pull a bottle from his pocket and take a drink without offering any to those around him. When Conkling nominates Blaine for the Presidency, Logan may be expected to hurrah for Tecumseh—not before."

IF the opposition to the use of silver takes such a form in Congress as to prohibit its coinage and thus turn aside investment capital from the development of our silver mines, it will be a blow that will seriously affect the production of gold, as a large proportion of the gold now produced comes from the prosecution of silver mining. Any movement that tends to injure the productive industry of mining calls a halt on the onward march of improvement, and sets back the advancing tide of enterprise and civilization, which is rapidly transforming isolated places into teeming centers of industry and intelligence.

MANY facts go to prove that in the mineral world the laws of affinity are constantly acting with unmeasured force and forming new combinations with every change that weakens or strengthens the different forces of formation and construction; hence we may safely claim that all the vast family of minerals are at the present time, like every other portion of our globe, being constantly formed and transformed, as they become subject to the controlling powers that have influence over their elements, to mold and fashion according to the unalterable laws of the universe.

THE Bodie Free Press makes an exhibit showing that for the past year the camp has produced $2,217,780 24. The article concludes with a statement of the total product of Bodie District, as follows:

1879	2,556 847 58
18-0	3,063,699 13
1881	3,172,749 71
1882	2,217,780 24
Total production to December 31, 1882	$13,937,831 04

SENATOR CHILCOTT has introduced a bill in the Senate to amend Section 2,329, Revised Statutes, requiring that the amount of annual work necessary to be performed by miners to hold possession of their claims shall be continued until payment is made for the claim at the district land office, instead of until patent has been issued therefor, as is now required by law.

W. L. MORTON, the Assemblyman-elect from Tulare and Kern counties, died at his residence near Grangeville, Tulare county, December 29th. The counties which he was elected to represent in the Assembly belong to this Senatorial District. The question arises as to how, if at all, the vacancy is to be filled.

THE Carson Appeal thinks the Piutes and Washoes have buried the hatchet and have decided not to have a row. They have reached the sagebrush conclusion that they are too poor at present to engage in any sort of war which would sap the sustenance of the tribes. In short-grass season they prepare for peace.

THE State Legislature will convene next Monday, the 8th instant, which is the anniversary of the battle of New Orleans.

LEON GAMBETTA, one of the most noted and brilliant politicians of France, died at Paris January 1st.

A NATURAL intermittent spring has recently formed in the French Alps. The water appears at regular intervals of five and seven minutes, about ten quarts being yielded each time. A singular circumstance is that one flow of water is lukewarm and colorless, while the next discharge is cold and wine-red.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JANUARY 6..... 1883

WAUCOBA.—W. L. Fuller returned Monday last from Waucoba, where, with a small force, he has been engaged during the past month in doing the annual assessment work on a number of the Waucoba Company's claims. It is much to be hoped that that Company will soon start in for the effectual development of their properties in that district. Certainly the Wyandotte, one of the properties in question, is promising enough of itself to warrant the immediate inauguration of permanent work, saying nothing of half a dozen or more of other claims of the Company in the vicinity. We are told by those who have lately seen this location that it shows enough high-grade galena to give it rank with the very best and most extensive galena ledges in this county. There is no question but there are several other lodes in the district, some of them exclusively silver quartz, that would amply justify a large outlay in the way of permanent investment. Now that we are to have a railroad on this part of the mountains within 30 miles of that district directly opposite on the other side of the Inyo range, with a perfectly feasible route for a good wagon road between, the day cannot be far distant when that camp will "boom" in earnest, and to some purpose, too.

CATTLE DISEASE.—The disease generally termed "blackleg" is making sad havoc among the stock cattle in the upper part of the valley. It is prevalent from Big Pine north, and among the heaviest losers by its ravages are Frank Shaw, J. H. Bulpit, J. R. Turner, Frank Powers, James Shaw, Geo. Collins, L. Case, J. M. Horton, W. G. Watson, Robt. Ford, Phil. Keough and Messrs. Thompson, Cromwell and others. In all probabillity 1,000 head have died. The disease attacks animals from calves to three-year olds, and seemingly regardless of their condition. In a night or six or eight hours after the attack they die, and no amount of surgery, such as splitting the shoulders, tail or feet effects any good. The circulation of blood is entirely suspended, as none will flow. Contrary to the general impression, the storm of the past week has had no curative effect. Some claim that among best-fed stock, kept on the dryest ground where good shelter and access to the best mountain water is provided there is less fatality. If such is the case the facts should be noted, and all other phenomena in connection with it closely observed, to the end that some definite conclusion can be arrived at concerning it.

MINES ON THE SAN JOAQUIN.—Maurice Burke, one of the original locators of the DeSoto group of mines, situated in North Fork Mining District, Fresno county, is in town. This group consists of the DeSoto and River View lodes, lying under the Cathedral peaks on the headwaters of the San Joaquin River. The ores are sulphuretted, bearing silver, and will average at least $40 per ton. Careful examination and measurement shows the ledge to be fifty feet wide from wall to wall, no gangue intervening. The facilities for reduction are second to none, there being dense forests of timber on the mines; water is easily obtained from the high falls on the river above the lead, and some of the leading "rock sharps" of the coast pronounce it simply immense. These mines have been opened at four different points along its trend and show vast bodies of mineral. The field rock is a porphyry on the foot and a talcose slate on the hanging-wall, which is so characteristic of a true fissure vein. Negotiations are now on foot that will probably result in the disposition of this large property to some Chicago capitalists in the early Spring.

THE SNOW.—New Year's night introduced to the valley the first snow-fall of the season. It fell altogether to nearly three inches in depth, being about as heavy as any ever experienced here except the one in the memorable Winter of 1873-4. As a sort of a meteorilogical phenomenon, also, the weather has been so cold that there remains a slight coating of the beautiful over the fields and the sage-brush to-day. In this the farming interests find a good augury for the next year's crops. San Francisco and Oakland, about the same time, were reveling in the chance of pelting snow-balls.

ALABAMA.—Mr. J. H. Cook has for some three or four years past been operating in a small way on the old "Uncle Abe" gold ledge, in Alabama District. His plan is to work about three days in each week getting out ore, which in the three days following he crushes in a two-stamp mill, the propelling power of which is the same old horse which packs the ore. He is making good miners' wages all the while, and accumulating a lot of experimental machinery for a new water-power apparatus.

SCHOOL CLOSED.—Yesterday closed the last day of the regular six months' term of the Independence school. The usual exercises of examinations, declamations, etc., followed, to the entertainment of quite an audience of visiting parents. Mr. Crough, who has taught here for five years, delivered a feeling valedictory, replete with good advice and the kindliest sentiment.

RECORDING.—The County Recorder's office has on hand no small amount of work in putting on the books records of location and relocation notices. The miners are adopting the sensible plan of having their claims recorded at the county seat.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES.—Preaching, by Rev. Warren Nims, to-morrow morning and evening, at the schoolhouse. Service in the morning commencing at 11, and in the evening at 7 o'clock. Sabbath school at 2 P. M.

LETS.—Let's all get to work organizing that local Telegraph Company.

THE MINER'S GRAVE.

Only a miner, that is all;
A bronzed young hero, strong and tall.

Yet even strength cannot withstand
The poison'd touch of fever's hand.

It laid him low, and death was near;
Nor could he move, yet he could hear

His comrades in soft undertones
Discussing where to lay his bones.

And little they thought that ev'ry word
Racked his soul, and even stirred

The life blood in its wonted course,
And power supplied to give it force.

They thought him dead, the miner brave,
And went to dig a miner's grave.

They chose a place which they thought best
Was suited to a comrade's rest.

With saddened heart and silent tongue,
Dull echoes to the hills were flung;

The ringing pick alone did toll
A death knell for the miner's soul.

But what is this? They stop and gaze
With looks of wonder and amaze.

Their cherished hopes at last unfold
In clustering heaps of burnished gold.

What joy, what sorrow mingled there!
A joy, a hope in equal share.

They hasten to the camp again,
With faces strange as crazy men.

Their fire between two rocks went out;
The ashes scattered thereabout,

Seemed with each lifting breeze to play,
To pass the silent hours away.

And all their gold they'd freely give,
Could that still form but speak and live.

All wondered when the Hand divine
Could change the water into wine;

But greater still these men's surprise
To see the dead man ope his eyes.

"Thank God!" each gave his fervent prayer,
And two words never cleft the air

From parish church or velvet pew,
More earnest, more sincere and true.

They clasped their hands in smiles and tears,
And strange it was for men of years.

Though rough-dressed some men may be,
They still are noble men, you see.

The miner lived and helped to save
The blessings yielded by his grave.

WADE.

The Panamint Fire.

Mr. Louis Mel, insurance adjuster representing the underwriters who had issued policies on the Panamint mill property, was in town last Wednesday, from Panamint. The insurance, amounting in all to $40,000, was taken out by the Inyo Con. Company in March, August and September last, and was divided between several companies—the Royal, Norwich Union, Imperial, London, Northern, Queen, North Germany, Le Circlé, Lancastershire and Commercial Union. Mr. Mel reports circumstances as being substantially as stated in this paper, and attaches no blame to anyone for the loss. As giving the best particulars, with some important facts concerning the bullion output of the last run, etc., we quote the following private letter from the Superintendent, under date of Panamint, Dec. 26th: "I intended writing you before this and giving you a full description of the fire here, but was so much muddled up and troubled by every one wanting their money, that I had not time to write before. I wish to say that your article in regard to the fire is correct. The fire caught in the retort room. We had been melting bullion and running two retorts all day. At 4 P. M. I left the retort room and went to the office to settle with some men who were leaving that evening, and left Foreman Andrus in charge of the retorts. Our feed pump had been running badly all day, and as soon as he put in a fire in the retort he would have to go to the engine. The fire had been in the retort about two hours, and while he was in the engine room the panman came and shouted "Fire!" At once the fire alarm was sounded and every man about the store, including myself, were on the grounds in less than two minutes, but too late to do any good. The fire ran from the bottom of the mill to the top of the cockloft in less than three minutes. I never saw anything like it. Nothing in the world could have stopped it. I am now cleaning up what amalgam I can get at; have out now about 2,500 pounds, and expect to get about as much more when everything is cleaned up. About ten days more would have completed my run for the Winter, and have added about $12,000 more to the output. I have shipped and have on hand $27,000, the result of the present run. The mines never looked so well as at present since I have been here. I am now engaged in erecting a five-stamp mill, and expect to have it running in about forty days, if not prevented by the Company."

WILL STAY.—After a trip to Los Angeles looking out for a business location at that point, Mr. V. G. Thompson has returned home and proposes to stay by Inyo.

THE history of Hidioshi, one of Japan's most famous men, savors of the romantic in a large degree. It begins with the announcement that his mother, who was unmarried at the time, had a vision of a dragon as she was sleeping on the margin of a stream where she had sought the generous shade of the dense foliage, and the effect of the dream was to cause her to become a mother. Hidioshi was the babe born to her. A good many such stories as that come down to us from old times; but if such a yarn as that should be told to-day it wouldn't go for a cent.

PROFESSOR MOOS, of Heidelberg, has found good reasons for believing that many railway accidents have been due to defective hearing on the part of engineers or others in charge of trains. Expert medical testimony shows that railway employes are especially liable to affections of the ear.

HON. P. REDDY and C. L. Anderson, of Bodie, J. McM. Shafter, of San Francisco, and A. J. Rhodes have been in town several days this week on businesss connected with the Southern Nevada mine.—Candelaria True Fissure, Dec. 30.

SOUTHERN INYO.

[Special Correspondence of THE INDEPENDENT.]

DARWIN, January 4.

Probably nowhere in Inyo County, or in fact this side of the Sierras, can be found any higher grade of gold and silver-bearing ores than in the vicinity of Snow's Cañon. The mineral belt does not appear to be very extensive, but what it lacks in size it makes good in richness of ore and abundance of ledges. Here we find the strange anomaly of ores that carry gold in large quantities and in a free state mingled with horn silver and chlorides. Such a mine is now being worked by Stapp & Morton. They have run a tunnel into the face of the hill some 600 yards north of the mill, following the ledge the entire distance, and have a foot or more of good ore at the head of the tunnel that will mill over $100 per ton in gold and silver. This tunnel brings them over 150 feet below the croppings of the ledge higher up on the hill. In running this tunnel they have made a discovery in regard to the bed-rock formation that will, no doubt, prove of much value to the prospectors and others investing there in mines: The surface rock surrounding the mine was lime, which proved only a capping some fifteen or twenty feet thick; then followed granite some sixty feet in thickness, which gradually changed to a dark porphyry, which still continues, giving the mine the appearance of much permanence. The good result of this deep working—considered deep by the ordinary prospector, who has no large capital to back him—will prove an encouragement to many others to reach a greater depth upon mines that are known to carry high-grade ores on the surface.

In almost all mining countries there is some individual ledge that is spoken of as the standard mine of the country, and now that the Bonanza King, of Sherman District, bears that appellation, it is well to note the fact that this mineral belt is the same as that of Sherman District, but situated at its extreme northern limit. The similarity of formation in the two districts rests in the fact that the surface rock is principally granite, intermixed with porphyry, and at a distance of from forty to eighty feet from the surface the granite changes to a porphyry, thus giving a softer formation in which a mine can live and reach a greater depth.

Snow's Cañon proper lies on the eastern slope of the Argus Range, six miles south of Lookout and ten miles north of the northern limit of Sherman District. Although mining operations have been conducted there for some six years, the work has been prosecuted on a small scale and no very great depth has been reached. A five-stamp mill has been in operation at intervals, usually during the Summer months, crushing ore for the mill company, of which Eddy & Smith are now principals, and for numerous chloriders throughout the district. There are numerous silver-bearing ledges in and between the various cañons to the south, within a distance of from six to eight miles, whose croppings show an assay value of from $200 to $1,000 per ton. These mines are held by prospectors who are patiently awaiting the arrival of the railroad or better facilities for working the ore. Here could be found ample room—with wood and water sufficient, and within convenient distance, and plenty of high-grade ores—to justify the formation of another company. That this will be done in the near future is without a doubt, for the ores alone, that are frequently shown to the public, is a sufficient advertisement. Not only are these mines convenient to wood and water, from the Argus Range, but the salt marsh of Panamint Valley is but one day's drive distant. The roads leading to the district are also good and well graded.

In conclusion, the writer would say that he has seen but few places where well-conducted mining would pay better than in this locality.

TRANSIENT.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 6.....1883

THE Dodge and Hoxie railroads in Texas have quit business and closed their offices, because the three-cent passenger rate, passed by the Legislature last Winter, is enforced. This complicates somewhat the railroad problem, for it is a new move on the part of the corporations. If their lines have received public subsidies we cannot understand how they can close them against the public, unless the new rates amount to confiscation of their profits or compel them to do business at a loss. This view suggests a subject for judicial inquiry, and pending that we cannot believe the railroads have advanced their cause or entrenched their interests by closing traffic on their lines. The Supreme Court of the United States has decided that States have the right, to be exercised both legislatively and judicially, to regulate the freights and fares of railways within their jurisdiction. Legislative use of this power is in constant danger of being abused because it tempts to pledges by the candidate which are difficult of practical redemption by the officer. The judicial power is not subject to that method and its decisions are apt to secure more respect as they are impartial and equitable.—Oakland Times.

THE Toronto Globe states that the Dominion learns, "by means of remarks made to a Winnipeg reporter," that about 1,300,000 acres of the public domain has been granted to a railroad company in return for its agreement to construct a road from near Qu'Appelle, on the Canadian Pacific, to Prince Albert, a distance of 200 miles. This subsidy amounts to 6,500 acres per mile. The Canadian Pacific Railway finds no difficulty in disposing of its lands at $6 per acre, and the Hudson Bay Company frequently receives $8. At a corresponding rate, the newly-organized railway company referred to has possessed itself of land worth about $40,000 for each mile of railway contemplated. The Globe says the work to be done will not cost one-third of that sum, and finds fault because the grant was made privately.

A RUTLAND lawyer has drawn a bill and a member of the Vermont Legislature has introduced it, providing for the punishment of the manufacturers and venders of cigarettes. "I did not include," says the promoter of this measure, "the various forms of tobacco that so long have been, and are likely so long to be, tolerated by considerate people, but sought only to protect an unfortunate imbecile class; for no one except a predestined, fore-ordained fool would ever smoke a cigarette."

THE 100-ton Armstrong breech-loader fired its proof rounds with perfect success at the recent trials at La Spezia, the Italian naval ports. The highest charge fired was 776 pounds, with a projectile weighing 2,000 pounds. The muzzle velocity of the shot was 1,834 feet to the second, or a total energy of 46,600 tons.

ACCORDING to the Sacramento Bee, C. F. Irwin of El Dorado, H. M. Larue of Sacramento, and F. E. Johnson of Napa are the candidates for Speaker of the next Assembly.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY of Inyo, State of California.—Charlotte Kimler, plaintiff, versus John A. Kimler, defendant.—Action brought in the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said Superior Court.—The People of the State of California send greeting to John A. Kimler, defendant. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff, in the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county, or if served elsewhere within thirty days. The said action is brought to recover judgment and decree of divorce dissolving the bonds of matrimony between plaintiff and defendant, on the grounds of willful desertion for the period of one year, of plaintiff by defendant, and that the custody of the minor child be awarded to the plaintiff, and for costs of suit and for general relief, all of which will more fully appear by the complaint filed herein, to which reference is hereby made. And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will take judgment against you for the decree prayed for in the complaint and for costs of suit.

Given under my hand and the Seal of the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, this 23d day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two.

A Nitro Glycerine Factory.

Near the village of Tweed, Ontario and at the water's edge of Stoco Lake, is a fair-sized, unpretentious, isolated wooden building, the appearance of which would cause a stranger to inquire why such a good building was erected in such an isolated locality, and why it was so closely guarded, as a solitary watchman, day and night the year round, checks the steps and inquires the business of the curious as they stray near. As the eye passing upwards reads "Nitro glycerine factory—very dangerous!" in big letters above the door, the use for which the building is intended and the necessity for watchful care over it is apparent.

At the door was seen lying casks sheeted inside with lead, and in these casks are imported the pure glycerine and mixed acids used in the factory. A cask of mixed acid is hoisted by machinery to the upper story and dumped into a mixing tub, in which the mixing blades are moved by a crank turned by a man who is stationed in a tight box and has in front of him a thermometer. As the glycerine runs into the acid a vapor is engendered in which life is scarcely supportable, hence the man turning the crank is stationed in a close box. The acid and glycerine in their admixture rapidly heat, and the compound has to be toned down by cold water or ice, hence the greatest watchfulness is necessary at this point, as the heat is allowed to run up to 86°, and as nitro glycerine explodes at 90°, there remains but 10° of heat between the known and the eternity, or, as the manager remarked, if the heat was allowed to run up to 90° they would not have time to pucker their mouths to say good-by.

It is needless to say that, while the work is going on, strangers are never allowed to enter the building, as it is necessary that every man should have his individual attention at such times upon his work. "Strict rules govern our men," remarked the manager, "as the least venture at experimenting would leave no one to tell how the accident happened." The nitro glycerine thus manufactured has an explosive force ten times greater than that of blasting powder, and is used on very heavy work, but we sell very little in that shape, remarked the manager, as it is run down a tunnel to the room below, where it is manufactured into dynamite, dualin or vigorite, all of which have nitro glycerine as their basis, but are known by different names to designate the degree of power. As rapidly as possible the nitro glycerine is mixed with charcoal, wood pulp, or other mixtures, and reduced into a commodity more readily handled, for although dynamite is understood to be extremely dangerous to handle, it is rammed into the cartridges with a stick with as little apparent fear of the result as would be the case were the substance so much dirt.

The cartridges are made to hold from a pound to two pounds each, and are carefully packed each day and taken to an isolated magazine owned by the company. The output of the factory is about 1,000 pounds daily now, but the owners expect shortly to increase the capacity to meet the requirements of a rapidly increasing demand, as this is the only factory of the kind in Ontario, and the development of the mines has rapidly increased the demand, as blasting with powder has been almost entirely superseded by the use of dynamite, which is not only more efficacious, but also safer to handle. The manager remarked: "I have to pay my men large salaries, although the work is comparatively light, as a very slight accident would put them out of the way of drawing their salaries. I have worked at the business for the past seven years, and own a mill in Algoma as well as this one here, but in this business life is the result of vigilance."—Manufacturers' Gazette.

LEAD in Liverpool is quoted at £14 to £14 2s. 6d. for English, and £13 15s. per ton for Spanish, with and without silver.

Blackleg in Young Stock.

We still hear from time to time of the occurrence of this disease in our stock-growing districts, and in the aggregate considerable losses have been sustained. All notes on the treatment of the disease may be valuable to our distant readers, and we reproduce a paragraph from the Breeders' Gazette in which it is stated that bleeding will sometimes prove useful when done at the very beginning of the disease, but if done later it will only hasten death. On account of the rapid progress of this disease, treatment often proves unavailing. Purgatives should be administered early. The following dose may be given to cattle over a year and a half old: Take an ounce each of aloes and common soda, dissolve it in half a pint of hot water and add to this solution an ounce of oil of turpentine; also dissolve a pound of Glauber's salts in a quart of hot water. Mix the two solutions together and drench the animal carefully and slowly with the whole. To cattle from half a year to a year and a half old, give half such a dose, and a third of the quantity to younger ones. Give frequent salt water injections per rectum. Two to three hours after the laxative is given administer every hour a dram each of muriatic acid and nitric acid mixed in a pint of cold water. If tumors have appeared on any part of the body they should be scarified deeply and applications made to the parts of a solution of one ounce of chloride of lime to each pint of cold water. As a preventive, remove at once all diseased stock away off from healthy ones. Feed all young stock under two years old upon spare diet, and place unlimited quantities of common salt in a separate trough, under shelter from wet, where the animals can partake of it at will, and at the same time provide access to pure drinking water. A seton should be inserted in the dewlap of all stock under two years old, taking care not to use the same knife and seton needle indiscriminately to diseased and healthy ones, whereby the disease may be spread by innoculation. It may be stated that there is no certain cure for this disease, which runs its course very quickly, and generally ends fatally in from twelve hours to two or three days. Keeping young stock in too high condition is a fruitful means of this malady.

Curious Facts About Precious Stones.

In his lecture on precious stones, Professor Egleston, of the Columbia School of Mines, says there is in Paris a diamond so hard that the usual process for cutting and polishing made no impression upon it. The black diamond is mostly used for tools. In Russia it is broken into flakes, polished and worn as court mourning. The historic diamonds have no more lustre than a piece of glass. The sham diamond was more beautiful than the genuine stone, but it has a tendency to decomposition and does not retain lustre. The diamond mines of Brazil were first opened in 1727. It is estimated that since that time they have produced at least two tons of diamonds. In England a stone weighing one carat and of the purest water is worth, when cut and polished, about $60. The dealers in rough stones acquire the habit of distinguishing the water of a rough stone by simply breathing upon it. Among the historic diamonds the Rajah weighed 367 carats, and the Great Mogul 280. Before it was cut the latter weighed 900 carats. From the composition of the diamond we see what costly things Nature makes from commonest material. All the diamond fields of the world are not worth the anthracite fields of Pennsylvania.

A ruby of five carats is double the value of a diamond of that size, and one of ten carats is worth three times as much as a diamond of corresponding size. A perfect ruby is the rarest of all stones. Rubies are often imitated with real stones, the most common being spinel. But it is not difficult to distinguish the imitation, as the ruby is the only stone having a pigeon-blood color. Another precious stone is the sapphire, which is like the ruby, with the exception of the color. He had seen a small stone which was ruby on one side and sapphire on the other. The emerald is a deep green, the deeper the better. It loses no brilliancy in an artificial light, but its color may be expelled by a gentle heat.

Most of our emeralds come from New Granada, and will always have flaws. In imitations it is not the hardness nor the color that is sought so much as the flaw. The first eye-glasses were made in England of emeralds.—Scientific American.

THE Postoffice Department has contracted for a large quantity of the new-style postal cards, or combined letter and evelope. Fears have been expressed by some postal experts that it would interfere greatly with the revenue of the Department, and especially if the reduction of letter postage to two cents be adopted; but those in favor of the new cards reply that similar fears were expressed when postal cards were first proposed, and then, as now, letter postage was three cents. Should a reduction be made, a larger letter-sheet and envelope combined, with a two-cent stamp upon it, would be among the things to follow.

DR. HALEY says that, as a rule, a dull, heavy headache, situated over the brows and accompanied by languor, chilliness and a feeling of general discomfort, with distaste for food, which sometimes approaches to nausea, can be completely removed in about ten minutes by a two-grain dose of iodide of potassium dissolved in half a wineglassful of water, this being sipped so that the whole quantity may be consumed in about ten minutes.

REINSCH, an intimate personal friend of Gambetta, publishes a detailed account of his wound, intended to dispel the various falsities of the story. Gambetta, he states, was trying a new revolver when the breech stuck fast, owing to the cartridges not setting properly. Holding the pistol by the muzzle he endeavored to close the breech forcibly, when the cartridge exploded. The lady who has recently been prominently mentioned, so far from being the cause of the accident, nursed him devotedly thirty-four days. The Associated Press has furnished about twelve columns of particulars concerning Gambetta's funeral. It was a most imposing spectacle. Several regiments of the army were in the procession, besides over 30,000 citizens. Orations were delivered by the most distinguished men of the Nation in different parts of the city. The American Minister to France was present. Gambetta's father withdrew his demand for a religious funeral and in deference to his son's opinions agreed to a civil funeral.

AT an Indiana ball a man dropped a pistol and its discharge wounded the girl with whom he was dancing. This was regarded as an accident until she, finding that she was about to die, explained that she had quarreled with the man and that he had shot her intentionally, the dropping of the weapon being a clever trick to conceal the crime.

A party of 80 Frenchmen, assisted by 1,400 African laborers, are to begin the construction of a railway between the Niger and Senegal rivers. Their operations will be protected by a military column, which will plant the French flag and erect two forts on the Niger.

"DIVISION AND ANNEXATION."

An official revival of the same old question of annexing these mining counties to Nevada is contained in the inaugural message of Governor Adams, who says:

I invite you to take some action looking to the extension of our western boundary, so as to include all the territory east of the summit of the Sierra Nevada Mountains. It is believed that the people of Alpine, Mono and Inyo counties, California, favor annexation to this State. The character of the country and climate are similar to ours, and unlike any other portion of California. These counties are separated from the rest of the State by a high range of mountains, impassable for many months in the year, and when going to their State Capital, or the city of San Francisco, many of the inhabitants of those counties pass through the Capital of our State. The chief industry of this section is silver mining, scarcely known to any other part of California, which constitutes the great leading industry of Nevada. To secure this change of boundary, the consent of the Legislature of the State of California and of Congress is necessary. The consent of the latter would doubtless follow should the two States interested make the request. To your wisdom I look for the inauguration of such measures as are likely to accomplish an object so beneficial to our State and the people residing east of the Sierra Nevada Mountains.

We can but believe that it would only be a fair proposition for the Legislature of this State to pass an Act submitting the proposition to the people of the counties interested, and thus by ballot get at the opinion and feelings of those most interested. It is a long and tedious political proceeding, but that would be about the right way to begin.

THE Legislature completed its organization by the election of the following officers—all being Democrats: Senate—President pro tem., R. F. Del Valle of Los Angeles; Secretary, Edwin F. Smith of Sacramento; Assistant Secretaries, S. J. McCarthy of San Francisco and A. S. Vogelsang of San Joaquin; Sergeant-at-Arms, J. G. Messic of Santa Clara; Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms, J. B. Snyder; Minute Clerk, A. A. Taylor of Santa Cruz; Journal Clerk, W. J. Magee of Amador; Engrossing Clerk, George Tuttle of San Francisco; Gatekeeper, W. P. Jordan of San Francisco; Postmistress, Mrs. J. V. David of San Francisco; Watchman, Frank Cavagnavio; Gallery Watchman, H. Jones. House—Speaker, H. M. Larue; Speaker pro tem., J. T. Campbell; Chief Clerk, M. C. Holey; Sergeant-at-Arms, James Farrelly; Assistant Clerks, Geo. Herbert and Julius Reimer; Minute Clerk, Thos. Cleary; Journal Clerk, G. W. Peckham; Enrolling Clerk, G. B. Swift; Engrossing Clerk, Charles A. Griffin; Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms, P. J. Walsh; Postmistress, Miss Fanny Burnett; Chaplain, E. B. Ware.

N. C. MCFARLAND, the United States Land Commissioner at Washington, was asked the following question the other day: "Is a location made on a quartz lode or ledge on the 1st day of January, 1882, subject to relocation on the 1st day of January, 1883, provided the required assessment work has not been done for the calendar year of 1882?" He replied as follows: "It is not. The locator of a claim initiated on the 1st day of January, 1882, has until January 1, 1884, to complete the first assessment work, which work when done would hold the claim until January 1, 1885."

PROF. HENRY G. HANKS, State Mineralogist, has placed us under obligations for a copy of his annual report, it being the first official State paper to come to hand. It is an exhaustive exposition of the workings and present status of the Mining Bureau and State Museum. If the Legislature fails to liberally provide for this institution now the miners of California had better migrate to some country where laws are not so inimical to their interests.

THE Santa Ana Standard gets facetious over the Inyo County man who advertises "Young Fish for Stocking Ponds." He claims that it is a new industry, or a new kind of a pond or something like that. Hose doing this, anyway?

T. S. HARRIS, the well-known publisher of this and Mono counties, has sold out his Santa Ana Standard, and proposes to quit the business. Very sensible in Harris.

C. T. DOXIE, Republican, has been elected in the Ninth Congressional District of Indiana to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Congressman Orth.

THE ticket scalpers of Kansas City have been victimized to the amount of $25,000 by one J. A. White, with counterfeit unlimited Wabash tickets.

JIM KEENE thinks the country is on the eve of a financial crash that will bring everybody to grief.

THE decrease in the public debt during December was $15,413,222 85.

[Special Correspondence of THE INDEPENDENT.]

DARWIN, January 8.

The predictions of twenty years ago regarding the passage of a railroad through this region are about to be realized. A few facts may not come amiss. Of the sixteen mining districts now under organization south of the latitude of Independence, only three were in existence at the beginning of 1863, viz: Russ, Coso and Slate Range, the latter extending across the line into San Bernardino county. Three years previous the surplus gold seekers of Kern River, working eastward, beheld a sight well calculated to inspire them with visions of fabulous wealth. Stretching out before them was a country, almost verdureless, the bare rocks and dark formation plainly denoting its mineral character. That they should make all haste to explore the then comparatively unknown region was only characteristic of the prospector. Already stories were afloat of the finding of gold and silver by immigrants who had lost their way, and there appeared much to confirm these reports. Parties were organized, who, taking different directions, proceeded eastward to and beyond Death Valley, and northward to Owens River. Their search was principally for placer gold, and very little attention was paid to other minerals. But little was then known by the prospector in regard to the working of silver ores, and it is not strange that the silver mines were overlooked. Enough gold ores were found, principally in Coso and on Owens River, to attract a large number of miners and capitalists during the few following years. A five-stamp mill was erected during the Summer of 1861 in Coso, and another of ten stamps—the Lotta—in 1862; also, one at Olancha to work ores from the same district; and two—the Ida and Union—on Owens River.

The samples of ore taken to San Francisco from the various districts were of such marvelous richness, and the condition of money matters such, that, notwithstanding the civil war then raging, it was only necessary to rent an office on Montgomery street, hang out the sign of "Coso and Owens River stock for sale," and an eager crowd were soon on hand ready to invest. Thus many worthless mines were thrown on the market, represented by ores taken from good mines, the result being a loss of confidence by the ordinary investor of those days, and caution on the part of those following.

About the first well-organized operation for the extraction of silver was made in 1866 at Cerro Gordo. Here for several years, or up to 1875, a profitable enterprise was conducted, notwithstanding the high cost of travel and transportation, and it is to this that Inyo owes much of her prosperity. Here a new lesson was taught the miner and prospector, and he was not long in discovering other mineral deposits of like character. Prospectors came from Pioche, Eureka and from Mexico. An excitement occurred in Panamint in 1874, to be followed the next year by Darwin, Lee and Lookout. In these places capital was used lavishly. Through no fault of the mines the principal enterprises were declared failures. Circumstances worked to the disadvantage of this county. Bodie and the Black Hills, followed by Leadville and Tombstone, drew away all but few. But a good work had been done, to be taken advantage of by those who chose to remain.

DARWIN, LOOKOUT AND PANAMINT

Have by no means remained a dead letter. To these has also been added Snow's Cañon. Gorman at Darwin, Fitzgerald at Lookout, Eddy & Smith at Snow's Cañon, and Pheby at Panamint, by careful management and a proper selection of ores, and by the co-operation of chloriders, have met with unvarying success, although laboring under the disadvantage of costly transportation. The operations of these men and their co-workers have proved a valuable school of experience to the miners and prospectors, teaching them how to rely upon the proceeds of their mines for means of further development, and while some have been opening up their mines others have made new discoveries. The result shows an unbroken mineral belt extending from Independence southward to the vicinity of Calico, a distance of about 200 miles. The modes of mining and reducing ores have been improved, and the prospector has learned the nature of the various mineral-bearing formations. His work has taken systematic shape, and instead of wandering over immense tracts of country he confines himself to small areas and, by giving it closer inspection, often finds deposits of rich ore with but poor surface indications.

MINERAL-BEARING FORMATIONS.

The formation of Russ, Beveridge and Ubehebe Districts is principally granite and porphyry; that of Swansea, Cerro Gordo, Lee, Darwin and Lookout is mainly lime; that of Snow's Cañon, Sherman, Granite and Slate Range is porphyritic granite (the latter forming an unbroken mineral belt over 100 miles in length, without a break or any intervening formation, and forming the western wall of Panamint Valley); the formation of Panamint and Wild Rose Districts is lime, mostly; southward from Panamint it is granite; that of Coso, Columbus and El Paso, granite and porphyry. The ores of these districts are of many kinds and classes. Russ District has carbonate lead and silver, and free gold ores; Beveridge, sulphuret gold and silver and free gold; Ubehebe, copper; Swansea, Lee, Cerro Gordo, Darwin and Lookout, carbonate and chloride lead and silver; Snow's Cañon, sulphuret, free gold and silver; Sherman, Slate Range and Granite, sulphuret, chloride and base-milling silver; Panamint and Wild Rose, base-milling silver; Coso and Columbus, free gold and base silver; El Paso, copper, gold and silver. The ores of Beveridge, Russ, Snow's Cañon and Coso Districts have usually been worked by free-milling process; Swansea, Darwin, Cerro Gordo and Lookout, smelting; Panamint, roasting and milling; Slate Range, milling. A mill is in process of construction at Reilly, Sherman District, to run as free milling.

THIS MINERAL BELT

Extends nearly parallel to and at an average distance of about fifty miles east from the base of the Sierra Nevada Mountains, starting at its southern end, at or near Calico, some seventy-five miles east of the Sierras, and running in a course west of north until opposite Independence, where it approaches within twenty miles of the Sierras; thence running almost due north a distance of 100 miles to the Indian Queen mine in Nevada. The mineral deposits along the base of the Sierras from Owens Lake southward and the low volcanic range adjacent are so slight that they have claimed but little attention from the mining public, although a few mines of gold and silver have been discovered near Coyote Holes, in the vicinity of Walker's Pass, and northward in Alabama and Fish Springs Districts.

The mineral wealth of Southern Inyo is not confined alone to its gold, silver and copper ores. In Wild Rose District is to be found antimony of high grade, as also in the Death Valley Range near the southern line of the county. Near Resting Springs on the Armagosa River, and also east of Wild Rose in Death Valley are some extensive borax marshes, while just over the line in San Bernardino county lies Borax Lake. In Panamint Valley are two salt deposits, one of which is several square miles in extent. Large deposits of iron are of frequent occurrence, especially in Sherman District.

WATER.

All the districts excepting Granite, Slate Range and El Paso, are well supplied with water sufficient for steam power—Panamint and Wild Rose abundantly. The various cañons on both sides of the Panamint Range have running streams of from four to ten inches. The Argus Range, especially on the eastern slope, has an abundance of water. Large springs of good water are found at frequent intervals throughout the region, and it is from such that Darwin, Reilly, Lookout, Junction and Coso Station convey their water in pipes.

WOOD.

The Panamint Range bears near its summit heavy forests of nut pine; the Argus Range a sparse supply; the Coso Mountains in former days bore a large amount, but the smelters of Darwin and Lookout have reduced the supply.

THE RAILROAD

From the north has already drove its stakes to Keeler City, a point on the east side of Owens Lake thirty miles distant from Darwin. What course it is intended to take from there has not been made public, but by those who are conversant with such matters it is conceded that the route down past the base of the Sierras, past Little Lake and Indian Wells, thence through Red Rock Cañon to Mojave would be the easiest to accomplish; but, taking into consideration the fact that it would leave a rich mineral belt far to the eastward and pass through a portion of country volcanic in its origin and almost devoid of minerals of any kind, it would not appear the most advantageous. One of the routes leading southward from Owens Lake—and probably the most feasible, other than the one mentioned—would be to pass from Keeler out towards Darwin and, turning eastward, pass down between Lee District and Darwin to the northern portion of Panamint Valley. This pass through the Argus Range seems especially designed for that purpose, as the natural fall of the land begins some ten miles northwest of Darwin, and for a distance of about fifteen miles eastward the grade is very gradual, the country comparatively unbroken and the formation soft. At a distance of about three miles from the valley the desert becomes more abrupt, but the surface formation very soft and the cost of grading would be correspondingly light. Southward through Panamint Valley, past Granite Wells to Mojave or to Calico, there would be no heavy grades, and in fact for a large portion of the distance the surface is as even as any portion of Owens Valley. Beside this there need be but little deviation from a straight line.

The railroad, if built on this line, would be in convenient distances of all the districts mentioned, with a down-grade from the mines to the road, thus materially lessening the cost of delivering ores for transportation.

BORAX AND SALT.

The borax marshes of Death Valley would be only 40 miles distant, the route being, as at present, 20 miles by wagon road and the same by trail. The Borax Lake works would be only 25 miles from the road at Granite Wells. The salt beds of Panamint Valley would be reached by a side track not more than a mile or two in length. They would furnish inexhaustible supplies of salt to the mills of Calico and Owens River. Aside from outward freight, the shipment of merchandise, mining supplies, hay and grain to the mines would be largely increased, and the cost of mining reduced so far that the lower-grade ores can be worked at a profit.

After leaving Owens Lake water can be had for railroad purposes at Coso Station, Darwin Cañon, from Panamint Cañon, from a large spring in a cañon some 30 miles south of Panamint, and at Granite Wells. So far as the water supply is concerned the route is clearly practicable.

The length of the road would be increased but 15 or 20 miles over the route along the base of the Sierras, and upon its approach to Darwin and the regions east and south, the miners already there would renew their labors, others in large numbers would fill the country, and trade and traffic would be augmented to many times its present scope. Slate Range, El Paso and Granite Districts, so devoid of milling facilities such as wood and water, would furnish large amounts of ore for shipment, both of high and low grades. In this connection it appears an established fact that the ores of Wild Rose, Panamint, Snow's Cañon, Lookout, Darwin and Sherman have not been excelled, in point of grade, in the history of silver mining. The permanence of the mines will be proven by future developments, which cannot be better accelerated than by the close proximity of a railroad.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JANUARY 13.....1883

A SENSATION.—There was, from all reports, no small excitement created the other morning (last Wednesday) about 8 o'clock, when a volume of smoke and flame was discovered arising from the iron smokestack on the Court House. People had to leave their breakfast tables, and others get out of bed right away. Everybody got there right soon, if not sooner. Some took buckets along, while others kicked in various doors and wanted to hustle the county books and records into the street forthwith. Considering, however, the imminent danger and the almost certainty that in five minutes more the entire structure would have gone to destruction, the work got in was quick and decidedly well managed. Through the main hall on the first floor runs a 12-inch galvanized iron flue, into which is connected the pipes from stoves in the several offices of Superior Judge, Clerk, Treasurer, Assessor and Sheriff. On the upper floor it passes to the upper air through the District Attorney's office, where it is also connected with a stove in the jury room. It is altogether about 75 feet in length, not counting the side connections. This unsightly arrangement was put there when the building was erected ten years ago, and it appears has never been taken down or cleaned out. When ex-Sheriff Smith started a fire in his office the accumulated soot started ablaze, and it made things so intensely hot that the entire length of the pipe reached a white heat, the surface and solder melting away. Between the upper ceiling and the roof fire was spreading to the timbers, when a cool-headed fellow got there and, scraping the embers together, waited until a few buckets of water were hustled up the steep stairs. The creek flowing through the court yard happened to be full, and as the bucket brigade fought nobly, Inyo County's Court House was saved.

SUPERIOR COURT.—Court met Tuesday last and called the following calendar for the January term, 1883: Harman & Paris vs. Defiance Mining Company; passed. Thos. J. Goodale vs. Rafael Diaz; passed for the present. Frederick Russell vs. Surprise Valley Mill and Water Company; passed. Boone & Wright vs. Santo Gusman; passed for the present. C. Meysan vs. E. Chabrie and Paul Houard; passed. C. White et al. vs. Wm. Hamilton et al.; passed. Wm. M. Nichols vs. John Clarke and M. H. White; cause set for trial January 15, 1883, and a special venire for eighteen persons was ordered by the Court to try said cause, returnable on said date at 10 o'clock A. M.

NEW OFFICERS.—Sheriff S. G. Gregg took his official position last Monday. Having appointed Daniel Crough as Under Sheriff, that gentleman is now in the office, and they have had, by the way, considerable business in civil cases to attend to. Sher. Stevens remains in the office for a time as Deputy. G. W. Brady assumed the responsible duties of Coroner, and Chas. H. Groves got to work at once at his new duties pertaining to the office of County Superintendent. The rest of the county government machinery runs as usual, until the next meeting of the Board of Supervisors—February 5th—when Messrs. Spencer and Boland will take their places, vice Olds and Meysan.

SCHOOL REPORT.—Following is the report of the scholarship of the pupils of Round Valley school—Hattie Montrose, teacher—for the month of December: Debbie Jones, 98¼ per cent.; Martha Evans, 98; Vinton Gunter, 94; Nellie Gordon, 93; Mary Swan, 93; Olive Dickinson, 92; Johnny Jones, 92; Frank Shipley, 90; Jessie Parsons, 90; Janey Shipley, 89; Nettie Olds, 88; Allie Gunter, 85; Maggie Evans, 82; Charlie Hilton, 81; Johnny Shipley, 80; Willie Birchim, 79; Mollie Merryman, 77; Henry Evans, 74; Roy Shipley, attendance and deportment, 90.

ASSAYING.—Mr. S. D. Woodhull, having removed his assaying outfit from the Montezuma mine to his office here, is again ready to promptly fill all orders for assaying ores and analyzing minerals of all descriptions. In this age of curious facts and discoveries in a metallurgical way, it's a mighty smart miner who can tell what any kind of looking rock, or any portion of his ledge contains without making or getting regular assays.

A SQUAW KILLED.—Parties up from Lone Pine report that yesterday morning an Indian woman was found dead in the street, near the school house. A rope with which she had evidently been strangled was still hanging about her neck. We could obtain no particulars further than that the Indian who perpetrated the murder is a fiend of the first water, having killed half a dozen or more at various times before.

JUST SO.—Had the Court House burned down the other morning, as the whole town will some day unless its luck is miraculous, there would now be on foot a movement to establish water works and an organized fire company. The town of Lone Pine has had the good sense not to wait until after it is too late in such matters.

PERSONAL.—We received a call to-day from R. S. Miner, Esq., ex-District Attorney of Mono. He reports matters generally quiet about Bodie and the Big Meadows. Mr. Miner is here as counsel for the plaintiff in the suit of Nicholls vs. Clarke and White, which begins on Monday next.

ADMINISTRATORS.—J. W. Murphy and R. M. Robinson have petitioned the Superior Court for letters of administration upon the estate of A. W. Robinson, deceased.

ON THE RISE.—County Warrants are still on the rise. We have heard of a transfer of Expense Fund scrip at 92½ cents during the week.

A Killing Reported—An Inyo Sport to the Front.

Mojave Station on the Southern Pacific was the scene of wild excitement on Friday night, the turmoil increasing as train No. 22, bound to this city from Los Angeles, entered the depot. It was about 6 o'clock, and the light peculiar to the prairie cast a dim uncertain shade over the four wooden shanties composing the town, and over the depot and the stationary train. The passengers betook themselves to the hotel for dinner and noticed with no little apprehension scattered groups of men who conversed in low tones. The four buildings which constitute the town of Mojave are built in line, facing the railroad depot. These consist of an end saloon, a grocery store, the hotel and the hotel proprietor's residence. From the corner saloon about 6 o'clock on this night issued a cowboy. His black slouch-hat, bullet-holed and shabby, a rough great-coat, flannel shirt, corduroy trousers and top-boots denoted the desperado, which conviction was speedily strengthened by his drunken movements. The rough leaned against the walls of the saloon eager for sport, which presented itself in the shape of a man and a dog. "I say, Captain, is that dog yours?" said he, pointing to a handsome retriever which was lying at the feet of the man thus addressed. The answer was in the affirmative, when the questioner hauled out a pistol and fired point-blank at the dog, narrowly missing both. He then by way of diversion fired at some men a few yards distant. His drunken play was alarming, but still the men declared that there was nothing much to be alarmed at, as he had been shooting all the afternoon and had not yet hit anybody.

One of the crowd at last cried out: "Here comes McDonald; he will settle his hash for him." By this time the cowboy had entered the hotel, and was standing at the bar questioning the passengers as to their time of departure. Shortly after five shots in rapid succession were heard, and soon the cowboy thrust half his body out the hotel door and fired at all he could see. Soon the space between the train and the hotel was clear; men rushed headlong for the cars, others fled to the desert. The shooting ceased, and a melancholy cortege left the hotel sustaining a half-dying man in their arms. It was the man McDonald. His friends supported him to a car and laid him down in a berth, where he received the prompt assistance of Dr. Meyers of Sheridan, Iowa. His wounds were three—one through the neck, causing an ugly though not dangerous wound, another through the shoulder blade, and the third through the ribs. The man sank rapidly, and in a few moments all would have been over with him but for the fortunate circumstance of the presence of a doctor on the train.

The cowboy in a few moments demanded to see his victim. He sat alongside the berth, and expressed himself deeply grieved at the circumstance. "It was your fault, Jim," he said; "you fired the first shot; now didn't yer? You gave me a near call, Jim; ye know ye did, and I did it in defense. I'll pay for you, Jim. I'll telegraph for a doctor. I have money. It ain't my ambition to kill a man."

The doctor forbade further conversation, as it only irritated the wounded man and caused altercation between the two. The cowboy expressed his determination to follow the wounded man to Bakersfield and then nurse him till he got well, so that they should be able to meet in fair and open fight. The cowboy then swaggered up and down the car, and it was only by much persuasion that he was led into the caboose. He said his name was J. J. Wilson of Bishop's Creek. He did not know the other man. The wounded man, in answer to inquiries, declared that they were engaged in cards, and that he fired the first shot in self-defense. Wilson was arrested when the cars reached Tehachapai station.

All the above flashy and most improbable slush is from the San Francisco Chronicle, and refers to Johnny Williams, a well-known resident of this county. Letters from him have been received at Bishop stating that upon examination before a magistrate he was acquitted.

SPECIMENS.—During the past week the Independence Mineral Cabinet has received some magnificent additions in the way of ores and minerals. Some of the most notable are a fine piece of nickel ore from Oregon and samples of stream tin from Australia, both contributed by Prof. Hanks. Wm. Lambert sent in a splendid lot of samples from the Bonanza King mine at Slate Range, which will average over $300 per ton. Wm. T. Grant's sample lot from Saline Valley District show lots of native silver in perfection. W. L. Fuller's contribution from the Waucoba mines is unexcelled for variety and interest. Supt. Gray left some beautiful pieces of gray carbonates and rich black sulphurets from the Kearsarge. Collections were received also from the Mariposa mine—the old McMurry mine at Fish Springs—and from Mazourka Cañon, and a fine large piece of rich bromide from the Wyoming at Panamint, forwarded by Supt. Pheby.

MINERS DISCHARGED.—Edward Reilly, the managing director of the Argus Range Silver Mining Co., was at the scene of their operations at "Camp Reilly" last week. He ordered the discharge of about thirty-five men altogether, leaving but sixteen miners now at work. As near as the facts can be ascertained, this was simply to reduce expenses pending the erection of the mill. All accounts agree that the mines present the best showing of any in the county, there being about 1,000 tons of ore on the dumps, and enough in sight or so well opened that a hundred men could be put to breaking down ore whenever it is wanted. There have been a series of delays in getting in the machinery for the mill, which is reported as being still at Mojave, but the carpenters have received some timbers and are going ahead with their work.

ADVANCING.—Our Sunday school is advancing somewhat, for it now has a Bible class, for the first time in many years.

THE MONTEZUMA.—We regret to record another apparent failure on the part of the Montezuma Company to make their furnace work. It will be remembered that after several trials, successful only in getting out some twenty bars of bullion, Mr. Woodhull pronounced the water-jacket a fraud and went to San Francisco to induce the Company to send up a new and modern one. Instead of that they sent up another furnace man—Mr. Austin, we believe—who overhauled the thing somewhat and fired it up last Tuesday. In a few hours it ran out some pots of slag and then "froze" completely. Mr. Madison, the Secretary of the Company, and Mr. Austin, the new smelter, started for San Francisco the following day, leaving Supt. Griswold to appease unpaid creditors. It will be conceded in all this operation that the present failure is through no fault of the mine as its thousands of tons of ore lie there waiting a little intelligence and proper appliances to be reduced to silver. We have no knowledge of what the Company will do, but hope of course that they will pay off and start in right, after their costly experience. The next company commencing operations in this county will do well to avoid endeavoring to make reduction works from old junk piles, and also have the money to go on—or else not go.

SCHOOL MONEY.—On Wednesday last Supt. C. H. Groves made the following apportionment of the County School Fund, viz: Darwin, $144 15; Lone Pine, $288 30; Union, $144 15; Independence, $144 15; Big Pine, $144 15; Bishop Creek, $288 30; Irving, $144 15; Round Valley, $144 15; Milton, $144 14; total, $1,585 64.

THE GRAB BAG.—County Treasurer Hardy notifies holders of county scrip that there is in the Sinking Fund the sum of $1,234 82, which will be traded off to holders of county "squibilants."

RELIGIOUS SERVICES.—Preaching at Lone Pine, by the Rev. W. Nims, on the third Sabbath in this month. Service in the morning at 11 o'clock and in the evening at 7.

Ore Sampling.

A movement is on foot for the establishment of an ore-sampling mill at Owens Valley next Summer, at some convenient point on the line of the Carson and Colorado Railroad. This will make that region the paradise of "chloriders" and other mining men whose pluck and muscle are their principal capital. The mountains on both sides of the line of the railroad are filled with gold and silver-bearing quartz veins of all kinds and sizes. Many of the small veins and feeders yield paying ore from the start. Heretofore most of the work on such veins has been done by Mexicans and others who reduced their ores in arastras propelled by donkey power. There are in the country immense quantities of ore that was not rich enough to be worked in this primitive way which will now pay well for mining.

A properly and honestly conducted sampling mill does equal justice to both buyer and seller. By means of properly taken and assayed samples both parties know exactly what they are bargaining about. Not a few miners who have sent ores away to California, to be sampled and sold, have fared so badly that they are inclined to look upon all sampling mills as so many traps for swindling honest labor out of its just reward. However, there are swindlers as well as honest men in all kinds of business.

In Colorado and Utah the greater part of the ore mined is sold by sample. In those localities the plan proves perfectly satisfactory to all concerned. In Salt Lake City immense quantities of ores of all kinds and grades are sold, and all by sample. That city being a sort of center of the business a description of a leading sampling mill of the place will be of interest to the miners of many parts of this State. Following is a description of the sampling mill of J. C. Conklin, Salt Lake City, as given by the Chronicle of that place:

THE MODUS OPERANDI OF SAMPLING

Is about as follows: If the ore is of high grade, running from say $100 to $150 per ton, it is customary to crush the entire shipment; if the ore is of medium grade, like much of that sent down from Park City, every fifth sack is taken out and milled, and samples obtained therefrom. This, however, is only done where the character of the ore is well known to producer, sampler and purchaser alike. After being put through the crushers, the reduced ore is spread out on the floor of the room, turned over and over by a corps of men with shovels, thrown into a cone-shaped heap, and then spread over the floor again, when the pile is reduced by taking up and sacking one-half (opposite quarters) of the lot. This process is repeated until not more than about a peck of the treasure-laden dirt remains to be dealt with. It is then taken up in pans and conveyed to the plate-room for further and similar manipulation on a smaller scale.

THE PLATE-ROOM.

In this department is found a large cast-iron table about five feet in diameter, in which the reduced ore from the sampling-room is placed. The pulverizing, seiving, mixing, coning, quartering, etc., is repeated on this table until the sample is reduced to the proper quantity, when it is weighed in a pair of very fine scales kept for the purpose, properly dried in a furnace, weighed again to ascertain the amount of moisture evaporated, and finally sealed up in bottles, labeled with the name of the mine, the number of the lot of ore and the weight thereof, and the bottles sent to an assayer for determination of the amount of precious metals contained in the samples.

While this process is going on, no person other than the sampler is allowed access to the plate-room, unless it be for the simple purpose of witnessing at a distance the operator's manipulation of the samples. The reason for this is obvious. If interested parties were allowed in the room and permitted to handle samples at their pleasure there would be no security for parties who might purchase lots of ore from samples that might have been tampered with. Hence the strict rule of locking the plate-room door while work is in progress there.—Territorial Enterprise.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JANUARY 13.....1883

THERE are in the United States over 6,000,000 landowners, of whom 5,000,000 are agricultural freeholders. In no other country in the world has so large a proportion of the citizens an absolute interest in the soil, and, indeed, history furnishes no parallel. This distribution of the land places in the hands of a free people the complete control of their political destiny. To-day less than one six-hundredth of the population of England own all the land, and the number of her landowners is constantly diminishing. This will explain many of the differences in the social condition of the two peoples.

A San Bernardino paper is authority for the statement that Leland Stanford intends embarking in an extensive irrigation and land scheme in that country, the plan being the storage of water in the cañons by reservoirs, without trenching upon present water owners. When this system comes to be applied to the western slopes of the main Sierra, the future possibilities of the State in an agricultural sense will surpass all present belief, for the land and water contiguous and comparatively easy of utilization are almost incalculable.

THERE are understood to be in the possession of the State Department, at Washington, documents proving beyond a doubt that the bodies of persons found in Siberia by Dr. F. West's expedition were those of Lieutenant Chipp and party, of the ill-fated Jeannette. The members of the party were all dead, and it is said the papers found upon upon their persons gave the details of their terrible sufferings up to the date of the last occasion when they were able to record them.

SERGEANT BALLANTINE, though a celebrated and eloquent speaker, is rather awkward in manner and has an odd way of altering his phrases like a lawyer dictating an important brief to an amenuensis. He has spoken six hours a day for three succeeding days in court without notes, but says that he is afraid to address an American audience.

AN Eastern man wrote the other day to a California editor to know if there is really a Greenback party in this State. The facetious journalist answered affirmatively, and enforced his assertion in this way: "We are reminded of a gentleman who asked a German neighbor if a certain man was in. 'Yes, he is in, but he is ted.'"

THE Mint in San Francisco is the largest in the world—twice as large as the one in Philadelphia, and three times the size of any in Europe, and has $24,000,000 worth of coin and bullion stored away in its vaults.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY of Inyo, State of California.—Charlotte Kimler, plaintiff, versus John A. Kimler, defendant.—Action brought in the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said Superior Court.—The People of the State of California send greeting to John A. Kimler, defendant. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff, in the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county, or if served elsewhere within thirty days. The said action is brought to recover judgment and decree of divorce dissolving the bonds of matrimony between plaintiff and defendant, on the grounds of willful desertion for the period of one year, of plaintiff by defendant, and that the custody of the minor child be awarded to the plaintiff, and for costs of suit and for general relief, all of which will more fully appear by the complaint filed herein, to which reference is hereby made. And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will take judgment against you for the decree prayed for in the complaint and for costs of suit.

Given under my hand and the Seal of the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, this 23d day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two.

On to the Pacific.

The following from the Salt Lake Tribune of January 7th shows that the mining men of Utah have an eye to the mines of certain sections of Nevada and California. They intend coming out this way with a railroad:

The Salt Lake and Western Railroad, now in operation, is proving a profitable investment to its owners, and is doing very much towards developing the rich mining district of Tintic. When this road was started from Lehi, it was the intention of the Company to push through to the Pacific Coast, and that is still their intention. It has reached a length of fifty-three miles west of the junction at Lehi with the Utah Central, and taps the very heart of the copper, silver and iron mines of Tintic, and has made it possible for these to be operated at a profit. The great iron mines of that district now supply the smelters below this city with a fluxing iron which carries some gold, making it of more value. It was only last Summer that the road was completed to its present terminus at the Mammoth smelters, and there stopped for a season.

During the past few months engineers have been scanning the country west and southwest for a route to the Pacific, and have been rewarded with success, not only in finding such a route as will be of easy grade, but which will pass through some of the richest mineral districts on the coast.

At the office of the company, in this city, there is an array of ore specimens, sulphur, borax, etc., which to us is one of the most interesting we have been lately permitted to see. Most of these came from Nevada, along or near the proposed route of the Salt Lake and Western road, which will enable people to go there and operate mines cheaply, and to sell their ores and bullion in Salt Lake. Among these specimens we noticed one from Osceola District, said to have come from a ledge four feet thick, averaging $1,000 in gold per ton. This specimen was filled with free gold in lumps and specks. Then there were silver ores from Fish Lake Valley, south of Columbus; other specimens from the Darwin Range, the White Mountain Range, copper specimens from the Mohave Desert, etc.

In Panamint Valley there are extensive marshes from which borax is taken and refined at the works located there at the rate of sixty tons per month. The borax lies in crystals in the marsh, and is taken out and refined. Over portions of the marsh where the crude borax had been removed to a depth of five feet four years ago, a new deposit has filled in to the same thickness, so that the supply is inexhaustible, because always growing. In Death Valley, and also in Armagosa Valley, similar borax marshes are found. These specimens were gathered by J. Fewson Smith, from whom we received an interesting description of the country.

It would take much space to describe all the known riches of this portion of Nevada which it is proposed to reach by railway extensions. One route examined for the road starts from the present terminus and goes a little south of west, and soon strikes the Great American Desert, which it crosses near its southern end. This desert at the place crossed is about sixty miles wide, and is sandy in places, while at the other places it is an alkali waste. There is no trouble in getting water by sinking, and the country being almost a dead level, would be easy for operating the road, and not unpleasant in the extreme as a passenger route. The road would pass near or through Pioche, tap the old Reveille District, bring the Tybo Range within easy distance, tap the Montezuma gold and silver district, come within easy range of Silver Peak, and pass through Columbus, where the Carson and Colorado road would connect. From Columbus west the route has not yet been surveyed, as the engineers arrived there too late in the season to attempt crossing the Sierras, but it is believed a good route can be found. No place as far as lined will the grade exceed ninety feet to the mile. The White Mountain Range is rich in carbonate, argentiferous and copper ores, while the Panamint country, further south, is also rich in minerals.

In returning from the survey an examination of the country south of this line was made, and a good route was found for a railroad in that direction, which would take in the country south of Ralston Desert and tap a rich mineral region. The Ralston Desert is described as being an immense country, filled with lava in ridges, hills, knolls and level plains, very difficult to cross. Our informant has traveled over a great deal of mineral country, and says he has never yet visited any country so rich in precious metals as that we have spoken of and through which the Salt Lake and Western will build its line on its way to the Pacific.

The building of this road will make all that region tributary to Salt Lake City and aid in our growth and prosperity, and become to us one of the most important of our railroad connections. All that country is now so far removed from lines of transportation, and the expense of getting there and providing supplies and machinery is so great as to deter the most enterprising from entering the country to develop mines. Once get this railroad built through that country and it will soon be teeming with prospectors and miners; the ledges will be opened up, and mills and smelters will be sending up their smoke from many a chimney. This road will give the Union Pacific a through line to the Pacific Coast, and for this purpose it was started. Both north and south from the line are districts which will be tributary to the roads through branch lines.

It is reported that the engineers of the Panama Canal have made a radical change in their plan of operations. The intention of the projectors was to make a sea-level canal from one ocean to the other without locks of any kind. Information now comes out that they have found it impossible for any sum of money which could be raised to overcome the natural difficulties of such an undertaking, and they have decided to adopt the ordinary plan—that of locking, up and down the grades. The other scheme involved the operation of digging a canal for some distance through great cuts, which would have been several hundred feet deep, involving an amount of excavation the like of which was never attempted by human hands. There were other difficulties also in connection with that part of the canal where the bed of the Chagres river is utilized which the engineers concluded would form a fatal obstruction to the plan originally entered upon.

We hear frequently of pretenders who profess to heal diseases by "laying on of hands," etc. The real manner of healing in all such cases is merely the determined exercise of the will power or, what is the same thing, faith in the healer and his arts. Witness the following evidence of the power of the will in such cases: A lady was sick from apparent exhaustion, and for a long time had kept her bed. Her pastor, at her request, had prayed and prayed, but she was no better. A new physician one day called. He came to her bedside and said: "I think that the best thing you can do is to get up," And she got up. "Go down stairs," And she went down. The next day she was on the street enjoying a walk after a long, long confinement. "I didn't cure her," said the physician, "for there was nothing to cure. She had lain in her bed so long that her will power had all gone." His prompt and heroic treatment startled into life her paralyzed resolution.

King Solomon's sententious remark, "There is nothing new under the sun," is rapidly losing whatever foundation in fact or philosophy it ever possessed, in fact it has about passed into the same category as the blase Sir Charles Coldstream's "Nothing in it." The year 1883 starts with science chained to the wheels of commerce in every direction, with business offices equipped with such marvelous appliances as the wildest visionary of past ages never dreamed of. Scarcely has the telephone worked its way into general use before the telegraph service again makes a vast stride, and instead of depending upon the accuracy and fidelity of the operator, the merchant may now write his message and affix his signature with the certainty that a fac simile of his autograph will almost instantly be placed before the eyes of his correspondent a few thousand miles away. The new year may have some greater marvels in store for us, but imagination fails to suggest what they may be.

The reins may guide the horse, the bit may inspire him by its careful manipulation, and the whip may urge him forward to greater ambition; but the human voice is more potent than all agencies. Its assuring tones will more quickly dispel his fright; its severe reproaches will more effectually check his insubordination; its sharp, clear, electric commands will more thoroughly arouse his ambition, and its gentle, kindly praises will more completely encourage the intelligent road horse than the united forces of the bit and reins and the lash. No animal in domestic use more readily responds to the power of kindness than the road horse.

The other day a stick of timber came into Olympia, Washington Territory, on the railroad from Foster's Camp, which was 120 feet in length and 38 inches in diameter at the top end. The stick measured 7,000 feet.

Although the ores now being extracted at Gold Hill are of low grade, yet the amount of bullion produced is sufficient to keep the Carson Mint going. This is not so bad when it is considered that we are getting credit for doing next to nothing at all in the way of bullion production.—Virginia Enterprise.

An exchange refers to a deceased gentleman as having passed away to the "unknown hereafter." Perhaps it can tell us something about the known hereafter.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY
JAMES E. PARKER.

It seems almost incredible that any one of these singular persons who give their time to the consideration of elaborate hoaxes should have taken the fate of Lieutenant Chipps' party as a theme for his ingenuity, but we cannot believe that the story printed in Boston has any more respectable source. This letter pretends to have been sent from Siberia at the end of July last year, and to recount adventures und observations made but a short time before—that is to say, in the Summer of 1882. Mr. West, described as an "American artist," is said in his story to have happened upon a snow hut on the Siberian coast in which Chipps' party had taken refuge eight or nine months before and to have reached it ere the life of the last man of that party was extinct. For a story that tells so much it ought to tell more; but outside its proved falsehoods there is not a point of apparent truth in it as to which the writer could not have been informed from reports and records already made public. The ingenious distortion of names is founded upon those in the true record of the retreat. The arrival of the artist to find in the hut only two men, one dead and the other insane, is too much like the romances of Jules Verne to be like real life. Finally, if any such discovery had been made in the region we should have heard of it from Lieutenant Harber and not by way of Boston.

Last week the last spike—a silver one—was driven in the new all-rail Sunset route between San Francisco and New Orleans. Through travel over this route will begin the latter part of this month, as soon as rolling stock can be transferred and the numerous employes properly stationed along the line. The new road, as perhaps is known, leaves the main line of the Southern Pacific road at Deming, N. M., and runs to El Paso, Texas, where the Rio Grande is crossed. From thence it runs southeasterly, or nearly due east, across Texas to San Antonio, and connecting at that point with the line known as the Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio, runs to Houston. From there it connects with the former Texas and New Orleans road, and terminates at the southern metropolis, skirting in its way from Houston to the Gulf Coast, and crossing innumerable rivers and small streams tributary to the Gulf.

There is now pending in the House a Senate bill repealing permanent appropriations. It is said there is a hidden purpose in the bill, and that its real object is to interrupt the coinage of silver, if not to entirely prevent it. Under the present law the Mints are run under permanent appropriation, lasting until the money is spent. The purpose of the Senate bill is to stop the coinage of silver as much as possible. It is said that the same people who demonetized silver some years since, are behind the bill, and that it is entirely in the interest of the national banks and others operating in Wall street. The Pacific Coast members have been put on their guard about it and will prevent its passage, except with an amendment that it shall not be construed to interfere with or suspend silver coinage in any manner. With that restriction no objection will be made to its passage.

Gov. Butler of Massachusetts asks the Legislature to pass a law imposing the death penalty for attempting to wreck a railroad train. And why not? The law condems a man to death who takes a single human life. The train-wrecker never considers the number of lives that may be lost in carrying out his fiendish design. He has murder in his heart, and, although his attempt to sacrifice the passengers on a railroad train should fail, he is none the less guilty, and, on conviction, should go to the scaffold.

The price of zinc has nearly doubled within the past eighteen month. Less than two years ago it csuld be bought for from $8 to 10 per ton, and to-day it commands from $18 to 20 per ton. The Virginia Enterprise says that there is an abundance of zinc ore in Nevada, in the sections that produce argentiferous galena. It is generally known to the miners as "black jack." The mineral is common in the silver-lead mines of this County, but the cost of saving and separating it amounts to more than it is worth.

Nevada county has settled with the Railroad Company on the same basis as the settlement with the county of Placer, to wit: All school taxes as levied at 70 per cent. of the taxes for county purposes for 1880 and 1881, and 5 per cent. added, and all of the tax for 1882, and all expenses of former efforts to collect and the expense of the present collection.

RECIPROCITY WITH MEXICO.

The Mexican Reciprocity Treaty has so far advanced that there is good prospect that it will be ratified, although not without a stiff opposition. The first show of opposition was in Mexico. But Señor Romero was able to demonstrate to his countrymen that so far from being prejudicial to their interests it would greatly help them. At that point it appears that nearly all antagonisms have ceased. The Mexican manufacturers will have all the protection they ever had. But if coffee, sugar, tobacco and other staple productions are going on to the free list, the planting interest of the Southern States, which has always opposed the Hawaiian Treaty, will be likely to be heard about this new Mexican Treaty. Among the articles going on to the free list, as may be inferred from the report, are the hard woods of Mexico, including rosewood, mahogany, dye woods and a number of other of the more valuable woods which our own country does not produce. The text of the treaty will be read with some interest. It is quite certain that if the question is now discussed in Congress, it will involve the discussion at some length of the Hawaiian Treaty; and that different policies would hardly be adopted touching the two countries. What is good in one case will be held to be good in the other. The question of reciprocity is broader in this new light; and it is now probable that the policy involved will be subjected to a more searching review than ever before.

On the 16th instant the San Francisco Chronicle entered upon the nineteenth year of its existence, celebrating the occasion by coming out in a complete new dress of larger-faced type than that just discarded. The Independent takes this occasion to say that almost from first issue the Chronicle has always favored it with an exchange, a paper for every day in the week, and, we believe, has always shown an equally liberal spirit toward about every little country journal in the State. As all the current news of the day and times is to be found in its superbly-printed columns, it, of all the big dailies, is the first to be scanned in every printing office it reaches, and, it is no less a fact, that it is the one first and most generally read throughout the entire country. It is a great paper—enterprising, worthy, liberal and reliable—a credit to the entire coast.

The San Francisco and Colorado River Railroad Company has incorporated for the purpose of constructing a railroad for freight and passenger transportation. The road will commence at San Antonio creek, in Alameda county, running thence to a point where the Colorado is crossed by the thirty-fifth parallel of latitude. The estimated length of the road is 650 miles. A. E. Davis, Ayscough Groves, Charles Iverson, George C. Prentice and R. M. Garrett are the Directors of the Company. The capital stock is $20,000,000, at $100 a share. The route of such a road, if it is ever constructed, would necessarily pass through about the central section of the great deserts of Southern Inyo.

In addition to the Committees on Elections and Judiciary, Senator Reddy has been appointed a member of the Committees on Claims, County and Township Government, and Mines and Mining, and Chairman of the Committee on State Prison. Mr. Reddy, as the representative of the principal mining section of the State, should have been made Chairman of the Committee on Mines and Mining. Representative Keeler has been appointed on the Committee on Education, on Claims and on Ways and Means.

Last week three hotel fires in this country destroyed a large number of lives, and a theater fire in a Polish city burned over three hundred persons to death. The year is having a fatal opening and a sequence of calamities is so rapid that sympathy is almost stunned in their contemplation. If these casualties spur the proper authorities into taking precaution against their recurrence, then all the sadly-stricken dead will not have agonized in vain.

Dr. Bliss made haste to draw the $6,500 appropriated in lieu of the $30,000 demanded. The Eastern press says that when he drew the money his pulsation was 350; his respiration heavy; his pus cavity greatly distended, and that he showed alarming symptoms of an approaching rigor. Happily, he did not prescribe for himself and recovered.

H. Z. Osborne, of the Bodie Free Press, has been confirmed by the United States Senate as Receiver of Public Moneys at Bodie. Mr. Osborne is a gentleman thoroughly competent for the position, having filled the same for some time past with entire satisfaction to all concerned.

Gov. Stoneman's appointment of Gen. Cosby Adjutant-General of the State, has raised a perfect cyclone among the military of the State.

THE CARSON AND COLORADO.

If there is one section of the country which more than other requires the construction of railroads to cause developement of its resources it is the rugged and mountainous district. Every difficulty surrounds the transporting of any considerable amount of freights by wagon, and the resources are bound to remain comparatively undeveloped. But as soon as railway construction takes place then various mineral wealth is brought to light and the valleys made to pay tribute to the industrious husbandman and stock-grower. Although pushing railways among the mountain ranges is very expensive it is generally remunerative to the investors in such pieces of property. The freight is of such a character usually as to permit a fair percentage for the use of capital thus employed. The patrons of such roads are generally well enough satisfied to have a railroad at all, without caviling and forcing rates down to an unremunerative point, as has been the case in many granger districts. This is one of the reasons why such a road as the Carson and Colorado, which is being well built, though as economically as the topography of the section being traversed by it permits, will become a good paying road. Another reason why the Carson and Colorado will be, if it is not already, a paying property, is that the territory traversed by it is excessively wealthy in minerals, and the valleys are very productive and well watered, besides being a very attractive field for the tourists. This road is now in operation from Mound House, Nevada, where it connects with the Virginia and Truckee railroad to Benton, Mono county, Cal., a distance of 193 miles. The southern portion is in process of construction to Mohave, Kern county, Cal., where it will connect with the Southern Pacific and Atlantic and Pacific lines. The section between Benton and the lower end of Owens Lake, a distance of 100 miles, will be opened during the coming Spring and Summer.

The line follows generally the eastern slope of the Sierra Nevadas, traversing a number of extensive and productive farming and grazing valleys watered by the Carson, Walker and Owens Rivers and their tributaries, all having their source in the Sierra Nevadas, thus affording abundant facilities for irrigation. The country's chief source of wealth and profit, however, will come from the varied and untold mineral resources of the mining districts located in the mountain ranges, commencing at Hawthorne, the shipping point for Aurora, Bodie, Lundy, and other productive mining camps, also for Mount Grant, eight miles distant, where is located the Mount Cory mine, a purchase of which has lately been made by parties associated with Mackey and Fair. Experts report two million dollars "in sight" in this mine, and its opening for working purposes has but just commenced. Luning Station is the shipping point for Garfield, Gillis Mountain, Santa Fe, Downeyville, Ellsworth, and Grantsville, mining districts producing smelting lead and copper, and milling ores. * * * * *

A noted traveler and writer who has lately visited this section of country writes as follows: "The scenery across the White mountains, southwest of Candelaria, improves, and by the time the southern slope is reached Owens valley appears beneath as a magnificent landscape having a background consisting of the Sierra Nevadas, which rise rapidly to an imposing height, varying from four to six thousand feet above the valley. West of Camp Independence the divide reaches an altitude of about ten thousand feet above the sea, is easy of access, and affords both hunter and tourist the finest game and scenery in California. The south fork of Kings river has its source in the glacial lakes of the Summits, and running westward through a grassy valley falls down irregularly about two thousand feet into a narrow gorge, which is covered alternately with patches of grass and monstrous redwoods. This gorge has a rapid descent toward the west, and the cliffs soon begin to loom upward, the naked granite pinnacles reaching an altitude of three thousand to four thousand feet above the stream. Westward nothing but mountains, until in the distance they appear to unite in tint with the azure vault above."

The Carson and Colorado is amply and magnificently equipped, and not only traverses a portion of the Sierras containing untold mineral wealth and valleys of great productiveness, but scenery so grand that none in all the old world can scarcely bear comparison with it.—Chicago Times.

The Candelaria True Fissure of last Saturday contained the following items of interest:

The south-bound passenger train of Wednesday met with quite an accident when near Kinkead station. The connecting rod between the drivers on the left side of the engine broke in two. Before the train could be brought to a stop, the flying ends caused a partial demolition of the foot-board and casing around the boiler. The end on the rear driver cut a hole in the tender and allowed nearly all the water to escape. A hand car was dispatched to Hawthorne for another engine, and had to go a distance of 13 miles. Aid arrived in due time, and the delayed train reached here 4½ hours late.

Within a few days the Carson and Colorado will establish a new station, to be called Montgomery. It is about 2½ miles northeast of Benton, and will be built to accommodate the people of that section. G. W. White, the boss carpenter of the railroad, left here on Wednesday with his men to begin putting up the necessary buildings.

The news of the rich strike in the Columbus Consolidated mine caused an unusual buzz about town on Tuesday. In the east drift on the second level the ore body has widened to six feet. It is of the highest grade ever found in the district.

Fifty-one bodies have been recovered from the ruins of the Newhall House at Milwaukee, and thirty persons or more are still missing.

Josiah V. Smith, the Los Angeles Mormon child-murderer, died at Tulare on the 6th, after having had his leg amputated.

The industrial estate of Miller & Lux, at and near the San Joaquin River in this county, says the Merced Star, is a marvel of enterprise and supervision. The immense territory owned by this firm at this place is devoted to cattle, sheep and swine raising and feeding. Many thousands of acres of grain and alfalfa are cultivated for the especial purpose of stock-feeding. Except groceries all the provisions of the army of employes are raised on the land. More than a hundred families are permanently located on the Miller & Lux land, and the number of laborers employed the year round is immense. Under the supervision of competent foremen every detail of employment is performed with precision and economy. The hundreds of young people who are employed and remain on the ranch are reputed to grow up into precise habits of intelligent industry.

Some months ago mention was made of a prospecting expedition being started for the upper waters of the Yukon river, Alaska, under the leadership of Edward Schefferlin, a veteran miner. Information is now received that 1,500 miles up the Yukon, at the confluence of the Trunana river, rich and extensive gravel deposits have been discovered, averaging a dollar and a half to the pan. The country is difficult of access, the Yukon being closed by ice till June, while the trip from Sitka is as bad as a Siberian journey. The Ed. Schefferlin referred to formerly worked with John Broder, in this valley, and made his big strike in the mines at Tombstone. His prospecting expedition is the only one recorded where a steamship was a part of the outfit.

The long continued spell of dry and cold weather is beginning to create a feeling of uneasiness. As yet no positive injury has resulted, but there must be rain in a very few days or short crops in many localities will be inevitable. There is plenty of ground for hope, however, as very cold weather in California is usually followed by copious rains.

It is complained that certain important information asked for by Railroad Commissioner Foote in bulk, will be delayed. If the Commission uses its full range of judicial powers that information will be promptly reached in its trial of individual cases.

One of the crying wants of this age, and of all cities, is a few really fire-proof buildings, stores, hotels, theaters and churches. Architects, capitalists and tenants, to say nothing of fire companies, should set the fashion and lead the way.

The Secretary of the Albion Mining Company has absquatulated from San Francisco, defaulting some $7,800. His name was D. B. Chisholm—can't say what it is now. He was also Secretary of the New Coso Company at Darwin.

A keg containing $50,000 in gold coin, belonging to the U. S. Government, was recently stolen from the railroad company's vaults at Panama.

The loss by fire in the United States and Canada last year was $90,000,000, this year a million less.

Continuity in dividends for any lengthened period is not a characteristic of American mines. Dividend mines are not plentiful. The few that come under that head are oftener managed more with a view of making money out of the variation in the value of the stock, rather than out of the dividends. Hence the mine is worked to make big dividends for short periods, instead of small dividends for long periods. This is done by selecting ore of high grade for the mills, leaving the low grade to be worked to depress the stock and get it back. An honest management will send all grades of ore to the mill, to the end that the output will represent a fair average. An honest management will not let a good body of ore become exhausted before prospecting for another, but will judiciously use the resources of the mine in its period of prosperity to perform the necessary work incident to the unearthing of a new body of ore. Such has always been the policy of the Standard mine, and for the past three years, under the present management, it has been the policy of the Bodie. The Standard has been a wonderful dividend-payer—never having passed a month since it commenced in September, 1877. The aggregate of its dividends is $4,050,000. —Free Press.

The most terrific sand storm ever experienced on the Mohave Desert—famous for its fearful "blizzards"—swept over it last week. The center of the atmospheric excitement seems to have been in the neighborhood of Sumner, in Kern county, where it played sad havoc with the railroad trains. The fearful force and harrowing terrors of these sand storms are indescribable. The wind set loose in wild carnival over the bleak deserts of sand has an unobstructed sweep for a hundred miles. It howls and screams in savage glee, defying all impediment and carrying blinding clouds of sand on its blistering wings, it darkens the atmosphere with a density deep as night. It exceeds in fierceness the biting blasts of snow and sleet. No human being can face it for a minute. Under its dreadful force the sand is carried in drifting waves that leave only desolation and death in their track. Such was the storm that swept over the region indicated, at the time written of, and the news already received of its results shows that it was attended by the usual disasters.—Visalia Delta, Jan. 12.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JANUARY 20..... 1883

THERMAL ACID SPRINGS.—These singular springs are situated in Inyo County, in the Coso range of mountains, about 16 miles southeast of Olancha post office. The springs have but a limited flow, and from crevices on the mountain side through which steam is continually ejected, and thousands of tons pure sulphur cover and surround the locality. The taste of the water is intensely sour, making it unfit for drinking purposes. It has no smell, but formerly there must have been large quantities of sulphureted hydrogen contained in it, as the sulphur deposit indicates. Large quantities of free sulphuric acid is found in the water, but the sulphur deposit it is claimed by chemists cannot be derived from this source. Chemists are at least unacquainted with a process by which free sulphuric acid would turn under the circumstances such as the above, into sulphur. The composition is certainly a remarkable one as will be seen from the following analysis. In one hundred thousand parts are contained parts:

Free sulphuric acid	78.4
Sodium sulphate	15.1
Calcium sulphate	15.3
Magnesium sulphate	1.2
Aluminium persulphate	127.0
Iron persulphate	33.2
Nitric acid	trace
Chlorine	trace
Ammonia	trace
Lithium	trace

Springs or lakes of a chemical character like this are very rare; singular is also the small trace of chlorides in a water so strongly charged with mineral matters. The only known instance analogous to it is the Soar Lake in Texas, and a spring in the vicinity of the volcanoes in South American Cordilleros de los Andes.

COUNTY BUSINESS DIRECTORY.—The circular letters sent out from this office announcing that a complete Business Directory of this county will be issued, have so far met with an encouraging response. The Directory will contain the names of all those advertising and subscribing—business and professional men, farmers, miners and citizens generally, their addresses and avocations. It will contain in a compact form for ready reference full official State and County Directories, and geographical descriptions of the several State, County, Land, Supervisor, Road and School Districts, Judicial Townships, etc. The actual cost of the work, exclusive of the manual labor, will aggregate $300. Some 500 copies will be printed, on fine card board and heavy book-paper, in first-class style typographically; size, 22x28 inches, and it will form a fine ornament for the wall. There will be a limited space reserved for advertisements, about which matter Mr. R. C. Julian will call upon all the business and professional men of the valley during the next two weeks. Certainly, the near approach of the railroad and consequent influx of capital and population renders the time opportune for proper advertising of the resources of this county, its varied business interests and the names of those engaged therein.

ELECTRICAL.—In the new advertisements of the current week will be seen one from a noted old-timer—ex-Clerk, ex-sawyer, ex-U. S. Revenue officer and ex-publisher. Childs is now in the telegraph business, and, according to all accounts, has thoroughly mastered the science so far as the practical working of telegraph and telephone lines and instruments go. In this connection we have seen some very complimentary notices of his work, in the Mono and Mariposa county papers. When we get to putting up such modern conveniences, if our gentle voice is heard in the land, Childs will be employed and will be here.

A NEW STATION.—We are in receipt from Supt. Yerington of a copy of the time table of the Carson and Colorado, which takes effect to-day. The regular advertisement will be corrected accordingly in the next issue. The "Express" train, with mail and passengers, arrives daily at Benton at 11:15 P. M., leaving at 3:30 A. M. Benton station is 193 miles from Mound House, the initial point of the narrow-gauge. The northern stage will connect there after to-day, and connecting with the 11:15 train, ought to reach here at noon the next day.

VISITED THE RACES.—A couple of convicts in the Nevada State Prison, who were allowed the liberty of "trusties," about last Christmas time took the notion to leave the institution. They did so, and when recaptured at Bishop Creek by the officer sent out in pursuit, explained that they had merely come down to Bishop Creek to visit the holiday horse-races. It is not apparent whether by this they intended any reflection upon the sporting men of Gospel Swamp or not.

DIED.—After his long suffering Daniel Ashley died at Benton on Saturday last. He was a native of Ohio, about 38 years of age. He came to this Coast in 1863, when he was well known in Virginia City, Nevada, from where he removed to Benton in 1871. Whatever may have been his faults in life, he was at heart one of the noblest of men—a brave man, a true friend, and liberal in nature to the utmost extreme. May the cold clods rest lightly on Dan Ashley's grave.

COURT.—The Superior Court has been engaged all the week in the case of Nicholls vs. Clarke & White. A full jury was impaneled, after a day or two being consumed in argument of motions, pro and con, and the cause is not likely to be settled for perhaps months to come—the probabilities of appeals to the Supreme Court being taken into consideration.

SOUTHERN INYO.

[Special Correspondence of THE INDEPENDENT.]

DARWIN, January 12.

The Defiance furnace started up on the 8th instant on a run of about 300 tons of Defiance ore, and two loads of bullion have already been shipped to Mojave. Five tons of ore yields one of bullion, valued at about $250 per ton. Mr. Gorman has struck another body of high-grade ore in the Defiance at a depth of 160 feet. He is now opening it up, and it appears of considerable extent. This find will enable him to follow the present run with another as soon as he can procure the necessary amount of coal.

Mr. C. C. Blench, Superintendent of the Eagle Borax Works in Death Valley, left here to-day en route to his camp with a light, two-horse rig. The Company have broken a new wagonroad from Willow Springs through to the south end of Death Valley, being almost a direct pass through the Panamint Range to Bennett's Wells. By this route they have lately taken sufficient apparatus for the manufacture of a ton or more of borax per day, and are already shipping that amount.

The Coleman Company have also taken in machinery for their works near Resting Springs, on the Armagosa.

TRANSIENT.

HAD THEIR HEADS BAGGED.—Last Wednesday night, a merchant of this place, whose safe sometimes contains a good deal of cash or its equivalent, had closed up his store for the night, and was on his way to his sleeping room across the street when a new experience changed the current of his thoughts. Two men—one short one the other not so short—suddenly confronted him; as lights were yet burning in a saloon near at hand, and a number of persons were astir in the streets, there was nothing so far to materially alarm him; a glance at the two men revealed the fact that both men were masked—had bagged their heads, in fact. At the same instant, the shorter one of the two presented a pistol full in the merchant's face, and said: "You ——— ———," that and nothing more, probably, in his fright, having forgotten the rest. The merchant saw that it was time to begin to be scared himself, and accordingly yelled "murder!" rapidly, and to such purpose that the men with bagged heads fled instanter, striking for the brush below town, firing a shot or two as they ran, apparently to deter pursuit. We will give the sequel—when we can.

SCHOOL CLOSED.—The Milton (Camp Independence) District school—Supt. C. H. Groves, teacher—completed this year's term yesterday. On Monday next Mr. Groves will assume the duties of Principal of the Lone Pine school.

WEATHER.—The weather here is dry and windy and cold and abominable, any way it can be fixed. Makes almost anybody feel mean enough to want to steal something. The above refers more particularly to the weather of Wednesday and Friday.

F. & A. M.—The stated monthly meeting for January, of Inyo Lodge, No. 221, F. & A. M., will occur to-night.

Bill Nye as a Carver.

Bill Nye, of the Laramie Boomerang, publishes a lengthy article on new methods in carving, and winds up by saying:

"My great success, however, in carving is mainly confined to the watermelon. The watermelon does not confuse me. I always know where to find the joints, and those who do not like the inside of the melon can have the outside. Now, my great trouble with fowls is, that one day I have Nebraska chicken and the next I have to assassinate a Mormon shanghai pullet, with high, expressive hip bones and amalgam paletot. This makes me nervous, because they are so dissimilar and their joints are in different places. The Mormon hen is round-shouldered, and her collar-bone is more on the bias than the Nebraska fowl. This gives a totally different expression to her features in death, and, as I have said, destroys the symmetry of the carve. I began my education in this line by carving butter in hot weather, and gradually led up to quail on toast. In carving the quail, first mortgage your home and get the quail. The quail should be cooked before carving, but not before the chronometer balance and other organs have been removed. Place your quail on toast in a sitting position, then, passing the dissecting knife down between the shoulder-blades, bisect the polonaise. Another method is to take the quail by the hind leg and eat it, asking the guests to do the same. This breaks up the feeling of stiffness that is apt to prevail at a formal dinner party, and while each one has his or her nose immersed in quail good feeling cannot fail to show itself."

A GREAT deal of needless misunderstanding is occasioned in protection-free-trade discussions by not understanding terms and phrases. A high tariff is not necessarily a protective tariff, nor a low one for revenue. Protection is an end to which a tariff is the means, and this end may be secured, sometimes by a high tariff, sometimes by a low tariff, sometimes by no tariff at all. An exceedingly high tariff may not be obstructive after it has ceased to be protective. The duty on horse-shoe nails, for example, is very high and practically inoperative, but it is in no sense obstructive. A high tariff, when inoperative, is also obstructive only when it prevents competition and makes monopoly possible.

THE silver lead of the Richmond Con. mine, Eureka District, yield from 1871 to December 31, 1880, aggregated 50,564 tons, whose assay value in gold and silver footed up $20,425,600, and the value of the 50,000 and odd tons of refined lead produced at the refinery up to the latter date produced in round numbers $4,400,000, which, added to the precious metal values, gives the grand total sum of $24,825,600. Ont of this vast product the Company has disbursed nearly $4,000,000 in quarterly dividends, besides paying vast sums for litigation and for the purchase and construction of the magnificent refinery plant, and for the purchase of additional locations.

A VERY quick child made an observation to her governess the other day, which had a great deal of truth in it. "How is it, my dear," inquired the lady, "that you do not understand this simple thing?" "I do not know, indeed," she answered with a perplexed look; "but I sometimes think I have so many things to learn that I have not time to understand."

THE Napa Reporter says that L. F. Wilson, who died in Napa last Monday, had been doctoring horses for pinkeye, and it is believed that he became inoculated with the disease, which is said to be contagious. Portions of his body were found speckled with red spots, characteristic with the disease in horses.

HE bowed to her across the table, smirked, washed his hands in invisible soap and water, and said: "Oxcuse me, I dink I haf med you at Saratogas dis Summer—my name is Moses." "I cannot recall your face," she airily answered, "but your name is quite familiar."

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY of Inyo, State of California.—Charlotte Kimler, plaintiff, versus John A. Kimler, defendant.—Action brought in the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said Superior Court.—The People of the State of California send greeting to John A. Kimler, defendant. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff, in the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county, or if served elsewhere within thirty days. The said action is brought to recover judgment and decree of divorce dissolving the bonds of matrimony between plaintiff and defendant, on the grounds of willful desertion for the period of one year, of plaintiff by defendant, and that the custody of the minor child be awarded to the plaintiff, and for costs of suit and for general relief, all of which will more fully appear by the complaint filed herein, to which reference is hereby made. And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will take judgment against you for the decree prayed for in the complaint and for costs of suit.

Given under my hand and the Seal of the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, this 23d day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two.

AT LAST HE INFERRED.—It is related of a wealthy Philadelphian, who has been dead these many years, that a young man came to him one day and asked for help to start in business.

"Do you drink?" inquired the millionaire.

"Occasionally."

"Stop it! Stop it for a year and then come and see me."

The young man broke off the habit at once, and at the end of a year again presented himself.

"Do you smoke?" asked the great man.

"Yes; now and then."

"Stop it! Stop it for a year and come and see me."

The young man went away and cut loose from the habit, and after worrying through another twelve months once more faced the philanthropist.

"Do you chew?"

"Yes."

"Stop it! Stop it for a year and then come and see me."

But the young man never called again. When some one asked why he didn't make one more effort, he replied: "Didn't I know what he was driving at? He'd have told me that as I had stopped chewing, drinking, and smoking I must have saved enough money enough to start myself."

THE statement was made some time ago, on what seemed to be good authority, that the Upper Mississippi was gradually becoming filled with sawdust, and that it was or soon would be detrimental to navigation. Wood and Iron says that a joint committee of prominent business men and steamboatmen of St. Paul and Minneapolis have been making an investigation of this matter, and found no sawdust accumulating in the main channel, and think the accumulation in the eddies and shallows will prove an advantage, instead of, as was at one time feared, a serious impediment to navigation; that is, by lodging on the wing-bars and shallows it serves the purpose of protecting them from the washing of the current, by which the sand was removed and deposited in the main channel.

THE Congressional Committee on Ways and Means struck from the free list borax and boracic acid on the representations of the borax producers of the Pacific Coast, where deposits have been discovered, but need no protection. A rate of ten cents a pound was recommended for borax. This will interest those owning the borax works. The duty will put thousands of dollars into their pockets. Borax only sells for ten cents a pound here, so the duty is full value.

A PATENT has recently been taken out for a bridge which is so constructed that it will be raised off its foundations by high water and at the same time can be used for crossing. To each end of the bridge aprons are hinged, which connect at one end with the foundations at the road levels and with the bridge at the other end, and afford practicable ascent to and descent from the bridge while it is floating above the foundations.

ON the 20th instant the intense and unprecedented cold still continued in the Eastern part of Nevada. According to the Signal Office report, the mercury went down to twenty-three degrees below zero, at Winnemucca. Up the river the mercury solidified. The railroad men say a spirit thermometer at Elko indicated a temperature of fifty-four degrees below zero.

THE Greenback members of Congress have held a caucus and resolved to keep up the national organization of their party, but we havn't heard of anyone else who cares much about it.

THERE is a proposition to have the reduction in letter postage to two cents take effect on July 1, 1883, instead of January 1, 1884.

THE Senatorial dead-locks continue in the several States where elections are now going on.

Getting Rid of Non-paying Partners.

The mining laws of the United States provide that upon the failure of anyone of several co-owners to contribute his portion of the annual expenditures required, the co-owners who have performed the labor or made the improvements may, at the expiration of the year, give the delinquent co-owner personal notice in writing, or notice by publication in the newspaper published nearest the claim, for at least once a week for 90 days; and if at the expiration of 90 days after such notice in writing or by publication the delinquent should fail or refuse to contribute his proportion, his interest in the claim becomes the property of his co-owners who have made the required expenditures.

who contributes his proporton of the required expenditure can retain his interest. If a party fails to contribute his proportion of the actual expenditures upon a mining claim, the remedy lies in the courts. The U. S. mining laws only provide for failure to expend the proper proportion of the annual expenditures required by those laws.

In the first place, when the partners have done their share and one miner has done his, he who has done the work records an affidavit like the following, which is prima facie evidence of the performance of such labor:

PROOF OF LABOR.

——of——, County of——, ss.

Before me the subscriber personally appeared ——, who being duly sworn, says that at least —— dollars' worth of labor or improvements were performed or made upon (here describe claim), situated in —— mining district, —— county, —— of ——, during the year ending ——, 188–. Such expenditure was made by or at the expense of —— ——, owners of said claim, for the purpose of holding said claim.

[Jurat.] —— —— (Signature.)

Then a notice of forfeiture should be sent to the delinquent and published in the local paper. At the expiration of 180 days this notice should be recorded, with the affidavit of the newspaper publisher that the same was published for 90 days, together with the affidavit of the party signing the notice to the effect that one or more of the partners or co-owners named in the published notice have not paid thetr share of the expenditure. This completes the record title. This notice of forfeiture is as follows:

NOTICE OF FORFEITURE.

——County, —— ——, 188–

To (names of all parties who have record title to any portion of the mine). You are hereby notified that I have expended —— dollars in labor and improvements upon the —— lode (describe the claim), as will appear by certificate filed ——, 188–, in the office of the Recorder of said county (or district) in order to hold said premises under the provisions of section 2324 Revised Statutes of the United States, being the amount required to hold the same for the year ending ——, 188—. And if within ninety days from the service of this notice (or within ninety days after this notice by publication), you fail or refuse to contribute your proportion of of such expenditure as a co-owner, your interest in said claim will become the property of the subscriber under said section 2324.

The affidavit of failure to contribute, referred to above, is in the following form:

AFFIDAVIT OF FAILURE TO CONTRIBUTE.

.... of ...., County of ...., ss.

....., being duly sworn, deposes and says that for the year ending ....., 188.., he expended at least ..... dollars in labor and improvements upon the ..... lode [or ..... placer claim] (here describe the claim), to hold the same under the laws of the United States and of this ..... (district or State); that due notice thereof was personally served upon ..... co-owners, on the .... day of ....., 188.., [or was duly published in the ....., as appears from the affidavit of the publisher thereof], and that ..... (of the said) co-owners have failed or refused to contribute their share of said expenditures within the time required by law.

IN England married women are said to seldom think of forsaking the mill while their family is increasing, unless, indeed, the number of children—who must not be left altogether without some one to take care of them—should be so large as to make it as cheap to stay at home as to pay a substitute, and their only hope of release is from some of the elder children being able to supply their mother's place.

AFTER the party: "I say, have you seen anything of my hat around here anywhere?" asked a young swell in the coat room. "I dunno, sah." replied the attendant; "here am a hat, sah, which says 'light weight' inside of it, sah. Mebbe that might be yours, sah." He didn't take the hat.

HERE is a little Georgian's prayer, as given by the Gwinnett Herald: "Lord, I'm got a cold, awful one, too—I want you to cure me; cure me quick, too. I can't see you, but guess you can see me. Wake me up soon in the mornin'. Don't care whether you wake Henry or not. Amen."

IT is a facs not generally known that Alaska has one of the largest rivers in the world. The Yukon is navigable for 1,500 miles, and is so wide along its lower course that one bank cannot be seen from the other. The distance across its five mouths and intervening deltas is seventy miles.

FREE TEXT-BOOKS.

Senator McClure has introduced a bill which provides for a Board of three Commissiomers, to hold office for two years, to be composed of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, President of the State University, and a public school teacher, to be appointed by the Governor, who shall receive a salary of $1,800 per annum. The duty of the Board is to compile a series of text books suitable for all grades, and when such books are compiled by the Board, they shall be given to the State Printer for publication. The books are all to be copyrighted in the name of the State, and will comprise the following: A reader, speller, arithmetic, geography, etc. The State Treasurer shall set apart $3,500 from the General Fund of the State to defray the expense of publication; also the further sum of $3,600 for the payment of salary for two years of the Commissioners. The same bill has been introduced in the Assembly by Booth. It may be added that the Constitution gives complete control of the adoption of text-books to local Boards of Education, and it is not in the power of the Legislature to deprive them of this. Of course, if the State should succeed in publishing a series of good, free text-books, public opinion would compel the local Boards to adopt them. The only opposition to such a bill will come from the lobby, such as the persuasive Bancroft firm and Eastern book publishers. The printers of this State should be supported, the State printing office should be maintained and required to do all work under State control. We are most decidedly in favor of the bill.

THE telegraph announces the Senate's confirmation of the appointment of Hon. Joseph Wasson to be United States Consul at San Blas, in Mexico. It is in the State of Jalisco, or Xalisco, or Guadalajara, of the Mexican confederation, which occupies about the middle of the Pacific Coast line. It is traversed by the cordillera of Anahuac, in the mines of which Mr. Wasson has recently interested a heavy Eastern company. The country is drained by the river Carmichan and the Rio Grande de Santiago. The capital is Guadalajara, San Blas being the principal seaport town. It is situated on an island at the mouth of the Rio Grande de Santiago, and boasts of about 3,000 population. The climate is said to be very unhealthy and the harbor indifferent. The press of the coast is unanimous in its indorsement of Mr. Wasson's appointment, as a fitting recognition of the services of an eminent journalist and successful legislator, but THE INDEPENDENT is disposed to demur, for the reason that it upsets a plan whereby he was to become its part owner and editor-in-chief. Hunting for climate for the benefit of his failing health, Mr. Wasson has left one of the best in the world to take up with about the worst, according to standard authorities. However, as soon as he gets settled down our readers will hear from him.

THE most notable meeting of California fruit growers ever held was at San Jose last November. The sessions lasted three days, and a wide range of subjects was discussed. The full report of the proceedings, as taken down stenographically, makes a large pamphlet of 84 pages, and is the fullest review of the present situation in fruit growing in the State which has thus far been collected in book form. It will be sent post paid to any address for 25c. a copy. It will be found valuable to keep or to send to agricultural friends abroad. Address Dewey & Co., publishers of the Pacific Rural Press, 252 Market street, San Francisco.

A WASHINGTON dispatch says: There is some talk of removing the head dress now adorning the goddess of liberty on the Capitol dome, and placing in its stead a cap of liberty. Jefferson Davis was on the committee that considered the work. He opposed, however, the liberty cap, becouse it represented freedom to all mankind, and at that time slavery existed. He suggested an Indian head dress, and his suggestion was favorably considered.

"DICK, the Barber," and "Ohio Dan" were comfortably hanged by the Vigilantes at Land Point, Montana, lately. Both made confessons stating that they were guilty and had committed depredations enough to have warranted hanging long ago.

THE Act creating an additional Judge of the Superior Court of Mono will doubtles be repealed, a bill to that effect having been introduced into the Senate by Mr. Reddy.

HOAR was re-elected Senator from Massachusetts.

A TIMELY SUGGESTION.

On the first Monday of February, the 5th proximo, a practically new Board of Supervisors will assume its manifold duties in the management of county affairs. Under the Constitution, such duties will be to some extent legislative, as well as judicial, in equalization matters and executive as to the payment of bills, ordering necessary work done, etc. The member from this district is the only one re-elected to the Board, and carries with him the knowledge and experience acquired during the economical and creditable management of County affairs in the past three years. The floating debt has been so materially reduced as to warrant the assumption that it will be entirely wiped out in the next two years, while the funded debt has been brought down from $40,000 in 1872 to $23,000, or perhaps $500 less, as may appear by the next statement of the County Auditor. Thus the new Board will begin its labors with comparatively small embarrassment financially, and with the consequents upon the advent of the railand telegraph, can afford to undertake some new work which is almost imperative. They can do it all without increasing taxation or reducing the current value of Expense Fund warrants in the slightest degree. In fact, what is now proposed and advocated by our most far-seeing citizens, although involving some present cost, will return ten-fold the investment.

We refer, in the first place, to the necessity of making roads across the valley and bridges across the river, to connect with the incoming railroad, at stations opposite the towns or settlements where such are not already in existence.

In the next instance and what is of much more importance eventually, we want a good, accurate, complete, and well-executed map of the entire County. It should show the whole area—boundaries, adjoining State to the east, and counties to the north, west and south; the mountain ranges, valleys, Government surveys, water courses, springs, roads, trails, and of course all the political subdivisions, towns and settlements. A good example of this sort of county enterprise may be seen at the Clerk's office in the map of San Luis Obispo County, which paid $12,000 for the work. But we have an idea that one less elaborate, but answering the much needed purpose, can be made for $2,500 or $3,000. Even at the latter figure, it would be cheap. We who have lived here so long have not the remotest idea how difficult it is to make a stranger understand where Inyo County is, much less to acquaint him with a knowledge of its several localities, long distances, and widely varied interests; all of which is what they want to know, and such information should be provided them for the County's benefit. All the maps of the State yet published contain the most crude and ridiculous blunders as to this County, and it is time that something authentic was made extant.

MR. REDDY'S BILL.

Mr. Reddy is the author of a bill now before the Legislature that would seem beyond objection. It requires mining companies with subterranean works to have a second or escape shaft where any number of men are employed. As the law stands it applies to mines where twelve men are at work. Another bill requires hoisting engines to be constantly manned by two engineers. Instances are not infrequent of loss of life below ground by reason of accident to the solitary engineer above ground and his inability to respond the call to hoist. Such measures as these tending to give additional security to those following precarious vocations should receive legislative sanction without hesitation. —Record Union.

Mr. Reddy has introduced another mining bill amending section 1183 of the Civil Code. As the law now stands the miner has a lien only upon the mine, and cannot touch the mill or other property of the corporation. The design of his amendmnent is, in the event of the mine petering out, to give the miner a chance to levy upon the mill or other tangible property.

THE New York Tribune's Washington special on the Nicarugua Canal says: Captain Phelps, one of the native promoters of the scheme, who has recently returned from a visit to Nicaragua, gives an enthusiastic account of the country, and used as one of his strong arguments, the opportunities which will be opened to American capital there. One of the great features of the Company's plan is to draw immigration to the Pacific slope, to which five great railroads are going to reach a total population hardly as large as New York City. The expense of a railroad trip and the fear of uncertainties and the perplexities of it deters the poor immigrants. "What a difference it will make," says Captain Phelps, "when an immigrant slips in a ship at Liverpool with a steerage ticket and knows that when he walks off he will be in Oregon!"

DORSEY has written a letter resigning the office of Secretary of the National Republican Committee.

BULLION PRODUCTION.

Notwithstanding the collapse of the Comstock mines, the bullion product of the Pacific Coast, west of the Missouri river, has gradually increased since 1870. Only one year shows a larger production than that of 1882. During the last year the production was $89,207,500. In 1877, the production was $95,811,600; in 1878, $78,176,200; in 1879, $72,688,990; in 1880, $77,232,500; in 1881, $81,198,500. Of the $89,207,500 produced in 1882, California furnished $16,332,498; Nevada, $10,363,376; Oregon, $646,537; Washington, $140,838; Alaska $240,000; Idaho, $3,325,738; Montana, $8,004,000; Utah, $8,143,175; Colorado, $25,933,265; New Mexico, $3,667,122; Arizona, $9,298,267; Dakota, $2,855,127. California produced in 1881, $18,020,679, showing a falling off in 1882 of $2,688,181. This is owing, in a great measure, to the suspension of hydraulic mining through injunctions of the courts, the result of the debris question. In thirteen years the enormous amount showing, adding nearly a thousand million dollars to the wealth of the world. In eleven years California alone has produced $201,659,800 in precious metals. Nevada produced during the same time, $332,017,200. It will be seen by these statistics that Alaska is coming into the field as a bullion producing Territory. If the late gold discoveries prove as rich as reported, Alaska will take its place alongside of the favored mineral-producing Territories.

A CRIMSON-HUED ERA

The month of January, 1883, will be a memorable one in history, as being the bloodiest recorded in the matter of frightful accidents by land and sea. The Tehachepi horror was closely followed by the loss of the steamer Cimbria; three hundred lives lost at a theater in Russia; the giant powder explosion at Berkeley, with its attendant loss of life; the Milwaukee holocaust, murders and train robberies -all go to make up a heart-rending chapter beyond the capacity of a country newspaper to recount.

GENERAL BUTLER is a logician, if anything. He thoroughly understands the difference between a drove of sheep with one black ram, and one black ram in a drove of sheep. At the Jackson dinner he thus faced south by north: "The doctrine which I adopt, for one, is not that to the victors belong the spoils, but that the Government belongs to its friends." Those who have entertained the absurd idea that the Government belongs to the people, will stand corrected when they understand the General's definition of "friends."

SENATE BILL 25 proposes to punish by imprisonment, as for a felony, all Assessors who fail to assess cultivated and uncultivaied land, of the same quality and similarly situated, at the same value. We do not believe that Assessors will be manufactured to order by such a bill. It will always be an issue of judgment as to whether the lands are of the "same quality" and "similarly situated," and for error in its exercise it will be impossible to prove willfulness.

ASSEMBLY BILL 79 proposes to reduce telegraphic rates on lines operated in California, or that run through the State, twenty-five per cent. from the rates in effect January 1st. It is not to apply to night messages, and where a day rate is by the reduction made, not a multiple of five cents, the amount charged shall include the full amount of five cents, whenever the fraction is two and a half cents or more. The bill exempts lines less than 250 miles in length.

THE Virginia (Nev.) Chronicle pronounces the Oakland (Cal.) Times to be the most "brainy" Democratic paper in California. The Chronicle is eminently correct; and in our judgment the Times will ultimately take the lead of the old Examiner, which aside from its late acquisition of moneyed backers, is mainly conspicuous for its studied discourtesy toward interior papers—in the matter of exchanging, for instance.

IF an addition to the weight of our silver dollar will increase their currency value, why is not the trade dollar worth more as currency than the standard dollar, and more in demand by the people?

THE Miners' Association has issued an address notifying mining communities that an accredited agent of the organization will call upon them to render material assistance in defense of mining interests.

THE sensational press dispatches about the bloody work of a band of murderous villains at Gold Mountain and Silver Peak, are being dissipated muchly in the light of later reports. In fact, there was little or nothing of it.

COOMBS, the cowardly murderer of Jack Ross, at Carson, is said to have been a preacher at one time.

OUR INLAND SEA.

The Most Exhaustive and Scientific Description of Owens Lake Ever Published—Analysis of Its Waters, Etc.

This grand lake, next perhaps to Mono, is the most interesting one on the North American Continent. Situated in a basin about 4,000 feet above sea level, its shores are bounded on the west side by the majestic Sierra Nevada, rising abruptly to towering peaks of 14,000 to 15,000 feet; and on the east side by the precipitous Inyo range, with the famous mines of Cerro Gordo and Beveridge at an altitude of about 10,000 feet. Standing on the summit of this range, the panorama spread out in all directions is one of the grandest, most overwhelming views to behold, although there is no verdure to delight the eye and to support the ornamentation of the scenery. How far beneath us lies the Salinas Valley on one side, the Owens Valley on the other; how perpendicular the mountain; how diminutive the lake; how are we deluded by the optic refraction of the superature. Truly to observe at temperature sun on these heights, the changing tint of the sky, the spreading of darkness over peak and valley, is a spectacle never to be forgotten.

The Owens Lake has no outlet, and is fed by Owens River, a stream about 30 feet wide, 2 to 10 feet deep, and having a velocity of about 5 miles per hour. As the level of the lake remains constant except in the last eight years, the lake has gradually lowered as many feet. The lake having 110 square miles of surface, an evaporation of 4.9 feet per year would suffice to swallow up the annual volume of Owens river. Those who cannot appreciate the ammount of evaporation, having invented the hypothesis of a subterranean outlet as in the case of Great Salt Lake in Utah. The water has a strong saline and alkaline taste, and is far famed in Inyo county for its cleaning properties, surpassing those of soap. Neither fish nor mollusk can exist, but some forms of lower animal life are plentiful, as infusoria, copepoda, and larvæ of insects. While around the lake the vegetation consists of two salt plants, Bryzopyrum and Halortachys, the vegetation in the lake is confined to an algous or fungoid plant, floating in small globular masses of whitish or yellowish-green color in the water. These accumulate on certain localities of the lake-bottom and near the shore, and undergo decay, emitting a feces-like odor, as observed also in the treatment of albuminous matter with caustic alkalies.

One of the most striking phenomena is the occurrence of a singular fly that covers the shore of the lake in a stratum two feet in width and about two inches in thickness, and occurs no where else in the country only at Mono Lake. The insect is inseparable from the alkaline water, and feeds upon the organic matter of the above named alga that is washed in masses upon the shore. In the larvæ state it inhabits the alkaline lake; in especially great numbers in August and September, and the squaws congregate here to fish with baskets for them. Dried in the sun and mixed with flour, they serve as a sort of bread of great delicacy for the Indian.

Humboldt relates that, in Mexico, the dried larvæ of an insect from the Lake Tesenco form an article of commerce among the Indian population of the province.

Notwithstanding the alkalinity of Owens Lake, numerous ducks are occasionally seen swimming in it. The great numbers of dead ducks and other aquatic birds seen here and there on the shore seem to indicate that they have tried to satisfy their thirst with the water.

In regard to the fly-species, an interesting letter from Baron Orten-Sanker, to whom were sent a few specimens for examination, may be referred to here. He says: "They belong to the genus ephydra, but differ in some respects from the usual type of the genus. Usually, ephydræ are of a metallic blackish green, while the species in question is dead gray, and not metallic at all. Other differences may be revealed on a more careful examination. Several species of ephydræ have been observed to live in the larva state in salt water, either in the brackish waters near the shore, or in the brine of salt works. A species of ephydra occurs in enormous numbers on the shore of the Great Salt Lake, Utah. I am pretty sure that it is a species different from yours."

The lake was evidently at one time much larger than at present, and its waters pure and fresh, so as to permit the life of various fresh water mollusks, as indicated by numerous shells of recent species found in the sands of the vicinity. Upturned strata of limestone and slate containing numerous dikes of intrusive rock, as diorite and porphyry, skirt the valley of the lake on the east side, while the main mass of the opposite Sierra Nevada consists of granite and gneiss. The taste of the water reveals at once the presence of carbonate of soda. The specific gravity is 1.051. In 100 liters (equal to 26.42 gallons) are contained grammes of

Sodium carbonate	2440.80
Sodium chloride	2328.30
Silicic acid	17.21

together with a trace each of the following: Boric acid, phosphoric acid, nitric acid, lithiat, lime, magnesia, alumnia, and organic matter. The proportion of saline substance is, therefore, over double as large as in seawater, and about one-third that of the Great Salt Lake; but, while these contain chloride of sodium, the former contains a large amount of carbonate of soda. To undertake to calculate this for the whole lake is to appreciate its value.

Its greatest length is 17 miles; width, 9 miles; depth, 51 feet. The total surface of the lake is very closely 110 square miles—equal to 284.9 square kilometers; average depth, 3 meters, equal to 9 feet, 10 inches. The cubical contents are, therefore, equal to 0.8547 cubic kilometers.

One cubic kilometer equals 1,000x 1,000x1,000 cubic meters. One cubic meter equals 1,000 liters.

Hence, the volume of the lake equals 854,700,000,000 liters, or 8,547,000,000 hectoliters.

On the analysis shown, one hectoliter contains 2.44 kilogrammes carbonate of soda, hence the total amount in the lake equals 20,854,680,000 kilogrammes, or 22,000,000 tons. The sulphate of potassia would amount to 5,000,000 tons.

Evaporation and concentration works might be erected at a moderate cost, and the carbonate of soda separated by cyrstallization from the remainder of the salts. If by this process also the considerable amount of potassa, which is a valuable fertilizer, were separated and saved, the outlay for fuel might be compensated. Wood is scarce in the vicinity, and transportation, at present, expensive. This will be modified with the completion of the Carson and Colorado railroad. The analysis shows that there is one-twentieth more carbonic acid than required to form with the available soda the monocarbonate; hence, there is a small amount of bicarbonate present, which, however, was calculated in the analysis as monocarbonate. The amount of bi-carbonate formed depends upon the quality and tension of the carbonic acid coming in upon the quantity of water. Another fact to be mentioned is the formation of a considerable quantity of sulphide of potassium and sodium, if the water is kept in well-corked bottles for several months, in the dark. One hundred centiliters of such water were mixed with ammoniacal cuproammonium sulphate, and 0.024 grammes sulphide of copper obtained, corresponding to 0.019 grammes sulphide of sodium. Of course there was no longer any free oxygen present in this bottle, but still the animal life was not extinct, and the minute copepoda were soon in violent agitation when the water was poured in a large airy bottle and exposed to sunlight. It is astonishing under what circumstances life can sometimes exist, and a world of mysteries still lies here before us, waiting to be solved by future investigation.

Miners Are Entitled to All Veins and Timber Within Location Lines.

N. C. McFarland, Commissioner of the Department of the Interior, in a letter to C. Y. Shelton, of Walker, Arizona Territory, thus defines the rights of miners:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 9, 1882.

Sir—I am in receipt of your letter without date, in which you state that all the mining claims in your vicinity are 1500 feet in length, and 600 feet in width, and a large number of them contain more than one vein; that it is rumored that information has been received from Washington that the original locators could only hold one vein; or lode within the boundaries of their respective claims, and that outside parties could go upon such claims, locate and hold one of the veins. You ask if this is true, and whether outside partins have a right to enter upon claims properly located and cut timber therefrom, for building or other purposes, or reside thereon, or work the same for the placer mineral.

In reply I have to state, by the act of July 9, 1861, the miner could only acquire and hold one vein or lode within the limits of his surface location; but the act of May 10, 1872, gave the locator of a lode claim additional rights; it granted him a specified quantity of surface ground, the lode located and all other veins and lodes, the apexes of which lie within the surface lines of his location or relocation so long as the original locator complies with the law; nor would a stranger be authorized to reside on the claim, or cut timber standing thereon, without the consent of the owner; and any forcible attempt to do so would be a trespass. The owners remedy would be in the local courts. See letter of Secretary of the Interior to this office, under date of September 30, 1882. (Washington Law Reporter, pp. 636.) The locator of a lode claim acquires the right to all surface ground embraced within the exterior boundaries of his location, not previously reserved or appropriated, and the discovery of mineral thereon would not authorize an outside party to go upon the claim for the purpose of mining thereon. Very respectfully,

N. C. MCFARLAND,
Commissioner.

A CITIZEN of Oakland is going to build a $30,000 house in the style prevalent in Holland in the 17th century. This reminds us that two or three hundred years ago they used to build houses with each story projecting over that immediately below it, so that the top stories of the houses sometimes nearly met across the street. This had its disadvantages in the direction of light and air, but must have been very convenient in case of fire, for with a ladder or a plank the cititzen cut off from below by the flames could easily escape to the other side of the street. Hence there seems to us much merit in the very early English and early Dutch style of architecture. Talking of escape from fire, it hardly seems to us necessary that every house should be disfigured by an iron ladder. Almost perfect safety from fire could be assured by having roof connection built of iron between all the houses in each block, and by having a solid and separate iron tower and stairway at say each of two sides of the block. There are many ways in which wholesale loss of life by fire could be prevented; it is only a question of the public's making up its mind.—Stock Report.

THE small pox scare at Red Bluff is said to have driven all the dead beats, petty thieves, bummers and sidewalk drunks out of town. Now several of the neighboring towns are putting out yellow flags.

Only six veterans of the war of 1812 met in the old Court House in Philadelphia lately to celebrate the anniversary of the battle of the plains of Chalmette, near New Orleans, in 1812.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY of Inyo, State of California.

In the matter of C. S. Swan, an Insolvent Debtor.

C. S. Swan having filed in this Court his petition, schedule and inventory in insolvency, by which it appears that he is an insolvent debtor, the said C. S. Swan is hereby declared to be insolvent.

The Sheriff of said County is hereby directed to take possession of all the estate, real and personal, of the said C. S. Swan, Debtor, except such as may be by law exempt from execution and of all his deeds, vouchers, books of accounts and papers and to keep the same safely until the appointment of an Assignee of his estate. All persons are forbidden to pay any debts to the said insolvent, or to deliver any property belonging to him or to any person, firm or corporation or association for his use. The said Debtor is hereby forbidden to transfer or deliver any property until the further order of this Court, except as herein ordered.

It is further ordered that all the creditors of said Debtor be and appear before the Hon. John A. Hannah, Judge of the Superior Court of said County, in open Court, at the Court room of said Court, in the town of Independence in said County, on the FIFTH DAY OF MARCH, 1883, at ten o'clock, A. M. of that day, to prove their debts, and choose one or more assignees of the estate of said Debtor.

It is further ordered that the order be published in THE INYO INDEPENDENT, a weekly newspaper of general circulation published in the County of Inyo, as often as the said paper is published before the said day set for the meeting of creditors.

And it is further ordered that in the meantime all proceedings against the said insolvent be stayed.

Dated January 27th, 1883.

JOHN A. HANNAH,
n659td Judge of the Superior Court.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, JANUARY 27..... ..1883

A NEWSPAPER REPRESENTATIVE.—Mr. J. H. Blethen, agent and correspondent of the Territorial Enterprise, Virginia City, Nevada, is paying Independence and the valley generally a professional visit. Mr. Blethen is an old-time Comstocker, and a square business man. The Enterprise ranks with the leading daily papers of the Pacific Coast, and is just at this time throwing all its powerful influence and energy in favor of this county. It has all the general and many special dispatches from all parts of the world, and is a recognized authority on mining and stock matters. Under the new arrangement of delivering the package of papers for this section at the Mound House, to be distributed in the mail cars of the C. & C. R. R., we can get at noon here the latest possible dates.

RICH SILVER ORE.—Mr. Didier Elisee, a well known prospector from Deep Spring Valley, brought in a few days ago some samples of silver ore which was taken from a new discovery which has been named the "Karmargue." The claim is located near Wyman Creek, and is supposed to be an extension of the Mayrock mine. The samples which were assayed by Mr. S. D. Woodhull show $1,564 94 n silver per ton.

DIED.—Our readers will be pained to learn of the death of George E. Floyd, a well known oid stage man and prospector, who died at Indian Wells on the 24 th instant. He was a native of Alabama, aged 43 years. He was a man of fine education, honorable in everything and well respected by all who knew him. We have no particulars as to the cause of his death.

COURT.—The case of Wm. M. Nichols vs. Clarke and White, occupied the attention of the Superior Court, jury, litigants and attorneys all the week up to Thursday night, when the case went to the jury. A verdict in favor of plaintiff for the full amount and costs was rendered. Defendants gave notice of an appeal to the Supreme Court, and the proper bonds were filed.

SOMEWHAT EARLIER.—In the future THE INDEPENDENT will be issued before noon on Saturdays, instead of in the afternoon as heretofore in order to catch the northern mail which departs at half past 1 o'clock. This change will also be a matter convenience to farmers visiting town on Saturday.

THE NEW ARRANGEMENT.—On the opposite page will be found the new time schedule of the Carson and Colorado Railroad and the Benton and Independence Stage Line. All the important facts of the new condition of things are sufficiently well set forth therein, without further reference here.

JOHN CHATOVICH, of Silver Peak and Fish Lake Valley, arrived in town by private conveyance Thursday. In the evening he received a dispatch stating that his store at Silver Peak had been robbed; that a fight took place between the highwaymen and a number of citizens, during which several shots were exchanged. No further particulars were obtainable. Mr. Chatovich departed for home yesterday morning. Before leaving he stated that he thought the marauders composed the gang that has been committing depredations throughout portions of Utah and the southeastrn part of this State.—Aurora Herald, Jan. 30.

So important is the condition of the lead market to the great mining portions of the country where argentiferous galena largely prevails, that a large meeting of miners, opposed to the reduction of the tariff on lead, was recently held in Salt Lake City, Utah, at which Gov. Murray presided. Any proposed reduction was earnesty opposed, and the unanimous sentiment seemed to be that a reduction of the tariff would destroy the market, and the result would be a closing of the majority of the silver and lead producing mines.

THE Gold mountain stage driver brings the information that two men, one of them named Rockwell, the other supposed to be "Tex," were killed a short distance south of John Chiatovich's store at Silver Peak. They made an attempt to kill the inmates and secure such of the contents as they might want. Some twelve or fifteen shots were exchanged, resulting in a repulse. The men then left, going toward Lida Valley, and were pursued by Indians, who returned and reported having killed them both.—True Fissure.

A BILL has been introduced in the California Legislature looking to the better support of the State Mining Bureau, which will give it an appropriation instead of having it depend on the tax on mining stock certificates. It is probable that the collection now at Sacramento will be removed to the Bureau at San Francisco before long.

THE people of this Nation must look largely to the broad Territories of the West, where the question is one of vital importance, for strong defenders of the mining industry and watchful guardians of its best interest in the halls of National legislation.—Chicago Mining Review.

THE track of the Carson & Colorado Railroad has reached Benton. This road has not attracted much attention, but it is really one of the most important on the Pacific Coast. It will promote the development of a vast area of mineralised country.—Stock Report.

THERE seems to but little doubt that the barkeeper Schiller set fire to the Milwaukee hotel. He ought to be burned at the stake.

A REGIMENT of seekers for each place, either vacant or that can be made vacant, is the present record at the State capital.

THE Bodie Free Press says that a grand army of prospectors will assault the White Mountains next Summer. That range has not been thoroughly explored and it is believed that immense deposits of precious metals exist there. It is a good field for the prospector—better than anything to be found in New Mexico or some other far-off section, about which so much is being said and written these days. There is wealth concealed in the White Mountains and the small ranges connected with them.

TO LOCATE.—All our old readers will remember the genial Harry mentioned in the following item from the Reno Gazette:

"Harry Clawson is going to Los Angeles to open a fine hotel that the railroad is building. John W. Mackay cabled him $8,000 to furnish it."

THE Germans of the United States have responded promptly to the cry of aid that has crossed the ocean from the Fatherland. They have already sent thousands of dollars to their needy countryman, and additional subscriptions are rapidly pouring in.

THE imports of raw sugars at San Francisco last year were over 100,000,000 pounds. There was also nearly 8,000,000 pounds received from New York.

AN effort is being made to have the Signal Service Bureau transferred from the War Department to the Department of Agriculture.

"Weight" in the Stomach.

I frequently meet a case of indigestion, the most marked feature of which is what the patient calls "weight in the stomach." Sometimes it is spoken of as a pressure, and again as stricture, but the most common word is "weight." Sometimes the patient will say: "It seems to me I have a stone or a mass of iron," and one lady said the other day: "I have an iron wedge in my stomach." Generally these sufferers attribute the sensation to the weight of food. A clergyman said: "I suppose my stomach has become sensitive to pressure, and the food pressing upon the surface which has become so tender produces this sensation of weight." This explanation is entirely at fault. Instead of being produced by the presence of a heavy mass in the stomach, in its most intense and unbearable forms, I have found that it does not appear in connection with a full meal, but is much more likely to come on after eating a few mouthfuls of cracker, or fine flour bread, or a single hot biscuit. The patient may have ground it between his teeth with the greatest care, but, soon after swallowing, this sensation of weight appears. More frequently, however, there seems to be no connection whatever with the presence of food in the stomach. The sensation is not produced so much by what is in the stomach as by certain conditions of the walls of the stomach itself; in brief, it is produced by congestion of the walls of the organ. Accompanying this congestion there is generally an adhesive mucus poured out which sticks to the inner coat. I may add that this sensation of weight is nearly always a little to the right of the pit of the stomach, and that it is found that the congestion and adhesive mucus, which seem to stand in the relation of cause to this sensation, are found at the right or pyloric extremity of the stomach.

This sensation of weight is not relieved by stimulus. If it was produced by a load of food pressing upon the weakened walls of the stomach, a glass of whisky or wine would afford at least a temporary relief, whereas it is found that the employment of alcoholic drinks only increases the trouble. Indeed, drunkards suffer more intensely from this sensation of "weight in the stomach" than any other class of dyspeptics. The most striking relief for the time being is obtained from hot fomentations over the pit of the stomach. A mustard poultice applied over the stomach is very effectual.—Dr. W. Lewis.

In order to have good health the following conditions are imperative: 1. Pure air. 2. Pure and nutritious food. 3. Proper exercise. 4. Undisturbed sleep. 5. Regularity. 6. Temperance in all things. 7. Pleasant and active mental, moral and social conditions. 8. Right bodily positions. 9. Cleanliness. 10. Sunlight.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY of Inyo, State of California.—Charlotte Kimler, plaintiff, versus John A. Kimler, defendant.—Action brought in the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said Superior Court.—The People of the State of California send greeting to John A. Kimler, defendant. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff, in the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county, or if served elsewhere within thirty days. The said action is brought to recover judgment and decree of divorce dissolving the bonds of matrimony between plaintiff and defendant, on the grounds of willful desertion for the period of one year, of plaintiff by defendant, and that the custody of the minor child be awarded to the plaintiff, and for costs of suit and for general relief, all of which will more fully appear by the complaint filed herein, to which reference is hereby made. And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will take judgment against you for the decree prayed for in the complaint and for costs of suit.

Given under my hand and the Seal of the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, this 23d day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two.

The Triennial Conclave.

Preparing for the Great Event—Proposed Programme—Cost of the Trip.

Preparations are still in active progress for the grand Triennial Conclave of the Knights Templar of the United States, to be held in this city in July and August next. The Triennial Committee, composed of representative Sir Knights of the State, hold regular meetings. Last evening, at the Palace Hotel, these Knights met and discussed many matters of interest to the success of the gathering. Ex-Governor Perkins was present. Sir Knight W. Q. Gould, the regular presiding officer of the committee, thought that properly Sir Knight Perkins should occupy the chair when present, as when the committee was first organized he had been elected its President. Sir Knight Perkins, however, declined to relieve the Chairman of that office.

THE PRIZES TO BE AWARDED.

Some discussion occurred regarding the design for the first prize for competitive drill. Considerable dissatisfaction was felt by certain Knights in regard to proposed alterations of the design. It was finally decided to allow the design to remain as at first submitted.

Six additional prizes are to be given, and it is proposed to take whatever money is left over and make a purse of it, to be awarded with the last prize.

The Secretary reported that negotiations for the Royal Band of Hawaii have not yet been concluded. He reported that he had secured a band for the California Commandery, and also that the Mechanics' Pavilion had been engaged in which to hold the exercises of the Conclave.

THE WEEK'S PROGRAMME.

The Programme Committee reported the following outline of the week's business and entertainment, subject to reconsideration and amendment:

Saturday, August 18th.—All the commanderies will be on duty the entire day for the purpose of receiving and escorting visiting Knights to their quarters. At 8 P. M. the California commanderies wil assemble at the Mechanics' Pavilion for inspection and orders.

Sunday, August 19—2 P. M.—California Commandery, No. 1, and Golden Gate Commandery, No. 16, will assemble in Masonic Temple and form an escort for the Grand Commandery and all the visiting Sir Knights who are disposed to join with them in attending divine service at Trinity Church, Post street,

Monday, August 20th.—Grand parade review and exhibition drills, closing with a reception of the Grand Encampment at the Grand Opera House. Reception addresses by the Grand Commander, Mayor and Governor, etc.; response by the Grand Master. In the evening a promenade concert in the Mechanics' Pavilion—all Sir Knights and ladies admitted free on presentation of tickets. Exhibition drills of visiting Commanderies, followed by dancing and refreshments. Concerts to continue each evening through the week. Some one or more of the California Commanderies being detailed for duty each evening, to be assisted by the ladies of the Triennial Union, as a reception and entertainment committee.

Tuesday, August 21st—10 A. M.—The Grand Commandery of California, escorted by the Commanderies of California will escort the officers and members of the Grand Encampment from the hotel to the asylum where the Twenty-second Triennial Conclave will be formally opened.

Wednesday, August 22d—5 P. M.—Grand banquet, attended by the Grand Commandery of California and the Grand Encampment of the United States, and complimentary to the Grand Encampment.

Saturday, August 25th.—Grand competitive prize drill at the Bay District track, as per special programme; and also laying corner stone of Garfield monument in Golden Gate Park. Evening, closing concert at the Mechanics' Pavilion. Entertainments at various points, including a yacht race, to be arranged for each day during the week, excepting Monday and Saturday.

After transacting some further business of no importance, the committee adjourned till Wednesday evening, the 31st instant.

GRAND MASTER DEAN COMING.

Eminent Sir Knight Benjamin Dean, Grand Master of the Grand Commandery of the United States, has lately been in correspondence with A. L. Sharon, proprietor of the Palace Hotel, and has engaged a suite of rooms in that hotel for some weeks preceding and following the Conclave.

In addition to the official correspondence of Commanderies with the Triennial Committee, many Knights of the Eastern States are making arrangements with friends in this city for accommodation during their proposed visit.

ADVICE TO KNIGHTS OF WISCONSIN.

A. V. H. Carpenter, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, a Sir Knight, and the General Passenger and Ticket Agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway, has issued a circular, under date of January 1st, 1883, to all his brother Knights of the Eastern States, with reference to special railroad accommodations to and from the Conclave. Special arrangements have been made with the Pullman Palace Car Company, whereby cars can be chartered for the pilgrimage from Chicago to San Francisco. The price of a sleeping car per day while occupied will be $60; while unoccupied will be $25; and the time to be reckoned from the date of leaving Chicago until the return to that city. The price of a hotel car per day while occupied, under the rates of the company, will be $75; unoccupied, $40. The Union and Central Pacific Railways will have sleeping cars containing twelve persons, who pay either regular fare or the price of twelve tickets. The Wagner Car Company, it is expected, will make similar rates. The price of a round trip ticket from Chicago, via Council Bluffs, via the Chicago, Milwaukee, and St. Paul Railroad, has been set at $80.90. The round fare between Chicago and San Francisco, going over one transcontinental road and returning over another, is $114.80.—S. F. Bulletin, Jan. 25th.

THE Virginia Enterprise gives the following particulars in regard to a tunnel that resents being a tunnel, and insists upon being just the opposite: Its location is Castle district, at a point about five miles north of Virginia City. It was run about four years ago into the side of a steep hill, and was originally about 40 feet in length. When in about 15 feet, the tunnel cut into a soft, swelling clay, very difficult to manage. After timbering and striving against the queer, spongy material till it had been penetrated some 25 feet, the miners gave up the fight, as they found it was a losing game. Being left to its own devices, the tunnel proceeded to repair damages. It is very plainly shown that it resented the whole business, as its first move was to push out all the timbers and dump them down the hill. It did not stop at that, but projected from the mouth a pith or stopper of clay the full size of the excavation. This came out horizontally some eight feet as though to look about and see what had become of the miners, when it broke of and rolled down the slope. In this way it has been going on until there are some hundreds of tons of clay at the foot of the hill. At first it required only about a week for a plug to come ont and break off, then a a month, and so on till now the masses are ejected but three or four times a year, yet the motion continues, and today the tunnel has the better of the fight by about four feet.

FOR a year and a half past the old camp where Jones, Stewart, and Trenor W. Park expended so much money to so little effect, mining has been revived and carried on successfully, chiefly under the direct management of Thos. B. Pheby, formerly Superintendent of the Raymond & Ely, and other mines. He has kept from 30 to 40 men employed and worked the whole business at a profit to the company. Our readers will remember that the big reduction works burned down a few weeks ago, after the most successful run in its history. He settled up every claim and returned to this city. In the meantime the insurance adjusters went there and after a careful inquiry pronounced everything straight and settled upon an aggregate of $33,000, though the property was insured for $40,000. Pheby says that a good ten-stamp can be built out of the ruins of the machinery at a total cost of $1,500 or $2,000. What the company, whose office is in New York, will decide upon, he does not know. He expects to go on there soon. In the meantime he has left some men at work in the mines.—S. F. Stock Report.

ONE evening last week a couple of Chicago thugs stopped a man and asked him the time. "Just strike a light, will you," said the man, "and I'll look and see." When the match illuminated the gloom, the man was revealed with his watch in one hand and a wicked revolver lying across the face of it. "It's now 10:30, and you fellows have only got a second and a half to light out of this before she strikes," said the man, sternly. They "lit."

A Portland paper tells a story of a wealthy but parsimonious Maine man who, two or three days before his death, awoke in the evening, and turning to the watcher at the bedside, asked: "How much do they give you a night?" "Two dollars and a half," was the reply. "Well, you needn't come any more; I can't stand such a sum as that;" and he didn't.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 3.....1883

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY
JAMES E. PARKER.

EX-GOVERNOR DOWNEY'S CARD.

Governor J. G. Downey has so far recovered that he was able to sit up and write the following card, which was published according to his order:

"It is wonderful to see the efforts made by paid officials to torture the horrible outrage perpetrated on life, humanity and the commonwealth on Saturday morning, January 20th, into an accident. It is the pure and simple work of heartless railroad men who abandoned their post and their duty. There was no tramp on the train and no robber seeking plunder. A first class detective might find out that those who abandoned their posts were paid to let loose that train that men, women and children might perish. Mr. Mackenzie, an old and active railroad man, happened to be on the train with us. He did not engage a sleeper, as he said, for a wonder. This gentleman proved his manhood and humanity by his subsequent service. He sat in the smoking car among Chinamen and a heterogeneous mass. His keen eye at once saw imminent danger and he sprang to his feet, rousing nodding passengers to his aid. Two flew to the brakes and put them down tight. McKenzie then flew to the sleeping cars to control their brakes, but found them bolted and fastened. He then flew back to the cars upon which the brakes were down to get an ax or hammer to break his way into the sleeper, but nothing of the kind could be found. Just then the cars which he had secured by the brakes disconnected with the sleepers and we were abandoned to our cruel fate. Mr. McKenzie is a man of slight build, but muscular and active; he is about five feet seven inches in height, dark complexion, with abundant black hair. He told me that there was not an employé of the corporation on board of the cars, save the poor unfortunate porters. One of them within twenty feet of me, was crying for help and water, but there was not an official of the road at hand to protect their own men. Mr. Wigginton's theory of tramps is a damnable insult to intelligence, truth, and humanity, and is unworthy of a man who once commanded public confidence. The affair deserves thorough investigation, and if the truth be brought out the world will see villainy connected with this affair."

The Governor also said he wanted it known that while he does not desire "blood money," he has lost all that is dear on earth to him in the death of his wife, and he intends to push the railroad company for all it is worth in the way of a lawsuit.

A DISPATCH, of January 27, says the last vestige of the wrecked Tehachepi train, with the exception of a few charred fragments, have been removed from the scene of the great catastrophe. The Coroner, when holding the inquest, took charge of some of the jewelry found upon the spot. Among the articles was a diamond breast-pin, the gold clasp of which was blackened by the flames, but the brilliant gems shone as bright as ever, and seemed to have lost none of their lustre by their baptism of fire. The passenger who applied the brakes was E. L. Newbro, of Los Angeles. He says that at first he thought nothing of the accelerated speed until the train got to going so fearfully fast. The cars swayed so violently he could not lie down with comfort, and just as he arose he heard, in a loud voice, "For God's sake, what's the matter?" Feeling that the engineer did not apply the brakes, he knew that something was wrong. He ran to the back end of the car and set the brake, then to the front, setting that brake also, thus saving the two cars from certain destruction.

THE magnitude of the consumption of the leading metals in this country, and of the interests involved, may be approximately presented by the following figures:

Metals.	Consumption.	Average price.	Total value.
Copper.....	46 000 tons	18c.	$16 200 000
Lead.....	140 000 "	4½c.	12 600 000
Tin.....	11 000 "	22c.	4 800 000
Spelter.....	42 000 "	5c.	4,200,000
Quicksilver...	50 000 "	36½c	1.300 000
			$39.000,000

Antimony and nickel will swell this to a minimum of forty millions of dollars.

PROMINENT Jewish scholars are out in advocacy of the observance of one day only as a Sabbath or Sunday, and urge their people to adopt the first day of the week, and thus conform to the custom of the country. They find in their religion no serious obstacles to this plan, and much material benefit. Dr. David Stern advocates this reform.

THE Southern Pacific Railroad Company have commenced the erection of a new passenger depot and hotel near the present one at Los Angeles. The ground floor of the hotel will contain, in a convenient arrangement, all the necessary offices of the company. The building will cost $100,000.

A FAMILY down in the town of Logan, Kansas, have lost five servant girls, who have been forcibly wrenched away from them and married, and now there is a crowd of girls before that house every morning offering to work for nothing, board themselves, and pay a good round premium for the privilege.

THE TEHACHEPI HORROR—TESTIMONY, THEORIES, ETC.

The Kern County Coroner had Conductor Reed and Brakeman Patton, of the ill-fated Tehachepi train, arrested and taken to Bakersfield to stand trial on a charge of criminal neglect of duty, through which so many persons lost their lives. The preliminary examination was set for January 27, but, to suit the convenience of the District Attorney, was postponed until the 12th of the present month, at which time we are given to understand a very searching investigation is to be had and the blame brought home wherever it may fall. The result may be inferred from what has already been brought out and theorized, as follows:

At the inquest, John Patton, the rear brakeman, testified: "When I found the train had come to a stop, I looked into the last car, telling a young lady to wait a moment. I set my lantern on the platform on the front end of the last car, and firmly set the brake on the front end of the last car. I think the young lady was on the platform, and might not have seen me set the brake. One brake is sufficient to hold the train at that point. I am positive that I set the brake."

The young lady in question, Miss Nellie Collins, corroborates Patton's statement, but did not see him set the brake. But Patton swears he did set the brake. Having done that, which was all that was necessary to secure the train, then it will be easy to make it appear there was no neglect of duty on his part; and, of course, none on the part of the other train men, since it is shown that they were each attending to his own especial duty. It is true Patton escorted the young lady into the station, and did not get back till after he had been informed that his train had gone and left him. But the young lady testifies that he was in the station but just long enough to relight his lantern, and the conductor testifies that he had told the brakeman to assist the young lady, as was common in such cases, and that in doing so and leaving his station but such a short distance and in the performance of a common duty, was no neglect of duty.

Nevertheless, the train got away, and no train man knew of the fact till it had got beyond their reach.

Now, P. D. Wigginton, an attorney for the railroad, has been on the ground inquiring into the matter, and he finds that the train men are not to blame—nobody but some tramps, who expected to run the detached cars back a suitable distance and rob them. The chances are that that theory will be established.

First, a saloon man, who was yet up at that late hour, heard some one let the brake off, though the wind was blowing a gale, and he was inside his saloon, or in the door-way. A few hours previously, he had ejected three tramps from his saloon; recognized one of these in one of the dead bodies present.

It also appears, according to Mr. W. that the body of the dead tramp came from the wrecked express car, as did that of the messenger. The deduction from all this and much more of like circumstantial force is, that one tramp let off the brake, and another had in the meantime got in the express car and had dealt the sleeping or sleepy messenger a deadly blow as the train began to move, or before it attained the fearful velocity that hurled the would-be robbers, intended victims and all to destruction together. That, substantially, is the theory the railroad men are endeavoring to establish.

RECENT issues of the San Francisco Bulletin, a very reliable commercial paper, have shown up some of the unprofitable features of mining in the Pacific States and Territories. It gives a list of 185 mines in Nevada, California, Utah, Idaho, Alaska, Arizona, Dakota, Lower California and Mexico, that have largely depended on the aid received from stockholders during the year, for their work and existence. These mines called for $7,630,000 in assessments in the past twelve months. This is the dark side of mining. On the other hand, the Bulletin shows the bright side, which is deserving of record. It shows by carefully prepared tables the dividends paid during the year just closed to be the sum of $13,308,150, leaving a credit in favor of mining in the sum of $5,678,150. There are always two sides to everything, and it is but just that mining enterprise should be entitled to some credit when showings such as the above are made.

THE law of Scotland is that the stockholders of a bank are liable for its debts. Under this law the stockholders of the Bank of Glasgow, that failed a few years since for some $30,000,000, have been compelled to pay this enormous debt to the last dollar, at the price of the financial ruin of many of them. This work of payment, which though severe, is sternly just, has just been completed.

THE entire gang of Montello railroad robbers were captured and taken into Salt Lake on the 30th ultimo. Two of them were shot at the time of their capture, one of them so badly that he is likely to die from his wounds.

LETTER FROM ROUND VALLEY.

ED. INDEPENDENT:—The INYO INDEPENDENT having been a constant, welcome and interesting visitor to our homes for a number of years, it truly deserves a word of commendation.

With the exception of a remittance or a valuable communication, probably the best relished bit of literature to an editor is a fit tribute of praise.

However, should it be lavished too profusely—rendered into soft soft—the "stuff" will, with many a poetic effusion, tumble into the waste basket; hence we'll refrain from gushing.

Quite a number of us munched taboose in this Owen's River country prior to the "borning" of the INYO INDEPENDENT, and in common with other human beings, we were given prophetic visions. Of course it was considered a reckless move to start a newspaper in this "wilderness"—thought that a squash crusher or a sorghum extractor would be more profitable. It was generally conceded that this newspaper venture, like a thousand before it, was to soon "cave in." "It may survive a month or two." Others predicted that if the publishers were tough, plucky fellows—could subsist on beans straight and big promises, the "little paper" might possibly live six months!

Six years have passed, and over six more, and still the little hero lives—visits us regularly once a week, in spite of false prophets, trials and tribulations, howling windstorms and thundering earthquakes, well laden with news, local and otherwise.

The INDEPENDENT being now one of our institutions it behooves us to honorably support it—its present circulation should be quadrupled. Even the publisher himself does not claim great superiority for the INDEPENDENT, but we have, occasionally, heard him pray sincerely for a little more assistance, which would, of course, enable him to publish a cheaper, and still more valuable paper, with its columns brimful of farming as well as mining intelligence.

If this big country (which is destined to become much bigger yet) deserves a good, big, thundering newspaper, it is very evident that, unless we are fossilized beings, it lies in our power to have one. Cöoperation is essential; we must exhibit "souls above buttons" in order to secure a first class home journal which will fairly represent our farming as well as the mining interest of Inyo.

Yours truly,
JOHN JENKINS.

A LATE number of the Idaho Statesman says: "The activity of volcanic action in the Snake river lava beds, near the line of the Oregon Short Line Railroad, is driving many of the graders from the work. In an area of about 22 square miles, at short distances apart, smoke and flames of a peculiar odor, color, and shape issue from the chasms and seams in the lava. The irritating sulphurous vapors in themselves cause many to quit work, while the unusual agitation of the boiling springs and the general commotion all over the fields of lava has caused a superstitious fear to take hold of many of the railroad hands, and they are leaving the section terror stricken. The whole area has the appearance from a distance of being on fire."

THE Tombstone Epitaph of the 17th is responsible for the following: "A few days ago telephonic communication was established between Boston and Guaymas and a conversation carried on between W. B. Strong, President of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé R. R., in Boston, and the General Manager, O. C. Wheeler, 3,500 miles apart. The tones of the voice were feeble, but the conversation was distinct and easily conducted, notwithstanding that the breadth of a continent lay between the two speakers. This is an interesting fact as showing the improvement that is taking place in this method of communication. Until the success of this experiment, it was believed impossible to make it available for long distances."

THOSE editors and others who pine for a return to the good old days when stage coaches instead of palace cars ruled the State, will be interested in the following item from the Nevada Transcript: "Before the railroad was built there was but one stage running between this city and Grass Valley, and that one was poorly patronized. Now there are two stage lines and both of them are doing a good business."

MARRIED.

At Shepherd's Ranch, George's Creek, Inyo Co., Cal., January 31, 1883, by the Hon. J. A. Hannah, Superior Judge, JOHN C. IRWIN, County Assessor, to Miss LUCRETIA R. JOSLIN.

'Tis well. And THE INDEPENDENT most cordially congratulates both the high contracting parties, and hopes their Silver Wedding may prove as cheery as did the original.

BORN.

At Bishop Creek, Inyo Co., Cal., January 21, 1883, to the wife of W. O. Mcroney, a son.

PUBLIC NOTICE

IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT UNLESS THE above taxes and costs are paid, I will, on Monday, the Twenty-sixth day of February, A. D. 1883, between the hours of 9 o'clock A. M. and 4 o'clock P. M., to wit: at the hour of 10 o'clock A. M., commence to sell the above described real property at public auction, in front of the Court House in the town of Independence, County of Inyo, State of California; and that I will continue such sale from day to day, according to adjournments, until the whole real property above described, or so much as may be necessary, shall be sold; and that I will sell the smallest quantity of each assessment of said property that will be taken by any person for the amount of said taxes and costs, in gold or silver coin of the United States.

Dated this 31 day of February, A. D. 1883.

S. G. GREGG,
Tax Collector of Inyo County.
By DANIEL CROUGH, Deputy.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 3.... ..1883

PERSONAL.—S. D. Woods, Esq., left by the Southern Stage this morning for his home in San Francisco after a sojourn of some nine months in our county. Mr Woods came in April last expecting to spend not over two months in examination sf the material resources of this country. His investigations extending over a wide range of territory made him enthusiastic, and he saw so much of value and interest that two months has been lengthened into nine. He has been somewhat reticent in expressing his opinion at all times but has given utterance to enough to indicate to us that he regards this country as one of wonderful value and interest. Mr W. goes to San Francisco on business relating to this country, to report progress and conclusions. He expects to return prepared to begin operations at one or two points in the country at present a secret to himself. He has made a host of friends here and has often expressed his gratifi a ion in the matter of the treatment of and courtesies extended to him by the citizens of this county. Mr. Woods will act as correspondent of this paper during his stay in San Francisco.

A RIP VAN WINKLE CLOCK.—The other day Chas. Johnson, residing a couple of miles below Lone Pine, cleaned up the debris of an adobe house, his residence at the time of the big earthquake, March 26th, 1872, and at which time the structure was demolished. In the course of his work he unearthed a clock that had remained buried up since that eventful night, over a decade ago. The hands of the clock marked 30 minutes past 2. Having noted that fact, he gave the clock a shake, whereupon it waked up from its long sleep and fell to marking time as good as new. The earthquake occurred at 2:30 in the morning, and this Rip Van Winkle clock has held the correct time from the hour the big temblor shook it into quietness until its owner shook it into activity again. School books buried up at the same time were found in as good condition as when last used.

THE DEFIANCE FURNACE, ETC.—The Defiance furnace at Darwin, J. S. Gorman, Superintendent, closed down on the 27th ultimo for a few weeks, during which time Mr. Gorman will pay a visit to the Bay. The furnace has been in blast only at intervals since January a year ago, but has produced a total of 340 tons of bullion of the assay value of 145 ounces silver, and $7 in gold per ton. The lead averaged a value of $95 per ton. Work will be resumed about the 1st of March. In order to advantageously extract the body of ore in the south workings of the Defiance mine, a new shaft will have to be sunk, else a drift be run 400 feet southward—which, remains to be determined.

THE BOARD.—The new Board of Supervisors will convene next Monday. Among other important matters for their consideration will be the question of getting a county map- a matter in which every business man, county official, and almost everybody else are deeply interested. Lack of space forbids any argument on the subject this week, but it seems almost unnecessary anyway; as the points are too self-evident to need much elaboration.

DIED.—Mr. J. L. Garetson, an old settler of Bishop Creek, and a well known ex-Supervisor, died at San Francisco January 23, while he was there receiving surgical attention. He was a native of New York, and 65 years of age at the time of death. Mr Garretson came to this coast in 1849, was a well known and highly respected citizen.

A NEW PAPER.—Mr. J. M. Dormer, of the Candelaria True Fissure, has been at Bishop Creek, where he purchased the late Times material. He has removed it to Hawthorne, on the C. & C. R. R., where he will establish a new paper.

SNOW'S CAÑON.—Eddy, Waterman & Co. will this coming week start up their mill at Snow's Cañon on a lot of fine ore that will keep it busy about 25 days. Stapp & Morton have out about 40 tons of ore that assays $200 gold and $170 in silver.

FOUND SOMETHING.—Gould & Jackson have found a 2-foot ledge of ore in their Gypsey Queen mine at Darwin. The ore goes 72 ounces silver and $5 gold per ton. They will put up a whim that will enable them to sink at least 200 feet.

NEW ROAD.—County Surveyor Seeley with the Road Viewers, is at Bishop Creek locating a new road from the town to the river, where a bridge is to be built affording communication with the railroad stations.

THE MODOCK.—Supt. Fitzgerald has just refitted the Modock furnace at Lookout with a new water jacket of the latest patern, and, in a few days, will start up for a long run.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES.—Rev. W. Nims will preside to-morrow in the morning at 11, and in the evening at 7 o'clock. Sunday school every Sabbath at 2 p. m.

PROSPECTING.—J. H. Stoutenborough, W. A. Bollinger and Bart McGee, of Bishop Creek, are prospecting in Deep Spring District.

NEW MILL.—The machinery for Lasky's new mill at Arastra Cañon, Beveridge district, is being packed over the Inyos from Lone Pine.

COOL.—Munzinger, Phillipay & Co., at Bishop, have stored 50 tons of ice so far during the Winter.

C. HAMPTON, at Big Pine, is agent for the Inyo County Business Directory.

OWENS LAKE.—A gentleman who spent two months during the summer of 1882 on the shores of the lake, studying and investigating this remarkable body of water, gives us the following as the result of his observations. He says: "It has been claimed by a number of persons, and some of them educated and scientific men, that the waters of the lake obtained their salts by the decomposition of rocks containing soda, potash, sulphur, and other minerals, and the waters of the streams carrying the salts in solution deposited them in the lake, where they have been concentrating for a long period of time by evaporation. This is probable to a certain extent; that is, that a portion of the salts contained in the water were obtained in that way, the washings from the surface being drained into Owens river, and so emptied into the lake. Of course it is well known that Owens river passes over, or near, large salt deposits, and through alkali bottoms, where the water would take up and carry probably large quantities of these minerals in solution, but I claim that this is not the only source by which the lake obtains its salts. On the eastern shore of the lake, from a point of rocks one mile north of Swansea station to the old Cerro Gordo landing, a distance of about five miles, numberless springs of water break out along the shore. Some of them from one hundred yards to one fourth of a mile back from the water line, and some of them in the lake itself, below the water line. This I have proved beyond a doubt by actual observation in wading along the shore. Some of these springs must discharge a considerable quantity of water, as proved by currents setting out into the lake. The waters of some of the springs are strongly impregnated with sulphur. Wells sunk one mile back from the shore, towards the foot-hills of the Inyos, and at a depth of 50 to 75 feet show an undiminished flow of water; not rising in the well to any considerable extent, but seeming to flow past the bottom of the well, and down towards the lake. This proves conclusively that the lake is largely fed by great quantities of water making its way through underground passages from the Inyo mountains. Now the waters of these springs contain as shown by chemical test, the same alkaline salts as the lake water, though of course not the same quantity. A number of tests show that these waters contain fifty grains of the salts to the gallon of water. Much has been said about subterranean outlets in Owens lake, to account for the apparently rapid falling of the water. It is true that within the past four years particularly, the water has receded on the eastern shore to the extent of over 300 yards. The water has fallen considerably, but not to that extent that many suppose by judging from the shore line exposed. The eastern shore is very shallow, and a man can wade out 1000 feet without getting more than waist deep; consequently a fall of one foot would expose a considerable strip of gaound. There is no possible doubt but that the water is lost by evaporation. Taking into consideration the large surface of the lake, the extreme dryness of the atmosphere, the heat of the summer months, and the evaporation must be immense. The waters of Owens river, and one or two small streams on the western shore that discharge into the lake would not supply half of the amount evaporated. There is every proof that the springs on the eastern shore discharge more water into the lake than Owens river, and it is from these springs that the lake water mainly receives its salts. The source of these waters and how they obtain the salts they carry can only be conjectured. The evaporation going on from year to year, the waters have become concentrated until they now contain 6¾ per cent. of solid matter. If the same process goes on, the bed of the lake in a comparatively short period of time will become dry, and an immense bed of the alkaline salts left to mark the spot where it rolled its white caps during the storms that sometimes swept over it. Much might be written about this strange and mysterious sheet of water. I have listened many nights when the lake was calm, and not a ripple broke its surface, and heard strange and mysterious sounds roll along the shores of this dead sea. The noises of the rumbling of heavy wagons, the hoarse shouts of men, the clattering of horses hoofs over a stony road, the sound of heavy blows, the lonely and forbidding aspect of the place—all combining to make up a scene at once mysterious and awe-inspiring, especialy when one is alone at dead of night on the lake's naked and deserted shore."

AT BISHOP.—Our correspondent at Bishop Creek says that public interest there now centres on the Sacramento mine. Supt. C. L. Van Epps says the new five-stamp mill will be in operation by the 20th instant. About one hundred tons of ore are already extracted, and a force of men is employed at the mine.

MINING SALE.—A half interest in the Wild Rose mine in Clover Patch District, near Benton, has changed hands for $30,000.

Draw Poker a Disease.

Draw poker is a most fascinating, yet deceiving game. One of the peculiarities of the game is that the beginner, as soon as he finds out that one certain kind of a hand beats another, and that a bluff if succeasful, beats any hand, thinks he can play the game better than any man. If he holds a poor hand once, and bets big on it and scares an old veteran, when he rakes in the money he cocks his hat on one side and thinks how rich he might have been if he had learned to play poker before. He wonders why everybody don't give up business and play poker and get rich. As he counts over the chips he has won so easily by a simple display of nerve, he says to himself: "This game is good enough for yours truly. Henceforth hard work and me will dissolve partnership." He keeps on playing. When he wins, his hat is cocked on one side, and when he loses he wears it straight. At first it is on one side most of the time, then he gets to wearing it straight pretty frequently, until he loses every dollar he has got and goes out and clubs himself. Countrymen who think thay can play a pretty good game of poker find themselves in large cities, and they are not contented until they get into a game, and nine times out of ten they get so everlastingly scooped that they can't tell their own name till they look at it pasted in their hats. However good a man may play there is always some one that plays better, and they are always laying for a fellow that can't play as well as they can, while the countryman is always laying for one that can play better. There is no game better calculated to take the conceit out of a man than poker. We have had it taken out of us $75 worth by a cuss that didn't seem to know half as much about it as we did. A man has to have the conceit taken out of him about eleven times before it will stay out, but after he has once got it eradicated from his system he never catches it again. He can live right among it and he will not take it—not if he knows himself. It is as though he had been vaccinated, and very likely he has. If you have an idea you are a good poker player, there is no hope for you until you get the conceit worked out of you, and the sooner you get it out the better. Some can get it out by losing $100; others have to lose a farm or a house and lot. In some cases it takes years to get it out, and in other cases it can be taken out in one evening. Do not delay having it taken oat, as long as your system is in the condition to retain the seeds of the disease, but hunt for games that you can get into, till you lose enough; then call yourself a monumental, colossal, enigmatical ass, and jump the game. You will never think as much of yourself after it is over as you did before, but you will be worth more to society. — Methodist Evangelist.

Soldiers' Lands.

The following circular comes from the Interior Department at Washington:

In view of extensive frauds in the matter of declaratory statements of homestead applicants, under sections 2304 and 2309 of the revised Statutes, the privilege conferred by the filing of such claims having been made the occasion of barter and sale, without attempt on the part of the soldier to comply with the statute by making formal entry at the district office, and commencement of settlement upon the land within the prescribed period of six months, the following regulations are prescibed, for the admission of such filing:

Proof of qualification as to an honorably discharged soldier must be furnished in accordance with existing regulations in case of entry by soldiers who make direct homestead application without availing themselves of the preliminary filing. Oath of the soldier, setting forth his residence and postoffice address, must accompany the filing of to the effect that the claim is made for his exclusive use and benefit, for the purpose of actual settlement and cultivation, and not directly or indirectly for the use or benefit of any other person; and it must also be shown by such oath that he has not theretofore either made homestead entry or filed a declaratory statement under the homestead law.

As above applied by the requirement of the oath, a soldier will be held to have exhausted his homestead right by the filing of his declaratory statement; it being manifested that the right to file is a privilege granted to soldiers in addition to the ordinary privilege only in the matter of giving them power to hold their claims for six months after the selection; but is not a license to abandon such selection with the right to make a regular homestead entry independently of such filing. This is clear from the statutory language. Section 2304 provides that the "settler shall be allowed six months, after locating his homestead and filing his declaratory statement, within which to make his entry and commence his settlement and improvement;" and section 2309 requires him "in person" to "make his actual entry, commence settlement on the same, and thereafter fulfill all the requirements of law." These must be done on the same land selected and located by the filing.

Following the accepted practice in pre-emption cases; the filing of a declaratory statement will not be held to bar the admission of their filings and entries; but any person making entry or claim during the period allowed by law for entry of the soldier will do so subject to his right, and his application when offered within such time will be allowed as a matter of right and operate to exclude the intervening claim.

THOSE editors and others who pine for a return to the good old days when stage coaches instead of palace cars ruled the State, will be interested in the following item from the Nevada Transcript: "Before the railroad was built there was but one stage running between this city and Grass Valley, and that one was poorly patronized. Now there are two stage lines and both of them are doing a good business."

THE Armstrong cannon recently made for the Italian man-of-war Italia cost $72,000, while the corresponding gun to be made by Krupp will cost $160,000. This enormous difference is partly explained by the different mode of manufacture, and partly by the fact that the steel bore of the Krupp cannon will all be in one piece, while in the Armstrong cannon it is in two pieces, a form which has been proved does not in the least weaken the gun. The Italia will be furnished with three other guns like the one just tried at Spezia, but rather more powerful, the result of recent improvements.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY of Inyo, State of California.—Charlotte Kimler, plaintiff, versus John A. Kimler, defendant.—Action brought in the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said Superior Court.—The People of the State of California send greeting to John A. Kimler, defendant. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff, in the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county, or if served elsewhere within thirty days. The said action is brought to recover judgment and decree of divorce dissolving the bonds of matrimony between plaintiff and defendant, on the grounds of willful desertion for the period of one year by plaintiff by defendant, and that the custody of the minor child be awarded to the plaintiff, and for costs of suit and for general relief, all of which will more fully appear by the complaint filed herein, to which reference is hereby made. And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will take judgment against you for the decree prayed for in the complaint and for costs of suit.

Given under my hand and the Seal of the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, this 23d day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty two Stacks of Silver.

Secretary Folger has addressed a letter to Speaker Keifer, relative to the amount of silver coin on hand and the facilities for its safe keeping in the sub-treasuries, showing the urgent necessity for providing additional vault-room at once for storing silver, or for discontinuing the coinage of standard silver dollars. He says: "The most serious difficulty will be experienced in affording relief to the San Francisco Sub-Treasury. The amount reported on hand January 11, 1883, was: In standard silver dollars, $14,414,600; fractional silver, $7,574,608; total silver, $21,788,606, or about 628 tons. Both the new vaults built for the purpose are now about full, and the Assistant Treasurer reports that there is no further space available in his office for building another vault. The only relief, therefore, that can be given is to transfer to some sub-treasury in the East, at a cost of $100,000 for the transportation of each million transferred. There is no sufficient appropriation available for the payment for the transportation of the amount required to be transferred in order to properly relieve that office, nor are sub-treasury offices in the East in a condition to receive that amount. As shown by the accompanying reports of the several offices, the amount in the treasury January 1, 1883, of standard silver dollars was $94,016,842; fractional silver, $25,521,692; total silver, $120,538,534, or about 3,500 tons. In view of the facts stated above, and the reports herewith, it is apparent that this Congress should either discontinue the coinage of standard silver dollars, or make a suitable appropriation for building additional vaults in the East and for the transportation of a large amount from San Francisco."

IT is narrated in Sacramento that Mr. Ames and Senator Reddy were the principal actors in a lively scene at San Quentin. When Senator Reddy and the Investigating Committee went to San Quentin the Warden met them and offered the liberal hospitality of his house—a courtesy which Mr. Reddy declined, on the ground that he had come to investigate and not to feast. The Senator shared the plain fare of the officers' mess and then commenced the investigation, prefacing it with the following speech: "Warden Ames, I have been informed, on what I regard as the very best authority, that you have announced that when the Irishman, myself, visited San Quentin to investigate you, you would speedily sit down on him. I desire to tell you now, sir, that the man never breathed who could perform such an office for me, and the man isn't alive that I fear. I have come to give you a fair investigation, Mr. Ames, in discharge of the trust reposed in me, and I am not to be swerved by threats, either to my face or behind my back." Those who know the Chairman of the Investigating Committee best need not be told that the speech of the Senator from Mono county contained a great deal more truth than poetry.—Bodie Free Press.

IT appears that Vanderbilt will make quite a royal progress through the country, and, as a matter of fact, he is more powerful than most European monarchs, and also richer and more secure in his wealth than perhaps any of them. Our citizens will gaze with some curiosity upon this new development of American citizen—an American citizen who owns $200,000,000, who travels in four special cars with all the tracks cleared for him, who has a retinue of valets, cooks and waiters, and who is not afraid to say openly: "The public be damned!"

AN important work on Mexico is likely to be published, with colored illustrations. Mexico continues to attract much attention in England. Several magazines have articles upon its railways, mining resources and general prospects. Public belief is the country is rapidly reviving and capital ready to flow thither under good management.

Alaska Territory.

William Gouverneur Morris, Collector of Customs at Sitka, Alaska, has just arrived at Chicago from the North, and in the course of an interview confidentially stated that the very rich mineral deposits of Alaska would not fail to attract great attention in the future. Lodes found at the base of the mountains, which can be traced up their sides, are worked by surface diggers to such advantage that last season a small force of men made $250,000. The quartz diggings have been much interfered with by reason of the little respect paid to the proprietary interests of others. Considerable Pacific Coast capital is finding its way into Alaska, and has already brought into prominence lines of mines as large as the whole Comstock lode. He believed miners would show the largest body of ore in sight in the world, and says Eastern capitalists have already sent machinery for the purpose of developing the great mineral regions of Alaska. As to the shelling of a Hoscines village by Commander Merriman, he regarded it in every way justifiable. It only appeared cruel to persons actuated by sentimental reasons, who are wholly unacquainted with the Indian character. He predicted that Alaska is destined to occupy a front rank in American possessions, not only on account of its valuable fisheries, mines and rich mineral deposits, but also for its great shipbuilding facilities. Unfortunately, Alaska is badly in need of a recognized authority for the enforcement of the laws. This necessity is growing more urgent every day. There would soon be interminable conflicts between antagonistic milling interests, unless the Government established a system of laws, with authority to enforce them.

THE January Century opens with an important paper on "Hydraulic Mining in California," by Taliesin Evans, from which the following is quoted: "The gold product of California—from the discovery of the precious metal by Jas. W. Marshall, in the tail-race of Sutter's mill, January 19, 1848, to June 30, 1881—amounted to $1,700,000,000. Of this sum $900,000,000 is estimated to have been extracted from the auriferous placers. The remainder represents the yield of gold-quartz mines, of which the State contains many. The yearly product of gold in California is from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000. From the gold product of California aggregated $700,000,000 derived chiefly from the modern river beds and shallow placers. A large proportion of the remaining $200,000,000 has been obtained in the deep-gravel deposits by the hydraulic method."

NO ROAD of the length of the Carson and Colorado on the continent can show such a continuous and contiguous number of mineral-bearing districts, rich in croppings of gold, silver, copper, galena and almost every other substance of value found in the earth. Development has been slow on account of the heretofore inaccessibility of the country, to get to which the Sierra Nevada range had to be flanked and long stretches of desert had to be crossed, by slow coaches and slow teams, all of which is now a thing of the past. The Carson and Colorado road comprehends the situation and will add to the wealth of the State immensely. Prospecting has revived wonderfully under the new dispensation and capitalists are spying out the land as never before.—Bodie Free Press.

WE had the pleasure of a call yesterday from Mr. J. H. Holt, a gentleman who visits Los Angeles in the interest of Mr. Bancroft's historical works. Mr. Holt will remain in our city for quite awhile—perhaps for a twelvemonth—employed in researches which will contribute to the completeness of that great work whose opening volumes, devoted to "The Native Races," have extorted such favorable and extended criticisms both at home and abroad. So expansive is the plan of this work, seven volumes of which have been already issued, that it will be quite six years before the thirty-ninth and final volume leaves the press. We bespeak for Mr. Holt the good offices of our people, especially of those who can facilitate his researches. —Los Angeles Herald.

GEORGE EMMETT'S Gold Hill (Nev.) foundry has been sold to the Fulton Foundry Company of San Francisco, and the machinery and tools are now being removed to the Bay. A few years ago the Gold Hill Foundry gave employment to an army of men, and was an important industry. Dull times have closed the doors and hushed the sound of the mechanic's hammer on the Divide. One by one the old landmarks of a once prosperous city are being pulled down.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 10 1883

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY
JAMES E. PARKER.

If anyone is disposed to growl at the freaks of the Southern California climate for the past few weeks, he should read the press dispatches from the States on the other side of the Rocky Mountains. The ravages of the floods and ice gorges in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana—in which towns are submerged, railroads carried away, bridges destroyed, along with millions of private property, all of which are attended with loss of life and great suffering—force upon one out here a feeling of contentment. When we read of such things, our few drawbacks of a cold snap that produces upon rare occasions a quarter of an inch of ice, and occasionally drouth, by comparison become very insignificant, indeed.

THE great obstacle in the way of railroad building in China is said to be the over-peopled condition of the country. The Chinese thinkers say: If we build railroads to transport people and merchandise from one point to another, what are we going to do with the immense surplus of labor it will throw upon us? What can we do with the thousands of coolies and others thrown out of employment? At present the internal commerce of the empire is moved almost entirely by the canals and natural water courses, or on the backs of camels, mules and men. There are but few horses and almost no vehicles.

SENATOR MILLER says he will try to pass the Nicaragua bill in the Senate as soon as the Tariff bill is out of the way. Since the guarantee clause was stricken out he finds a minority of the Senators in favor of the bill. The opposition will come principally from the friends of Eads' Isthmus Ship Railway bill. The Eads bill provides for a subsidy, but since the Nicaragua Company abandoned its guarantee, Eads' friends have also concluded to ask for a simple Act of incorporation. Miller says if he can get time and opportunity to press the Canal bill it will pass.

ANOTHER bill incorporating the Nicaragua Canal Company, but with the clause pledging the Government to guarantee the interest on its bonds stricken out, has been reported in the Senate. In this form there is a possibility of its passage, for it was the attempt ta make the United States a party to the scheme which provoked the vigorous opposition manifested against the measure in its original shape.

THE Mammoth Mining Company, Utah, employs 100 men at the mines and about 150 at the furnaces, running those now in operation and building new ones. Fourteen furnaces are completed and twelve more are in process of erection. It is estimated that the smelters, refining works, etc., will have cost, when completed, about $200,000, while $50,000 will have been expended at the mines in new machinery.

A CURIOUS present was made to Governor Bate, of Tennessee, on his inauguration, by an old friend in Texas. It was a huge chair, big enough to hold three or four men—some even say big enough to hold the President of the United States Senate—and composed of twenty-four ox horns. The card of presentation read: "Governor W. B. Bate: You take the horns."

SENATOR REDDY states that his railroad bill was introduced by request, to enable the Carson and Colorado to consolidate with the Southern Pacific. We believe the object is simply to enable both Companies to float their bonds in the European market, in aid of construction, and that the law asked for would not in any sense interfere with State control in the matter of taxation.

THE bill repealing the Sunday law has passed both Houses of the Legislature and now only awaits the signature of the Governor to become a law. As he recommended its passage in his first message, its approval may be regarded as certain.

THE esthetic revival, it seems, is not confined to England and America. It has reached Russia, and now the Nihilists threaten the Czar with death, in a document printed in an antique style on fine vellum.

IT is now announced that the Czar's coronation will take place in May. The American firms manufacturing dynamite are increasing the capacity of their factories in expectation of heavy orders from Russia.

SAN DIEGO wants the Southern Pacific consolidation bill amended to have a road to that city, and then passed.

EX-GOVERNOR IRWIN, it is said, has been tendered the appointment of Harbor Commissioner by Governor Stoneman.

SOME PROPOSED LEGISLATION.

Our representative, Mr. Keeler, has introduced a number of bills, which, if adopted, will effect some radical changes in matters judicial. One of them, Assembly bill No. 332, relates to the qualification of jurors. Under it a person is competent to act as a juror if he be:

1. A resident and elector of the county in which he is returned;

2. In possession of his natural faculties, and of ordinary intelligence, and not decrepit;

3. Possessed of sufficient knowledge of the English language.

The only comment we have to offer regarding this is, that it would open still wider the door for fraud in the make-up of juries, since any transient loafer or set of loafers might be rung in to decide matters at law in which they could have no further interest than their per diem and whatever perquisites a right decision might bring.

Assembly bill No. 363 constitutes "the several Boards of Supervisors ex-officio Boards of Arbitration for the adjustment of water rights and claims, and for fixing the rates of water," and to settle all controversies arising from conflicting water claims.

It would seem that this was an entirely unnecessary bit of legislation, for the reason that the Code of Civil Procedure already provides for a similar mode of settling such controversies when preferred to suits at law.

Assembly bill No. 329 refers to property exempt from forced sale and execution. The bill is quite a long one, and should be given at length for a fair understanding of its merits. Our space will not permit of this at this time. Whether Mr. Keeler's proposed laws are good or otherwise, his industry at least is to be commended.

THE Edmunds bill is proving entirely inadequate to control the polygamy question in Utah. The average Mormon, offered his choice between the ballot and a half dozen wives, takes the wives every time. The failure of Congress to meet this issue and settle it, is another proof that the Federal government is incapable of the details of local government. That the question must be settled no one denies. Polygamy is another name for slavery. One who has seen women tilling the fields of Utah and noted the evidences they bear of unwomanly toil knows the servile and sordid nature of this abomination, which the Federal government has not succeeded in arresting. How shall it be controlled? Many years ago, when Mr. Jefferson Davis was Secretary of war, a young lieutenant suggested to him a way that is yet open. He proposed to cut Utah into four parts by two lines which should cross each other at right angles in the center of the Endowment House in Salt Lake City, and attach each of these parts to an adjoining State or Territory, so as to bring the peculiar institution under local jurisdiction and divide its power. This plan adopted now would wipe out Utah and attach it to Nevada on one side and Colorado on the other, by division into two parts and would bring it at once under State jurisdiction. The young lieutenant who proposed this treatment of the Mormon question is now Governor of California and is in a fair way to see his advice followed.

SUPT, H. M. YERINGTON has submitted the followiig annual report of the Carson and Colorado Railroad to the Secretary of State of Nevada: Amount of capital stock $6,000,000; amount of capital paid up $2,250,000. Owing to the road being in course of construction it is impossible to furnish information as to cost of construction. IT is now said that if Claus Spreckels cannot prevent the abrogation of the Hawaiian Reciprocity Treaty he will in order to perpetuate his sugar monopoly on this Coast, apply the efforts of himself and friends in the direction of bringing about the annexation of the islands to the United States, He will have no opposition on the part of the King, members of the royal family and leading men, as he will be able, out of his own resources, to grant them such pensions and pecuniary recompense that all their objections will be removed.

LETTER FROM AN OLD INYOITE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 25.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT—My children have sent me a paragraph from your paper announcing the fact that I had left your country to take charge of a mining enterprise in old Virginia. Such is the fact, and I have now been ten days at the mine, after spending two days in New York and three days in Washington. The president and secretary of the company came over with me and pointed out the boundaries of the property, and placed me in command as general manager. I have white men to see to the execution of my orders, one of whom is an engineer, one a carpenter, and the other foreman of the colored laborers. After looking over the property and doing some prospecting, I decided where I would begin operations, and on Monday last put fifteen men at work making a ditch to bring the river Po onto the ground that I think will pay for sluicing. The estate is literally gridironed with veins cropping up through a slate bed rock, the top of which veins have by decomposition loosened their hold and scattered the gold on the adjoining ground. One of these veins was worked some forty years ago by Commodore Stockton and the mint at Philadelphia shows by the books that he had taken out over a half million of gold, while the shaft is less than 100 feet in depth. The whole estate was fifty years ago a tobacco field but is now grown up to forests of pine and oak from four to ten inches in diameter. The manor-house is one of the eld fashioned Virginia residences of the F F V's, low ceilings, four chimneys all built up on the outside, a big open fireplace in each room, stable, carriage house, and servants quarters. I use what was originally the parlor for my office. It is furnished with every convenience, and I may say luxury, for in all my mining experience I have never before seen a sofa, easy chairs, centre table and student's lamp in the manager's office. It is but three miles from a railroad over a good wagon road. Good lumber for sluice boxes costs but $15 per M., common labor is one dollar per day and board themselves. Thus you see the White Hall has facilities for profitable mining somewhat ahead of the Beveridge district. I still have a lingering affection for Inyo notwithstanding she swamped me after sixteen years of hard work, and sent me to raising onions. I am compelled to state that it is my honest belief that there is more gold in one square mile in this region than there is in Inyo county. I had a pleasant trip across the Continent and am in excellent health.

S. STEVENS.

NOTHING has been heard from Congressman Pacheco since he went to Florida in December last. The Clerk of his Committee says he will not likely return again this session, or if he does, not until the last week of Congress. He is thought to be in Mexico.

BOTH nature and man seem about equally affected and disturbed. The frost and floods are doing terrible execution in destroying property and life at the East. and everywhere quarreling and death are uncommonly frequent with men.

ENGLAND is forgetting to drink beer. A million and a half dollars worth less was sold this year than last. Brewery property has fallen one half. But $1,250 a day has gone into the Postal Savings Bank.

THE Commisioner-General of the Land Office requires that naturalization papers shall be produced, or evidence of their destruction shown, to entitle foreign-born citizens to a land patent.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Chronicle suggests that a change of time on the Southern Pacific Railroad would obviate the danger of runaways near Tehachapi. At present the train bound East departs from this city at an hour which causes the ascent to the summit to be made near midnight. If the time of leaving were changed to 4 o'clock in the afternoon the dangerous part of the road would be passed over by daylight, when it would be impossible, owing to the general alertness of those in charge of the train and passengers, for a train to run away. The correspondent adds that as the time is at present arranged, passengers by the Southern Pacific are systematically deceived, as they are led to believe by advertisements, puffs, etc., that they will be afforded an opportunity to visit the much-vaunted engineering achievement known as "The Loop."—S. F. Chronicle.

EX-SENATOR CHAFFEE thus describes Judge Thomas Bowen, Colorado's new United States Senator: "He is a pretty smart fellow. He is a kind of verdant genius. All he lacks is a moral foundation. I like him first rate. He makes me laugh. If he should be elected to the Senate it would be considered a great joke. There would be a term of buffoonery. Bowen has got a little ability for almost anything. He is something of a lawyer, and, I should judge, a pretty successful miner, rather a smart politician, and no bad hand at business. He gets around in a very lively manner, and has no modesty that you can find out."

THE new passenger depot will stand where the old depot is removed from, and will contain all the railroad offices and a hotel. The grounds around and back of the hotel will be laid out for a yard, flower beds and shrubbery. The cost of these changes will be about $100,000. The outlay of this sum will tend to make matters lively here for the next few months. When completed, Los Angeles will have one of the most handsome depots and hotels on the line. The railroad traffic at this point is rapidly increasing and is now the largest of any town outside of San Francisco.—Los Angeles Express.

An Emphatic Report.

The Reno Journal says: President Balch, of the N. & O. R. R., filed the annual report of the corporation with the Secretary of State, as required by law. Following are some extracts from the marvelous production:

"Owing to the chronic impecuniosity of the Company, it had not sufficient funds to keep account books, as required by law. No dividends have been declared by the accursed corporation, and it is safe to say that none ever will be.

"The corporation owns no engines, cars, shops or horses, all cars and locomotives being owned by private parties.

"The net profits of this road have been nothing, as the corporation was conceived in iniquity and born in fraud.

"Every honest friend of the enterprise has been swindled and robbed, and disaster has overtaken all persons who have been connected with it in any capacity."

MARRIED.

DIED.

At Independence, Inyo Co., Cal., February 4, 1883, J. L. WOOD, a native of New York, aged 62 years and 6 months.

With the above announcement the Pioneers of Inyo will learn that another member of their ranks has left them. Among all he was not only well but favorably known, possessing, as he did, a kindly nature and an honest heart. Among his neighbors and friends, with whom he was most familiar, he ever had an open hand and found amongst them his truest friends, by whom he whom he was appreciated and who will miss him. Good bye, genial old friend! The world is none the loser for you having been in it. ***

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT IN AND FOR THE County of Inyo, State of California.

In the matter of T. J. Furbee, an insolvent debtor.

T. J. Furbee having filed in this Court his petition, schedule and inventory in insolvency, by which it appears that he is an insolvent debtor, the said T. J. Furbee is hereby declared to be insolvent.

The Sheriff of the County of Inyo is hereby directed to take possession of all the estate, real and personal, of the said T. J. Furbee, debtor, except such as may be by law exempt from execution, and of all his deeds, vouchers, books of account, and papers, and to keep the same safely until the appointment of an assignee of his estate. All persons are forbidden to pay any debts to the said insolvent, or to deliver any property belonging to him, or to any person, firm or corporation or association for his use. The said debtor is hereby forbidden to transfer or deliver any property, until the further order of this Court, except as herein ordered.

It is further ordered that all the creditors of said debtor be and appear before the Hon. John A. Hannah, Judge of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, in open Court, at the Court room of said Court, in the town of Independence, in the County of Inyo, on the FIFTEENTH day of MARCH, 1883, at 10 o'clock A. M. of that day, to prove their debts and choose one or more assignees of the estate of said debtor.

It is further ordered that the order be published in THE INYO INDEPENDENT, a newspaper of general circulation, published in the town of Independence, County of Inyo, as often as the said paper is published before the said day set for the meeting of creditors.

And it is further ordered that in the meantime all proceedings against the said insolvent be stayed.

Dated February 8, 1883
JOHN A. HANNAH, Superior Judge.
Attest: JOHN CROUGH, Clerk.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 10.... ..1883

THE COUNTY DIRECTORY.—Of course it will be understood that the County Directory, to be issued by Julian & Parker, is only a business venture on their part. The details of its mechanical perfection depends almost entirely on the amount of patronage bestowed and agreed upon. THE INDEPENDENT job office proposes to show, in this matter, the extent of its facilities for fine work. Probably no country office in the State has a more complete job office than THE INDEPENDENT; consequently the typographical portion of the Directory will not be found wanting. In its form the Directory will be simply a card-board map, containing advertisements of business houses which patronize it, in several instances with illustrations. The other, and possibly the most valuable facts it will contain, will be a statement of the State and (this) County officers; a condensed resumé of history, geographical outlines, the extent, and some of the political history of Inyo. The main purpose is to show to the outside world who are the active business men, officials, farmers, ranchers, stockmen, miners, and even to the extent of putting in lawyers and doctors. Reprints of it, on paper, will be handy to send abroad, and the result of the whole business will not disappoint anyone, unless he has failed to support it by ordering his name or advertisement thereon.

REMAINS REMOVED.—Under the supervision of Mr. V. G. Thompson, and by direction of Horace Bellows, who is now at Bakersfield, the remains of one of the earlier victims of the Indian outbreak were removed to the Camp Independence Cemetery on Tuesday last. Curtis Bellows was killed by the Indians in Black Cañon, near the present Brown Monster mine—or what was then called the Union—on the 3d day of March, 1863, nearly twenty years ago. He was buried by his companion prospectors there, and when Independence came into being, his remains were placed in a spot on the Payne (now Robinson's) ranch, which adjoins the town on the east. Tradition has it that his body contained the fatal flint arrow-head by which he met death, but a careful examination of the skeleton did not reveal it. The phenomenon of a remarkable post-mortem growth of hair was shown in this case.

ASSAYING.—The card of Mr. S. D. Woodhull, assayer and metallurgist, re-appears this week. His reputation in his line is first class, and needs no indorsement from this paper. Mr. Woodhull has unbounded faith in the permanancy and richness of the mineral prospects of Inyo. A residence of four years in this county, and a careful examination and study of a very large number of the mining claims in this section confirms him in the belief that a little more time will show up Inyo as one of the richest mining counties in the State.

KOLD KORPSES.—At Bishop Creek, the other night, certain prominent citizens raided a defunct saloon, and instead of finding gory human remains, as they suspected, a whole table-load of dressed chickens was discovered. Of course, China New Year ceremonies are to be blamed for the fact of the fowl stealing and slaughter, but it seems that those who appropriated some of the spoils from the original thieves "got left" a little themselves. Names and particulars in full next—Summer.

COUNTY FINANCES.—The County Auditor's report for the last quarter shows that the funded and floating indebtedness of Inyo County has been reduced to $52,384 24, being $21,561 56 less than at the corresponding meeting of the Board in 1881. To the present indebtedness must be added, of course, the amount of warrants issued at this meeting. Expense Fund Warrants are now quotable at 92½ cents.

COUNTY SKATING RINK.—An Eastern whisky drummer—A. T. Carter, for short—discovered the other day that the County skating rink, down below Supervisor Robinson's ranch, was more or less of a myth. At least he hunted for it long enough to get some one to advise him to come back to town and shoot the jokists who had sent him out.

CHANGED MANAGEMENT.—By the notice elsewhere it will be seen that J. D. Mairs has leased his saloon business to his brother, A. F., better known as "Arlie." Jarius, we believe, proposes to get out of the business and make a trip East.

I. O. O. F.—The new lodge of Odd Fellows, having got regularly established and in working order, presents its directory this week. We hear that the Order is progressing finely, and that the lodge is a very strong one as to number and ability.

ST. VALENTINE.—Mr. Hardy, at the Postoffice Store, has received a splendid assortment of Fourteenth of February literature—valentines—stylish, sentimental and comic. Send in your orders or go and make your selections.

CONTRACT AWARDED.—Hank Marden has been awarded a contract for hauling 30,000 railroad ties from the Mono Mills to Benton, a distance of forty miles.

NEW "AD."—See the new advertisement of Mr. T. E. Jones, the farmer and fish raiser.

TRANSCONTINENTAL travel will soon have a great variety of roads from which to choose, each with its peculiar claims upon the traveling public. These roads run through a widely diverse country, as to scenic grandeur and general characteristics. We may safely say, however, that whatever may be the course of the tourist, in crossing the continent one way or the other, he will "take in" Los Angeles, which is now the "focus of the world's eye."—Los Angeles Express.

Petition of Frank Shaw for refund of taxes on $3,000, said tax being paid in Mono county, was laid over till next regular meeting.

Petition of citizens of Road District No. 2, asking that the road which now terminates at or near the Big Pine road to Owens River be extended to or through the Wauceba Wash or Cañon, was rejected.

Application of J. F. Hutchison for a toll road, commencing at the mouth of Black Cañon and running to Reed spring, was laid over till next regular meeting.

Ordered, that the Clerk of the Board publish in THE INYO INDEPENDENT notices of proposals for contracting for the care of indigent sick, boarding of prisoners and furnishing of wood for county purposes—the publication to commence March 17th, and the contracts to be let April 2d.

A list of Grand and Trial Jurors for the ensuing year was selected.

SPECIAL MEETING.

A special meeting was agreed upon, to be held April 2d, on business as to contracts, receiving petitions, as to ordering new county roads, constructing a bridge, etc.

Ordered, that the Clerk procure an assessment book and a delinquent assessment book for the year 1883.

Ordered, that a duplicate assessment roll for the year 1882 be dispensed with.

Ordered, that in accordance with Section 4,046, Sub-divivision 5, of the Political Code, a per capita tax of two dollars each be levied and collected from each and every citizen of Inyo County subject to the payment of a poll tax; said tax to be known as the Hospital Poll Tax, and to be collected in the same manner as is provided for the collection of poll taxes, and with the same commissions to be allowed to the Assessor and Tax Collector as is allowed the Assessor for the collection of said poll tax; and that the net proceeds derived from said tax be paid into the County Treasury and be credited to the Hospital Fund.

Adjourned.

THURSDAY, February 8.

Board met at 10 o'clock A. M. Minutes of yesterday read and approved.

Petition of Lone Pine Water Company, asking for the fixing of the rate of the water sold by them, was granted, and rates fixed as heretofore.

The report of Road Viewers heretofore appointed to view and lay out a road in Road District No. 1—commencing at the southwest corner of John Barlow's ranch, in section 11, township 7 south, range 32 east, and running to a point where said road petitioned for will intersect a road leading from Bishop Creek to Owens River, near B. McGill's ranch—was laid over till next regular meeting.

Application of J. C. Irwin, Assessor, asking to be allowed to appoint one or more deputies for a term not to exceed thirty days for the purpose of making up the assessment roll, and that said deputy be allowed the sum of $5 per day for such services, was granted.

Petition of citizens of Road District No. 2, asking for the laying out and opening of a new road—commencing at Butte Station and running through certain lands to the County road at Thiebault's ranch—was rejected.

BILLS.

Bill of E. Robinson, for services as Supervisor, on Expense Fund, $24 40; A. Spencer, same, $43 20; Thomas Boland, same, $46 40.

Board adjourned for the term.

OUR one Assemblyman is making his mark among the other wise men at Sacramento. He has got a bill before the House to make the live carcasses of live stock responsible for any damage they may do in other people's potato patches; which is a wise law, for your muley cow to enter through a dilapidated fence in the nighttime or in the daytime, or even on the Sabbath day, and eat up our watermelons and Spring chickens and leave us to go supperless to bed, is an outrage which civilization and the palladium of our liberties can no longer tolerate. Assemblyman Keeler has also startled the wise men of the Capital city (and the world) by proposing to revolutionize the jury system. He urges an amendment of the code so as to dispense with the property qualification of the juror and make every man who is able to stand up and vote competent to sit in the jury box. Assemblyman Keeler has also introduced a bill to create an additional Superior Judge for Mono county. It does not transpire whether this third Judge is to be a resident of Mono or not. We suspect that there is a little bit of irony in this last proposition of our Assemblyman, and that his object is to render aid to the present incumbents in doing nothing.—Bodie Miner.

THE Coroner's jury at Milwaukee have found the proprietors or the Newhall House guilty of culpable negligence, and also censure the owners for not providing more fire escapes.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY of Inyo, State of California.—Charlotte Kimler, plaintiff, versus John A. Kimler, defendant.—Action brought in the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said Superior Court.—The People of the State of California send greeting to John A. Kimler, defendant. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff, in the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county, or if served elsewhere within thirty days. The said action is brought to recover judgment and decree of divorce dissolving the bonds of matrimony between plaintiff and defendant, on the grounds of willful desertion for the period of one year, of plaintiff by defendant, and that the custody of the minor child be awarded to the plaintiff, and for costs of suit and for general relief, all of which will more fully appear by the complaint filed herein, to which reference is hereby made. And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will take judgment against you for the decree prayed for in the complaint and for costs of suit.

Given under my hand and the Seal of the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, this 23d day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two.

A Clever Burglar.

The other night two young clerks were playing billiards in a café of the Boulevard St. Germain, Paris, and talked freely of their concerns without heeding a man who seemed asleep at an adjoining table. One of them said to the other:

"I have just inherited $400."

"Oh! then we are going to have a jolly time of it?"

"No, no! I will not touch one cent of that money. It is still in my lodgings, safely hid in a chest of drawers under my shirts. To-morrow I am going to carry it to the stock broker and buy threes."

A few minutes afterward the sleeping man woke, rose, took his hat and went out. An hour afterward the clerks paid for what they had taken, took their hats—one of them, he who had inherited $400, found that his hat had been taken, probably by the sleeper, and another left in its place. As the hat was just as good as the hat taken, and as the former fitted him quite as well, he bore the exchange philosophically and jogged home. He had no sooner entered his lodgings than he saw they had been entered with false keys, his chest of drawers broken open, and his $400 stolen. He did not sleep that night.

The hat left him did not altogether suit him, so he went to his hatter to change it. His hatter told him that the evening before a man had come to the shop and had said that he had inadvertently taken a gentleman's hat, and seeing the latter's name inside, he had called, thinking the hatter might be able to give him the owner's name and address, that he might restore the hat accidentally taken. The latter gave the name and address. The burglar secured $400 by the information given.

The burglar's hat was left with the hatter, and a new hat selected. After the clerk left the hatter took the lining out of the burglar's hat and, to his surprise, found under it a letter bearing an address. He read it, and found it was from a burglar, promising aid in a contemplated burglary which had been planned by the person to whom the letter was addressed. The hatter took the letter to the police and told what had occurred. Before sunset both burglars were arrested.

STATISTICS just published show that South Carolina has now twenty-seven flourishing cotton mills, with 4,120 looms and 180,721 spindles, and that the business yields an average net profit of twelve per cent. In 1880 there were in the State eighteen mills, with 1,933 looms and 95,938 spindles. These figures show an extraordinary progress in this important industry, and the fact that nine new mills were chartered at the recent session of the Legislature indicates a striking growth of the business in the future. In undertaking to manufacture its great staple instead of sending it to English and New England mills, the South has entered a field of industrial activity which promises to prove a most important source of prosperity. Nearness of its mills to its cotton fields is an advantage which in time must tell strongly in favor of the South in the competition with its distant competitors.

AN elderly lady in Athens, Georgia, owns the original manuscript of "Home, Sweet Home," as written by John Howard Payne. The words of the poem, as first written, are all interlined, with here and there an endearing expression from the writer to the lady who now holds it. In the old days Payne was devotedly attached to her, and she has many of his letters. She has been offered a large sum for the manuscript.

IT is an ill wind that blows nobody good. In Montana, during the late blizzard, the contents of whisky barrels were frozen solidly, and men walked about with chunks of whisky in their pockets.

REVOLUTIONISTS have taken Esmeraldas, the chief town of Eucador, and are likely to get the whole country.

Not Exactly That.

A Buffalo man went the other day to consult a lawyer, and when ready to open on the business that brought him, he said:

"Fifteen years ago I was appointed the guardian of a girl six years old."

"I see, and she had property?"

"Yes; she had $40,000."

"Ah, ha!"

"And I have had the handling of it, of course."

"Of course—I see—exactly. And she is now of age and wants a settlement. Exactly—exactly. You have used up the estate and want to know what to do. Exactly—exactly. My advice is to marry the girl. In case she won't marry you, I'll sell you $30,000 worth of worthless bonds for $25, and you can show 'em to prove where most of the money went. Exactly just so—ten thirty dollars."

"You are a leetle too fast, sir," remarked the citizen, as he hitched around in his chair. "The gal's fortune has increased to $63,000, and she's going to be married to-morrow. I came here to have you make out the papers turning everything over to her and releasing me."

"Ah—um!" growled the disappointed lawyer. "I see—exactly—fix you in ten minutes—fee fifteen dollars."—Wall Street Daily News.

THE friends of the Nicaraguan Canal scheme appear to be first up and then down in their hopes and fears concerning the passage of the bill to incorporate their company. The latest report is that Representative Page, of California, does not think the bill can be reached in the ordinary way at this session. His only hope of the passage of the bill now is to get it through the Senate after the Tariff bill is disposed of in that body, and then attach it to the appropriation bill in the House. He says if the Senate should pass it, he will endeavor to get it through the House in this way. The commercial interests of the Pacific seem to be united in desiring the passage of the measure. The simple fact that our people ask for this will be sure to call forth opposition from the statesmen of the Eastern States.

PATENTING BY A PART OWNER.—A Colorado miner, who owned four fifths of a lode claim and desired to have the same patented, but to which the co-owner refused his consent, asked the General Land Office how to proceed. He was advised "that there seems to exist no good reason why you may not institute proceedings for patent in the joint name of yourself and co-owner, either with or without his consent. You may be able to enforce contribution from such co-owner for his proper proportion of the expenses of patenting in the courts. You cannot receive patent for undivided int rest, and this office has no authority to compel a co-owner to join in the application."

A BIG SALE.—A cattle transfer has recently been made in the Territory of Wyoming which is a little ahead of anything previously done in that line. The heads of three great firms, aggregating 87,000 head of cattle, and with the ranches, buildings and grazing privileges, have been sold to a syndicate of Scotch capitalists, the consideration being $2,550,000 to be paid within sixty days. The papers were all signed on the 11th day of November, and have been taken to Scotland by the agent of the syndicate. Mr. A. Swan, who was the leading member of each of the three firms, still retains an interest in the new firm.

THE bulk of immigration into Whatcom county, Washington Territory, is going into the Nooksack River country, a rich and comparatively level plateau, extending from Bellingham Bay to the British Columbia boundary on the north, and to the foothills of the Cascade range to the east, because it is recognized as an exclusively farming country, where new comers can either purchase improved tracts of 160 acres for from $500 to $3,000, or settle adjoining these places on Government land.

A PROSPECTOR gives this way of telling mines belonging to incorporated companies: "When no one will tell you anything about a property, and the only knowledge to be obtained is by what one can pick up by one's own observation, the mine may be set down as belonging to a company." We concur. And it may be added that most mines evidently belong to incorporated companies, or else the above theory is incorrect.

THE East Tennessee Valley Zinc Company, organized a short time ago with a capital of $300,000, let contracts on the 30th ult. for the erection of the furnaces and buildings in Knoxville. They have several thousand tons of zinc ore already extracted a few miles from that place. The furnaces will be in operation next Spring.

GEN. SHERMAN kisses every girl to whom he is introduced. Tecumseh always was a reckless cuss, much given to cutting away from his base and depending on the country for his supplies as he went along.

FOR every railroad tie laid in Dakota a bottle of beer is drunk by the laborers. The beer and the ties cost the same—fifts cents. At Bismark lately a train of thirty cars was seen all laden with beer.

AN English railway company has adopted the plan of painting their cars with Balmain phosphorescent paint, which affords sufficient light while passing through tunnels.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 17.....1883

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY
JAMES E. PARKER.

NEWSPAPER PATRONAGE.

In humble imitation, perhaps, of the new Inyo County Board of Supervisors, the Legislature of the State of Nevada has been discussing the enormous crime of paying a newspaper for doing county printing. In referring to it the Reese River Reveille vigorously sets forth the following facts in regard to such matters, which apply equally well to this section: "Liberal allowances were made for all clerks' fees, sheriffs' fees, etc., but the idea of paying the newspaper was regarded as preposterous. The same opinion prevails with many officials. They will not hesitate to allow the grocer who gives a pauper grub, his bill to the last cent. The undertaker who puts them in the potter's field, receives his last farthing without a murmur, because it is his regular rate. So, too, all along down the list until they reach the printer's bill, then the cutting down commences. Let the county paper—which labors hard to build up home industries and make its town known abroad, and has a hard time to make both ends meet with all the patronage it can get, and that generally does more to elect these self-same officials than all other causes combined—present a bill for services rendered, and charged at only its regular rates, and what a kick is immediately made. Its bills must be cut down in order to allow the officers to make a record of economy for themselves. Yet when these very same men come up for office again, they are the first to run to the home paper for its support. Consistency, where is thy jewelry? The local paper is a power—all concede that—and we venture the assertion that the Reveille could, if it bent its energies to the effort, defeat the best man that could be put up by any party for election to any county office. These ideas are thrown out that the people may ponder over them a little, in the hope that their eyes may be opened to a few facts which seem to be usually lost sight of."

A BILL has been introduced into the Legislature proposing to submit an amendment to the State Constitution requiring the Legislature to provide for the compilation and electrotyping and periodical revision of a comprehensive series of text-books most essential in our primary and grammar schools. The plan recommended is substantially that known as Kinne's. If the Legislature does not already possess the power to do what is granted in the proposed amendment, there should be no hesitation about conferring such power by express constitutional provision. The text-book iniquity is one the public cries out against from every part of the State.

THE Supreme Court has made a decision which, we take it, means that when a possessory right to land is sold for taxes, the purchaser, when his title is perfected, may oust the occupant and take possession. Hitherto, we believe, such tax sales have been considered worthless. The Court holds that although a person enters on land as a pre-emptor, and has continuously resided upon it, claiming it as a pre-emptor of Government land adversely to everybody, and cultivated it, the fact that he failed to pay taxes on the land proves that he failed to perform the acts required by the Statute of Limitation. Therefore in law he is regarded as a mere trespasser.

IT seems that the extension of the South Pacific Coast Narrow Gauge Railroad into the San Joaquin Valley, under the name of the San Francisco and Colorado River Railroad, is an assured fact. A suit was recently commenced by this Company, organized under the new name, to condemn 133 acres of land on the water front of Alameda, which they require in order to establish a proper basis on the Bay. The road is to commence at or near the line of ships' channel in the Bay of San Francisco, and very heavy and expersive work will be necessary to accomplish the purpose.

THE House Committee on Coinage is opposed to the discontinuance of the coinage of silver. Any action on the part of Congress tending to depreciate the value of silver is ruinous and uncalled for. The Administration, however, favors legislation in the interest of Wall street, and it makes no effort to put silver in circulation in order to prevent the accumulations in the sub-treasuries as an evidence of its unpopularity.

THE San Francisco Call proceeds to show up how hard the times are in Inyo by saying that the coyotes are dying of starvation at Mono Lake! That paper had better coyote around somewhere after a geography.

SENATOR PAT. REDDY'S INDORSEMENT.

INDEPENDENCE, INYO CO., CAL., February 12, 1883.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT: We, the undersigned, citizens of Inyo County and constituents of Hon. P. Reddy, Senator from the Fourth Senatorial District, have with unfeigned pleasure watched with the closest scrutiny his actions in the Senate upon the most trivial as well as the important measures which have come before that body, and especially his course upon the anti-monopoly resolutions and his efforts to unearth the frauds perpetrated at San Quentin; and we hereby desire, irrespective of party, to express our unqualified approval and hearty commendation of his legislative course in every particular. His sterling worth of character, his unflinching and unwavering fidelity to principle, and his pre-eminent ability is a sure guarantee of his reliability to the interests of the people in the future.

The foregoing originated with Mr. Reddy's old townsmen in Independence, and had no opportunity of being circulated throughout Inyo where he is equally well known.

The best idea of his speech on the concurrent resolution urging our Congressional representatives to oppose the bill allowing railroad consolidation is thus given in a San Francisco cotemporary:

Senator Reddy said that he would not explain his vote, for he would vote so that it would need no explanation. He reviewed the speeches of Cross and McClure, and pointed out the inconsistency of the railroad authorities being the patriots they were described, when they were continually resisting the just demands of the State. Haymond would have had the State worship the railroad people as some worshiped their God. It seemed that those tender-hearted men could shed tears of sympathy for the State, but their tears reminded him of those of the crocodile, that mingled with the heart's blood of its victims. They have subserved their own interests until the people are satisfied that they recognize no God but the god of gain, and respect nothing but their will. He thought the gentlemen who were so solicitous of their records would show a less selfish spirit if they were willing to forego something of their own reputation in the desire to sacrifice something for the State. He pointed out the fallacy of the argument that the State would lose nothing by consolidation. The preamble, so objectionable to Mr. Cross, did not assert that Congress can exert the power to rob the State of its rights, but it stated that such power, if exerted, could be detrimental to the State. If Congress had no power to pass such a law, could the lawyers of the Senate of California stand patiently by and allow Congress to pass it? What would become of the legal reputations so closely cherished were the Senators so derelict of their duty? He showed how the consolidations of the railroads would involve the State in endless litigation; that after consolidation the California corporation would merge its rights in the body politic erected by Congress, and could, if it chose, disincorporate. The interest of the State would be affected unfavorably. The interest of the railroad would be affected favorably. Then what would become of the reputations of the Senators sworn to advance the best interests of the people? What would become of their oaths? Better that they should shatter their reputations for legal acumen than splinter their solemn oaths to serve the people faithfully.

McClure asked Reddy if he had not introduced a bill for the consolidation of a Nevada and California railroad.

Reddy replied that he had, at the request of a railroad attorney, introduced such a bill, but he had not fathered it. He told the author of the bill that even a railroad attorney had a right to present a measure to the Legislature and ask for a hearing.

Continuing his speech, Reddy said that no Senator dare deny that the State would be robbed of some of its rights, and yet one of them proposed to stand by and allow it. He pointed out how, in various ways, the bill would affect the constitutional rights of the State, and defied any lawyer to contradict this assertion, but no one accepted the challenge.

Senator Reddy's speech was applauded, and it was fully in accord with the position which, at the very outset of the fight, he took, and which he maintained to the end without once wavering. There was never any doubt where he stood.

THE Los Angeles Daily Commercial makes a suggestion that will meet with universal popular approval except in Wall street and its affiliations, as follows:

The silver dollars in the Treasury should be sent to New Orleans and other points and put into circulation. There are pension claims due that would take all the surplus silver dollars in the Treasury and more too. What we want is more silver in circulation. Will the Secretary of the Treasury have sense enough to pay out the Government silver?

THE world's stock of locomotives consists of 66,000; of passenger cars there are 120,000, and of freight cars 1,500,000. The capital invested in railways, which are in all 200,000 miles long, is $20,000,000,000. The commerce of the seas is carried by 12,000 steamers and 100,000 sailing vessels, whose tonnage amounts to over 20,800,000 tons.

TWO THOUSAND CARS OF BULLION. The Mingo smelter began operations January 1, 1877, since which it has run most of the time, and yet at one time it laid idle for nearly four months. Its product of lead bullion has been steady and reached an enormous aggregate. Last Saturday it completed its shipment of 2,000 cars, which were sent East. The average was a little over 13 tons to the car, making an aggregate of over 26,000 tons. Most of the are is brought to the smelter by by rail, and all the fuel and fluxes are delivered to the works by the car load, and it is estimated that it required nearly 10,000 car loads of ore, iron, limestone, charcoal, coke, coal, etc., to produce this vast pile of bullion. With such figures as above, one can readily see the important part railroads perform in a successful smelt-enterprise, like that of the Mingo Furnace Company.—Salt Lake Tribune.

We cannot see why similar works should not be established in this valley. When the Carson and Colorado road reaches Owens Lake, smelting ores can be concentrated at one point from half a dozen different districts in the Inyo range. Considering the number of claims known to contain lead ores, and the small cost at which these ores can be hauled to the railroad, it would seem that enough ores could be had to keep works in constant operation. What is wanted in this valley is a smelting company that will buy ores at a fair price and pay cash for them. This would encourage the miners and furnish many of them the means to develop their claims.

THE great city of New York is under a cloud. With all its millionaires, wealthy capitalists and prosperous merchants, it cannot raise a sufficient sum to erect a pedestal for the Bartholdi statue. The committee appointed by a mass meeting to raise subscriptions met with little success. It did not raise one-third the sum required. Few of those who are able to contribute feel any interest in the object, and in consequence of their indifference there is a question whether the sum needed for the pedestal will be raised in New York at all. Bartholdi is a spectator at a distance of New York's shame, and has the mortification of knowing that his splendid gift is not appreciated there. If he should reconsider his design of presenting the statue to New York he could not be censured. It would only be serving the city right. An effort is being made to increase the pedestal fund by theatrical benefits, but this is a slow process of unreliable dependence. Better for New York to relinquish all claim upon the statue, and see if some other more enterprising city will not secure it.

SANTA FE, New Mexico, is known to be among the oldest towns within the limits of the Union. Next July the citizens of that ancient pueblo propose to celebrate its three hundred and thirty-third anniversary. A recent telegram from New York says of this event: "Two chief features of the exhibition will be the display of the historical treasures of the Territory and of its material resources. The relics of old American trappers and scouts will also form a part of the exhibition. A special building will be dedicated to antiquities, another building will contain the exposition of the mineral and agricultural wealth of the Territory of New Mexico. The exhibit of gold, silver, copper, lead, coal, mica and other minerals at the recent exhibition will be the most creditable one there.

THERE is "a celebrated case" on trial at San Bernardino. The point to it is the attempt on the part of the heirs of one John Bidwell deceased to establish a partnership between Bidwell and Richard Gird in certain Tombstone mining interests out of which Gird realized largely. In other business matters the men were partners. Ex-Senator Wm. M. Stewart espoused the cause of the orphans; in fact, opposing counsel charges him with being the only real "orphan" in the case, himself. A large array of counsel is engaged on either side and $300,000 is the stake. The trial has been looked forward to with interest by thousands of people throughout the southern country.

SUPERIOR JUDGE M. P. WIGGIN, of Mono, the matter of whose impeachment is being considered in the Legislature, as appears by all accounts stands in a most defenseless position. In fact, his defense so far amounts to a confession of all charged against him by the Grand Jury report of a year or so ago. The principal officers of Mono have been sent for by the Committee, and the whole outlook for the Hon. Judge is "tough."

A BILL is before the Legislature to amend the Constitution so that special laws can be enacted by a two-thirds vote. Until something of the sort is done, a majority of the counties and towns will be restless and held backward in many important particulars.

JEROME B. PAINTER, a pioneer printer of this coast and the founder of the first type foundry on the Pacific coast, died in San Francisco last Wednesday afternoon.

THE work of preparation about the mill at New Boston, which has been progressing for some days past, is nearly completed, and it is expected the stamps will begin to drop about the 20th instant. The ore to be crushed in this mill will come from the Lime Point and Lucky Baldwin mines, the former distant about two and the latter ten miles. Some twelve or fifteen men will be employed in and about the mill, and once more will old New Boston be a busy place. It is a fact that is every day becoming more and more evident that the little narrow-gauge railroad has done and is doing more toward reviving old mining industries and causing new ones to be started in Esmeralda county than would half a century spent in talk about big prospects, expecting thereby to induce the assistance of capital. When the matter of cheap transportation decides the subject, as it does everywhere in Southern Esmeralda, then do men interested in mining conclud to commence operations. —True Fissure.

THE Daily Report, a few days ago, scunded an alarm about the future of Alaska. Our statement that a big job is being put up at Washington, whereby that country will become a last resort in the way of a grab for certain U. S. Senators and Congressmen, is confirmed by the following paragraph in the Washington dispatches: "Proctor Knott (D.) of Kentucky gave the death-blow to the Alaska bill when he said he was opposed to the bill, because one of its sections gave the Secretary of the Interior the power to dispose of such of the lands or mines of Alaska as he chose. He was opposed to placing such an unlimited power in the hands of any official, for all the lands and mines of value would soon be absorbed by corporations."—Stock Report.

A LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE is about to investigate M. P. Wiggin. If there is anything crooked in Mr. Wiggin's official conduct all good citizens would like to see it exposed. If his record is clear, no doubt the committee will so report. —Bodie Free Press.

THE "BLACK LEG."—Farmers and stock raisers in the upper portion of the valley, especially around Bishop Creek and Big Pine, continue to sustain great losses from the disease in cattle generally called "black leg." About 150 head have latterly died on the farms near Big Pine. The malady attacks none over three years old, and generally those in the best condition of flesh. In spite of everything that has so far been tried for their relief, the death of an animal is absolutely certain within twelve or twenty-four hours after the attack. The disease attacks the legs the same as paralysis, and upon examination the blood is found congested in the flesh in such a state that no amount of cutting will cause it to flow. The stomach is found to contain a solid mass resembling a sun-dried brick in color and hardness. Doses of croton oil have proved ineffectual. Some intelligent farmers think the disease is really dry murrain; some have good reasons for thinking that it is not infectious, and say that it may disappear when new green feed comes on, although it prevailed to some extent all last Summer. The Indians feast voraciously on the flesh of the deceased animals, upon which they wax fat and laugh at danger and the doctors.

PINE MOUNTAIN. — Judge Duncan Campbell, of Big Pine, has become interested with S. P. Roberts in a number of the argentiferous-galena mines at Pine Mountain, in Deep Spring District. These mines were formerly spoken of as the Broder property, being where Mr. B. built his first furnace. One of the best opened ledges, which for years has been held by John Chastaine, lies in a very favorable formation and shows a solid body of ore 300 feet long from four to five feet in width. Its average assays are 60 ounces ...ver per ton, 65 per cent lead and some two or three dollars per ton in gold. The region abounds in timber and flowing streams, and on a line directly over the summit of the White Mountains will be but sixteen miles distance from the incoming railroad. Mr. Campbell proposes sinking the main shaft 100 feet deeper during this season.

A LOUD COMPLAINT.—A prominent citizen of Lone Pine sends us the following, under date of February 14th: "There is loud complaint here, at Darwin and doubtless at Indepenendence, over the matter of the non-arrival of the San Francisco mail via the Southern route. Since the beginning of the present year on an average of about twice a week we have not received the San Francisco mail. It is evidently not the fault of the Stage Company which carries the mail from Mojave. Negligence in the matter long since became chronic, and it appears that some Railroad Postal Agent or somebody else needs to be investigated by the proper authority."

THE DIRECTORY.—The time for closing up the forms of the proposed Inyo County Business Directory is getting short. So far, not enough orders have been received to make the work pay expenses. The charges were made almost nominal so that all might "stand in"—thus making up in numbers and increased benefit that patronage, comparatively, which might have been obtained from a few. It will be understood that no names will appear thereon unless the party is either an advertiser or a subscriber for at least one copy. Send in your orders. One of its projectors expects to pay a short visit to Lone Pine next week.

LEG AMPUTATED.—The following from the Carson Appeal, of February 13, refers to a well-known old pioneer of this county, W. P. Bailey, who was injured at the time two or three Chinamen were killed. The account says: "Bailey, the man recently injured by a premature explosion at the front of the Carson and Colorado Railroad, and who is now lying at the residence of Mrs. Blethen, in this city, had his left leg amputated on Saturday last by Doctors Smart and White. Mr. Bailey is very weak from his sufferings, but it is believed that he will pull through."

AT WORK.—Supt. Gray and George Thorpe are extracting ore from the lowest workings of the old Kearsarge.... Phil. Cartier and partner are sinking on the Golden Star mine, near Mazourka Cañon.... S. A. Densmore and partners are building an arastra to work the tailings from the old San Carlos mill across the river.... More prospecting work is now going on around Deep Spring Valley than for a number of years past, while Bishop Creek District is teeming with prospectors.

A SERIOUS HURT.—About three weeks ago Albert Halverson, a well-known farmer of Big Pine, was the victim of a singular accident which may cost him one of his hands. He was engaged in doctoring, for the sake of experiment, an animal afflicted with the black leg, when it snapped its teeth into the thumb and finger of his hand. The wound has been a terrible and most painful one, which has so far baffled all medical skill.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY.—The next great national holiday occurs next Thursday. So far as heard from, the only preparations being made to observe it are by Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Wemple, of the Big Pine Hotel, who will give a grand ball and supper.

SOLD OUT.—By the notice elsewhere it will be seen that A. K. Briggs has sold out his extensive mercantile establishment and business at Bishop Creek, and that he will require a full settlement of all outstanding accounts.

THE PURCHASERS.—We hear that gentlemen from San Francisco, their firm name being Cohen & Co., are the purchasers and new proprietors of the Briggs store and stock at Bishop Creek.

THAT EARTHQUAKE CLOCK.—Much to our surprise and virtuous indignation, the San Francisco Chronicle and the Candelaria True Fissure have gently intimated that THE INDEPENDENT had joined the noble army of newspapers which are now engaged in a grand lying tournament, both going so far as to really express some doubts about the entire correctness of our statements as to the resurrection of a live clock from the ruins of the great earthquake of 1872. The Chronicle has a lively recollection of that shock, but apparently forgets the greater one which the defenseless people here received when that paper came with its illustrations. It is a wonder how the clock finally survived both, but that it did—

LONE PINE, Feb. 15, 1883.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT: Received your inquiry last night, and in reply would say: I did find a clock some time ago while getting some adobes from the old school house, which was thrown down by the earthquake. I took up the clock; the hands had stopped at fifteen minutes to three. I shook it and it commenced to run. It is uninjured with the exception of the glass over the face, which was broken, and the second hand was gone. I also found the key to the clock, and it is running now. The several school books which I also found are not injured in the least.

Yours, truly. C. W. JOHNSON.

FACT.—The ancient rig of a close-fisted hen-rancher was perambulating the streets the other day when the proprietor was applied to by a lady, whose husband didn't owe the h. r. a cent, for some eggs. It was impossible to supply her, as his chickens were doing very bad, and all that he had were engaged to grocer Smith. At the next house, the proprietor of which he did owe, he told the lady that the chicken ranch was flourishing immensely—the hens were doing splendid. The philosophy of this may not be apparent, but it is a fact.

THE FOURTEENTH.—St. Valentine's Day passed off a good deal like any other day, except that the juvenile generation patronized the postal department of these great United States considerably if not more. Among the ancients, Bill Grant got the boss effort from Pap Walker, and Tom Webb perpetrated the wittiest joke of the season.

WHO HAS ONE?—A gentleman of Bishop Creek—whose initials are W. W. Yandell—wants a copy of THE INYO INDEPENDENT of July 10, 1876, containing the County History. We should be pleased if somebody would furnish him one, as there are none left in this office.

SUSPENDED.—The editor of the Agriculturist, the California bee-keepers' paper, writes, under date of February 6th, to Mr. Wm. Muth-Rasmussen, that that paper has suspended publication at present for want of support. For this reason subscribers to it have received no copies since November last.

DISCONTINUED.—The Postoffice at Deep Springs has been ordered discontinued again by the Department, for the second or third time. However, the business and population of that section will demand its re-establishment again during the coming Summer.

A STORM.—For the first time this Winter the Sierra Nevada Mountains are covered with snow. The weather has been most too cold, however, for much of a fall of it, though there is enough to assure no "water famine" amongst the farmers during the irrigation season.

DULL.—Our County officials, like pretty much everybody else, are engaged in comparing notes on the immense absence of business of any kind.

F. & A. M.—A stated communication of Inyo Lodge, No. 221, F. & A. M., will be held at the Masonic Hall this evening.

THE Bakersfield Californian has the following items:

THE condition of the market for the large crop of oranges in the southern part of the State is not favorable. The truth is the orchards are too near the northern limit for the growth of this fruit to be produced in perfection, and the Mexican railroads are opening up some of the finest orange regions in the world—the natural habitat of the fruit—with the product of which our southern counties cannot compete.

THE first suit growing out of the Tehachipa disaster was commenced on the 3d inst. by the widow and minor children of Bernard A. Schlingheyde, through the guardian ad litem of the children. Schlingheyde was one of the victims and left a wife and seven children, wholly dependent upon him for support. The suit is for damages to the extent of $50,000 which seems a very moderate amount. No remains recognizable of the unfortunate man were recovered; but his watch, eyeglasses, and several minor articles burned almost beyond recognition were recovered, settling the fact of his death to a certainty.

AT a dinner given at the residence of H. M. Yerington last week, the announcement was made of the engagement of M. H. Yerington to Miss Annie Ladd, of San Francisco, a niece of Mrs. S. H. Day, of Carson.

IT is reported that Hon. H. F. Page will be appointed Superintendent of the San Francisco Mint on the 1st of March.

THE Aurora Herald gives a good account showing that the Cortez mine is a solid institution and is looking well.

IT is reported that Ex-Governor Blaisdell has sold the Humboldt group of mines at Aurora for $150,000.

The Northern Belle mine shipped $17,207 37 in bullion last week.

Agricultural Maxims.

We commend to our agricultural friends the maxims laid down by Horace Greeley not long previous to his death:

1. That the area under cultivation should be within the limits of the capital and labor employed; or, in other words, that on impoverished soils no one should cultivate more land than he could enrich with manure or fertilizers, be it one acre or twenty.

2. That there should be a law compelling every man to prevent his stock from depredating on his neighbors' fields.

3. That green soiling is more economical than loose pasturage.

4. That deep tillage is essential to good farming.

5. That the muck heap is the farmers' bank, and that everything should be added to it that will enlarge it and increase at the same time its fertilizing properties.

6. That no farmer or planter should depend on one staple alone, but should seek to secure himself against serious loss in bad seasons by diversity of products.

A YOUNG man, said by the papers to have been clothed in an "ulster and a dark, heavy moustache;" and whose conversation "flowed as gently as castor oil," has been fleecing the simple minded druggists of Minneapolis. He sold a large number of them an alleged magical catarrh remedy, obtaining a large sum of money for it. An analysis proved the mixture to be composed of damaged cornmeal and common salt, and now the druggists are out in a card telling folks that such things are really not right, and stating that they, as well as the catarrh remedy, were sold—in which the world will agree.

AN old man would not believe he could hear his wife talk a distance of five miles by telephone. His better half was in a country store, several miles away, where there was a telephone, and the skeptic was also in a place where there was a similar instrument, and on being told how to operate it, he walked boldly up and shouted, "Hello, Sarah!" At that instant lightning struck the telephone wire and knocked the old man down, and as he scrambled to his feet he excitedly cried, "That's Sarah every time."

SINCE the introduction into our service of that convenient little missive, the postal card, millions have been utilized in forwarding messages of all descriptions. The Boston Journal gives an example of the most unique. It was written on a postal card by distinguished clergyman and sent to his mother:

From sweet Isaiah's sacred song, ninth chapter and verse six,
First thirteen words please take, and then the following affix:
From Genesis, the thirty-fifth, verse seventeen, no more,
Then add verse twenty-six of Kings, book second, chapter four;
The last two verses, chapter first, first book of Samuel,
And you will learn what on that day your loving son befell.

NEWS was received here on Sunday last that George Andrews, well known in this vicinity, had died while on the road from Lida Valley to the Armagosa River. He and three others were prospecting for borax, and were provided with an outfit of two horses and a wagon, together with the other necessary articles and a supply of provisions. It appears that the party was nearing the northern part of Death Valley, when Andrews complained of feeling very ill and requested the party to turn back. This was done, but the wagon had proceeded only a short distance when he expired in the arms of one of his companions.—True Fissure, Feb. 10.

THE Standard Con. and the Bulwer Con. mining companies paid their regular monthly dividends on Monday. This is the sixty-ninth dividend paid by the Standard, aggregating $4,075,000, and the fifteenth consecutive monthly dividend of the Bulwer, aggregating $140,000. With the $1,290,000 which has been disbursed as dividends by the Bodie Con., this makes the dividend record of Bodie District to date $5,510,000.—Free Press.

THE report is again in circulation that the running time of trains between San Francisco and New York is to be reduced to four days and a half during the coming Summer.

"The law gives a Court of Justice for a father, and twelve brothers to guard her rights," said Miss Livingstone's counsel, an apt and touching simile.

THE decrease in the public debt during January was $13,636,883, making the total debt less cash in the Treasury Feb. 1st, $1,593,794,000.

THE Church of England has an income of $22,625,000.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 17 1883

THE Albany Evening Journal says that General Grant has performed no service of late years more valuable to the country than the steps he has taken to secure the execution of a Reciprocity Treaty between the United States and Mexico. It has been almost wholly due to his influence among the authorities of our sister republic and his untiring efforts at Washington, that the project is so far advanced as it is.

VINCENT, the Treasurer of Alabama, is a better man than Polk, of Tennessee. Polk took $400,000 and left nothing. Vincent took $213,000 and left $170,000. He said he was going to New York to get enough to settle up.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY of Inyo, State of California.—Charlotte Kimler, plaintiff, versus John A. Kimler, defendant.—Action brought in the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said Superior Court.—The People of the State of California send greeting to John A. Kimler, defendant. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff, in the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service upon you of this summons—if served within this county, or if served elsewhere within thirty days. The said action is brought to recover judgment and decree of divorce dissolving the bonds of matrimony between plaintiff and defendant, on the grounds of willful desertion for the period of one year, of plaintiff by defendant, and that the custody of the minor child be awarded to the plaintiff, and for costs of suit and for general relief, all of which will more fully appear by the complaint filed herein, to which reference is hereby made. And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will take judgment against you for the decree prayed for in the complaint and for costs of suit.

Given under my hand and the Seal of the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, this 23d day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two.

New Method of Descending Shafts.

The Engineer-in-Chief of French mines—M. Haton de la Goupilliere—has lately called attention to an appliance invented by M. J. Raffard for facilitating the descent of miners into shafts up to thirty fathoms deep. A winch is placed at the mouth of the shaft and provided with a rope which makes two turns around the barrel, while a second rope provided like the first, with a hook at each end, doubles the first by being hitched on to it. The miner who wishes to descend attaches a sack of sand weighing about a cwt. to one of the ends of the winch rope, and lets it down to the bottom of the shaft with the end of the second cord, which remains attached to it. He then passes the hook of the rope over a knot made about three feet from the end, and takes his seat by passing his leg through the loop thus formed, after having hitched on the loose end of the second rope. In this way an endless rope is formed, the difference between the weight of the man and that of the sack of sand remaining constant. The miner allows himself to descend slowly at first, keeping in his hands the two ropes; then when the sack leaves the bottom he lets himself go more quickly, but keeping the rising portion of the rope between his legs. As he nears the bottom he slackens the pace, seizes the rising rope with his hands and brakes himself till he stops, and then he attaches by its end the rope he is upon so as to keep the sack suspended. When he wishes to reach the surface again he takes his seat as before, pulls on the second rope to which the sack is attached, and, by exerting an effort only slightly greater than the difference between his weight and that of the sack of sand, he raises easily at a speed of about two and a half feet per second. When ten, twenty or more men want to descend at once, two men go to the handles of the winch and let down the miners one by one, each taking care to keep the second or safety rope for holding on to in case of accidents. When only three men, including those at the winch, remain to go down, the last but two attaches a weight of sixty-six pounds, consisting of coal or ore, to the end of the rope. The last man but one descends, aided by the last man at the winch; arrived at the bottom, the former hitches the second rope to the end of the winch rope and hangs the cwt. sack to the hooks, when the last man descends in the manner already described.

IT was at the hour of morning prayer in the girl's school at Hamilton, Mo., says the New York Tribune, and the pupils were performing their devotions with becoming reverence, when one of them, in the act of seating herself after the singing of the hymn, missed her chair and came down upon the floor with what the Missouri papers would call a sickening thud. The other girls with extraordinary control refrained from laughing, the teacher did not observe the catastrophe, the unfortunate one in her confusion and embarrassment remained upon the floor, and exercises might have concluded without interruption except for one of those extraordinary and malicious coincidences which are forever upsetting every calculation. The teacher arose and giving out the first lesson of morning prayer read from the fifth chapter of Amos as follows: "The virgin of Israel has fallen; she shall rise no more; she is forsaken upon the land; there is none to raise her up." This was too much. A long-suppressed titter pervaded the school room; the teacher looked up, and the devotional exercises closed forthwith.

A FRENCH scientist, explaining why fish eaten in Holland are superior to those eaten in France, gives a hint that may interest fishermen in this country. He says that the Dutch fishermen kill their fish as soon as taken from the water by making a slight longitudinal incision under the tail with a sharp instrument. The French fishermen, on the contrary, allow their fish to die slowly and this slow death softens the tissues and renders them more liable to undergo change.

Ostrich Farming.

The ostrich is readily domesticated, and can be fed very cheaply. In Australia the sight of ostriches roosting on the back fence has become so common as to attract no attention, and though a female ostrich, when she gets into the garden and begins to scratch the ground for her young, will throw turnips and beets to a distance of twenty or thirty rods, and dig trenches twelve or fifteen feet deep in twenty minutes by the watch. Unlike chickens, which require grain and other delicacies, ostriches can be fed upon almost anything. In Australia they are generally fed upon the cinders from the cook's range, and upon empty ale-bottles. It has been found that the latter diet gives a peculiar and beautiful gloss to the feathers, though it is perhaps less nutritious than the former. For young ostriches the dottles are broken into small pieces and sprinkled with cork shavings, the effect of the latter being to prevent them from taking cold. Ostrich-keeping in this country would be attended with one advantage of which the Australians have had no experience. The ostrich-keeper, even in the gulf States, would be able to keep his ostriches with safety, no matter how many colored camp-meetings might be held in his immediate neighborhood. To enter an ostrich-house and carry off an ostrich without alarming its owner would be an impossibility. Not only is the bird far too big and heavy to be carried off by less than three or four colored men, but on being rudely awakened in the middle of the night he is sure to kick with tremendous force. The attempt to steal ostriches in the South would merely result in the mysterious death of a few colored men, and then be totally abandoned. When ostriches have become too old to lay, they make admirable substitutes for the spring chicken of railway restaurants. Not only is one ostrich equal in size to dozens of chickens, but it is practically indestructible, and in cold weather it can be served up for many successive days, and to thousands of successive passengers. It is quite possible that after having served for a time as spring chicken the aged ostrich could be worked up into water-proof boots.

DR. FOURNIE, the French physiologist, distinguishes between hunger and appetite by describing the former as a general desire for food, no matter of what kind, while appetite is the feeling of pleasure which results from the gratification of that desire. This is proved by the fact that often when we are not hungry appetite comes while we are eating, or at the mere sight and smell of some favorite dish. The question as to where the seat of the feeling of hunger is, has been much discussed by physiologists. Leven asserts that it is not known at all, while Longet and Schiff believe that is diffused through the whole body; but this latter view is disproved by the fact that in some diseases people waste away without ever having the slightest feeling of hunger. Dr. Fournie's theory is this: When meal time arrives the glands of the stomach become filled and distended and ready to accomplish their function of digesting the food. But if food is not introduced they remain in this distended condition, and the result is the uneasy feeling we call hunger. Excellent proof of this theory is afforded by the habit of some Indians of eating clay to appease hunger. The introduction of the clay is followed by the discharge of the glands, and the sensation of hunger is arrested.

CHEESE PREPARED FROM BEANS.—A late Indo-Chinese steamer, arriving at Marseilles, brought specimens of a bean which has long been used by the Chinese and Japanese as an article of food. Not only is it cooked and eaten like other vegetables, but it is made into cheese. By its composition it more closely resembles animal food than any other vegetable known to us, containing much greasy matter and albumen. A trial will be made to acclimate it in our southern departments. In the north it will not grow, owing to the uncertain and changing climate, and the temperature being too low. Besides these advantages, as an article of human food, the husks serve as very good fodder for horses and cows. The cheese made from the Japanese bean has a very delicate taste, much like Parmesan.

FOR FENCE POSTS.—A writer in an exchange says: "I discovered many years ago that wood could be made to last longer than iron in the ground, but thought the process so simple that it was not well to make a stir about it. I would as soon have poplar, basswood, or ash as any other kind of timber for fence posts. I have taken out basswood posts after having been set seven years, that were as sound when taken out as when first put in the ground. Time and weather seemed to have had no effect on them. The posts can be prepared for less than two cents apiece. This is the recipe: Take boiled linseed oil and stir in pulverized coal to the consistency of paint. Put a coat of this over the timber, and there is not a man will live to see it rot."

A SOUTHERN amateur gardener secured slabs from a saw-mill and bored two-inch holes in them fifteen inches apart and laid them round side up upon the edge of some beds, and set a strawberry plant in each hole in August. Such a profusion of strawberries as he had from each of five experimental varieties was a sight worth beholding. When other strawberries in the neighborhood were all dried up by the great drought of that season his were perfection. A half pint or more were taken at a time from each plant. It was but little trouble to keep the runners down.

Sour Grapes.

Off and on for months and years past, the question of annexing to the State of Nevada the counties of Mono and Inyo, California, has come up. There has been some desire about it manifested on the part of Nevada, an occasional individual remark devoted to it in the counties concerned, but literally nothing done or said about it by the State of California, the chief factor. It is safe to say that this State will never for a moment entertain a proposition to dispense with any of her present territory, especially now that all parts of it are being brought closer together by railroads. The Carson and Colorado Railroad will add immensely to the welfare of the counties in question, and enable them to work out of debt through increase of taxable property, so that the following paragraph from the Reese River Reveille falls to the ground, except that it may serve to illustrate the story of the fox and the grapes:

"The delinquent tax list of Mono county, California, makes over twelve solid columns of the Bodie Free Press. Upon second thought we guess we do not want that county added to Nevada. Such things look bad for the prosperity of a place and tell as surely as any other one thing of the decay of a community. Nevada doesn't need any of California's broken-down counties. She has enough of her own."

Mono and Inyo are very large counties and as rich in mines, lands and timber as any portion of the State of Nevada, outside of the single instance of the greatly-exhausted Comstock. The Reveille need not worry—the game is made.—S. F. Weekly Report.

JAMES E. PARKER.

MATTERS are taking such a shape now, says the Salt Lake Chronicle, that the Union Pacific can hardly avoid the construction of an independent line from Ogden or some other point in Utah, to the Pacific Coast. In a few months the Denver & Rio Grande Utah line will be completed to Ogden, and traffic arrangements having been made between this line and the Burlington to run the business from the latter road over the new route the Burlington will have a through line to California independent of the Union Pacific, and the Central Pacific will no longer need to depend upon the Union Pacific for an Eastern connection, but can use the new Denver & Rio Grande route. This will compel the Union Pacific, if it means to meet the competition of the Central and other new Pacific lines, to extend its line either from Ogden or some other Utah point, to the Pacific coast as soon as possible.

IT seems now reasonably certain that the next crop of wheat throughout western Europe and the United Kingdom will be very much less than last year. In France the estimated deficiency will be from 32,000,000 to 38,000,000 bushels, and in the United Kingdom at least 24,000,000, making an aggregate decrease in these three countries alone of from 56,000,000 to 62,000,000 bushels below the crop of 1882. The conclusion, therefore, seems unavoidable that the surplus supply of wheat, as compared with the requirements of the principal importing countries, will steadily diminish during the remainder of this and also the greater portion of the next crop year.

A BILL has been introduced in the Senate respecting the sale by retail of liquors, wines and beer. It gives Boards of Supervisors power to fix the amount of license, which shall not exceed $300 per quarter. The party receiving license to give bond in the sum of $2,000, conditioned that he will not keep a disorderly house nor a house of bad character, or wherein persons of bad character congregate and which they frequent, and that he will pay all fines imposed on him for any violation of the law.

SAN FRANCISCO finds herself with a treasury carefully emptied of its last dollar by the late Board of Supervisors, and expenses running all the time. The city needs $500,000 to meet its expenses for the year, and the Mayor has appointed a committee of citizens to confer on the subject of going in debt to that extent.

ONE of the last measures passed by the Colorado Legislature was a bill to establish a State Insurance Department. It provides for a Superintendent of Insurance, and also that no joint stock fire or life insurance company shall be permitted to do business in the State unless possessed of an actual paid-up cash capital of $200,000.

AN enterprising citizen at Boise asks the city council the exclusive right to sell liquor in that city, and promises in return to pay off the city indebtedness, to educate all the children, pay a good liberal salary to every preacher, and build a new church every five years.

THE Pacific Coast Press Association will have their annual excursion this year. They leave San Francisco on Monday, March 12th, and visit all places of interest in Los Angeles county, returning home on Saturday, March 17th.

A MINER named Edward Griffin was buried in a lead mine at Bingham, Utah, last Saturday. A party of miners drifted 60 feet and rescued him after being imprisoned 48 hours. He was uninjured.

LAST Monday 80 miners lost their lives by a mine caving in on them, at Braidwood, a mining town twenty miles south of Joliet, Illinois. The number of men lost may yet reach 100.

FOUR of the five Judges of the Supreme Court of Iowa decided a few days since that the prohibitory amendment to the Constitution of that State had not been legally accepted, and that it was therefore null and void.

TRIMMING is of especial importance in enabling us to judge of trees. Standard pears headed low will bear five years earlier than when headed as high as the trees in old orchards.

BY the explosion of a kerosene lamp in a house near Brackett, Texas, Tuesday evening, four children, aged from two to seven years, were burned to death.

NEW five-cent nickels, perfectly gold-washed, so as to deceive any ignorant person and pass readily among them for new $5 gold pieces, are in circulation.

DR. GLENN ASSASSINATED.

Dr. Hugh J. Glenn, of Jacinto, Colusa county, was shot and killed last Saturday afternoon as he was going along the porch of the Jacinto Hotel, by A. Miller, a man whom the Doctor had recently discharged for drunkenness. Miller was standing on the porch of the house with a double-barreled shotgun in his hand, and just as Dr. Glenn passed him he raised the gun and fired, only a distance of ten feet separating them. The whole charge toog effect in the Doctor's head, tearing away a portion of the skull on the top and slightly to the right side. As soon as Miller saw his victim fall he tried to escape by going across a field in a southerly direction. Just then R. M. Cochran, General Superintendent for Dr. Glenn, hearing of the crime, rushed for a Henry rifle and started in pursuit. When within hailing distance he ordered Miller to stop. Miller then turned upon Cochran and told him not to approach or he would shoot, having taken his shotgun along. Cochran, seeing no other way of capturing the murderer, shot at Miller and the bullet entered the fleshy part of his thigh. Being wounded Miller threw up his hands and called for mercy. He was then transferred to the Colusa Jail, where he now lies.

Hugh J. Glenn was born about ten miles from Staunton, Augusta county, Virginia, in 1824. In 1844 he graduated from a medical college at St. Louis. A year later he enlisted in the Mexican war, serving two years. In 1849 he came to this coast and, with the exception of about four years, resided in this State since that time. He was the largest farmer on the globe, and the only wheat-grower in America who chartered his own ships and sold by telegraph his own grain in Europe. His ranch in Colusa county contains 55,000 acres, nearly all devoted to wheat-growing. Two years ago he shipped from this ranch to England 27,000 tons of wheat, and received not less than $800,000 for it. His business was not confined to California alone, for he owned a 70,000-acre ranch in Oregon, stocked with 30,000 head of cattle. He also owned a large cattle range in Nevada. In 1879 Dr. Glenn was nominated for Governor of California by the Democratic party. He leaves a wife, three sons and one daughter.

THE special committee appointed to investigate the charges against Marcus P. Wiggin, Superior Judge of Mono county, have been taking testimony in regard to the matter, defendant being present in person, and was represented b Judge Denson as counsel. The following witnesses for the people have so far been examined, viz: B. H. Miller, County Clerk of Mono, J. N. Somers, one of the bondsmen of the Public Administrator, Treasurer Z. B. Tinkum, and Judge R. M. Briggs, all of Mono. Miller testified to having audited a bill for $500 in favor of defendant, payment for legal services rendered the Board of Supervisors by defendant at differe times; wi ness did not know of any services rendered for the fee, except that occasionally the Board would ask the defendant's opinion on law points, and that he drew up one or two contracto.'s bonds for the county. As for the matter the $1,908 58 belonging to the Mulcahy estate, and retained by defendant in his own hands, Treasurer Tinkum testified that defendant had deposited with him a check for $1,442 39, stating at the time that he (defendant) intended to hold the money subject to order of the legal heirs when any such should come forward, none such having yet appeared. That if no heirs were found the money would revert to the State. Parker, the District Attorney, had been appointed by the defendant as attorney for absent heirs. The chances are that the investigation will not amount to enough to break Judge Wiggin of his office.

NEW maps issued by the Central Pacific Railroad Company show that among the projected lines of the company is one from Winnemucca due north to the Columbia river to Walla Walla. A branch from this line at camp C. F. Smith, north of Fort McDermit to Wood River, is also marked on the map. The impression that this road would be built as soon as the southern route to New Orleans was completed has prevailed for years, and the fact that it is marked on the new maps of the Central Pacific indicates that it will be. This road will open up an extensive mining and farming country, which is comparatively unprospected though known to contain gold, silver, copper, iron and other ores.

REPRESENTATIVE WELLS, of Esmeralda County, Nev., having introduced in the Legislature a bill for the removal of the county seat from Aurora to Hawthorne, the Aurora Herald comments thusly:

The people here are very indignant more especially because a Representative not only of our county, but from Aurora introduced such a bill and will no doubt urge its passage. The bill and its author are the subject of conversation and condemnation on every street corner.

LETTER FROM THE BAY.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 9.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT: After many days spent in Inyo I am again at home. Though absent nine months, it seems but yesterday, and as I saunter along the streets, hailed almost at every step by greeting of friends, it almost seems that I have not been absent at all; that the mountains, the cruel trails, the desert and the camp are but the unreal visions of a dream. The buzz and whirl of trade flung from her countless wheels is a somewhat grateful change from that awful stillness that broods over many of the places I visited in your county; but standing here, where one can lay a finger upon the pulse of the world, I cannot say but that Inyo has yet attractions for me. Though she may be lonely in her isolation, rugged, wild, yea fearful in some of her dominions, yet over all there is breadth, expansion, strength and value. Time, that great healer of wrongs and which at last makes all things right, will, by the aid of railroad communication, lead Inyo out from her place of isolation into her destined rank. Such profusion of mineral wealth running through so many conditions and grades cannot be lost. The world needs it all. When Nature works she operates in obedience to great laws to meet the demand of vast necessities. She has not stored your mountains with metals and your great valleys with minerals for naught. The doors of this vast storehouse will soon open to golden keys, welded by the hands of courage and energy. The whistle of the locomotive will be the bugle call to work. The dawn of the coming day will be brilliant, and care must be exercised that we become not suddenly intoxicated with prosperity.

Much inquiry is being made on all hands by mining men concerning Inyo, and it would take a score of tongues to answer the questions I am daily, hourly asked. You may rest assured that I shall not hurt your county by my answers. I say: "Come and see; one hour of investigation on the ground is worth a year of talk." It is a great pity that we have no map to exhibit to strangers. They look upon Inyo as a distant, unknown land. It is about as remote to most minds as the center of Africa. If your Board of Supervisors have not ordered a map, I can only believe their policy to be "a penny wise and pound foolish" one.

Quite a number of Inyoites are seen on the streets—John Gorman, Geo. K. Phillips, Ed. E. Steers, W. S. Woodhull, Capt. Keeler, Hon. P. Reddy and others being among the number.

I had the pleasure of an introduction to the Hon. Senator Reddy to-day. I found him genial and pleasant, somewhat worn, perhaps, with the many duties of his position. His reputation as a hard worker has no doubt led the President of the Senate to lay upon his shoulders grievous burdens. He is broad of shoulder and brain and able to bear more than his part in the Senate.

Capt. Keeler, from reports just received, is doing good work in the Assembly. He is alert, active, vigilant and liberal, and is receiving much praise from his associates and the press. Inyo has no reason to be ashamed of her representatives in both Houses.

Yours, W.

IT is reported that ex-Governor Blasdel has sold the Humboldt group of mines at Aurora for $150,000.

DURING 1882, 4,123 lives were lost by shipwrecks.

THE business portion of Bodie has been passing through a crisis. The sudden collapse of the Red Cloud, Noondays and also the suspending of the Detroit Copper mine caused, for the time being, a stringency in the money market for which the business men were unprepared. The crisis has passed, and the future has a healthy outlook. There never has been a mining camp upon the Pacific Coast but has had its dark days, from which many of them never recovered. Bodie has recovered, and times are getting thrittier daily. We think there is no camp in the State that has a better prospect than ours, and there is every reason to believe that the coming Summer will be better than the past. Bodie is still a large camp and steadily employs between 400 and 500 men.—Bodie Evening Miner.

Better Than Alfalfa.

Some of our citizens are interesting themselves in the Arabian millet. Extensive planting of the seed is being made in Tulare county upon proof, on the dryest of the soils there, that it surpasses alfalfa. James Morton, of that county, says of it: "I think it is as far ahead of alfalfa as alfalfa is of the wild grasses of California." The roots are known to go down in the earth from five to fifteen feet. The Los Angeles Times says of the sample at that office: "It grows to a height of from six to eight feet, resembles the orchard grass in appearance, and is greatly liked by stock of all kinds." The New Jersey Tropic says of experiments in New Jersey soil and climate: "The seed was sown in May, in drills eighteen inches apart, at the rate of four pounds per acre. In twelve days the plants were up so that a cultivator could be run between the rows, after which no cultivation was possible, owing to the astonishing growth, which crowded down every other vegetation. The first cutting was made July 1st, just forty-five days after sowing; it was then seven feet high, covering the whole ground, and weighed while green thirty tons to the acre, and dry six and a half tons per acre. The second cutting was the 15th of August. Its height then was nine feet, weighing green fifty-five tons per acre, and dry eight tons." There has been a positive want on the part of stock raisers in this valley for a grass of something of the character of timothy to feed at certain seasons alternately with clover. This has been so much a necessity that portions of the farm have been left uncultivated in salt grass, and it seemed that the stock paid more attention to the coarse grass than to the alfalfa. The evergreen millet, from all reliable accounts, is destined to take this place, and this valley should be supplied with it without delay.—Kern Co. Gazette.

HE was a brand new office boy, young, pretty-faced, with golden ringlets and blue eyes. Just such a boy as one would imagine would be taken out of his little trundle-bed in the middle of the night and transported beyond the stars. The first day he glanced over the library in the editorial room, knew all the printers, and went home in the evening as happy and cheery as a sunbeam. The next day he appeared, leaned out of the back window, expectorated on a bald-headed printer's pate, tied the cat up by the tail in the hallway, had four fights with another boy, borrowed $2 from an occupant of the building, saying his mother was dead, collected his two days' pay from the cashier, hit the janitor with a broomstick, pawned a coat belonging to a member of the editorial staff, wrenched the knobs off the doors, upset the ice-cooler, pied three galleys of type, and mashed his finger in the small press. On the third day a note was received saying: "Mi Mother don't want I to work in such a dull place. She says I would make a Good preacher. So Do I. mi finger is Better; gone fishin. Yours til death Do Yank us."

A SACRAMENTO dispatch conveys the following information, from which it would seem that all the members and attachés of the Legislature are not models of virtue and uprightness:

"At an early hour this morning a party of legislators were playing cards in one of the rooms adjoining the barroom of the Golden Eagle, among them Senator Cronin, of the Thirteenth District, and James Farrelly, Sergeant-at-Arms of the Assembly. These two became involved in a dispute over the game, which culminated in Cronin drawing a pistol. He pointed the weapon at Farrelly, and just as a member of the party knocked his hand to one side, he fired. The bullet passed within a few inches of Farrelly's head, and entered the ceiling. The game was at once broken up and the party dispersed. No arrests have been made. It is stated that the trouble will not rest here and that the two men will meet again. The affair has caused something of a sensation."

H. A. W. TABOR has been elected to the United States Senate from Colorado for the short term, which expires March 4, 1883. He will thus serve in the Senate but a little over 30 days. Senator Tabor's career has been a remarkable one, considering that but five years ago he was a poor and obscure man, engaged personally in the sale of anything in a general country store from a pound of nails to a pair of boots or a gallon of molasses, whereas to-day he is one of the most widely-known men in the country, with wealth estimated at $8,000,000, an extensive dealer in mines, and a member of the United States Senate. All this arose from an investment of $17 worth of grub stakes in starting out a couple of poor men on a prospecting tour, who were lucky enough to strike the Little Pittsburg mine. He has often said that if he had known where they intended to prospect he would have withdrawn the stakes. If so, he would probably still be plain Mr. Tabor, country storekeeper.

DURING the year 1882 the mines of Eureka district and county have produced 64,924 tons of ore, yielding in gross the sum of $2,511,844. Sixty mines have ben worked, 19 of which are classed as tax paying, the income on the same to the county having been the sum of $9,668.71. Although Eureka has made better showings, the foregoing is not considered bad for the condition of affairs at present existing here. From present indications, this year's production is certain to surpass that of the one just passed.—Eureka Leader.

THE Cortez mine was closed down last Wednesday evening and all the miners discharged. There are a few tons of ore and tailings yet remaining at the mill which will be worked ere the stamps are hung up. After a two months' trial it has been determined that the ore of the Cortez is so low grade that it cannot be worked even at a small profit. This event coupled with the present anxiety felt and existing over county seat affairs, has cast a gloom over the people of this place who were just beginning to dream of the long wished for boom.—Aurora Herald.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 24.... ..1883

DEEP SPRINGS MINING DISTRICT.—Mr. S. P. Roberts, of Big Pine, sends us the following description of that portion of Deep Springs District formerly called Pine Mountain District: "This lead or galena belt is situated on the eastern slope of the White Mountains about six miles west of Deep Springs Valley, and fourteen miles (via Black Cañon) from the line of the C. & C. R. R. This galena belt is about six miles in length and from one-half to three-fourths of a mile in width. The formation is lime and slate. The veins run in a northerly and southerly direction, and dip to the east at an angle of about 45°. They vary in width from six inches to seven feet, with lime hanging walls and slate foot walls. Some forty-two locations have been made and there is room for many more. Thus far but little prospecting has been done, though with encouraging results. One mine has been developed to a depth of between 80 and 90 feet and shows a large and well-defined chimney of ore from 3½ to 4 feet wide; good judges say there is $10,000 worth of ore in sight. On the same hill are two more claims which have been worked. One has a shaft 65 feet deep, showing 3½ feet of ore. Six assays from this claim averaged $55 80 silver, 63 per cent. lead and $9 gold. The other mine shows a solid body of carbonate galena chloride ore 7 feet between the walls, the whole of which will work in a furnace $53 60 silver and 65 per cent. lead per ton. Eighty assays of ore from a number of claims here, made at the Standard office at Bodie, gave an average of $50 90 silver, 48 per cent. lead and $8 60 gold. I have been engaged in handling lead ores for the past 16 years, have visited most all of the leading lead or galena camps on this coast, and will say that the outlook here, for the amount of work done, is 50 per cent. ahead of any camp I have ever seen. It is the right formation for lead ores. Here are thousands of acres of nut pine timber which can be utilized in making smelting coal. The summits of the mountains are covered with a heavy growth of tamarack from 6 inches to 3½ feet in diameter and from 20 to 60 feet in height. There is an abundant supply of good water, also iron, fire clay and, in a word, every facility to smelt and reduce these galena ores. There are no rebellious metals to contend with. The country is easy of access."

PERSONAL.—S. D. Woods returned from San Francisco by the Northern Stage Saturday afternoon. His visit to San Francisco, which he expected to last for one or two months, was limited to just one week. He reports great inquiry concerning this country, and says that the coming Summer and the completion of the railroad will bring to our country numbers of persons seeking for investments. Mr. Woods expects to return to San Francisco before many days. His visit if on business alone.... Mrs. Kernodle, wife of Dr. H. G. Kernodle, arrived from Oakland last Wednesday.... Editor Parker is in Lone Pine.... A. R. Conklin and O. I. Mairs left Independence last Monday to visit Los Angeles, San Francisco and other cities by the Ocean.... Judge W. C. Brierly, of Bishop Creek, arrived in Independence yesterday afternoon, and, chaperoned by the knowing ones, took in the sights last night.... W. J. Ladd has tendered his resignation as driver on the Southern stage line, a position which he has occupied for the past eight years. For 23 years he has been in the employ of stage companies operating on this coast.

BEVERIDGE DISTRICT.—The new five stamp mill is being pushed to completion as fast as possible by Mr. L. Lusky, the owner. It is intended to have the mill in running order by March 15th, when crushing will be immediately commenced on ore from the Keynot and other mines contignous to the mill. Rich quartz is now being extracted from a number of claims, and there is every prospect that plenty of ore will be produced to keep the mill in constant operation. Over $350,000 in gold has already been taken out in the past two years, and that mostly from the Keynot mine alone, which has large quantities of ore yet in sight, but some dead work will have to be done before any considerable quantity of ore can be taken out. Several other promising claims in this district have not yet been worked to any considerable extent, but some of them promise to yield largely when opened. Beveridge will be a busy camp during the coming Summer.

THE RAILROAD.—A gentleman from Bishop Creek informs us that the track of the C. & C. R. R. is now laid to a point 15 miles south of Benton Station, and that the graders have reached Fish Slough, which is distant from Bishop Creek only about 12 miles. A force of railroad carpenters are now at Bishop Creek and say they will soon commence the erection of buildings for machine shops and round house at Bishop Creek Station. However, this latter statement must be taken with a grain of allowance, as it is the first intimation we have heard that such works were to be located there.

SOMETHING NEW.—And now kites are all the rage. Johnny and Dan Crough, A. W. Eibeshutz and Morton George each have one, and most any hour during the day they may be seen flying them. It makes one's heart ache to observe how wistfully little Sammy Thurston, Tommy Crough, Johnny Irwin, Arlie Mairs and Billy Grant gaze on the happy possessors of kites. Their countenances plainly indicate that they each have a yearning desire for a kite.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY.—Thursday last there was the usual display of flags in respect to the memory of Truthful George.

SWANSEA DISTRICT.—The Indiana mine is being prospected with very encouraging results. C. J. Johnson, who has been working the mine on shares for several months past, has prospected and uncovered the vein in several places for a distance of 750 feet north of the old work done by Boley and Tuttle, two years ago. Ore is found in the vein at all the points opened. The vein is narrow, varying from two to six inches wide, with a perfect hanging wall wherever exposed. The strike is north and south, with a slight pitch to the east. The formation in which the mine is located is quartzite and talcose-slate. Mr. Johnson has shown much ingenuity and perseverance in tracing up the ledge, as the surface is covered with decomposed matter that had covered up all traces of the croppings of the vein. The ore is classed under the head of embolite, which is a chloro bromide of silver, with some lead, and exceedingly rich. Assays of clean ore, made at the Independence assay office, showing from 1000 to 2000 ounces of silver per ton. The chances are good for striking a big bonanza in the Indiana, and the owners, Messrs. Harris and Rhine, are much pleased with the prospect. About five tons of rich ore is now on the dump, and when ten tons have been accumulated it will be shipped to San Francisco,

AN ERROR.—Once in awhile—but only "once in awhile"—it gives a newspaper pleasure to correct its own errors—one like this, for instance: Referring, last week, to Albert Halverson's wounded hand, supposed to have been dangerously poisoned by virus from an animal dead of black-leg, the item concluded with the remark: "so far it (the wound) had baffled all medical skill." Now we are assured by those acquainted with the facts, that, under Dr. W. H. George's treatment, begun three weeks ago, the intense pain was at once alleviated, and a steady improvement has marked the case down to the present, and speedy recovery is as well assured as can reasonably be asked; possibly, however, a partial loss of the use of the hand may ensue.

THE GOLDEN STAR MINE.—This mine is situated in the Inyos, nearly opposite Independence, and was located about four years ago. A shaft was sunk 100 feet deep, and a pocket of rich gold quartz was found, put it did not hold out. Nothing has been done on the mine since that time until about a month ago, when Phillip Carrier, the owner, commenced a new shaft on another part of the ledge, which is now down 75 feet. Rich quartz is now being taken out, together with some silver ore, and the mine now promises to be a paying institution. Six assays of the quartz shows an average of $90 per ton in gold.

THE DIRECTORY.—After next Wednesday no orders to insert advertisements or names in the Inyo County Business Directory will be accepted by the publishers. It is safe to assert that all public spirited citizens and live business men of this county will be represented thereon.

THE RACES.—From all accounts the the races at Big Pine this week were almost a failure—resulting as follows: First day—Race won by an "Injun" horse; second day—Riders had hard work to bring the fastest horse in last; third day—No race.

DELAYED.—A communication from our correspondent at Darwin arrived too late for this issue. It left Darwin on the 19th, arrived at Mojave on the 20th, and reached Independence on the evening of the 23d—four days on the road.

WHO SENT IT?—The publishers of the Directory have received an order from Darwin which bears no signature. The party who sent it will probably be surprised that his name does not appear in the Directory, but he alone is to blame.

POSTPONED.—By referring to the notice at the bottom of the last column on fourth page it will be observed that the sale day of delinquent property has been postponed until Saturday, March 3d, at same hour and place.

COLTS should not be permitted to stand on a plank, cement, paved or any hard floor the first year, as these are liable to seriously affect the feet and legs. Unless the yard where the colts run in the Winter has a sandy or fine, gravelly soil, it should be well littered, so as to keep their feet dry. Mud or soft, wettish ground is apt to make tender hoofs, no matter how well bred the colt may be. One reason why the horses in one district grow up superior to those in another in hoof, bone, muscle and action is because it has a dry limestone and silicous soil.—Iowa Homestead.

A GENTLEMAN who visited Mt. Cory Mining District a few days ago informs us that things look lively and the prospect promising for a flourishing town of several hundred inhabitants within a few months. As soon as the road from Hawthorne is completed lumber for buildings will be rushed in as fast as the teams at command can haul it. The mines are looking very well, and encouraging developments. People from all parts of the State are coming in daily.—Aurora Herald.

THE outfit for a day's shooting in a Nevada town was one gallon of whisky, three fried ducks, one quart of cocktail, four loaves of bread, one bottle of wine, three pounds of bacon, one bottle of whisky, sausage and ground coffee, one pint of whisky, coffee-pot,, one demijohn of whisky, cheese, pepper-sauce, two bottles of snake medicine, one canteen of whisky, ten pounds of Irish potatoes, one small keg of whisky, three lemons, four pocket-companions full of whisky, also some cigars, and a coal-oil can full of whisky, in case of accident to the glass and stoneware packages.

E. W. CRUTCHER has received a map of the vast territory covered by his stock range. Mr. Crutcher owns all the meadow land and water on a section of country 61 miles one way by 42 miles the other. He has 15,000 cattle on the place and 1,000 head of horses. The place produces 1,300 or 1,400 head of beef cattle every Summer. A New England farmer would get lost on a Nevada stock farm.—Reno Gazette.

A correspondent at Luning writes: The Calamity mine, distant some three miles north-easterly from here, was disposed of on the 13 instant, to a New York syndicate for a consideration of $30,000: I. B. Giles, familiarly known as the "Deacon," and Arthur George are now the recipients of a modest fortune.—Candelaria True Fissure.

THE Reno Gazette of last Monday says: A train-load of track-iron went south this morning for the Carson and Colorado, which is pushing out fast for Bishop Creek, and will probably reach there sometime next month.

Two 90 foot lathes, said to be the largest in the world, have been made by the South Boston Iron Works. Each lathe contains 600,000 pounds of iron. They are to be used to bore out cannon.

MRS. LANGTRY and Dion Bourcicault will commence in April a professional tour of the Pacific Coast.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 24..... ...1883

It is well known that, although many distinguished men have had very large brains, these have been occasionally equaled by the brains of persons who never displayed remarkable intellect. Another illustration of this has been lately published in the Cincinnati Lancet, by Dr. Halderman, of Columbus: A mulatto named Washington Napper, aged 45 years, recently died in the hospital at that town. His brain was found to weigh 68¾ ounces, nearly five ounces more than the famous brain of Cuvier. His height was six feet; his limbs were said to have been ape-like in length; his head was massive, lips thick, lower jaw prominent, but his forehead was large and well developed. He had been a slave until the year 1862, and had never been regarded as particularly intelligent. He was illiterate, but is said to have been reserved, meditative and economical.

CHATHAM ISLAND, lying off the coast of New Zealand in the South Pacific Ocean, is peculiarly situated, as it is one of the few habitable points on the globe where the day of the week changes. It is just on the line of demarcation between dates. There high twelve on Sunday or Sunday noon ceases and instantly Monday meridian begins. Sunday comes into a man's house on the east side, and becomes Monday by the time it passes out of the western door. A man sits down to his noon-day dinner on Sunday, and it is Monday noon before he finishes it. There Saturday is Sunday and Sunday is Monday and becomes suddenly transferred into Tuesday.

A KENTUCKY young man who intended to serenade his sweetheart one night got a friend to hint to her that such was his intention. But something happened to prevent his giving the serenade, and some other fellow came along that night and hitched a mule near her house, and while she was listening for the singing the mule began to bray, and the lady, being unused to the animal, didn't know that it was a mule and not her lover singing, and it will never be a match.

IT is estimated that the coal deposits in this country will be exhausted inside of 1,000 years. This doesn't cause us any uneasiness. There is a stove in the market that "saves fifty per cent of the fuel," and next year some genius will be sure to bring out another heating arrangement that will "save fifty per cent. more coal than any other stove ever invented." And thus will all of our coal be saved.

OVER 30,000 paper car wheels were in service in this country on the 1st of January last, with a report of only three failures during the year, neither of which caused any serious injury or harmed a single passenger. They are in use on over 150 different roads.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY of Inyo, State of California.—Charlotte Kimler, plaintiff, versus John A. Kimler, defendant.—Action brought in the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said Superior Court.—The People of the State of California send greeting to John A. Kimler, defendant. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff, in the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county, or if served elsewhere within thirty days. The said action is brought to recover judgment and decree of divorce dissolving the bonds of matrimony between plaintiff and defendant, on the grounds of willful desertion for the period of one year, of plaintiff by defendant, and that the custody of the minor child be awarded to the plaintiff, and for costs of suit and for general relief, all of which will more fully appear by the complaint filed herein, to which reference is hereby made. And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will take judgment against you for the decree prayed for in the complaint and for costs of suit.

Given under my hand and the Seal of the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, this 23d day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two.

The Carson and Colorado.

While the country which this road crosses and is intended to accommodate is so generally arid and sterile, it abounds with valuable deposits of minerals of almost every kind, its principal resources in this direction consisting in its mines of gold, silver, lead and copper, concerning which a good deal has been said elsewhere. Until these resources are more fully developed the business of the road must, of course, remain comparatively limited. That the work of this developement will now proceed rapidly, admits of no doubt, as it has already received a great impulse, having previously been kept back only through lack of the cheap transportation facilities, which the road will now afford. Henceforth great progress may be looked for in the various branches of mining throughout this whole region of country, which, as we have already shown is very extensive. Before the advent of the railroad only the richest ores could be worked here, or shipped from the country with any profit. Now this is all changed, the rich mines paying largely, while many of the poorer ones, before idle, are being worked with satisfactory results. Many of the mines here carry a large percentage of lead, a metal that would not bear wagon transportation 200 miles over sandy roads through a desert country. Hence this class of mines could not, before the railroad was built, be worked to advantage. Along Owens river, the road will, for a hundred miles or more, traverse rich bottom lands, capable, with irrigation, of produceng abundant crops of fruits, grass and grain. In the mountains, on either side of this valley, is a tier of mining districts, all of which abound with mineral wealth, and into which the railroad will infuse new life. After entering Owens river valley, this road will meet with but few obstructions, the country consisting of an open, almost dead-level plain, clear on to the Colorado. It would be difficult in fact, to find elsewhere 300 continuous miles more favorable for railroad construction than this. It is expected that a large population will next year gather into the region opened up by this railroad, as it presents one of the best fields on the coast for both prospectors, business men and investors. The Inyo county mines which cover a vast extent of country, have suffered much by reason of their isolation and difficulty of approach, but now they will receive incalculable benefits from the Carson and Colorado railroad, which is now being pushed rapidly totowards them. If the road had only the mines in this region to depend upon, they alone would ultimately afford it an ample support, as they are not only numerous, but capable of being rendered largely and profitably productive. The road within the limits of this county, will traverse nearly one hundred miles of rich mineral territory, all of which must become tributary to it, as soon as completed, and which is even now affording it a large amount of business.—S. F. Scientific Press.

THE OUTLOOK.—The number of new discoveries of exceedingly rich bodies of ore was never so great as during the year 1882. These valuable discoveries have not been confined to any particular State or Terrttory, but each and all of the mineral bearing portions of our country have furnished their quota of newly-discovered rich mineral deposits. During the year 1883 we may expect these rich discoveries to be increased two-fold over those of last year. The great increase in the facilities for reducing ore has created such healthy competition of affairs, that even ore that assays but $5, $10, and $20 per ton can be worked at a profit. There is not a camp on this coast but has low-grade ore, and the time will come when it will all be worked.

A correspondent of The Country Gentleman states that fowls that have large combs are superior egg-producers, both as concerns quantity and quality. He also states that the combs of fowls increase immensely when they are kept under glass during the season of cold weather.

Discovery of the Comstock.

Ben Holladay is a feature and fixture of Washington. He lives in a beautiful residence on K street, where he entertains a coterie of friends in right royal fashion. His fortune is estimated at from $2,000,000 to $5,000,000, so that it may be fairly presumed that if he should prove unsuccessful in the prosecution of his claim for $350,000, he will not be in immediate want for the necessaries of life. He has retired from business, but amuses his leisure hours by seeing the Congressmen about his claim. Though advanced in age, he shows no signs of failing in strength or health. His hair is just turning gray, but his frame is as powerful and vigorous as it was in early youth, when he established and operated the famous Overland stage line, known as the pony express. He likes to tell of his experience as a pioneer of advancing civilization on the Pacific Coast, among the Argonants of '49.

His story of how the famous Comstock lode was discovered is interesting. As he tells it, one of his stage drivers had a prospector's passion for broken rocks, outcroppings, float and other indications of mineral treasures. On a certain day he came to Mr. Holladay full of a discovery he had made, and showed a sample having a wonderfully large proportion of silver in its composition. He made a proposition to sell one-half of his mine to Mr. Holladay for $1,000 for money with which to operate it. The offer was refused, and the driver resigned and disappeared. In a month or so a company was formed and operations were begun. The mine yielded the richest ore ever taken out of any mine up to that time. Comstock, for that was the stage driver's name, became suddenly one of the wealthiest men in the country. The stock rose rapidly from hundreds to thousands of dollars, and finally $100,000 was paid for a claim twenty feet across the face of the lode. Next to the Bonanza it was probably the richest mine ever discovered in the earth. Mr. Comstock followed the rule, and from being one of the richest men soon became one of the poorest, and finally died penniless.—Chicago Morning News.

Why His Manner Changed.

Billings met Dr. Squint. "Halloo, my friend," exclaimed the doctor, "I am glad to see you. Around hunting for news I suppose? You reporters are always on the go. You are the best reporter in Arkansaw. Say, I am going to have a little gathering of friends at my house to-morrow night; and my wife, who is a great admirer of you, by the way, sends you a special invitation. Let's have a bottle of wine. Say, there, waiter, bring us a bottle of dry champagne."

"I suppose you have heard, doctor, that I am no longer connected with the Daily Bloom?"

"No."

"Yes, I have retired from the newspaper business. When do you say you want me to come around?"

"O, any time," replied the doctor, with an evident change of manner. "Say, waiter, never mind the wine. Bring us two beers."—Arkansaw Traveler.

THE late ex-Congressman Lewis Selye, of Rochester, New York, was not a born orator, but he made speeches from manuscript, all the same. On one of these occasions two friends assisted him; the one on his right handed him the manuscript, page by page, and the one on the left took the sheets as the orator read them. He started in well, and with earnestness of sophomoric eloquence proceeded to deliver himself of his views. Suddenly he paused, looked perplexed and closely scanned the page held. "The tariff must be repealed," he said, in ringing tones. "The tariff must be—the tariff—why, damn it! I've read that before." The friend on his left had passed a page behind his back to the friend on his right, and he had begun reading it for the second time. The Congressional Record contained an expurgated report, with the profanity left out, but Mr. Selye manipulated his own manuscript ever after.

ACCORDING to Professor Charles Avery Doremus, of New York City, who was the first to examine drawpoker with a spectroscope, the chemical composition of the average hand is as follows:

CANADA shipped 13,400 of cattle to Great Britain in 1877; in 1882 she shipped 43,000,—an increase of 30,000 in five years. Besides, there were sent during the year 79,521 sheep. The total exports of live stock from Canada to Great Britain since the commencement of the cattle-exporting business in 1877, amount to 168,288 head of cattle and 353,285 sheep. This business, it is said, promises to enlarge.

AN exhibition of skill with the lariat at Austin, Texas, a few days ago, drew a crowd of ten thousand persons. The cow-boys contested for a silver-mounted saddle worth $300, to be given to him who roped, threw and tied down a steer in the shortest space of time. The winner accomplished the feat in one minute and forty-five seconds.

A WRITER in the Iowa State Register tells of many farmers in the northwestern part of that State using hay for fuel. He saw many stacks of it used for burning brick kilns. It only cost them sixty cents per ton, hence was a cheap fuel and made intense heat. Only a few years ago corn was burned in Iowa and was cheaper at ten cents a bushel than coal was at five dollars a ton. Now it has grown so valuable that it cannot be burned as fuel. Hay, where it is being used for fuel, is cheaper than corn was when it used to be burned, and hundreds of thousands of acres of it go to waste yearly. Of course, with the settlement of the country and the improvement of the wild lands, hay will grow scarcer and be more in demand, and so grow too valuable to burn. But meantime it is a cheap fuel to burn in those localities.

NOBODY'S reputation and honor are safe in this cynical age. For the last ten years Mount Everest, in Nepaul, has been considered the highest mountain in the world, reaching the respectable height of 29,002 feet. Dhawalagiri and Kuchinjinga, in the same range, with about 28,000 feet each, shared this honor between them, until Major Everest, of the Bengal engineers, discovered their big brother. Before they were measured Humboldt thought some points in the South American Andes reached the highest altitude on our globe. And now comes Captain J. A. Lawson, who has discovered in the little-known Island of New Guinea a peak that beats them all, which he has appropriately called Mount Hercules, and fixed its elevation at 32,786 feet above the level of the sea.

SATURDAY, MARCH 3.....1883

JAMES E. PARKER.

THE general appropriation bill as it finally passed the Assembly, appropriates $2,596,885, which is about $100,000 less than the bill two years ago. All the salaries of the deputies and secretaries of State officers, at first cut down to $1,600, have been restored to the original figures. The appropriation for the State Printing Office has been fixed at $145,000. The State Engineer gets $20,000 with which to complete his irrigation report with maps, and the Railroad Commission is given $3,000 with which to pay for a stenographer. For the restoration and preservation of fish $10,000 is appropriated. The State Viticultural Commission gets $20,000; the Normal School at San Jose $60,000; the school at Los Angeles $30,000; the Stockton Insane Asylum $360,000; the Napa Asylum in all $395,500; the Prison at San Quentin gets $60,000, and that at Folsom $160,000; the Deaf, Dumb and Blind Asylum $60,000; the University in all gets $47,300. The other items in the bill are not materially changed from those originally reported. The Tax Levy bill is still before the House Committee on Ways and Means. Besides the General Appropriation bill all the other money bills before the Legislature must form the basis of the estimate in making the levy for the General Fund. From the present outlook, the levy will be lower than last year by eight or ten cents.

THE indications now are that the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad will be built through to San Francisco as a competing trans-continental line as was originally intended. Boston newspapers of the greatest influence a re urging it strenuously in the interest of the stockholders. They take the ground that it can never become a profitable road without its western terminus is on the Pacific.

THE Legislature will probably adjourn to-night at 12 P. M., since the Constitution shuts off further per diem. It has been suggested that a working majority might consent to stay out another ten days and wind up business without pay. If so, they are very public spirited men, or else corruption is implied. It will require some time yet, at this distance, to ascertain what legislation really has been accomplished.

MONO COUNTY has engaged the services of special counsel to assist the District Attorney, at a yearly fee of $2,000. The regular officer gets $500 per annum. They have a peculiar system about things up there, anyway. However, judging from the latest news in the matter of impeaching Judge Wiggin, they will have one less Superior Court.

THE Inyo Borax Company has filed articles of incorporation, with the following Board of Directors: Robert E. McGill, John F. O'Brien, Henry Glass, Chas. E. Kinsey and John D. Langborne, Jr. The capital stock is fixed at $50,000, of which $10,000 has been subscribed. The Company intends to mine for borax and kindred minerals.

THE INDEPENDENT office, through the courtesy of Representative Keeler, is in receipt of the regular reports of all the State officers, Commissions and State institutions generally. They will be valuable for reference for years to come, and the member has our thanks therefor.

THE Esmeralda Herald of last Saturday stops blowing its fingers long enough to pen the following: "Owing to the closing down of the Cortez mine and the rumored removal of the county seat, Aurora has somewhat the appearance of an indigo bag—very blue. Golly, ain't it cold?"

THE Armagosa Borax Company has incorporated, with a capital stock of $50,000. The Directors are: William Locke, William C. Brown, Thomas W. Chinn, George Reuner and William R. Townsend.

A modification of the "slickens" question afflicts Michigan, where a copper mining company runs its waste stamp sand into a bay and is spoiling a harbor. Congress is asked to interfere.

THAT there are still several acres of unoccupied land in the West is deduced from the fact that beyond the Mississippi river there are 1,200,000 square miles not settled by white men.

LARGE QUANTITIES of borax are now being hauled out to the Carson and Colorado, for shipment, from Columbus and Fish Lake Valley.

THE temperance people claim the election of Cullom, Senator from Illinois, as their victory. Raum, anti-temperance was defeated.

NEVADA seems not to have listened to her sister California in her treatment of railroads. The cinching bills have all been killed.

MILLIONS FOR EDUCATION.

That there is an alarming extent of illiteracy in some parts of the United States, notably the Southern States, is a fact shown by the census returns. That something should be done to lessen this ignorance among the people is equally plain. But it may be doubted whether a satisfactory remedy for the evil is afforded by the bill now before the House of Representatives providing for the appropriation of $10,000,000 a year—an aggregate of $50,000,000—from the national treasury for the education of the illiterate population in the several States. It is the duty of every State to educate its own children, and if every State performed this duty there would be no occasion for the nation to assume the burden. It is also a question whether Congress has the constitutional authority to vote money for this purpose; but assuming that it has such authority, and conceding the advisability of the General Government extending some judicious aid to the States in this matter, it may be well to consider whether an appropriation of $50,000,000 is not an altogether too lavish draft upon the public treasury. The fact that there is an enormous surplus on hand, with little prospect of its being lessened by a reduction of taxation, doubtless has much to do with this proposed extravagant expenditure for educational purposes. It is also pertinent to consider how much of this $50,000,000 would be likely to go into the pockets of politicians and jobbers.

THE news of railroad accidents is so oft-recurring as to have become monotonous. There would be enough in these to excite the sympathy of compassionate hearts if nothing more sorrowful presented; but the period is prolific in horrors of all kinds and descriptions. An Eastern newspaper summarizes them as follows:

Flood and fire, fire and flood, political upheavals and frequent rumors of wars—what are we coming to? Floods on the Rhine, the Danube, the Ohio, and the Mississippi, and in China, also, where, by the bursting of levees, many square miles of territory have been inundated. Scores of people burned to death in Milwaukee and hundreds in a Russian circus; steamships lost, with many fatalities: Peru overrun by native or Chilean guerrillas; France on the edge of a volcano; the Mohammedan false prophet in Africa winning astonishing successes; mines caving in and killing many people; the cholera coming from the East; Ireland still in a ferment—truly, these are perilous times.

ANOTHER PIONEER GONE.—Thomas Edwards, who died at Crockett on the 15th of Febuary, was one of the pioneer settlers of Tuolumne county, where he settled in 1850. There he engaged largely in the business of stock raising up to 1863, when, owing to the drought of that season, he transfered his stock to the Owen's River country, where shortly after his arrival he laid out the town of Independence, which is the present county seat of Inyo county. Within the past year he, together with J. L. Heald of Vallejo, laid out the town of Crockett on the Straits of Carquinez, thus maknig two towns which he has laid out in his lifetime. Previous to his arrival in California he was for ten years engaged in the steamboat business on the Mississippi. Mr. Edwards was a native of North Wales, born April 5, 1812. He leaves a wife, five sons and a daughter to mourn his loss. He was well known as an industrious and enterprising man, and has many friends residing in different parts of the State. His death was caused by apoplexy.—S. F. Bulletin.

AMONG the most amazing things told by Professor Langley about the sun is that if a bed of coal the size of the State of Pennsylvania, and ten feet thick, were suddenly shoved into the sun, it would be used up in keeping up the present energy of the sun for just the one-hundredth part of a second. Another of his illustrations is his estimate that the rainfall on Manhattan Island for three months, loaded as ice, would fill a train extending from Jersey City to San Francisco.

JOHN P. IRISH, editor of the Oakland Times, has been appointed Lieutenant-Colonel and Chief of Ordnance on the Governor's staff. Mr. Irish has not seen any military service since the Revolutionary war, but has been in many quill-pen skirmishes, and has spilled lots of ink, and will no doubt see that the cannons are properly curried every morning, and that the powder is sprinkled whenever it gets too dry.—S. F. Report.

"PRINCIPLES never change," announces the Oakland Tribune. On this side of the ridge it has come to be a principle that we never do have any change. The principal trouble is to get a $.

HON. J. J. AYERS, State Printer, has advanced the assertion that the cost of producing text books for use in the public schools would amount to one dollar and thirty-eight cents. The present cost is over five dollars.

THE work of pumping out the flooded mine at Braidwood, Illinois, continues. It is said by those in authority that the mine will never be worked again, and that as soon as the bodies are recovered it will be abandoned.

IT is learned upon good authority that Senator Davis, President pro tem. of the Senate, will resign upon the 31 of March, in time to permit his successor to be elected without requiring an extra session.

THE general rains that have fallen encourage the belief that California will produce bounteously this season.

SOUTHERN INYO.

[Special Correspondence of THE INDEPENDENT.]

DARWIN, February 19.

While all the rest of the world seems to be in a tumult, Darwin remains quiet. Nothing has occurred for several months to raise an excitement, and as our daily papers have brought the news of disasters constantly occurring in distant places, it has given us something to relieve the monotonous thoughts of mining. To know that storms, fires and railroad disasters have no abiding place here is some compensation for dull times.

Very little work is being done at present. Mr. J. S. Gorman has gone below, it is said for the purpose of making arrangements with his partners to carry on the work of developing

THE DEFIANCE MINE

To a greater depth. Anyone acquainted with the mine and its surroundings knows too well that this should have been done long ago. The mine—composed of heavy bodies of ore lying between two well-defined walls of porphyritic granite and lime, the former being the eastern or foot wall, and the latter the western wall—with a depth reached in its lowest workings of no more than 250 feet, is a fair sample of the many mines here and the condition in which a number of them can be found to-day. Such has been the effete work of the corporate companies that about 250 feet is as deep as any of the mines have been prospected, not enough to show if they are permanent or only surface chambers; but Mr. Gorman, with the energy characteristic of a good miner, proposes to go downwards upon the mine and prove its permanence or "knock out the bottom."

Mr. Thompson has recently made some new discoveries in the old Cuervo mine, which is situated but a short distance to the north of and on the Defiance belt. By running a tunnel 250 feet in length he cut the ledge at the depth of 250 feet, encountering an entirely different class of ore from what he found on the surface, and in paying quantities. The ore is a black brittle sulphuret of silver, carrying zinc, being almost identical in character with that of the Indian Queen mine, near Benton. The assay value is from $300 to $400 per ton, and would be pronounced a profitable base milling ore, to be worked by a roasting and milling process. This would lead one to suppose that in sinking upon the Defiance or any other mine on that belt a change of ore will take place, and as the baser ores disappear rich sulphurets will take their place.

The Defiance mine lies directly north of town. The mineral belt runs nearly north and south, passing a little to the east. To the east of this belt at a distance of less than a mile is another belt in a like formation. In this belt are situated the Custer, Promontory, and Gould & Jackson's mine. The latter gentlemen have been at work during the Winter sinking on their mine and are down 250 feet. They have a well-defined ledge of from three to six feet in width, all ore, assaying from $80 to $300 per ton.

The Custer belongs to the Defiance Company and is practically undeveloped, although a run has been made from ore taken from the mine that yielded over $150 per ton.

The Promontory is owned by John Eddy, and at the depth of 140 feet shows well and carries rich ore.

This is the richest mineral belt so far as developed about Darwin.

BONANZA KING MINE

Is still looking well. They are still sinking, cross-drifting and placing the mine in readiness for the mill. In the South Point mine a tunnel is being run lengthwise of the ledge, and at a depth of sixty feet from the surface a crosscut shows the ledge to be fifteen feet wide, with seven feet of first-class ore. The carpenter work about the mill is nearly completed, and the main water pipe is now being laid from the spring, a distance of about five miles. The mill is expected to start up by the 1st of April. Numerous prospectors are at work and several valuable discoveries are reported.

At Lookout, Fitzgerald is putting in his new water jacket and will probably start up within a week.

At Snow's Cañon, Smith & Eddy are making a successful run.

At Panamint nothing is being done save the removal of a building by J. J. Gunn, who proposes to "set it up" at Reilly.

TRANSIENT.

FRUIT TREE PLANTING.—Stockton Independent interview with W. B. West: In selecting fruit trees it is always safe to be guided by an experienced nurseryman. In the San Joaquin valley irrigation is absolutely necessary; trees may live and produce some small and inferior fruit, but for large and fine crops do not spare the water. The trouble is inconsiderable compared with the benefits derived; better irrigate and cultivate one acre well than 10 poorly; this is a truism that will apply, however, to all planting operations, but it is not by any means generally observed practically, as farmers will admit. Mr. West says that it is a grievous mistake to plant trees just as they are received from the nursery, as is the common habit, too, that ruins thousands of thrifty trees. In removing a tree from the nursery rows, no matter how carefully it is done, a portion of the roots are cut off, and consequently the balance existing between the root and the top is destroyed; this must be restored by proper pruning. Apple, pear and plum trees are sold usually at two years old, having been cut back in the nursery at the end of the first year to from three to five feet; they have branches from this hight which should be shortened in to within a foot or so of the previous season's growth. Next, the roots must be attended to; all cut and jagged places should be made smooth. Then, with the usual careful attention in setting them out in large holes, etc., there will hardly be the least danger of the tree dying. Where land can be thoroughly irrigated, small fruit may be grown between the rows of the orchard. Blackberries, raspberries, currants and gooseberries can be grown better thus than in the full exposure to the sun. To have strawberries produce abundantly they must be irrigated freely.

THE San Francisco Report furnishes the following items of local interest:

Thos. B. Pheby, Superintendent of the Inyo Con. Company, has succeeded in obtaining a complete and satisfactory settlement from the several companies that insured the Company's reduction works, which burned some two months ago. It is the intention of the Company to build a new ten-stamp mill, and to this end the Superintendent will report at the office in New York at an early day, with plans for the work, which will be carried out in the Spring and early Summer. He has some men at work in the mines.

Mrs. Senator P. Reddy has been indisposed. She is stopping at the Lick House, in San Francisco. Mrs. Reddy is a sister of Mr. Conklin, who recently ran for Lieutenant-Governor on the Republican ticket. Both the lady and her brother bear a striking resemblance to the celebrated Roscoe. Her husband is the recognized leader of the present California Senate, and bids fair to yet figure conspicuously in the council chambers of the nation.

From Thomas Ewing, manager of the Bonanza King mine, who recently returned from there, we get several items of news. Besides his own, he says there is one more large operation inaugurated in Providence Mountain District, and that several new mills are built and building along the Mojave branch of the S. P. R. R. appertaining to Calico and Providence. The road, he thinks, will meet the Atlantic and Pacific in about forty-five days.

Our county fathers have taken precautionary measures against fire at the Court House, by purchasing in San Francisco a set of four extension ladders, each forty-six feet long, lapping four feet; three hooks and 200 feet of 1¾-inch hose—all of which arrived yesterday, and were being put in position on Friday.—Bridgeport Union.

The Mono county dads do something sensible sometimes. But we wonder how far in such a direction the Hon. Board of Supervisors of Inyo would go?

MANY of the wealthiest men in New York began poor. Jay Gould was a cowboy; James R. Keene came from England with $20 in his pocket; Rufus Hatch began by dealing in "garden sass;" D. Appleton kept a grocery store; James Watson Webb was a country clerk; Henry Villard was a reporter; Leonard W. Jerome was a printer; H. B. Claflin was a Vermont school teacher; Charles O'Conor was born of the poorest of Irish parents, and Peter Cooper was a hatter's apprentice.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR'S SON has been expelled from Princeton College for behaving worse than a San Francisco hoodlum. He set a building on fire. Since then he has gone to Chicago to live. Evidently the young man's case is hopeless.

DOING WELL.—The Lone Pine Hotel, under the management of Mr. John Barnes, and the Whitney House, with Mrs. Stewart as hostess, are both enjoying a comparatively rushing business. The merchandising houses and the saloons enter a general complaint of hard times.

QUERY.—Where are those items and all that correspondence promised from Bishop Creek and Round Valley?

SATURDAY, MARCH 3..... ..1883

ALL ABOUT A "SPROUT."—On the street between two prominent business houses, the other morning, our Lokle-items found parties engaged in a somewhat acrimonious discussion. The said Lokle paid no attention to the same, considering it none of his funeral, particulary. Subsequently it transpired that on January 1st last, Harris & Rhine sent a party up to the summits of Kearsarge Peak, through the fearful snow blizzard which then prevailed, to relocate the old Silver Sprout mine. It is said that the party placed the notice in the blacksmith shop. Only the other day the firm sent Surveyor Seeley with an assistant up to mark out the boundaries, build monuments, etc. But they met a party coming down which had been sent up by W. T. Grant and H. Levy, and it is said that the Surveyor found when he got there that the party just ahead of him had placed regular relocation notices on the mine. Grant and Levy went up the mountain themselves to-day. How the affair will come out it is difficult to predict just now.

BURIAL OF GEORGE G. BURKHARDT.—Our readers will no doubt remember that on the 19th of May last George G. Burkhardt died a lonely death in the Coso Mountains. His remains were left by his relatives and friends until the time should come to exhume and give them a fitting burial. On Thursday last, in accordance with the wishes of his widow, son and friends, his remains were brought to Lone Pine and buried with honors. He was a man of large mind, gifted with great mechanical genius, and worthy by reason of it to occupy a larger sphere than he did. It was a matter of congratulation to his son and widow that almost the entire population of Lone Pine attended the funeral, without especial solicitation. George H. Gregory, Esq., read over the remains the grand funeral service of the Church of England, and they were laid to their eternal rest, blessed with the prayers and benedictions of his late and sorrowing friends.

PINE MOUNTAIN.—We stated a week or so ago that Duncan Campbell and S. P. Roberts had taken hold of the old Pine Mountain mines in earnest. Since then we learn that they have let a contract to Erwin & Fuller to sink a shaft in the Chastine mine 50 feet, with the privilege of going down 50 feet more. At the depth of 50 feet two levels will be run 25 feet each way on the ledge. The width of the ore, which is of high grade, on the surface is seven feet between walls. They have also started work on the Stonewall Jackson, or the "82" mine, which has a promising outlook. The vein is 30 inches between walls and the assays show $85 60 silver per ton and 65 per cent. lead.

BEVERIDGE.—The new mill being built by L. Lasky, of Lone Pine, for working the ores of the Keynot and surrounding mines, will be ready to begin operations in about two weeks. Owing to the rugged nature of the country the enterprise has been attended with extraordinary difficulties, which could only have been surmounted by men of determination and great experience in mountaineering. Mr. Lasky will be "in" about $40,000, and on account of his enterprising pluck, everybody is earnestly wishing for his complete success. Small forces of men are at work in quite a number of mines, taking out ore and opening up breasts and stopes.

THE ARGUS RANGE CO.—A number of miners and workmen in the employ of the Argus Range S. M. Co., at Slate Range, are now here and at Lone Pine. A big "pay-day" has occurred, in which the Company settled up all claims for labor and materials to date. The mill is close to completion and the workmanship is reported to be first-class in every respect. Good miners, well acquainted with the properties, say that there is about 1,000 tons of milling ore on the dumps, ready for working. Altogether, it is the most encouraging outlook for a big operation which this county has ever experienced.

THE HONEY BUSINESS.—By reference to Mr. Muth-Rasmussen's advertisement it will be seen that he has moved his apiary to Oak Creek, a short distance above Bell's mill, where he will be glad to see any of his friends who are interested in the production of bees and honey. For accommodation of customers he will leave honey for sale at his old residence at J. Vagt's place, and also at Bell's mill. He will soon build a water-wheel on the creek for running his circular saw, when he will be able to get out bee-hive material better and cheaper than be done by hand labor.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.—A regular session of the County Board of Education will begin on Wednesday, the 21st instant, to which fact we call the attention of members of the Board, teachers and parents. On the day following will occur the examination of applicants for teachers' certificates. The County Superintendent desires a full attendance, and we call attention to the regular notices elsewhere.

TO START UP.—The new Sacramento mill, Pinte District, was to start up on Thursday last. From all accounts there is no reason why the gold output from these works should not only be large but permanent, from the extent of the mine and the rich, free-milling ore which it yields.

THE PIONEER MILL.—Messrs Ward and Thorpe, who were in town a few days after supplies, have returned to the Kearsarge mine, where they will continue extracting ore for reduction at the Pioneer mill.

LONE PINE SCHOOL.—County Sup't Groves and Miss Eva Shepherd are teaching the Lone Pine school, which numbers about sixty pupils.

W. A. GREENLY.

His Character and Services.

Heroism is a quality which through all ages has commanded the admiration of mankind. It adorns alike the savage and civilized man, and lifts him above mere condition into a place of grandeur. It is the quality which commands the adoration of woman, transforms the commonest form and feature into the proportion and face of a demi-god. The rude rocks that mark the Pass of Thermopalæ glow with beauty to-day, reflected down the centuries from the heroic spirits that there stood guard over the liberties of Greece. That story yet stirs the pulse of soldiers and has inspired for ages men to lives of devotion. Heroism needs no vast arena for its action. Its deeds are enacted in the quiet of peaceful lives as powerfully as in the splendid valor of the assaulting column or the dash and glory of the tented field. The long list of heroes whose lives have been expressed in human nature's highest moods, becoming historic and growing clearer and brighter as distance leads them forth into the serene heavens where are set the great lights of the world, does not contain the names of all who have lived heroic lives. Heroes as illustrious in valor as Cæsar are living in the seclusion of quiet communities, known and appreciated by a few to whom their choice gifts of spirit are known, but bearing no part in the fame which adorns the illustrious names that are set like stars along the horizon of history. Such a one is the subject of this sketch, who, in the cool and sequested vales of life, pursues the even tenor of his way. W. A. Greenly, a modest, gentle and unobtrusive man, in his humble way pursuing the common avocations of life, working daily with his hands in the common field of labor for competence, is

A MAN OF REMARKABLE CHARACTER AND TEMPER.

Modest and gentle in spirit as a woman, he bears an indomitable heart. The atmosphere of his mind is as serene as a Summer's morning. His courage, tried in many a place of fear, rises in solid strength, as lift the mountains against the sky. His portrait, drawn true to life, would disclose a frame of strength; a face passionate with benevolence, clear-cut, yet rugged with the wear and tear of frontier life; a lip upon whose trembling lines the kindest words find a home and hiding place; an eye of intelligence, acute, yet tempered with the genial spirit within. A sunny smile, radiating the deep-cut lines of his face, emphasize the royal temper of the man. It is said that "a man may smile and smile and still be a villian," but no villian ever had for one moment the play over his features of that smile which lights the face of Greenly. His is the smile which wins the babe from its mother's arms, and to which weary and broken women turn to renew their faith in the manhood of mankind. One of the strangest problems of human life is presented by that phase of human nature which represses and hides under bushel measures the highest types of character, and elevates to lofty places those whose lives are dry as Summer dust. Many a beggar in heart sits upon a royal throne, while kings in tatters beg their sustenance across a cruel world. The vulgar spirit, moved by the lowest motives of human conduct, insists upon recognition, place and power, while the princely one, conscious of its integrity and divine gifts, sits in the seclusion of a lonely habitation waiting for the world to discover its merits, desiring rather to die unknown than by any base lever of power to lift itself into the gaze of the populace. Popular worship is often given to vulgar gods, the knee bent at the shrine of unholy rites. The motives which move a community or nation into action are often played upon by forces themselves low and contemptible. We are moved to this expression by the thought of great and useful lives being forever without recognition.

THE INDIAN WAR.

To-day you dwellers in this valley, sitting in places of safety and peace, know no elements of danger to disturb you. The quiet sky which bends over you from mountain summit to summit pours a flood of light upon a circle of quiet and happy homes. The wild man, the aborigine, who once owned this country, wanders in and out of your fields, pastures, homes and streets—a broken, peaceful creature with few wants—accepting in a degree what he sees of your civilization and life, careless, listless, broken and dejected. Was it once so? You remember when you laid down upon beds of fear and arose in the morning oppressed with dread lest before the fall again of night you should hear the deadly war-cry and feel the force of savage vengeance. Who was it then, who from his quiet pursuits an almost unknown man—when the troops of the Government were paralyzed with the outlook of savage force, and already on many battle fields were whipped and beaten—came to the front and with a few kindred and determined spirits took the field, determined to save your homes, your lives, or die in the attempt? I need not answer, though history has failed in its office to give his name and services their fitting place. Greenly was the man. The heroism of Regulus—sent by the Carthegenians to plead for peace with Rome, knowing the torture and the rack waited him on his return if he failed to sue for peace, with a divine eloquence pleading with Rome to wage ceaseless war against his captors—was not animated by higher impulses than those which moved the spirit of Greenly when he took upon himself the task of standing between you and the desperate courage of wild and savage men. Life he counted as nothing in the balance; possessions, the hope and promise of a young and exultant life, he pledged to you for peace and safety. The annals of heroic self-denial contain no more noble chapter of courage than that presented in his council held with a few chosen men, ten or twelve in number, with 2,000 warriors armed, excited, hostile and desperate, when he, around their council fire and

IN THE CIRCLE OF THEIR WAR DANCE,

Told them that he was then and there determined that they should submit to the power of the white man. He knew a word unfitly spoken would have ended his life. One moment's lack of courage would defeat the current of events and change the history of the valley. He rose to the occasion with that supreme temper that marks him to-day, and by the power of moral force alone compelled the admiration of those wild and savage men, and lived to fight out for you, to question of your safety. He alone was worth a regiment of enlisted men. Notwithstanding, all his services have never been adequately appreciated by the Government. He should have received compensation for many things he did. His cattle he slaughtered to feed soldiers and citizens at home and in the field. He has deserved better than he has received, but that quiet modesty that distinguishes him, as marked as his courage, has prevented him from pressing his just claims upon the consideration of the Government. He carries his reward in his heart, nourished always by the recollection of duties faithfully performed, which, perhaps to a great moral nature is the very highest payment for services performed in the interest of mankind. Boone's name has become a part of Kentucky, and by force of like events Greenly's must always be identified with Owens River. W.

Planting an Orchard.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT—My experience in orchards has elicited a great many inquiries, and by request I will give your readers the benefit of the following upon the subject. Fruit culture will be largely increased in this valley, to meet the increasing demand by home and neighboring markets.

Having assiged a portion of ground for an orchard in some sheltered place well protected from the wind, we manure the ground well and then plow it in; then harrow it down level as possible. Then mark it off in two directions, so that the intersections of the furrows shall come at the siations for the trees. This is the best way to dig the holes, for the furrows can be made quite deep enough. Indeed, it is not a good plan to set the trees too deep in the ground. I advocate planting on the surface, or as they grew naturally in the nursery. The distance between the trees depends on the variety. Some will require more space than others, but I have always advocated close planting for these reasons: In the first place it is now conceded that the land appropriated to the orchard should be given up to the trees and not be used for other crops. Therefore there is less necessity for space between them. In close planting the whole ground is shaded and kept from baking, and thus remains more loose than where exposed. The crowding of the trees also protects them in a great degree from the severity of the cold in Winter and from the injury incident to the sudden changes in our climate; but in exposed situations this close planting especially shelters them from the trying winds of this valley and our late frosts in Spring.

The planting of a fruit tree is the most impertant part to be observed, and the greatest care should be taken to place the roots in their natural position in the hole, which should be large enough to admit the tree's roots without cramping; then put the surface soil next to the fibres and work it in amongst them with the hands so as to bring it in contact both below and above the roots. When the roots are well covered with soil then a slight pressure may be made with the foot at the ends of the roots. If the ground is dry it may require a few quarts of water poured upon the roots to settle the soil, and this should be covered with dry earth. All that portion of the tree which was under ground in the nursery must be covered when transplanted.

Cultivation should be kept up in a young orchard for a few years, or until the trees are well established and begin te cover the ground with their shade, When the spaces between them will be occupied by the branches so as to no longer admit cultivation with the plow, then we have to resort to the spade.

S. A. DENSMORE.

A RARE SPECIMEN.—Julius Roper has presented to the Independence assay office collection, a piece of ore weighing about two pounds, from the Nancy mine. The Nancy was located about three years ago, and nothing has been done on the claim since that time except assessment work until a short time ago. The specimen is composed of dark gray, hard carbonate of lead, with a little quartz; the lead being literally alive with bright free gold in small grains and points. An assay of the ore made by Mr. Woodhull, shows 42 per cent of lead, and 233.28 oz silver per ton. The amount of gold has not been determined. Mr. Roper states that he has found pieces of the lead ore that on being cracked with a hammer, the pieces would not easily separate, being held together by wires and strings of gold.

HORRIBLE.—A statement comes from Round Valley that the poeple there are greatly excited over an alleged case of incest, wherein a grandfather and granddaughter were the guilty parties. The girl refuses to name her betrayer, but all circumstances point to the almost certainty of such being the facts in the case. We withhold the names of the parties for the present.

ALL FOR SPORT—After kite-flying came horse racing. Three races were perpetrated, and some coin transferred. The absence from the track of our sporting editor prevents a more definite mention.

NOTICE.—Those not ordering their names or business cards in the Inyo County Business Directory by to-morrow night, will "get left," sure.

PROSPECTING.—Thos. Moran is opening up a mine near the Indiana, Swansea District, in which rich developments are expected.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, MARCH 3.....1883

THE Russian newspapers report that much mischief is being done to the crops in Southern Russia by locusts and other insect pests. In the district of Rasachs 5,000 men were daily employed in the work of extirpation. On the railway from Tillis to Poti the locusts lay so thick on the line that the trains were obstructed. The steppes of the Don have been swept bare of all vegetation, as if a fire had passed over the land. Fourteen companies of soldiers are employed in the Odessa district in destroying these insect plagues. The mischief is not confined to the south; swarms of locusts have been observed also in the northern governments. A huge swarm passed by Moscow recently at an elevation of from 70 to 100 feet.

GREAT BRITAIN has set an example which the United States would do well to follow. It has introduced into its colonies the cultivation of trees and plants which produce medicinal drugs. Cinchona trees are now grown in India and Jamaica, and sarsaparilla is cultivated in all the colonies that enjoy a mild climate. An effort is now being made to raise all kinds of medicinal plants by the colonies governed by Great Britain.

THE number of English emigrants who sailed from Liverpool last year was 17,179 greater than in the previous year, while the Irish fell off 2,658, and the Scotch 657. The increase in English emigration is attributed to the agricultural depression. Of the whole number of this nationality, 88,313 chose the United States for a home, and 27,203 selected Canada.

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY of Inyo, State of California.—Charlotte Kimler, plaintiff, versus John A. Kimler, defendant.—Action brought in the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said Superior Court —The People of the State of California send greeting to John A. Kimler, defendant. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff, in the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county, or if served elsewhere within thirty days. The said action is brought to recover judgment and decree of divorce dissolving the bonds of matrimony between plaintiff and defendant, on the grounds of willful desertion for the period of one year of plaintiff by defendant, and that the custody of the minor child be awarded to the plaintiff, and for costs of suit and for general relief, all of which will more fully appear by the complaint filed herein, to which reference is hereby made. And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will take judgment against you for the decree prayed for in the complaint and for costs of suit.

Given under my hand and the Seal of the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, this 23d day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two.

THE ROAD LAW.

The new Road Law is very long. Its prominent features are, that public highways are defined as streets, alleys, lanes, courts, places, trails and bridges laid out by the public, or by others, and dedicated or abandoned to the public use. The Boards of Supervisors shall establish road districts, and each Supervisor shall be ex-officio Road Commissioner of the several road districts in his township, and act as such without compensation. The Board shall, upon a petition containing the names of a majority of the tax-payers of a road district, appoint an Overseer for each or any district, such Overseer to be an elector of the district for which he is appointed, to serve during the pleasure of the Board, or for a period not exceeding two years, to perform the duties devolving upon him under the direction of the Road Commissioner. Vacancies may be filled by the Board without petition. This section does not interfere with the terms of Overseers now holding such positions by election. Overseers must file a bond approved by the Judge of the Superior Court; take charge of the roads; keep them clear from obstruction, and destroy, at least once a year, all thistles, cockle-burs and all other noxious weeds; cause banks to be graded, bridges and crossways to be made, replace them when needed and keep them in good repair; make quarterly reports under oath as to the number of days labor performed, by whom, wages paid, also the kinds and amounts of material used. To receive for his services a sum not to exceed $3 a day for not more than 100 days in any one year; they are allowed 15 per cent on all monies collected as road poll tax, provided they shall have paid into the treasury the sum of all moneys collected, and no per diem is allowed for the time spent in making such collections. Thirty-five per cent. may annually be set apart from the property road tax collected as a general road fund; no debts shall be created on any road district in excess of the annual estimated receipts. The Board may annually at any meeting between the first days of January and March, levy a poll tax on each male person between the ages of twenty-one and fifty-five, not to exceed three dollars, and may provide by ordinance how this tax may be worked out. They must estimate the amount required for a property highway tax and levy the same, which must he assessed and collected in the same manner that other taxes are collected and turned over to the Treasurer for the use of the road districts in which it is collected. Ten freeholders may petition to alter or discontinue a road. Owner may also plant trees along highways on the side contiguous to his land. They must be set in regular rows, at a distance of at least twenty feet from each other, and not more than six feet from the boundary line of the highway, and whoever wilfully injures them is liable to the owner. No part of the poll or property tax of any fiscal year shall be applied to the payment of the expenses of any preceding year. The general and district funds provided for in this chapter shall be new and distinct funds. All debts now existing may be funded by the Board of Supervisors. No bridge, the cost of construction or repair of which exceeds $200, must be constructed or repaired without the order of the Board, and they may, in their discretion, let contracts therefor. The Board, in their discretion, to let by contract all work that exceeds $200 in cost. The law is to go into operation immediately after its approval by the Governor.

BESIDES passing a bill reducing the tariff and abolishing internal revenue taxes on everything except whisky and tobacco, Congress has enacted laws reforming the system of civil service appointments and reducing letter postage to two cents. The record of this short session is fuller of good work than many a longer one has been.

IN proof of the assertion that cattle will stray into strange places, we may say that we have seen a cow hide in a shoemaker's shop.

Getting Down to Common Sense.

Until within late years, those engaged in mining for gold and silver, with but few isolated exceptions, were unacquainted with the most approved methods pursued in mining enterprises. They were incapable of developing their properties in the most economical and effective manner, or to select the best adapted machinery and processes for reducing their ore. In fact, they were ignorant in almost every important principle of action pertaining to the business of quartz mining.

The possible chance of gaining gold and silver by delving for it under ground, had such a dazzling effect upon the human imagination that thousands of men, entirely ignorant as to mining, gathered together all their available means and rushed to the distant gold and silver deposits of the great West, where they spent their energies and money without the least regard for economy or practical effort. Costly machinery was bought and transported at heavy expense over mountains and ravines where there existed no other means for easy transportation. In the majority of cases this costly machinery was not adapted to the reduction of the greater portion of the ores produced. Immense sums of money have been expended in the erection of stamp mills where furnaces were required, and furnaces have been built where mills should have been used.

The ordinary directors of our gold and silver-mining companies have, judging from their past actions, believed that any one was capable of managing the affairs at the mine. They have usually appointed their sons, sons in-law, nephews or some social pet as manager of the mining department. No wonder the affairs of such companies become involved, and rich mines were made to appear as being worthless, and mining to be a very risky business. This kind of management is about to pass away, never again to prevail. The lessons of the past have taught our capitalists that mining matters should be conducted by miners and not by novices.—N. Y. Stock Register.

Education.

Governor Butler of Massachusetts says: "Restrict the branches taught in the primary schools by law specifically to spelling, reading, writing, grammar, arithmetic, geography, history—preferably of the United States—and require that those shall be taught upon the same system, to the same grade of scholars, in every common school in the Commonwealth. When the scholar can show by an examination that he is well grounded in the elementary branches, then let him be admitted to a school of higher grade, where linedrawing for industrial purposes shall be taught, book-keeping, algebra, geometry, the rudiments of the Latin and French languages, chemistry, physics, with natural philosophy in a rudimental degree; and there a common school education should stop."

The New York Tribune argues that a child whose brain is crammed with all the subjects now taught will leave off its studies with a vague and indistinct comprehension of all of them, but a practical knowledge of none. The brain is over-taxed, and confusion, discouragement and failure are almost sure to result. "The boy," says the Tribune, "who passes through this system successfully chooses a single line of study with which to earn his living, and adheres to that, and the great mass of undigested facts drop out of his brain. For one sueh successful student there are a hundred who are thrown back, from their inability to perform a task which was unjustly and cruelly made too hard for them."

THE probabilities are that the building of so many American railroads into Mexico will result in the final annexation of that country. It would afford room for fifty millions of our steadily coming European immigrants. A distinguished Mexican politician who recently travelled through the Eastern States, remarked that he would go home with a strong desire to return as a United States Senator. Many Mexican property-holders and capitalists are said to be quietly in favor of abolishing the Mexican Central Government and electing Senators and Representatives to the American Congress. The population of Mexico is estimated at 10,000,000. The valuation of private real estate in the country districts is placed at $773,000,000, and in the cities at $2,658,036. Cattle of all kinds belonging to individuals are valued at $126,000,000, and the property belonging to the nation at $240,000,000. The annual crop of corn is $212,174,424; other agricultural products, $177,451,086. The industrial products have an annual valuation of $14,000,000.—S. F. Report.

THE trial of the new Postal Telegraph Company's wires from New York to Cleveland was successful in sending 3,000 words a minute. A dispatch of that length is cut up into seven parts or "takes," as copy is given out to printers. These are transferred by seven operators ao cylinders, which are simultaneously set in motion to transmit the message over one wire. The company claim it can send eight and receive eight dispatches at the same time over the same wire. If Morse should revisit the earth he will find he was a stranger to the ways his great discovery can be made of utility.

IN Great Britain barley is chiefly used for fattening hogs. In Canada all the small grains except wheat, peas and oats largely take the place of corn. In the New England States a little corn is used in connection with potatoes, apples, pumpkins and mill feed. A variety of food given to hogs appears to produce meat of fine flavor.

A NEW sage-brush exterminator is being tried at Marker's ranch, near Lovelocks, Nev. It consists of two bars of railroad iron bolted together. They are about 25 feet long, and are provided with chains attached about four feet from each end and about 15 feet long. The drag is pulled over the ground by eight horses, and takes out everything before it by the roots. It clears 10 acres per day.

THE signal service desired over a million and a half of dollars to run its guessing machine, but the committee on appropriations thought that less than a million would suffice. They probably intended to cut off General Hazen's means of manufacturing booms. He will hardly be likely to indulge in them at his own expense.

THE Lake Superior iron mines produced 2,943,300 tons of ore in 1882, valued at $24,237,200. The iron product of Michigen is of more value than the silver product of any State in the Union.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY

JAMES E. PARKER.

In the rotunda of the Capitol at Washington are four niches, in which are bas-reliefs, representing scenes in American history. The first represents the landing of the Pilgrims at the rock of Plymouth. Miles Standish and his wife are there, and the Indians offering them corn. The second is William Penn with his charter, and the Indians giving him land. The third is Pocahontas saving the life of Captain John Smith, condemned to death by her father, Powhattan. The fourth is Daniel Boone in Kentucky, with his knife drawn in one hand and his foot over a prostrate Indian's form. In the year 1840 a delegation of Comanche Indians visited Washington, and were taken to see the Capitol. One of the officials, wishing to challenge the admiration of the red men for the white man's art, called their attention to the pictures, and was rewarded by the following expressive remarks: "There," observed the noble red man, pointing to the first picture, "there, the Indian gives the white man corn; there, the Indian gives him land; there, the Indian saves the white man's life, and here," pointing to Boone, "the white man murders him."

A STARTLING FACT.—It may not be generally known that we have in the nickel five-cent piece in our coinage a key to the tables of linear measures and weights. The diameter of this coin is two centimeters, and its weight is five grammes. Five of them placed in a row will, of course, give the length of the decimeter, and two the weight of a decigramme. As the kiloliter is a cubic meter, it is the key to the measures of capacity. Any person, therefore, who is fortunate enough to own a five-cent nickle may carry in his pocket the entire metric system of weights.—Bodie Miner.

As regarding its relation to liquid measure, under the French system as in vogue in Bodie, how much beer would a nickel buy for Cleve?

FOR the people of this county, when the total tax per $100 amounts to $3 25, there may be some comfort found in the following statement from the Virginia (Nev.) Chronicle: "The tax in Lander county is $3 90, in Humboldt $2 60, and in Eureka county $2 55, while in our county the tax rate has swelled to the enormous sum of $5 on the $100. This is the heaviest taxed county in the State."

THE Eleventh Legislature of Nevada passed appropriation bills aggregating $470,300 to run the State Government far two years. This does not include the $50,000 that body cost, which will bring the total up to $525 300—or an average per year of $262,650. This is about $4 50 each for every man, woman, child, Indian and child in the whole State.

THE "'76" Canal and Irrigation Company is now at work to bring down the mountain streams of water to the great, rich valleys of Tulare. The company have 100 men and 300 horses at work and have spent $75,000 already on the work, which will be the largest irrigating undertaking ever started in California.

AT about the last moment, Judge Wiggin, of Mono, resigned his position to escape removal or impeachment. The Bridgeport Union reports that Judge Briggs is very ill at his home in Jackson. This may necessitate the appointment of a Judge in Wiggin's place, if the bill abolishing the additional Judgeship has not been passed.

THE Democrats of Oakland were successful in electing their candidate for Mayor—J. West Martin, as against the Republican nominee, "Col." E. M. Gibson. The balance of the municipal ticket is divided. The result is undoubtedly due to the political influence and ability of the Oakland Times.

B. G. SMITH has been appointed Postmaster at Candelaria, vice W. T. Mattingly, resigned. Mr. Mattingly, who formerly resigned at Bishop Creek, has been appointed one of the County Commissioners of Esmeralda.

MR. E. L. MAYBERRY, of San Gabriel, Los Angeles county, is planting 20,000 of the seedless Sultana grapevines and 30,000 of other foreign varieties. That will make his vineyard to consist of 250,000.

THE Tax-Collector of Mono is still postponing, for the ninth time, the sale of property for delinquent taxes in Mono. At legal rates the Free Press bill therefor will swamp the county.

MAINE legislators have passed a law forbidding the killing of birds and game on Sunday, but an amendment to prohibit fishing was voted down.

TRAINS from Arizona are quarantined outside of Los Angeles as a guard against smallpox.

EMMET O'NEIL, a Schnectady banker, has fled, after obtaining $250,000 on false pretenses.

PROGRESS OF THE RAILROAD.

A valued correspondent, writing from "End of Track, C.& C. R. R." under date of the 13th instant, gives some reliable data in regard to the progress being made by the C. & C. Company. He says: "In accordance with your request I write you a few lines from the end of the track to give you a definite idea of the present condition of affairs and projected movements. At Bishop Creek I met S. L. McNaughton, who kindly drove me to the Bishop Creek station, situated about five miles northeast from the town. There I met R. J. Laws, Construction Superintendent, who with a large force of men was pushing the work with all possible speed. The road is fully completed to this point, and a station building is in course of construction and at least half completed. The building is 60 feet long by 20 feet wide, and will be a commodious and handsome structure. Mr. Laws informed me that he has been building road at the rate of one mile per day up to this point, but that at the present time, and until the station is completed, and side tracks, switches, and other necessary work done, track building will be somewhat retarded, but insists that from present indications he will drive the track to Independence some time in May. The grading force at the present time is strung along down the valley for a distance of five or six miles. There are now engaged in grading and construction, about 400 men. The grading is very light, but little labor being required to make a level and solid roadbed. The report that construction material was delayed is not true, and plenty of rails and ties are on hand to push the road as fast as the projectors desire. It will now be but a short time till you hear the whistle of the locomotive, and the connection between Independence and the world will be made."

THE silver question was fortunately not brought up in Congress this session—nothing was to be gained by it. Too many other vital issues demanded attention, besides that, an introduction of the silver question at this time might be attended with many dangers. The West and South naturally desire more extended financial facilities. More railroads are wanted, more mines are being opened, production is being increased, activity is expanding in all directions, and the common sense of the people leads them to believe that a greater abundance of sound money will enable them to better prosecute all the various new enterprises which are presented to their attention. Same of the leading Eastern papers are preparing for a contest with and a crusade against silver, and sooner or later the money lenders of the nation will make an attack upon it, and if it is in their power demonetize it. Since January 1st, 1878, silver coinage has averaged annually $27,500,000; that of gold, $62,000-000. Before 1849 silver exceeded gold, but since then gold has exceeded silver, because it is a priveleged metal at our mints. Give silver the same solid standing that gold has, and its value would also increase. The contraction that must arise from the disuse of silver presents a problem more serious than any one that has ever been presented to the American poeple.

THE reports show that the number of new discoveries of rich lodes of ore were never so great as during last year. It seems that these discoveries are pretty well distributed to all of the mineral bearing portions of our country. During this year it is believed that the rich discoveries will greatly increase. The improved facilities for reducing ore have made it possible to work twenty, ten, and even five dollar ore at a profit. All the camps on this coast have low grade ores, and the time is rapidly approaching when they will be worked. We shall then see mining settle down as a legitimate industry, the same as farming and the manufacturing arts. The profits will not be large, but the aggregate earnings will be immense, and thousands will be steadily employed mining, where there are now only hundreds.

THE Bodie Free Press says: "A few days ago it looked as though Mono county would be allowed to keep its present pleasant relations with Inyo as an Assembly district. Alpine, which was associated with the two former named counties in the orignal bill, was taken off in the Senate and added to El Dorado. The Assembly, however, refused to concur in the Senate amendment and Alpine has been tossed back at us. So we glide." We presume it is too late now to kick about the addition of this feather-weight to the tail of the Inyo and Mono kite. It is apparent, however, that if our joint Representative had been one of the Democratic majority the good work of former days would not have been thus undone.

Gov. Butler of Mass. reiterates his belief that the Fourteenth Amendment fully covers the right of women to vote, and that the United States Supreme Court will so decide whenever the question is presented.

OUR INLAND WATERS.

Description and Analysis of the Waters of Black Lake, Benton Hot Springs and the Warm Springs.

THE BLACK LAKE OF BENTON, MONO COUNTY, CAL.

About one mile west of Benton, a mining town, rises a low granite hill-chain, running from north to south and bordering a long stretched valley with its western slope. In this depression a number of springs and grassy spots are met with.

In the northern portion of the valley is situated a lake of about one mile in length, varying in width from 100 to 500 feet, and reaching a depth of 60 to 70 feet in some places. It is called the Black Lake on account of the dark color of its water—a coloration due to its containing organic matter in solution. The taste is strongly alkaline, and white efflorescences are seen all around the lake. The amount of saline constituents is much smaller than at Owens Lake, and to this fact is due that Black Lake does not prevent several species of juncus and gramineae from growing in the shallow places, nor permits the existence of the peculiar black fly found at Owens Lake. Like the latter was also Black Lake, formerly much larger, doubtless the drainage basin of a number of hot alkali springs, like one still in existence in the vicinity. Many hot springs also exist in Long Valley, 25 to 30 miles west of Benton. Another small alkaline lake is the Slough, near Bishop Creek.

The water of Black Lake gave the following composition: In 100 liters are contained—

	GRAMS
" sulphate	294.0
Potassium sulphate	83.5

THE HOT SPRING OF BENTON, MONO COUNTY, CAL.

A few rods west of the town of Benton issues a hot stream of considerable size from the fissures of the granite. This rock is overlaid by volcanic tufa. The basin has three to four feet in diameter, and a depth of half a foot, and the water comes up with such force quantity that I think a yield of 200 gallons per minute is not an overestimate. From the good sized creek thus formed a ditch carries the water to the town, where it is used for drinking and household purposes, as it is almost tasteless. That, however, some mineral matter must exist in solution may be inferred from the fact that the rocks near the spring show white incrustations and efflorescences. No medical use is made of the spring; its temperature is 130° F., but it is said that variations to five degrees have been noticed. It contains in one hundred thousand parts but twenty-six parts mineral matter, consisting of sodium carbonate, sodium sulphate, sodium chloride, with traces of potassium and calcium salts.

WARM SPRING NEAR LITTLE OWENS LAKE, INYO COUNTY, CAL.

This spring is situated 300 yards from Little Lake near a basaltic bluff 20 to 30 feet in height, and extending north to south several miles. The water is lukewarm, odorless, and forms no deposits or encrustations. A mineral taste is hardly perceptible. A sample of the water, in one thousand parts, contains:

" sulphate	8.0
" chloride	26.9
Calcium carbonate, with trace magnesium carbonate	12.0
Organic matter	trace
Potassium	"
Silicic acid	"

ON the morning of the 13th instant Piper's new Opera House, at Virginia City, Nev., was totally destroyed by fire, presumably the work of some infernal incendiary. Loss, $35,000; insurance, none. Proportionate to its population and period of existence, Virginia has suffered greater losses by fire than any place in the world—and has spent about as much in the way of protecting itself.

THE Legislature finally adjourned sine die at midnight on the 13th instant. Much important legislation was enacted during the last hours, and so far as now appears the Legislature has done well. There will be much interest in examining the County Government bill when it is published and its provisions become known.

A NEW YORK paper, speaking of grape growing in California, says that there are 60,000 acres of new vineyards in this State which are expected to yield abundantiy seven years hence. It is well known that the product of wines in this State begin to be remunerative the third year. Seven year old vines are a bonanza

IT is denied that President Grevy contemplates resigning.

"LIBERALISM has crept into the churches," says a western paper, "but it has not yet reached the contribution box."

PAPER CAR WHEELS.—Paper can be utilized for rails as well as car wheels. It is alleged that it has been demonstrated experimentally that they are as superior to steel as steel rails are to iron. It is said in favor of the new material that the cost per mile will be less by one-third than that of steel, and it will last much longer, being almost indestructible. There is no expansion or contraction from heat and cold, consequently no loose or open joints, and being so much lighter than steel or iron, the rails can be made longer and connections perfectly solid, making the road as smooth as one continuous rail. The adhesion of the drivers of the engine to this material will be greater than that of steel, consequently the same weight engine will haul a larger load. There will be a great saving of fuel, and the smoothness of the rails will lessen the wear and tear of rolling stock. The rails are made wholly and entirely of paper, and so solid that the sharpest spike cannot be driven into them. The action of the atmosphere has no effect on it; it will neither rust nor rot, and with paper wheels and rails of the same material, trains will glide along over level stretches of road at the rate of sixty miles an hour with as little jar or jolt as an ocean steamer on a calm sea.

THE leading local question now is as to what shall be done with the additional Judgeship—who shall fill the place or whether it shall be filled at all or not. The bill to abolish the office has already passed both Houses of the Legislature, but it does not take effect until the 31st of December, 1884. Having passed it is doubtful if it can be called back and amended so as to take effect immediately. If that were possible it would doubtless be the best thing to do, as one Judge is sufficient for the requirements of this county. The candidates for the place are John A. McQuaid, Richard S. Miner and O. F. Hakes. A petition to Governor Stoneman in favor of Mr. McQuaid was in circulation Monday, and was quite largely signed in Bodie. Naturally the appointment will be given to a Democrat, and there is a strong feeling against the appointment of any one outside the county. The salary is not a large one, and the probability is that we can furnish as good a Judge for the money as we would be likely to get from abroad. So we hope Governor Stoneman will cast about among the Democratic attorneys of this county and pick out the one he may think best for the position.—Bodie Free Press.

IT is well known that the hair on corpses frequently grows after the bodies have been buried, and even while undergoing the process of decay. This singular fact has induced a Reno man to experiment on sheep skins for the purpose of preparing them so that the wool will grow just as well as if the pelt still enclosed the carcass of the animal that wore it. Many skeptics will no doubt laugh at the proposition, but "there's millions in it" if he makes the scheme work. There would be no better thing for a man of moderate expectations than to have a few hundred sheep-skins growing wool all the time. There would be no range for feed to search for every year; no shepherds to to pay, and no dogs could trouble the wool-grower. All he could require would be a place where he could stretch his pelts out and give the wool a chance to spread, and every two months he could take a horse-clippin g machine and mow his crop, which would necessarily be of better quality than anybody else's wool, for it has neither burrs nor dirt to be got rid of. The person who is experimenting thinks he will make a success of the business.

A STARTLING event occurred here this morning, being the finding of the dead body of Doctor R. B. Martin. He was discovered on the sidewalk in front of the Belleville Brewery. The body was in a sitting posture, with the head and back against the front of the building. A half consumed cigar was between the fingers of the right hand, and at first it was thought he was asleep. The body was removed to his office, where, as this paper goes to press, an inquest is being held. He told several persons last evening of his intention to commit suicide, but no one really thought he meant it.—Candelaria True Fissure, March 10.

A LONDON correspondent, writing of the Prince of Wales at Nice last month, said: "The friends with whom he consorted were chiefly Americans. Perhaps it is because Americans, being strangers to royalty in their own country, are not so observant as other people of the somewhat stiff ceremonial that is proper in intercourse with Princes, that the heir apparent is so fond of the company of the citizens of the United States. Be this as it may, the fact that he generally associates with Americans while on the Continent is not to be doubted."

AN Amazon died recently at Buenos Ayres at the age of 100 years, whose eventful career deserves mention. From her twentieth year she has been a regular enrolled member of the Second Regiment of Cavalry, wearing the dashing uniform, with enormous spurs. From the ranks she selected the seven husbands whom fate has torn successively from her arms, leaving her to die alone.

A PATENT has been taken out for a horseshoe made by pressing cow-hide into a metallic mold and then treating it with a chemical preparation. It is claimed that this shoe can be put on so tightly that neither water nor dust can get between the hoof and the shoe; that its elasticity makes the horse's step surer and lighter; that it is more durable than the ordinary shoe, and requires no calks, never injures the hoof, and is, of course, much lighter than the metallic shoe.

RAILROAD EXCURSION.—County Assessor Irwin writes from Bishop Creek as follows: "The C. & C. R. R. is going to give a free excursion trip from Bishop to the Mound House, and the people of this place want you to make a notice of it in the paper and invite everybody to come. The excursion will be next Wednesday. Nothing new here but the railroad, which is making from one-half to three-fourths of a mile a day." The foregoing comprises all the information we have in regard to what may be, if it transpires as stated, a most important and enjoyable social affair. We cannot understand, however, why the Railroad Company has not officially notified the general public through the papers that such was their plan. We should think it more probable that they would organize a free excursion from the Mound House this way to the end of the track, as is much more usual.

LOOKOUT.—After getting his new works in perfect order, Supt. Fitzgerald started up the Modock furnaces four or five days ago, but was compelled to shut down on account of failure of the water supply. It transpires that the Minneatta pipes, which have been left unused and exposed nearly all Winter, were found so badly broken up that they would not stand the pressure, while the old Modock springs were found inadequate to keep the works going. It will require a long time and several thousand dollars to effect repairs, and all round the occurence is a most unfortunate one.

BLACK ROCK SAW MILL.—The owners of this well-known property have been utilizing the past two months in running a mile of skid grading into a splendid bench of fir and pine, and the forthcoming season will offer superior lumber of any dimensions, either clear or rough, to all who need it at usual valley prices. The boys certainly deserve patronage, as they have had a tough road to travel from the time they made their purchase, and we hope that the patronage consequent upon the advent of the railroad will be such as to bring the firm out of debt.

RESIGNED.—Reub. Speer, the active Superintendent of the big mining operation in Sherman District since its inception, has resigned the position, being succeeded by M. T. Burgess. Reub. has done well and quits because he is tired of the work. He intends prospecting for and opening out a chloride mine well up in the Inyos immediately opposite this place, which was laid down on maps prepared in 1862 by a Prof. Wheeler. Reub. is lucky and liable as anyone else to strike it rich.

SPECIAL MEETING.—A special meeting of the Board of Supervisors will be held April 2d, for the purpose of letting the hospital contract, and contracting for boarding prisoners and for wood supplies for the ensuing year. By agreement, the matter of establishing new roads and building a bridge at Bishop Creek will also be considered.

HOGGED.—Last Monday night one or two or more, perhaps, daring thieves raided Supervisor Robinson's smokehouse, from which they abstracted three or four hundred pounds of bacon. So far there is no clue to the thieves, and the chances are that they can "live high for luck," so far as smoked hog meat goes, for some time to come.

THE STORM.—The first two or three days of the week were notable for quite a rainstorm, just about enough to wet the ground and help along the grass. Considerable snow fell on the mountains, but coming so late it is not liable to last long. The weather is warm and the blooming fruit trees have not been injured.

RACING.—The horse races at the Independence track this afternoon have unexpectedly brought quite a crowd into town. It is said that fully seven or eight "scrubs" will contest for the magnificent purse. On account of the liberal and judicious advertising, the public are in blissful ignorance as to what is proposed to be done.

THE DEFIANCE.—Supt. Gorman has returned to Darwin, and has already seven or eight men at work on the old Defiance. We are not advised, as yet, as to what extent he will improve and open up the mine for the more economical handling of the ore.

STARTED UP.—The Lasky mill at Beveridge is reported to have started up last Thursday. We trust that its period of grinding the gold out of the mines of that district may be extended for many years to come.

SCHOOL MATTERS.—The County Board of Education will begin a regular session next Wednesday, at the School House, for the examination of applicants for teachers certificates.

IN THE EAST.—Ed. Reilly and John Ely are again in New York. The latter asserts his intention of returning to Inyo.

OFFICIAL CARD.—The official card of County Superintendent Groves appears in our advertising columns this week.

LODGE.—To-night will be held the stated meeting for March, of Inyo Lodge, No. 221, F. and A. M.

FOR SALE.—See notice of a saddle and sett of harness for sale, by Seth Currier, at Bishop Creek.

IT is estimated that the losses along the Ohio by the recent floods amounts to nearly $10,000,000. Over 600 residences are swept away. Cincinnati and her suburbs lose $2,250,000, Louisville $1,000,000, and the towns in Indiana $3,148,000,

BISMARK says that the American methods of Sabbath observance are "terribly tyranical."

Bishop Creek Rackets.

BISHOP, March 12.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT—The railroad station has been located, and the depot building is close on to completion. The Company intends to build a round house, machine shops, etc., here. The depot is situated on Stoutenborough's land, a short distance east of where old Owensville stood. Last week some of the folks went over there visiting, and were invited to take a ride to Benton. They went up and back between noon and 6 o'clock. The report here is that the Company intend giving an excursion gratis to Mound House on March 25th.

The merchandising house of Elkeles & Lasky was burglarized yesterday, while the proprietors were away on a visit to the Sacramento mine. The burglars captured two "bulidog" pistols, two boxes cartridgs and one watch, the amount of their spoils so far as now known.

The boys here have accepted a challenge from the Big Pine Base Ball Club to play a match on the 17th of March for the championship of the county.

The town was very lively yesterday, there being sixty or seventy railroad men here, and it looked like old times. On the 17th "of Ireland" we are to have a grand masquersde ball, which is likely to be pretty well attended; with others, the railroad "gang" say they intend to be on hands. Livery business is quite brisk—people all hiring teams to visit the railroad. Scarcely an Indian to be seen in town in day-time—all over to the "smokalotive." Some one set fire to the tules below John Clarks's barn, Friday evening, and had there been anything of a breeze from the south the entire town would have stood a poor chance from being barned down.

The mining election in Piute District, last week, resulted in the election of J. A. Winter for Recorder over J. N. Kellogg, by eleven votes.

The Sacramento mill is now running on some very rich ore.

The one-eyed China woman died this morning, so Bishop Creek, for the first time, will be blessed with a Chinese funeral.

And, in the way of matters personal, here follows the record: Mrs. A. K. Briggs has just returned from a long visit to San Francisco....Mrs. Welch has built a house near the railroad, to be used for dairying purposes for the benefit of Owensville, railroad travelers, etc.... S. G. Sneden has got in a large stock of merchandise, and is doing an extensive "biz."....Oscar Hilton has sold his ranch in Round Valley to Ed-Varney, his brother-in-law, and intends leaving the country....Munzinger & Co. have reduced the price of lager to 75 cents a gallon when selling by the barrel....Wm. O. Harrell and C. H. Morgan started this morning in a buggy for Arizona....J. B. Swearingen has rented his hotel to some Bodie parties, who took possession last Wednesday. "Pete" [Swearingen] contemplates raising "persimons."... Fred Mengel, teamster, intends to buy out the R. R., else they must buy him out; otherwise, he says, he will bust them out, sure.... Mr. Wemple and wife are sojourning in Bishop, being the guests of Mrs. R. A. Gerrish....Mrs. J. H. Stoutenborough and daughter Clara arrived here last Monday morning....Bud Harniss' saloon has been remodeled, frescoed and papered, and looks now to be quite a respectable place of resort.

A San Francisco Social Event.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 12.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT—It was our good luck to be present last evening at a little family gathering in the shape of a surprise party, given to Mrs. Nathan Rhine, 612 Van Ness Avenue, on the twentieth anniversary of her wedding. At at early hour in the evening the party arrived at her residence, and soon the house was ringing with the merry laughter of old and young. We noticed particularly among those present Mr. and Mrs. Senator P. Reddy, Dr. and Mrs. Regensburger, together with their two daughters, whose life and animation added greatly to the enjoyment of the guests; also Mrs. Herman, the aged and only aunt of Mrs. Rhine, who is far into the seventies and still noted for her bright intellect, accompanied by her son and daughter, the latter greatly promoting the pleasure of the party by her sweet vocalism. During the evening Miss Alice, the accomplished daughter of the house, rendered some very choice selections on the piano.

At 10 o'clock the doors were thrown open into the spacious dining room, where the tables presented a most inviting appearance, being beautifully decorated with flowers and smilax, together with all the good things the market affords. All were soon seated, and the laughter and toasts that ere long prevailed showed that they were doing justice to the delicious punches and sparkling wines. Mrs. Rhine, occupying the seat of honor with great dignity, looked so youthful that it required a stretch of the imagination to realize that twenty years of married life have passed, and that she is surrounded by grown-up sons and daughters who are beautifying and adding luster to her middle age. Mr. Rhine's absence was the only thing to be regretted, and many were the toasts drank to his future prosperity and happiness.

At 12 o'clock we left the brilliant scene and plodded our way through the unlighted streets of San Francisco to the Lick House, where we passed the remainder of the night in dreaming of the happy scene we had left—and home. "But for goodness sake, don't say I told you." N. E. C.

Swansea District.

OWENS LAKE, March 12.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT: After making a careful examination of the Swansea District, and noting down the various mining blunders committed by the gentleman whom Inyo compelled to raise onions, I find the district deserves more attention. The formation is not unlike other base metal-producing camps, and lime, the fancy field rock, seems to prevail in every instance near the ore deposits. As for the walls, I concur with old Gashwiler—"Hang the walls; wherever it is, there it is." Vigorous prospecting is carried on in the district by your old pioneer Thomas Moran and others.

Among the developed claims the French Flag shows well, as does also the Flagstaff, Coalburner and Swansea Belle. Mr. Moran has fine properties in the Standard, Liberty, Commodore and Admiral mines. The ores are chiefly a black metal and high graded, and with the near approach of the C. & C. R. R., Swansea District will certainly be heard from.

The Indiana mine is reported as looking well, and judging from the large supply of ore sacks shipped to the mine, there is evidently an abundance of ore.

The predictions of great tidal waves by Wiggins, of Canada, which he would have occur yesterday, caused me a nervousness, from which I have not sufficiently recovered—hence the short letter. DOLOMITE.

The Mining Bureau.

In conversation with the State Mineralogist one day this week, he stated that he did not see how he would be able to keep the State Museum open unless more funds were forthcoming for its maintenance. On inquiry at the office of the License Collector, the fact is developed that the fund derived from the tax on transfer of mining stock, upon which the Bureau is supported, will amount, for the next quarter, to only $1,216. The salary of the State Mineralogist is $250 per month, and the rent is $200, these two items alone more than consuming the income, leaving nothing for Secretary, janitor, stamps or any of the ordinary expenses of the museum. The collection is very rapidly increasing, and certain expenses are entailed in arranging the specimens and carrying on the exchange system. More cases are needed, also. In fact, all the specimens that have come in for some time have been packed up and put away because there was no means of displaying them.

A bill has passed the Senate appropriating, in addition to the irregular income from the source noted, and on which the Bureau has entirely depended, the sum of $10,000 for two years, or $5,000 per year. But Mr. Hanks says that this is not enough to carry on the institution properly, and even with this appropriation he will be compelled to close the museum, and give up that part of the Bureau's functions. It will be necessary to box up and store the collection. Then Mr. Hanks will take a small office and attend to the affairs of the Bureau without having any collection exhibited at all.

It seems too bad, just at a time when we are to have a large influx of visitors from the East, that our collection of minerals must be closed up. If, however, proper provision cannot be made to keep it up in good shape, it is just as well that this museum be closed, and the Bureau be one of information only, without a museum.

The collection of ores and minerals can then be turned over to some other State institution, the University, for instance, as it is the property of the State. It is desirable, of course, to have it maintained here, but, that being impossible, it will be more useful at the University than elsewhere, since it will swell materially the already large collection at that institution, and be available to all who desire to go to Berkeley to examine it.

It is to be hoped, however, that with the tax income and the appropriation, Mr. Hanks will find some way of keeping the museum open for the next two years, by which time it may be more interest will be shown by California in its mining industry, and this representative institution be properly supported. S. F. Mining and Scientific Press.

NICKEL.—The appearance of the new nickel five cent coin—convenient and handsome, has suggested the question what is nickel? In 1754 Constadt announced the discovery of a new metal in kupper-nickel, to which he gave the name of nickel. It was in combination with arsenic, and the alloy of nickel and arsenic which he obtained was white, brittle, very hard, and a melting point nearly as high as cast iron. Pure nickel does not tarnish easily in the air, and has heretofore been used chiefly for plating. Mines of nickel are worked at Chatam, Conn.; Lancaster, Pa.; Le Motte, Mo.; and at several points in Colorado and New Mexico. The United States made nickel cents in 1856, and in 1864 coined the five cent pieces.

BROAD WAGON TIRES.—A writer says that a year's experience with broad wagon-wheels is conclusive as to their value. A four-inch tire will carry two tons over soft ground with greater ease to the team than a two-and a half inch tire will carry one ton. The wheels are not so much strained by stones and rough tracks on the road, and the road is not cut up, but, on the contrary, is packed down and keeps smooth. The prevalent idea that the draft is increased by widening the tire is altogether baseless; on the contrary, a wide tire reduces the draft. The extra cost of the tire is repaid many times over every year in the extra work that can be done by a team.

The Soda Industry.

The Reno Gazette gives the following description of the process by means of which the natural soda produced by the waters of the Ragtown lake, Nev., is prepared for market. The soda at Soda lake, three miles east of Ragtown, Churchill county, is very hard and crystalizes differently from most of the soda in Nevada. It is very pure, but the solar heat is not enough to reduce it. Griswold & Epperson have found that by heating it to 500 degrees the quality is improved, but the quantity lessened by loss of water and excess of carbonic acid. They have just finished a reverberatory furnace with a hearth of iron plates, under which are two side flues and a center return flue to the stack. By this arrangement the heated products of combustion are brought in contact with three times the length of the hearth, which is twenty-one feet, thus obtaining great economy in fuel. Its capacity is three tons per charge, and it is expected that three hours will dry a charge. They have 400 tons on the shore of the lake and will be shipping to San Francisco as soon as the furnace dries. Captain Moger, of Reno, was the builder of the furnace, and it is unnecessary to say it is a fine job. It was built under the supervision of W. D. Linton, of Wadsworth, who drew the plans. There are two lakes a quarter of a mile apart, but they are entirely different. The one where the furnace is located is three-quarters of a mile across, and is estimated to contain 500,000 tons of soda. The other is about 700 feet across, and though it has been worked for 19 years there is no visible diminution of the mineral. It contains some very beautiful crystalizations.

THE BARBAROUS BLINDERS.—The abominable cruelty perpetrated on horses by placing blind bridles on them is almost sufficiently described in the following, from the Turf, Fiela and Farm of New York City. It says: "It is an outrage on the horse, and the person who drives him, to use blinders. The shying and sudden fright of horses in harness is undoubtedly due to this practice of hood-winking their eyes. The facial bones are thrown forward at the eye sockets, thereby enabling the horse to see nearly as well behind him as before him. When blinders are used the range of vision is limited, and the horse is allowed only a small space to peep out, and that, too, not in the direction of true vision. Objects do not appear distinct or natural, and what wonder is it that a horse starts when he discovers what seems to him, because of indistinctness, some strange monster? Horses will run day after day in pasture among rocks and stumps and manifest no signs of fright, yet when driven in harness by those same objects will shy. This clumsy contradiction of nature is also a potent means of bringing blindness to thousands of horses in our land by retaining the heat and dust that accumulates about the eye.

IF a person swallow any poison whatever, or has fallen into convulsions from having overloaded his stomach, an instantaneous remedy, more efficient and applicable in a larger number of cases than any half-dozen medicines we can now think of, is a heaping teaspoonful of common salt and as much ground mustard stirred rapidly in a teacup of water, warm or cold, and swallowed instantly. It is scarcely down before it begins to come up, bringing with it the remaining contents of the stomach; and lest there be any remnant of poison, however small, let the white of an egg or a teacup of strong coffee be swallowed as soon as the stomach is quiet; because these very common articles nullify a larger number of virulent poisons than any medicines in the shops.

A CORPORATION has been formed to engage in ostrich farming, and 640 acres of land, on the old Stearns rancho, in Los Angeles county, have been purchased for the purpose. One of the female ostriches in Woodward's Garden, San Francisco, has commenced laying, depositing an egg every other day.

THE ice factories of New Orleans practice the fancy of freezing certain objects in blocks of crystal ice. The red snapper of the Gulf of Mexico, a brilliantly scarlet fish, is one of the icely imprisoned objects, and flowers, singly or in bouquets, are another. The effect is magnificent.

THE Supreme Court of the State of Oregon has decided that a patent for agricultural lands does not give title to the precious metals that had been discovered previous to the issuance of such patent.

WHEN Mr. Moody had his photograph taken recently he had only about a dozen copies printed for his family and closest friends and then bought the negative.

THE National Baptist, referring to the "rare wines" now offered to guests at the White House, says they were much rarer in the days of Mr. Hayes.

APPLICATION FOR A PATENT.

....TO THE....

Notice No. 238.
U. S. Survey 2,048.
Lot No. 37.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, BODIE, CAL., February 7, 1883.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT CHRISTIAN H. CROHN, a resident of Hopland, Mendocino County, State of California, through and by S. D. Woods, his attorney in fact, whose Postoffice address is Lone Pine, Inyo County, California, has this 7th day of February, A. D. 1883, filed an application for a patent for Fifteen Hundred linear feet of the AUGUSTE mine or vein, bearing silver and lead, with surface ground Six Hundred feet in width situated in Cerro Gordo Mining District, Inyo County, State of California, and designated by the field notes and official plat on file in this office and posted on the said mining claim as follows, to wit:

Magnetic variation 15° 54′ East, as follows, to wit:

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY of Inyo, State of California.—Charlotte Kimler, plaintiff, versus John A. Kimler, defendant.—Action brought in the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said Superior Court —The People of the State of California send greeting to John A. Kimler, defendant. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above-named plaintiff, in the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county, or if served elsewhere within thirty days. The said action is brought to recover judgment and decree of divorce dissolving the bonds of matrimony between plaintiff and defendant, on the grounds of willful desertion for the period of one year, of plaintiff by defendant, and that the custody of the minor child be awarded to the plaintiff, and for costs of suit and for general relief, all of which will more fully appear by the complaint filed herein, to which reference is hereby made. And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will take judgment against you for the decree prayed for in the complaint and for costs of suit.

Given under my hand and the Seal of the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, this 23d day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT IN AND FOR THE County of Inyo, State of California.

In the matter of T. J. Furbee, an insolvent debtor.

T. J. Furbee having filed in this Court his petition, schedule and inventory in insolvency, by which it appears that he is an insolvent debtor, the said T. J. Furbee is hereby declared to be insolvent.

The Sheriff of the County of Inyo is hereby directed to take possession of all the estate, real and personal, of the said T. J. Furbee, debtor, except such as may be by law exempt from execution, and of all his deeds, vouchers, books of account, and papers, and to keep the same safely until the appointment of an assignee of his estate. All persons are forbidden to pay any debts to the said insolvent, or to deliver any property belonging to him, or to any person, firm or corporation or association for his use. The said debtor is hereby forbidden to transfer or deliver any property, until the further order of this Court, except as herein ordered.

It is further ordered that all the creditors of said debtor be and appear before the Hon. John A. Hannah, Judge of the Superior Court of the County of Inyo, in open Court, at the Court room of said Court, in the town of Independence, in the County of Inyo, on the FIFTEENTH day of MARCH, 1883, at 10 o'clock A. M. of that day, to prove their debts and choose one or more assignees of the estate of said debtor.

It is further ordered that the order be published in THE INYO INDEPENDENT, a newspaper of general circulation, published in the town of Independence, County of Inyo, as often as the said paper is published before the said day set for the meeting of creditors.

And it is further ordered that in the meantime all proceedings against the said insolvent be stayed.

Dated February 8, 1883
JOHN A. HANNAH,
Superior Judge.
Attest: JOHN CROUGH, Clerk.

Cost of a Pound of Flesh.

We give below an extract from the Breeders' Gazette, which well illustrates this point. Alluding to the comparative value of different foods, the writer says:

If Indian corn has a value of 64 as compared with 100, the standard of hay as a ration for stock, then potatoes would rank at 245; that is, it would take 245 pounds of potatoes to fatten as far as 64 pounds of corn, or nearly four times as much. Beets are rated at 336 pounds in the scale; thus, theoretically, it would take five times as many pounds as of Indian corn. But fattening is not in question, but health. It is found in practice with farm animals that the ration of succulent vegetable food largely increases the digestibility of grain; and this is especially true with swine, to which the roots are a natural food.

Another point, as showing the absolute necessity of warm quarters in Winter, and also the economy of making pork in warm weather, will be interesting. In an experiment made some years ago in Ohio, and recorded in the Ohio Report, we find some valuable data. In feeding 100 hogs with meal, corn and cob ground together and steamed (reckoning the corn at seventy pounds per bushel, and the hogs at four cents per pound gross weight, the swine being in covered pens with plank floors and troughs), while the weather remained warm the corn as fed netted the feeder eighty cents per bushel. In the early part of November the weather turned cold, and the value of the corn fed was reduced to twenty-six cents per bushel. This lot was turned off that month and another lot from the field was put in that had been fed corn on the cob. During December, the weather remaining cold, this lot gave twenty-six cents per bushel for the corn fed. In January the thermometer fell to zero, and the worth of the corn fed fell to five cents per bushel; and the thermometer falling to ten degrees below zero, the ground and steamed meal was worth nothing, since the hogs merely held their own.

This experiment shows two things: One is that under certain circumstances it will pay not only to grind but to cook feed; the other and important fact shown is that warmth is absolutely necessary in the successful fattening of swine. This latter consideration is essentially important in the feeding of all animals.

WE confess that the two points which have always struck our mind as distinguishing the nature of brutes from that of men have been their inability to worship God and to kindle a fire. It would be folly to deny that brutes could reason. A sheep dog who wants to head a band of sheep in a narrow lane will jump over a wall and run along the other side until he has reached the exact spot occupied by the sheep at the head of the flock, and then jump back in order to drive them home. A colley who was fond of going out with a carriage, would go and hide himself as soon as he heard the order for the carriage given, so that he might not be tied up. If we analyze these and many other instances of sagacity, we cannot help admitting that a brute's mind is capable of two or three steps of reasoning. On the other hand, no animal ever manufactured a tool or weapon, even of the simplest kind; and it is doubtful whether a gorilla himself, supposed to be our nearest neighbor, uses a walking cane.

A FLOCK of ducks had their curiosity excited on Saturday evening, says the Los Angeles Times, to know what the electric light on the First-street mast was composed of. They investigated by flying into it, and it was not until six out of the flock had paid the penalty with their lives that they desisted from circling about and darting into the light. They extinguished two of the three lights by breaking the globes and then breaking the carbons. The ducks were picked up by the boys who were watching the performance. As showing the velocity with which the ducks came into contact with the apparatus, one of them was almost cut in two and nearly all were terribly mangled.

A Mystery Explained.

A Smartsville correspondent of the Marysville Appeal says: It has been a mystery for some time past, by what modus operandi the employes of the Blue Point Hydraulic Mining Company could so accurately tell the approach of any one, or of any suspicious object, from one to three hours before it made its appearance in or near their works. On a visit to this celebrated mine the writer of this article was shown the simple instrument (if it can be called by that name). To give the information how it is done, or to scientifically explain how the desired results are brought about, is more than I will undertake. But this I do know, that by the several appliances an employe can see objects with it for nearly ten miles in any direction from where the instrument is located. The day, though, must be clear and the atmosphere pure, and whether it would act or give the desired intormaion in other than this pure atmosphere is more than I can say. We have known for many years that correct time or the hour of the meridian can be correctly discovered by placing upon the ground a vessel or shallow bucket containing tar, and with a mariner's quadrant one who understands it can tell within a hundredth part of a second the hour of 12 o'clock noon. This instrument does not act in all parts of the country. It seems that it must be placed at a certain elevation above the level of the sea before it will affect accurately the object wished to be seen. It has been tried at 2,000 feet above the sea level, and it affects the objects very indistinctly, also at any point less than 600 feet above the sea level it will not work accurately; but between 800 and 1,200 feet in elevation objects can be distinctly seen as natural as life. It works here from early twilight till nearly dark, and between that time no objects larger than a rabbit will escape observation for ten miles in any direction. The sky by its operation acts the part of a huge mirror, and by looking through the queer instrument (which is constructed like a telescope and mariner's quadrant combined) you, through the angles of the different lenses in the instrument, and in the direction you wish to review, can see objects of their natural size from where you stand eight or ten miles away, as true as if they stood by your side. Whether there are any chemical combinations in the stuff, that to me resembles tar, or not, I could not find out, as that part contains the secrets of the discovery, but it has the smell and appearance of common tar. The vessel that contains it is about thirty-four inches in diameter, and about six inches in depth. The instrument is taksn in your hand, and, with a quadrant, you find the angle you wish to prospect or search, and bring the lens of the instrument to bear on the vessel containing the preparation of tar. You then have one of the most exciting moments of your life.

The discovery was made by a Frenchman here, who has spent many years to perfect it, and who has always been considered a crank.

MANY ancient manuscripts of untold value are believed to be stored away in the monasteries of Greece. A loss that will never be understood to its full extent has just been sustained in the destruction of the monastery of Vatopedi, which took fire through the carelessness of one of the monks, and in the absence of any appliance for extinguishing the flames was speedily burned to the ground. Several thousand Byzantine manuscripts were consumed in this fire. To prevent such irreparable losses in the future, the Greek Government has sent two Athenian professors —Findiklis and Kalogeras—who are experts in deciphering old manuscripts, to examine the libraries and archives of the monasteries, and to send such manuscripts as they may find of value to the National Library in Athens. These gentlemen report that they have already discovered a great store of parchment treasures in the monastery of Dusiko, among them some of ancient Greek authorship. It is said that they have found an unquestionable tragedy by Æschylus and one by Sophocles.

THE Rev. Mr. Gilbert, during an address at Christ Church the other night, remarks the Otago Times, while speaking of the telephone, asked his audience if they would be astonished if he were to tell them that it was now proved to be possible to convey by means of electricity vibrations of light —to not only speak with your distant friend, but actually to see him. The electroscope—the name of the instrument which enabled us to do this—was the very latest discovery, and to Dr. Gnidrah, of Victoria, belonged the proud distinction. The trial of this wonderful instrument took place at Melbourne on the 31st of October last in the presence of some forty scientific and public men, and was a great success. Sitting in a dark room, they saw projected on a large disk of white burnished metal the race course at Flemington with its myriad hosts of active beings. Each minute detail stood out with perfect fidelity to the original, and as they looked at the wonderful picture through binocular glasses, it was difficult to imagine that they were not actually on the course itself and moving among those whose actions they could so completely scan.

DR. GILL, at the Cape of Good Hope, succeeded in photographing the comet's tail, and with it fifty stars that were seen through the tail. The plate was exposed 140 minutes, and was kept up to the motion of the earth by clockwork.

ON March 15 seventy-six buildings were destroyed by fire at Forrest City; loss $250,000.

THERE was considerable difference of opinion in Congress over the bill to reduce letter postage—not on the merits of the measure, but as to the date when it should go into operation. As the bill passed the House it provided that the reduction should take place on the 1st of next January. The Senate disagreed to this, and changed the date to the 1st of July. A conference committee compromised on the 1st of October, which was acceptable to both Houses, so that after that date letter postage will be two cents on the half ounce. It was hoped Congress would reduce the postage on drop letters from two to one cent. This it failed to do, however; but if the Postoffice Department proves self-sustaining under the new departure, the reduction of drop-letter rates is sure to come in the near future.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY
JAMES E. PARKER.

TRULY, Tabor was a daisy while he lasted. He furnished more good paragraphs during his thirty days in the Senate than many other members of that body do in six years. Here is another about him: A few days before adjournment, while Edmunds was in the chair, Tabor beckoned David Davis over to him. The good-natured Illinois Senator went over to Tabor seat. Slapping him on the back, Tabor said: "Look here, old man, they tell me you are going to get married. I am thinking of getting spliced myself. What do you say to a bang-up, double-barreled nuptials? Let's get spliced together. We can hire a couple of Pullman cars and go on our wedding tour. We will paralyze the country. If you say the word it shan't cost you a cent." Mr. Davis didn't say anything. He just walked away.

The rain has held off so long that farmers in certain portions of the State are beginning to get discouraged. This is particularly so in the San Joaquin Valley, where the supply is seldom overabundant, and where, this year, its absence has inspired the fear of a barren harvest. The Merced Express of the 17th has this to say of the outlook:

Many fields of grain in this county look very promising to-day, but with a continuation of this warm sunshine most of it will spindle up and head prematurely, and the music of the reaper will not be heard in its gathering, as it will only realize a mere pittance in hay for the toil bestowed in preparing the ground and sowing the seed. Most of the planting will not even return hay, unless the prayers of the righteous are answered and the rains descend.

IMPROBABILITIES are gathering around the eccentric lady Dixie's story of the assault made upon her by men in frocks, last Saturday. A gardener at work within ninety feet of the scene saw and heard nothing of the affair. The lady has been of the Di Vernon school and is over fond of notoriety, while she probably was excited by an attempt at highway robbery or an exhibition of madness, it hardly seems possible that the affair should have been of the serious nature alleged in her first statement.

THE distress in many parts of Ireland is increasing, and so great is the scarcity of food that in some places seaweed is being used by the starving peasantry. The British Government has done little to alleviate the distress, the inspectors who were sent out to report on the condition of the country evidently being determined to shut their eyes to the distress that was apparent on every hand.

BOTH from Philadelphia and New York come telegrams saying that Prince Bismarck has agents in Mexico to purchase 10,000,000 acres of land for a German colony. There must be some mistake about this. Bismarck has enough work at home, and has no call to buy land in Mexico. He is not anxious to send away his own people to this continent.

STATES which have abolished the death penalty for murder have found that the increase of murder has been so great that they are repealing the law and restoring the death penalty. The Legislature of Maine has just passed a bill to that effect. Morbid and sentimental sympathy for murderers appears to be on the wane, which is a subject for congratulation.

THE San Francisco Board of Supervisors have have passed to print a resolution requesting the Election Commissioners to call an election for the 18th of April, to obtain an expression of the will of the people on the proposition to issue bonds to the amount of $500,000, to meet the deficiency in this year's revenue.

CHARLES DERBY, the leper, died in the Salem, Mass., Almshouse, in the room which he had occupied since his arrival from San Francisco three months ago. Derby wasted to a skeleton and his reason almost failed.

AFTER October 1st a two-cent stamp will prepay a one-half ounce letter to any part of the United States. When will postal savings banks follow, and a postal telegraph? We want the next Congress to give us both.

AT New York last Monday evening Geo. W. Conkling, formerly employed in the General Land Office of the United States Surveyor in Nevada, shot dead William H. Haverstick, the seducer of his sister.

"THE Legislature of enormous contingent expenses," is the name given to the concern just dead. It spent about four times as much as any of its predecessors.

HURON MILLER, the murderer of Dr. Glenn, was committed to answer without bonds, at Colusa on the 20th.

THE WAVE OF CRIME.

And now, following the horrible era of wholesale loss of life by fire, flood and disasters by all kinds of dangers, with which the advent of 1883 was baptised in blood, comes a wave of the most dastardly description of crime—murders for gain, lust and in passion, with which the papers are teeming. THE INDEPENDENT believes that a remedy may be wrought out correcting this state of affairs. The more men become familiarized with crime the less heinous appears its proportions. The press, in gathering up and elaborating upon the details of each case is only pampering to a morbid and unhealthy desire. Hence the press cannot be held blameless. The flash sheets which illustrate murders and picture prize fighters should be squelched by law at whatever cost or effort. Then bring about an adequate reform in the regular newspaper reports. For the sake of public morality the statement of a few plain facts would be enough—an announcement of a murder (for instance), omitting the ghastly particulars. Secondly, a statement that a fair trial by jury is going on, and lastly that the murderer has been hanged in secret by the officers of the law. If such proceeding did not strike terror to the hearts of would-be wrongdoers then there is no effectual remedy save as speedy justice may be administered by Judge Lynch.

A LONDON press telegram of the 18th instant gives the following relative to recent highly sensational events: "Great efforts are being made to prevent any future attempt like the recent explosion. Most of the clubs have put on a night watch-man. At the Bank of England a military picket, already quite formidable in numbers, has been doubled. Fears are entertained in London that a destruction may be attempted of some of the most precious of our national buildings, especially of Westminister Abbey. In fact, there is a good deal of panic prevalent in the British Government police at the present moment, as is always the case with a panic there, as it is commingled with no little fury, and the popular feeling is certainly raising against the Irish. The Government reward of $2,500 for information leading to the conviction of the parties who committed the outrage, is published to-day, but the police have little hope of finding them. The telegrams from America, describing the reception of the news in New York by the adherents of the Irish Land League and the skirmishing fund, have created a sensation. The Tories being particularly bitter against what they describe as 'the police countenance and encouragement,' which the United States is giving to the irritation by dynamite public sentiment against the murderous conspiracy, which, they say, is not strong outside of America, or these manifestations on the part of New York Irishmen would be impossible. All of which shows that the Whigs and Tories alike are becoming nervous and restless on the subject of Ireland, and that there is not any too much reason on either side."

IN the first district of New York of the Edison Electric Light Company there are 325 houses which use the light. When the lights were first introduced last September they were experimental and no charge was made for them during two months. Since then the charge has been one dollar per thousand candles. The meters are carefully tested and known to be correct. Several houses have recently discontinued the use of the light because the cost is greater than that of gas.

A MAN who received a specimen copy of the new Chinese paper published in New York, looked it over and then remarked that he had no objection to a puzzle department of one or two columns, but when the entire paper was devoted to Illustrated rebuses, enigmas, anagrams, and other puzzles, he thought it was altogether too much, and wouldn't subscribe for the sheet if it was only ten cents a year.

MR. M. CAREY, formerly of the Indian Queen, has taken the superintendency of the Ibex mines, in San Bernardino. The Calico Print gives the mines and the mill in process of erection high indorsement. Mr. Carey is a practical and thorough-going operator.

THE attention of mining men, financial agents and people generally is invited to the advertising card of the New York Mining Stock Register and Journal of Finance, elsewhere this week. Copies of the journal may be examined at this office.

EX GOV. SPRAGUE, ex-husband of Kate Chase, has got married again and has been nominated by the Democrats for Governor of Little Rhody.

THE actual damage by the floods in the Ohio Valley are set at $10,000,000. The loss of trade will add largely to this.

"ALWAYS Save a Kiss for Mamma" is the title of the latest song. In the case of papa, however, it would be better to save a couple of ham sandwiches and a bottle of beer.

THERE may be too much as well as too little law. Out on the western border, or in the "diggins," there is not quite law enough for the ensuring of the peace and good order of society, or the protection of life and property. In England, there is occasionally too much law, either for justice or common sense, or the comfort of the governed. For instance, it is reported that a little girl wore a dress with a flounce around it in the Vicar of Wansborough's parish school in England recently, although he had ordered the pupils to be plainly dressed. The Vicar said that the child must either take off the ornament or remain away from school. Her parents refused to remove the ornament, and the little girl was put out of the school. Next, the parents were summoned to show cause why the child did not attend school. Upon hearing the facts, the Court upheld the Vicar and his ordinance forbidding any but plain apparel, but mercifully omitted the fine that might have been imposed. In this case the Vicar's law was an impudent and grossly oppressive interference with the private rights of the individual. Probably too much law is preferable to too little, but it is not creditable to human wisdom that laws should so often be in conflict with righteousness and common sense.

THE Tennessee debt repudiators are in some respects the meanest of all their tribe. They have not only repudiated the honest obligations of the State and refused to pay their creditors, but the Legislature, which they control, now even refuses to make any special provision for the payment of the State debt to the Peabody educational fund. This fund owns $250,000 of the State bonds, which have been "scaled" to 50 per cent., and the interest reduced. The State has already received from the benificence of Mr. Peabody very nearly the full amount of the indebtedness, which has been applied as a free gift to its educational institutions, and its share of the income of the fund has not been withdrawn on account of its repudiating action. The money is applied to the most valuable educational interests of the whole South, and now Tennessee, after having secured a munificent share of this grand and generous gift, proposes, by her dishonesty, to plunder the very fund of which she has been the beneficiary. This is like the boy robbing the father who has educated and fed him, or the mother who nursed him. Some of the newspapers of the State are trying to shame the Legislature into abandoning iheir dishonest attitude toward the Peabody fund, but they do not speak hopefully of the prospects of success.

THE disgraceful exhibitions at the funerals of the pugilist and the hanged murderer in New York city have moved some of the journals of that city to urge that in future public funerals of executed criminals shall be interdicted by law. There ought to have been such a provision of law long ago. When hanged murderers who have no relatives, or friends, who wish to give the criminals' bodies burial, the corpses of such convicts should be given to the doctors and medical schools for dissection; when the bodies are given to friends for interment the law should require the funeral services to be as private and unostentatious as possible.

THE Postmaster General has under consideration several designs of the new two-cent postage stamp for first class matter, which will supersede the three-cent stamp after July 1, 1883. A favorite one is similar to the present two-cent stamp used for local postage.

A RESIDENT of Clover Mining District, Mono county, California, was in town this week, and speaks very highly of the present appearance of the Wild Rose mine. The management feels highly encouraged with the result of the prospecting now being done, and anticipates making good bullion returns for the past operations and the coming Summer's work. Quite a little village is being built at the mouth of the tunnel, which includes a store, containing only the more essential articles required by the employes, of whom there are now fifteen. A town site is thought of, and will probably be located in the little valley or cañon just below the ore dump. The District has about fifty or sixty men in it already, and appearances indicate that there will be 100 before the 1st of May. The lumbermen are becoming active for so early in the season, being now engaged in overhauling the machinery at the sawmills. Two new mills are talked of, for the purpose of cutting the excellent timber in the near vicinity and to the southward, for use as ties in building the Carson and Colorado Railroad, and other purposes.—Candelaria True Fissure.

How rapidly the mining industries of the Rocky Mountains are developing under the impetus of increased railroad facilities is shown by the traffic returns contained in the annual report of the directors of the Union Pacific Railroad Company. That company carried, in 1882, 349,969 net tons of coal, 20,762 tons of stone and brick, 13,495 tons of cement, plaster, and lime, 16,489 tons of salt, 21,152 tons of metallic ores, and 66,670 tons of other ores and coke. The same road carried 13,522 tons of lead, 57,885 tons of base bullion, and 9,232 tons of tailings and matte.

The County Government Law.

We have received from Hon. J. M. Keeler, our member of the Assembly, a copy of the County Government Bill, as it was amended in the Senate March 9th and 10th, and in the shape, we believe, that it finally passed. The bill covers 78 pages of bill paper and is embraced in 185 sections. This is one of the most important Acts passed by the late Legislature, if not the most important of all, as it provides some very great changes in county government, which comes closest home to all citizens of the State. Some of these changes are undoubtedly improvements, but others are of more questionable value, if not absolute detriments. If it shall sustain the test of constitutionality, of which we entertain strong doubts, we shall have ample time in the future to judge of its value. Under the provision of the Constitution against special legislation it is almost impossible for a Legislature to frame a bill which will give general satisfaction, but we believe the General Assembly just adjourned has made an honest attempt at it. They have evaded the constitutional inhibition by legislating for nearly every county in the State as a "class" instead of a county, and thus attained practical results at the expense of constitutional technicalities. Nothing could better illustrate the unwisdom of this peculiarity of the Constitution than the fact that it must be thus evaded in order to make a county government law possible. The feature of the classification plan is that counties or "classes" of a less number of population have frequently a much higher rate of salaries for county officers than those of a higher class and greater number of population, while some classes are to continue to operate under the present law. While the difference in extent of territory to be governed, distance from railway lines and consequent difference in wages to employes and everything else that goes to the expense of county officials, as well as the difference in population, should be taken into consideration in the framing of a county government law, as has properly been done under this law, we incline to the opinion that the Supreme Court will declare the Act unconstitutional because this sensible and practical course has been taken, as the Constitution provides for no other basis of classification than "population."

Senator Reddy and Assemblyman Keeler are deserving of great credit for getting their own county officials generally a very fair rate of compensation considering that which is fixed for counties of a higher grade. There are forty-eight classes in all, and Mono county comprises the thirty-fifth class, as having a population of 7,000 and under 7,500 under the census of 1880. Inyo county is in the forty-sixth class, with a population of 2,600 and under 3,000, and the compensation of its officers is precisely the same as those of Mono. In fact, the compensation of officers has been fixed without any regard whatever to the population. The annual salaries of the officers of the thirty-fifth class (Mono) and of the forty-sixth class (Inyo) is as follows: County Clerk, $3,000; Sheriff, $5,000; Recorder, $2,000; Auditor, $1,000; Treasurer, $1,500; Tax Collector, $2,000; Assessor, $2,500 (including deputy); District Attorney, $1,500; Coroner, $400; Public Administrator, $400; Superintendent of Schools, $1,000; Surveyor, such fees as are now or may hereafter be allowed by law; Justices of the Peace and Constables, such fees as are now or may hereafter be allowed by law; Supervisors, of whom there must be five in each county, $300 each. Should the offices be consolidated as at present, the County Clerk, Auditor and Recorder would receive $6,000 per annum, from which he would have to pay all deputies; the Sheriff and Tax Collector, $7,000, and the Coroner and Public Administrator, $800. The provision for Treasurer, District Attorney, Coroner and Superintendent of Schools is much more liberal than at present, and so far as the first two are concerned a very great improvement.

In addition to these the following section makes extra provision for the Assessor and Sheriff:

SECTION 175. The salaries and fees provided for in this Act shall be in full compensation for all services of every kind and description rendered by the officers therein named, their deputies, and assistants; and all deputies employed shall be paid by their principals, out of the salaries hereinbefore provided; provided, however, the Assessor shall be entitled to receive and retain for his own use six per cent on personal tax collected by him as authorizsd in section 3820 of the Political Code, and fifteen per cent of all amounts collected by him for poll taxes; and provided further, that the Board of Supervisors sball allow to the Sheriff his necessary expenses for pursuing criminals, or for transacting any criminal business without the boundaries of his county, and for boarding prisoners in the county jail; provided, that the Board of Supervisors shall fix the price at which such prisoners shall be boarded. The Court shall also allow the Sheriff his necessary expenses in keeping and preserving property seized on attachment or execution, to be paid out of fees collected in the action, and all expenses necessarily incurred in conveying prisoners to and from the State Prison, and insane persons to and from the Insane Asylum, which shall be allowed by the Board of Examiners and collected from the State.

The provisons of the act, so far as they relate to the fees and salaries of all officers named, do not affect the present incumbents.—Free Press.

LADY FLORENCE DIXIE is not a hysterical heroine whose imagination will play tricks with her judgment. She is a robust and vigorous Lady Gay Spanker, who has gone hunting for adventures in Patagonia and Zululand, has done a great work of mercy in Ireland, and has shown herself possessed of grit, self-possession and good sense. Her account of the assault is to be accepted as the statement of a singularly cool, courageous and spirited woman.—N. Y. Tribune.

Base Ball.

At Bishop Creek last Saturday the Big Pine and Bishop Creek clubs contested for the "championship of the county." Only eight innings were played, as the Big Pine boys did not desire to finish the game. Following is the score:

BISHOP CREEK CLUB.	Runs	Outs
John Kewley, 2d base	9	3
Bud Stoutenborough, 1st base	8	2
Joseph McNally, pitcher	6	6
Chas. Hollenbeck, right field	9	1
T. T. Cook, 3d base	9	2
Geo. Willis, short stop	8	3
——— Fitzgerald, catcher	6	1
Robert Peeler, center field	6	5
Total	71	24

BIG PINE CLUB.	Runs	Outs

THE RAILROADERS.—During the week Independence and Lone Pine were favored with a visit from a party of representatives and officers of the Carson and Colorado Railroad Company. Mr. D. L. Bliss, of the great lumber firm of Yerington, Bliss & Co., guided the party thus far, this being his second or third trip on the lookout for his lumber, timber and wood interests. D. A. Bender, General Freight and Passenger Agent of the V. & T. and C. & C. roads, was presumably studying out the problem of freights and fares as relating to this section. Mr. John Forbes, of Hawthorne and Candelaria, of the lumber firm of Forbes & Tobey, was also of the party. They returned to Bishop yesterday.

PERSONAL.—Mr. S. D. Woods, accompanied by Mr. Beven, the widely known mining operator, has gone out to inspect some properties in Wild Rose District, which is situated about twelve miles east of Lookout and north of Panamint....Mr. J. T. Thompson and Reub. Speer are again in the Slate Range country....Supt. McEvoy has returned and is engaged in getting supplies over into Beveridge, preparatory to starting up the Freeborn Cañon mines and mill....Supt. Gray of the Kearsarge intends a visit shortly to certain capitalists in San Francisco, in the interest of that property.

FOR LOS ANGELES.—The residents of Lone Pine, as well as Inyo people generally, will be sorry to learn that "Gus." Stevens and his sisters, Miss Mollie and Mrs. Sara Stevens Heenan, are shortly to leave for Los Angeles. Ex Under Sheriff Stevens has already gone. We extend the most hearty good wishes for their future health and prosperity, with the hope that our Los Angeles contemporaries may receive them kindly.

HOMESTEAD ENTRY.—On the 19th instant Mr. Nathan Gilbert made a homestead entry in the U. S. Land Office at Bodie, of 160 acres of land in Deep Spring Valley, Inyo county, the same being the northwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 25, and the north half of the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter of the northwest quarter of section 26, township 6 south, range 36 east.

THE BUSINESS DIRECTORY.—Owing to unexpected, and perhaps unavoidable, delays on the part of the teams in getting necessary material from Mojave, coupled with the fact that the work has proven of greater magnitude than anticipated, the first copies of the forthcoming Inyo County Business Directory will not be ready for delivery before the latter part of this following week.

WAGES REDUCED.—John B. White is in from Darwin. He reports little of news in that region, except Fitzgerald has gone bravely to work repairing the Minneatta water pipes for the benefit of his new furnace at Lookout. The Argus Range Company has ordered the reduction of wages to $3 per day. Some of the men quit work, and we believe they have no men engaged in actual mining at present.

RACES.—The horse races at the Independence track last Saturday passed off to the satisfaction of everybody. In this statement we may except those who failed to gamble on the winners, and there were several of them if not more. The St. Patrick's dance at the Court House was full of fun and general enjoyment all round.

AT LONE PINE.—Dr. H. G. Kernodle informs us that after the present week he will be at Lone Pine for professional work every Saturday and Sunday, regularly, or until the public may be further notified. In this way the Doctor will be able to attend to all requiring medical advice in both towns.

THE WATER QUESTION.—At no time in the past ten or a dozen years has the water in the Sierra streams been so scarce just at this season as now. Many gardens will have to be left uncultivated, and it is feared that the fruit and shade trees generally will suffer.

FIRE.—A fire occured on Harvey's place (lately occupied by Col. Stevens), near Lone Pine, yesterday, which destroyed the stable and a lot of altalfa hay. Amount of loss not stated.

THE SACRAMENTO.—We have it from good authority that the new Sacramento gold mill at Piute District is cleaning up an average of $150 per day from the plates.

SCHOOL.—We are authorized to state that the Independence school will be resumed June 4th, with Supt. C. H. Groves as teacher in charge.

Proceedings of the Inyo County Board of Education.

The regular semi-annual meeting of the Inyo County Board of Education was held in the Independence school house, March 21. All of the members—P. A. Chalfant, President; Charles H. Groves, Secretary; J. H. Shannon, A. R. Conklin and Daniel Crough—were present at roll call.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

A motion, made by Conklin and seconded by Groves, with regard to the division of schools into four different grades, that will fit and prepare students to enter the Scientific Department of the University of California, and to provide for the examination of such students for promotion, was referred to a committee of three, consisting of Groves, Crough and Shannon.

Board then adjourned until

THURSDAY.

All the members present.

COMMITTEE REPORTS.

"We, the committee appointed to inquire into the import and effect of amending Section 1,563 of the School Law, would report as follows: That it is necessary that this Board meet on or after April 30, 1883, and not later than the first Monday of July, 1883, for the purpose of prescribing the course of study for each of the grades of schools as provided in said amended Section. (Signed): Charles H. Groves, Daniel Crough, J. H. Shannon."

Report adopted.

The entire Board, acting as a Committee on Diplomas and Certificates, resolved to issue a first-grade certificate to Mrs. Hattie Montrose, of Round Valley, who is in possession of first-grade State certificate. On motion, this resolution was rescinded and the applicant was granted a second-grade certificate, valid for two years.

In the matter of the application of H. H. Howell for a first-grade certificate upon his California Educational Diploma, action was deferred until the adjourned meeting of this Board in June, when said applicant is required to appear in person before said Board at said adjourned meeting, to be held on the second Wednesday in June, 1883.

The Board adopted the following

RESOLUTIONS:

Resolved, That the Secretary of this Board be requested to instruct the School Trustees of each district in this county of the status of their respective districts, and their duty to expend the same for library purposes; and, if necessary, furnish to each Board of School Trustees a list of books adopted by this Board, from which said Trustees are to select books for school libraries.

Resolved, That all persons applying to the Board for a first-grade certificate, in accordance with Section 1,775 of the School Law, shall be required to appear in person before said Board.

WHEREAS, it appears that persons have heretofore applied to the County School Superintendent for and have been granted temporary certificates, and then failed to appear before the Board for examination for certificates; therefore, by request of the County School Superintendent, it is

Resolved, That the authority heretofore granted by this Board to the County Superintendent to issue temporary certificates, be revoked, and that no such certificates shall hereafter be issued by said Superintendent, except that such temporary certificates be signed by himself and concurred in by a majority of the members of this Board; and that such certificates shall not be issued unless such applicant shall subscribe to the following

PLEDGE:

"In consideration of my receiving a temporary certificate, I hereby solemnly pledge myself to appear before the County Board of Education for examination, at the next regular meeting of that honorable body, if so required by said Board."

The matter of adopting McCarty's "Annual Statistician" as a school library book, received considerable attention, and the committee concluded to pass the subject over until the next meeting of the Board.

The Clerk then brought up the "Act to Enforce the Educational Rights of Children." It was recommended that the Superintendent send to the State Superintendent for blanks and posters for that particular purpose.

Resolved, That we cordially indorse Bynon's "Fractional Apples" as a useful and necessary school-room appliance; that they be placed upon the list of school apparatus, and that we officially advise their introduction into the various schools in this county.

Adopted.

A motion to have an adjourned meeting on the second Wednesday of June was carried, and the Board will be ready to examine applicants for certificates on that date. Adjourned.

CHAS. H. GROVES, Secretary.

The 17th at Bishop.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT: The day was bright and warm as May, and preparations had been going on in secret for a week or more in making and devising costumes and characters, while others were on the qui vive to see them on exhibition. The hall was beautifully and appropriately decorated with pictures, flags and emblems of the green isle, with several sprigs of the veritable shamrock from its native heath.

In the afternoon there was a game of base ball played between the Bishop Creek and Big Pine clubs, resulting in the defeat of the Big Piners, 71 to 21. The Big Pine girls say it was not much of a beat, "nohow;" but our girls are most jubilant, of course.

The hall was lighted up at an early hour in the evening, and soon the crowd of strange and grotesque maskers began to pour into it and the quizzing and general merriment began.

The most comical figure and mask was an Irish policeman—"No. 1"—who must have looked like McFlinigin, "whose eyes were knocked out and knocked in again" at Pat McGinnis' wake. This character was well sustained and remained incog. to the last by Mr. J. C. Fratice, of the Railroad Company.

Wash. Brierly as a "Monk," in hood and cowl, was a perfect disguise and caused much quizzing, but to no purpose.

Frank Inman as "Geo. Washington" looked as if he was anxious to earn more fame by using his hatchet on anybody's cherry tree he could find.

Some one whose name I failed to find out had the character of "Columbus," but he might not wish to be known as the discoverer of America at this late day.

A regular "Paddy from Cork," with shillalah, seeming desirous of a "muss," was subdued into a dancing mood as the music struck up and a quadrille was started—F. B. Merithew.

Sam Spratt as "Colonel of Militia," with his fair partner Miss Y. (not masked), was the envy of many.

Eben Marr as a "Plantation Negro," in his happiest mood and holiday suit, with long blue swallow-tailed coat, cut a conspicuous figure; while Johnny Burdick as "Miss Dinah" made one think of hoe cake, baked possum and sweet potatoes. Several others had darkey costumes, but did not give their names.

The gentlemen will please excuse my meagre report of their various dominoes, which were all fine and fanciful, and completely hiding their identity until unmasked at supper time.

I can only mention a few of the most conspicuous of the many picturesque costumes of the ladies:

Mrs. Bigham as "Starry Night" was very tastefully arrayed in a suit of black, sparkling with silver stars, with a long train of cloudy, dark lace.

Mrs. Belle Harrell as "Diogenes, the cynic," with his dark lantern looking through the streets of Athens for a man, or, especially, an honest man. This character was well sustained and a striking representation of the old philosopher. This was followed by an artistic costume of a "Winter Night," with falling snowflakes, and the moon rising above dark clouds.

Miss Minnie Smith as a "Gypsy Fortune Teller," with a very neat and brilliant costume of pink and white tarlton, covered with cards, and a dish in her pocket, ready to tell anyone's fate who wished to test her art.

Miss Mamie Clark as "Queen of Hearts," with hearts innumerable to give away, or to be woed or won—enough to last a lifetime, with a new suitor every month.

Mrs. Katie Mallory as a "Ghost" was taken for one until proved to be flesh and blood.

Mrs. H. Caleff as a "Country School Girl," with her spelling-book, trying to get her lesson in two syllables, was quite amusing; while Deborah Jones as "Simple Susie" was quite funny.

Mrs. May Gill and several other ladies were as "Wild Flowers," in bud and blossom.

There were several ladies in various-colored dominoes, but not in character, of whom I can only say that they served to add mush to the fun and brilliancy of the entertainment.

Several children were dressed as "Fairies," and might have been easily mistaken for such, if seen dancing in the moonlight. Ritta Drake was one of these, and Irene Gill was a "Maiden of the Morning," with the roseate hues of coming day.

This is but a very imperfect sketch of the celebration in honor of Ireland's patron saint, but it must suffice for this time.

L. H.

HOME AGAIN.—Judge Conklin and Omie Mairs reached home again Saturday last. They "took in" Los Angeles, where they made some goodly investments in real estate, on a rising market. However, neither one of them propose leaving Inyo for that country just now.

ST. RYAN has purchased the building formerly known as the Fredericksburg Brewery Depot, and will move it to Mt. Cory. George Haworth, with a force of men, took the building down on Sunday, and by to-morrow it will be on the way to its destination. Mr. Ryan is well known in the mountain camps and is very popular with "the boys," so it is safe to predict that Si. will get a full share of patronage at Cory this Summer.—Bodie Miner.

UNITED STATES PATENTS.

A List of Those Awaiting Delivery to the Owners at the Bodie Land Office.

The following is a list of United States Patents for lands now in the United States Land Office at Bodie, awaiting claimants. These patents will be delivered by the Register or Receiver upon the surrender of the Receiver's duplicate receipt, issued at the time of entry, with an indorsement thereon of acknowledgement by the patentee of receipt of patent:

INYO COUNTY.

Frederick Albers, Warren Barlow, Edwin P. Baker, M. L. Cook, Milton S. Clark, James W. Dickinson, Andrew Dell, William Dean, H. N. Gunter, Henry Grover, Thos. J. Goodale, Ezra M. Goodale, T. K. Hutchison (assignee of Stephen H. Eston), Oscar Hilton, Lucius Howard, Ernest Heiligendorfer, Minerva Inman, John Kinney, Joseph M. Love, William H. Lambert, Paul Lawson, Barney McGill, Catherine McNally (wife of Jas. McNally, deceased), John H. Muller, Manuel Marchado, Oscar L. Matthews, Jos. H. Magallon, Peter Perrier, Francis G. Powers, Charles Rivers, Wm. R. Thorington, John R. Turner, Thomas Williams, Joseph Wagner.

MINERAL PATENTS.

Monte Christo Consolidated Mining Company, upon the Monte Christo lode, Lake Mining Distsict, Mono county.

George Jackson, upon the Occident Lode, Cerro Gordo Mining District, Inyo county.

George Jackson, upon the Armagh mine, Cerro Gordo Mining District, Inyo county.

Union Consolidated Mining Company of Cerro Gordo and Nathan Goldtree, upon the Union lead miae, Cerro Gordo Mining District, Inyo county.

THEY get up some good stories about Western people. The correspondent of a Chicago paper, writing from Colorado, recites the following delicious bit of humor: A Leadville man traveling in the Gunnison country met a stranger in a lonely trail. "Halloo!" said the Leadville man. "Halloo!" was the rather surly reply. Then the Leadville man reached around to his hip pocket to get a bottle of whisky as a sort of mollifier. The stranger promptly shot at him, putting a bullet through the Leadville man's hat. "All right," said the latter, digging spurs into his broncho, "if that's the way you feel about it we will just drop the acquaintance right here. I never try to force myself on a man."

TRACK IRON for the Carson and Colorado Railroad is going to the front at a lively rate. Twenty carloads have gone south during the past few days. Travel is said to be good and everything points to lively times in Inyo county during the coming Summer. It takes a railroad to open up a country after all. While the "boys" kick about freights and fares, business goes right along doubling every year.—Bodie Free Press.

"THE day is coming," says an exchange, "when a letter will go anywhere within the United States for one cent, a dispatch for ten, and a man for a cent a mile."

SUMMONS.

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE COUNTY of Inyo, State of California.—Charlotte Kimler, plaintiff, versus John A. Kimler, defendant.—Action brought in the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, and the complaint filed in the office of the Clerk of said Superior Court.—The People of the State of California send greeting to John A. Kimler, defendant. You are hereby required to appear in an action brought against you by the above named plaintiff, in the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, and to answer the complaint filed therein within ten days (exclusive of the day of service) after the service on you of this summons—if served within this county, or if served elsewhere within thirty days. The said action is brought to recover judgment and decree of divorce dissolving the bonds of matrimony between plaintiff and defendant, on the grounds of willful desertion for the period of one year, of plaintiff by defendant, and that the custody of the minor child be awarded to the plaintiff, and for costs of suit and for general relief, all of which will more fully appear by the complaint filed herein, to which reference is hereby made. And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer the said complaint, as above required, the said plaintiff will take judgment against you for the decree prayed for in the complaint and for costs of suit.

Given under my hand and the Seal of the Superior Court, in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, this 23d day of December, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty-two.

California Borax.

There is one article of merchandise enumerated in the new Tariff bill, on which an import has been laid for the purpose of discouraging its importation and encouraging its home production, which is largely a California product. This is borax, of which large quantities are gathered in this State and Nevada. Few people except those engaged directly in its production and sale are likely to take much interest in the tariff on borax, and yet it is an article of almost universal use. Prior to the discovery of the California and Nevada fields large quantities of the mineral were imported from Turkey and Italy. Its value then was about thirty-five cents a pound. At present the production of American borax has depressed the price to ten cents a pound, and it would have gone still lower and caused the cessation of mining operations in California, if mining it can be called, if Congress had not imposed a customs duty upon the foreign product. This duty is five cents a pound, and is to be levied after July 1st. The local producers look forward with much satisfaction to that period.

The production of borax in the United States at present is not sufficient to supply the demand. But it is thought that when the price shall have risen a few cents under the fostering influence of the duty first imposed, the production will increase sufficiently to supply the entire market. At now ruling prices borax-making in the Pacific States is not a business which yields a great profit. There are, it is true, immense fields of the mineral, but they are in distant districts not easy of access, and while the cost of condensation is not great, the cost of freighting is so heavy that there remains but a very small margin. A number of the incorporated companies, who in the enthusiasm engendered by the first discovery, undertook the business, have gone the way of all flesh. Some years ago there was one company which operated quite successfully in Lake county. There was in the employ of this company a young engineer who sometimes struck an idea. The borax in that particular locality was conducted from the waters of a lake which was strongly impregnated with the mineral. The engineer, therefore, conceived the idea that if the water on top contained so much borax, that underground must contain much more. He therefore induced the company to bore at the banks of the lake. The augur went down and struck, not borax water, but a good, strong stream of fresh water, which began to flow into the lake and thinned it so much that it did not longer pay to condense its waters for the sake of the mineral.

The borax fields which have been worked so far have been generally small in extent. Only those in the neighborhood of good roads have been operated upon. These are easily exhausted and the operatives have to hunt for new borax fields. This is the cause and origin of the numerous borax companies which are incorporated each year. Several of those lately formed are to operate in Inyo county, where the borax fields are very extensive. The water of Lower Owens Lake contains a very large percentage of borax. In early days prospectors loved to wash their gray or black woollen blankets in this water, because it removed not only dirt but also all color. They also liked to bathe in it, because the poorest swimmer could float in its saline fluid. But the water is not good for drinking and cooking purposes and a very small quantity is sufficient to produce seasickness. The use of borax has materially increased of late years. It is now used for a great many manufacturing purposes, such as making agate household ware, pigments, etc. The trades, also, use it in liberal quantities and so do the soapmakers and housewives who hate grease spots and cockroaches. The industry promises to become important in California.—S. F. Chronicle.

THE eagle feels best soaring hundreds of feet above the earth, but the minute you get a man on a platform ten inches high his knees weaken, his face looks like the shell of a boiled crab, and he can't remember a word beyond "fellow citizens."

Salt in the Animal Economy.

Salt is a universal necessity, the desire for which seems an instinct implanted in the animal creation, and there is a natural craving for it when it does not exist in sufficient quantity in the food presented. This demand for salt is noted in the instinct of animals, as well as in the human longing for it. Animals will travel long distances and brave the greatest dangers to obtain it. The existence of such an appetite for salt in all individuals and animals shows that this substance serves more important functions than merely gratifying the palate. There is no question that many diseases our horses, cattle and sheep are liable to would be prevented by free access to salt, and where it has been given regularly the beneficial effects have shown themselves.

The utility of salt given in moderate quantities in feeding and fattening stock is highly spoken of by practical feeders, since it is conducive to the general health of animals, and is largely required in the formation of blood and the various animal juices. Experiments on animals have shown that although salt mixed with the fodder does not much affect the quantity of flesh, fat or milk obtained from them, yet it seriously affects their appearance and general condition; since animals deprived of salt, in addition to that naturally contained in their food, become dull and heavy in their temperament, with rough and staring coats, and dim eyes; while on the other hand salt-consuming animals soon present a skin as smooth as velvet, showing a greater relish for food and giving a rapid increase of weight. Eminent authorities assert that animals which do not find it in their food or drink become less prolific, and the breed rapidly diminishes in number. Nearly all kinds of cattle food contains more or less salt. Cattle, horses, sheep and pigs are able to digest and thrive on food that would otherwise be rejected or prove detrimental, such as mouldy hay or damaged grain, if mixed with salt, and we can see no better proof of this than when their instinct tells them to prefer the coarse salted grass to the sweet herbage without salt. The expense of salt, such as is most desirable for the feeding of animals is a mere trifle compared with its positive and beneficial influence in keeping the stock in healthy, vigorous condition. Let every farmer make it a point to see that his cattle, horses, sheep, and swine are judiciously supplied with this all-important and inexpensive compound.—Boston Cultivator.

Beautiful Indian Women.

Many half-breed Cherokee women in the Indian Territory are cultivated in mind, beautiful in person, industrious in habit, and will compare well with the more favored women in the North and East. They have magnificent heads of hair, long and black, all their own, and with jet black eyes and pearl teeth, dressed in that fashionable attire in which they all love to appear, they would not be recognized in Eastern drawing-rooms as that part of the original inhabitants of our country known as squaws, a name long since repudiated. Let it be known, then, that white men of worth and character are popular among the beauties of the Territory, and four out of five who come to make a home among them marry these dusky maidens, get a citizenship, surround themselves with ample acres and the comforts of life, participate in the affairs of government and become the most active and wealthy citizens of the Territory. A chief trait in the character of many white men in this country and out of it is to get possession of its productive lands. By committing matrimony they can kill two birds with one stone—get a wife and farm, too.

Bad Medicine.

A young physician who had long worshiped at a distance was one day suddenly called to attend her. He found her suffering from no particularly dangerous malady, but she wanted him to prescribe for her, nevertheless; so he took her hand and said impressingly:

"Well, I should—prescribe—I should prescribe that—you—get—married."

"Oh, goodness!" said the interesting invalid, "who would marry me, I wonder?"

"I would," snapped the doctor with all the voracity of a six-foot pickerel.

"You!" exclaimed the maiden.

"Yes."

"Well, Doctor, if that is the fearful alternative, you can go away and let me die in peace."

THE HIGHEST MOUNTAIN.—For many years Mount Everest, in Nepaul, has been considered the highest mountain in the world, reaching the respectable hight of 29,002 feet. Dhawalgire and Kuchinjinga, in the same range, with about 28,000 feet each, shared the honor between them until Major Everest, of the Bengal Engineers, discovered their big brother. Before they were measured, Humboldt thought some points in the South American Andes reached the highest altitude on our globe. But quite recently Capt. J. A. Lawson has discovered in the little-known island of New Guinea, a peak that is still higher, which he has appropriately called Mount Hercules, and fixes its elevation at 32,786 feet above the level of the sea.

THE crowned heads of Europe are not anxious to be cut off in the flower of youth. They have notified the Czar that they will not be present to witness his coronation, but that they will send ambassadors. The latter gentlemen will appear in full dress suits made from sheet iron.

The Health of Farmers.

The occupation of the farmer has always been regarded as one of the most healthful of any in which men could engage. That it is not more healthful than any other is due to causes which greater care and observance of the law of health would easily regulate. In point of fact there are several occupations in which the average length of life is greater than that of the farmer, yet it is not because they are naturally more favorable to long life, but rather that they require more than an average knowledge of the conditions of good health. Doctors live longer than farmers, though average physicians have to be out all seasons and in all kind of weather, besides being more exposed than others to contagious diseases. It is not to be inferred that doctors are healthier than others because they deal in medicines, for they take less rather than more than most of their own patients, but they understand the laws of health and violate them less frequently than other persons. The abundance of fresh air which the farmer gets in outdoor work he shares with the farm laborer, yet the average life of the former is considerably longer. In general the farm laborer's task weighs on him more than the same amount of work done by his employer. The laborer has not the same interest as the farmer in his work. He works mechanically, with no desire or expectation more than the stipulated reward. The interest of the farmer in the amount and value of his crops stimulates hope, and thus conduces to buoyant spirits and a beautiful old age. There are, however, times when this is reversed. If the farmer be cramped or harrassed by debts, and suffers from successive failures of crops, he is in worse rather than in better condition for maintaining good health than are his employes, who receive a fixed wage and seldom have any worry. It is, in fact, worry more than work which wears so many Americans to death. There are a few cases in which farmers break down physically by reason of overwork; but nine times out of ten the work they do will not hurt them if their minds are not disquiet during its performance.

IT is said that David Davis, who has just become a husband, weighs over three hundred pounds. If there ever comes a period in the gentlemans life when he will wish he was an old bachelor, or had been born a living skeleton, it will be when he returns home from an alleged political caucus at midnight and attempts to ascend the stairs without making them creak like stage thunder. And Mr. Davis is a poltician.

A SALEM man dropped a five-dollar gold piece into the contribution box at church, last Sunday, and he has been kicking himself all about town ever since. He thought it was a cent.

A TEACHER'S TRUE MERIT.

A person may pass a satisfactory examination and be poorly qualified to teach, and this fact can only be ascertained by a visit to the school room. Teaching is something besides naming the alphabet, listening to recitations or announcing a word to be spelled. It consists in teaching the pupil how to think correctly upon the subject matter in hand. Although repetition lies at the foundation of all infan i e learning, yet there are rational methods of learning even the alphabet that develops mind. System, classification and analysis must be understood and practiced in the earliest stages of education, and if the teacher is properly qualified, they will be manifest in everything—in the arrangement of the classes, of pupils at the blackboard, and especially in the analysis in the higher branches. It is most important that the uninformed mind should be started rightly in order to insure a successful course of education, and indeed of business in after life. The fault of our schools is that pupils are not taught to think, because so few teachers know how to think. The aim of the superintendency should be to reverse this order of things, and as soon as possible furnish our schools with not merely learned but thinking teachers. It is a matter to be deplored that so many teachers acquire positions through favoritism and wire-working, and are not selected or promoted solely on the ground of true merit. Preparing the child for the future in society, on which his prosperity and usefulness depend, is too sacred a work for the interference of sinister motives. These motives must be discountenanced and banished and our educators be required to stand or fall by their true merit. The man or woman who has no interest in the profession, but intends using it as a stepping stone to something else, should not be employed as a teacher. "A double-minded man is unstable in all his ways" is as true in education as in morals. A teacher who has no permanent interest in his profession, or whose mind is mainly occupied with studies wholly foreign to what he teaches, cannot be a thorough educator.

"GERMAN CARP," says the Appeal, "are now being introduced into Nevada through the enterprise of Fish Commissioner Parker. These fish are the fastest-growing fish known, gaining six pounds a year. They also cost like blazes, and the cost of seven little carp which reached Carson was about $100, including the expressage. The price of little carp about one inch long is $8 apiece, but it is pretty cheap when one considers how rapidly they breed and how fast they grow. In five years from now those seven carp will have multiplied to such an extent that they will be able to feed the entire State of Nevada. It is no exaggeration to say that in a few years seven carp would so increase by breeding that they would raise the water in Fallen Leaf Lake two feet. This is Seth Green's estimate, and he is reckoned pretty fair authority on fish questions." A hundred dollars sent to Inyo for carp would have supplied the Nevada people with at least 250 of the fish. Nevada needs brain food, and $8 apiece is nothing for little fish.

SOMETHING of an idea of the contribution of the Truckee Basin to the wood demand may be gleaned by knowing that Bronco furnished last season 3,000, Prosser Creek 5,000, Martis Creek 6,000, Truckee 18,000, Donner boom 4,000, Donner Lake side 3,000, Champion's 3,000, Kneeland's mill 3,000, in all 45,000 cords, all of which is purchased by the Central Pacific Railroad Company. The Winter of 1881-2 proved a cheap one for the railroad company. It was a mild Winter and the snow-plows, which are the means of consuming large quantities, did not have much work to do. The best wood is cut in the Fall and Winter, for the reason that the bark holds looser to the wood, and the railroad company always try to contract for wood cut during the Fall and Winter months.

IT is announced that the Central Pacific Company will soon put Westinghouse automatic air brakes on all its freight trains. Judging from the number of bad accidents to these trains during the last six months, we think the new improvement ought to pay.

OF the Comstock mines listed at the San Francisco Stock Exchange there have been paid in assessments $71,293,478 to date. The total dividends disbursed by the mines aggregate $116,587,100.

THE Bodie Free Press has been slightly "ensmalled." At the commencement of its fourteenth year, in June next, THE INDEPENDENT will be enlarged.

ACTS OF THE LEGISLATURE.

The wise measures of the late Legislature are a number of bills in aid of the State University; the road law; concerning tax sale redemptions; classifying municipal corporations; providing for a preparatory course for the University in the common school system; a new and good street law; in aid of decrepit veterans of the Mexican war; in aid of foundling asylums; in aid of viticulture; in aid of horticulture and the destruction of fruit insect pests; protecting food fish; settling contests as to preferred labor claims; providing for a wall at Folsom Prison; a fair municipal government bill; giving Boards of Health control of drainage fittings for houses; a county government bill; in aid of silk culture; to prevent the introduction of contagious diseases into the State; providing additional accommodations for the insane; requiring the insane with sufficient estates to pay for their care; giving a fit salary to the clerk of the State Board of Equalization; providing for better investment of school moneys; aiding the State Agricultural Society; aiding the Mining Bureau; paying some just claims; aiding the industrial education of the deaf and dumb and the blind; providing for the care and repair of State buildings; and aiding State Normal schools; and submitting the text-book question to a vote. A host of indifferent resolutions were passed—and a few very worthy ones. Some few amendments to the Codes were made, of no particular significance, the best being a new provision for authentication of marriage. Among the laws to be condemned as unwise are the impracticable oleomargarine bill; the Statistical Bureau bill, which has, however, some good mingled with its doubtful provisions; the street railway bill; the Lake Tahoe forestry bill—bad because limited to a small region, and hence tending to prevent general remedies being applied; the Legislative and Congressional partisan apportionment bills; the bill legislating out of office Republican Harbor Commissioners; vacating a judicial office in Mono instead of impeaching the incumbent; the hair-cutting bill for county prisoners. Some bills are of but little significance, as that for destruction of wild animals; as to refunding the indebtedness of cities; auditing accounts of the Insurance Commissioner; the jurisdiction of Justices; as to juvenile offenders; as to the method of submitting constitutional amendments; as to drawbridges in cities; purchasing portraits of Governors; as to the manner of assessing railroad property—all these are of a class that the most ordinary legislative body might deal with, and which are of very ordinary character. Add to these a few concurrent resolutions, some of which are vicious, the usual tax levy and the appropriation bill, and the effective work of the Legislature is covered.

SOME of our local taxpayers have been calculating upon the effects of the new county government bill, and have found it easy to figure out that under its operation the combined salaries of the various officers will aggregate $24,000 a year. As the highest sum ever received by the county for taxes has been only about $32,000 in any one year, the problem of what County Warrants will be worth is rendered quite simple. At present rates of $3 25 on the 100, after deducting the State's proposition, there will be absolutely nothing left for current expense, especially as the law allows no expenditure to exceed the income. The idea of paying fixed salaries for certain officers, instead of the fee system—whether their work be small or great—is monstrous. All in all, it may be good for the lucky place-holders in future, but rough on the taxpayers, the heaviest of whom may make less out of their business per annum than will be paid certain officials. It is to be hoped that the Supreme Court will get a whack at this Act before its provisions are carried into effect.

THE Walker Lake Bulletin, with its initial number dated March 20th, comes to hand. It is published at Hawthorne, the railroad town and coming county seat of Inyo's adjoining county of Esmeralda, Nevada. In tone and style it appears first class, and we are glad to welcome the new newspaper neighbor.

THE Washington Grand Jury on the 27th instant returned indictments against T. J. Brady and ex-Senator Kellogg of Louisiana for conspiracy to defraud the Government by means of star-route contracts.

Two thousand infantry have been ordered to protect the public buildings in London, and the Coldstream Guards have been posted in the Parliament buildings and Buckingham Palace.

THE report is current that the Bonanza firm will make no effort to retain the control of any of the Comstock mines south of Ophir.

CAPT. WM. S. MOSS, formerly of the San Francisco Examiner, died at his residence at French Camp, San Joaquin county, on Saturday last.

As the elaborate preparations for the coronation of the Czar of all the Russias progress, the activity of the nihilists increases. Hundreds of arrests are being made and the deepest apprehension both public and official, prevails. There is no concealment of the intention of the nihilists, and it appears to be thoroughly understood that nothing but superhuman precautions on the part of the police to protect the Czar and his visitors will avail against the determination of the conspirators. The general character of the contemplated festivities is certainly replete with exasperation to all nihilists and all who sympathize with them. Large numbers of police are endeavoring to evade duty at Moscow during the period of the coronation and are being discharged in consequence and replaced by new men.

THE murders by Apaches in Arizona still continue and the military appear to have made no impression on the savages thus far. The great trouble in all these raids is that it takes a fortnight to place the troops in different positions; during this time the Apaches raise scalps and lift stock, and when the military is beginning to get ready for active operations the Indians are already well over the border. The only way, it seems, to guard against this would be, on the first intimation of trouble, to ship all the available troops from the nearest camps to the threatened district. Or a more effective plan would be to equip bodies of local militia or rangers, who could be called out in an emergency. At any rate, prompt suppression of raids and severe punishment of ff rs is t e only way to discourage these Indians.

A LAW passed by the last Legislature provides a new course of procedure in murder trials in which the plea of insanity is entered for the defense. Under the law the defendant is first examined for insanity. If proved not insane, he shall be tried for murder and the plea of insanity shall constitute an aggravation of his offense. If proved insane he goes to the madhouse for life and cannot be released unless his sanity at the time of the murder is proved, when he is released and tried for the murder. This will put the murderer, sane or insane, between the horns of an unpleasant dilemma, and may prevent some of the cases of "emotional insanity" in which the murderer is insane only while he commits the crime and recovers soon afterward.

THE question is often asked at this season of the year as to what determines the date of Easter. The answer is that it is the moon of March which Tennyson calls "the roaring month of daffodils." The old rule is that Easter shall fall on the Sunday after the full moon which comes after the vernal equinox. That brought Easter this year on the 25th of March. In 1818 it fell on the 22d of March, the earliest date possible. It will not fall on that date again in this or the following century.

THE arithmetic man of a Boston paper is putting in a few days' work on t British debt. I 61 notes it would cover the State of Ohio. In penny pieces it would reach to the moon seventeen times. It would weigh 347,351 men with forty pounds of gold each. A smart man who never slept could count it in about 7,000 years. A division among the inhabitants of the earth would give every man, woman an hild $5. The British debt is the be answer to the appended questio "What has prosperity got to do for us?"

AN Albuquerque newspaper records the fact with much complacency that leven rustlers have been captured and our killed with an expense to the Territory of New Mexico of only $3,000. It rates the rustlers as worth $1,000 each behind the bars or ready for burial, so that there has been a saving in these cases of fully $12,000.

THE fact is telegraphed from Chattanooga, Tenn., that a baby has been born there with a head no larger than a walnut. If a boy, he will probably some day become a aspirant for the seat in the United States Senate lately vavated by Tabor, of Colorado. He would be about the proper caliber.

THE French Republic begins to fear that it was changed in the cradle.

"AN ACT to prevent the burning or cremation of human bodies after death" has been introduced in the Pennsylvania Senate, on the ground that "such bodies are generally imported from other States for cremation, and the practice is contrary lo the instincts of humanity, the Christain civilization of the age, and abhorrent to the masses of the people of the State." The penalty proposed is a fine of from $500 to $1,000, or solitary confinement at labor for from one to three years, or both.

BOTH in Arizoza and Mexico the Apaches are murdering the whites again. The Indian killed by Childs, at the Clark charcoal camp, was a San Carlos Reservation Indian, armed with a United States rifle and accoutrements, and was formerly a government scout. It is hoped the band of twenty in Arizona may be caught, as well as those in Mexico.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, MARCH 31..... ...1883

A NEW DISCOVERY.—A. McKellips has brought in samples of rich silver ore from a ledge he has lately found near the head of Mazourka cañon. The ledge is described as being six feet wide, well defined, and situated in a formation of lime and slate. The ore shows rich chlorides of silver, and assays of average samples, made by Mr. Woodhull, give $232 90 per ton in silver. Rich chlorides have been found before at the head of Mazourka, but only in small quantities. McKellips has been a persistent prospector in ths locality mentioned, and he now feels confident that he has found the main ledge, and that it is "a big thing."

FOR A SPORTING CLUB.—There is a very sensible proposition being urged for the organization of a Club to protect game and fish. It ought to be done by all means, and any miscreant found violating the game laws should be prosecoted to the fullest extent. The streams are becoming despoiled by taking trout by unlawful means and out of season, and unless some steps are taken they will have to be restocked. People can then go without fish altogether for a few years.

ASSESSING.—Assessor Irwin returned home last evening from his official trip northward. He reports the principal topic of interest up that way is the railroad and its progress. The graders are opposite Fish Springs, and the iron laid to Black Cañon. On the 4th of March Supt. Laws ran an entire construction train into this county, and consequently Inyo is ahead over 250 poll, hospital and road taxes. Dick McAlpine, the Assessor of Mono, it appears got there just a little too late.

STORMY.—It has been very stormy during the week, there being quite a rain-fall in the valley, and a still heavier deposit of new snow on the mountains. Everything was whitened with hoar-frost Thursday night, but so far as yet appears, the blooming fruit trees have been but slightly damaged. Altogether, this storm has improved crop prospects materially.

THE NORTHERN STAGES.—It is stated that on to-morrow the Northern stages will receive the mails from the railroad at Bishop Creek, instead of at Benton. Just how this will affect the time of the arrival and departure of stages from here is not understood definitely, as the regular railroad timetable has not been announced as to its Bishop Creek station.

THE COMING EVENT.- The Odd Fellows announce an appropriate commemoration of the anniversary of the Order, to take place at the Court House on the evening of April 26th. See the advertisement elsewhere. There is no question but it will be one of the grandest affairs ever gotten up in the county.

AGENTS.—By notice elsewhere in this issue, it will be observed that Harris & Rhine are the authorized agents of the Black Rock Sawmill Company, which company demand an immediate settlement of all accounts due them. See notice.

CRANES.—Sand-hill cranes are putting in an appearance in unusually large bands and numbers of bands. Wiggins' storm from the mis-conjunction of the planets may and may not have blown them off their course to Canada.

SPECIAL.—The Board of Supervisors will meet next Monday, to award the county hospital contract, the boarding of prisoners and fixing up contracts for wood. Road and bridge matters will also be considered.

ARRIVED.—Mr. J. S. Rothschild, of the well known local firm of J. S. Rothschild & Co., arrived on Friday last, and will spend a few days in Inyo looking after his varied mining and mercantile interests.

SUPERIOR COURT.— In the Superior Court, Wednesday last, Mrs. Charlotte Kimler was granted a divorce from John A. Kimler.

IT appears somewhat paradoxical that the man who fired at Cummings and killed him should be sent to the penitentiary for life, while his accomplice, who fired no shot, is to be hanged. But that is the result of the recent murder trials at Nevada City. The law recognizes either penalty as adequate and hence there is no criticism to be made under that head.

THE State Agricultural Society receives from the State this year $15,000 in addition to the $40,000 in aid of a new Pavillion. The Legislature has never failed to lavish appropriations on Sacramento, especially in the furtherance of pumpkin shows and horse races. The State Mining Bureau was in luck to get even ten cents from such a crowd.

THE Sierras present a agrand sight enveloped in their mantle of the "beautiful snow," which covers them from the foot-hills to their peaks. In the valley the green leaves and bright blossoms on the fruit trees present a delightful contrast that is worth seeing.

IF Wiggins had pretold a cyclone of horrors, a tidal wave of crime, a blizzard of murder, a storm of suicide, and a tornado of theft, he would have been hailed as a true prophet, says the Oakland Tribune.

HON T. O. HOWE, Postmaster-General of the United States, died at Kenosha, Wis., on the 25th instant, of pneumonia.

The Geological Survey.

The work of the Geological Survey will be resumed this Spring on a larger scale than ever before. The important researches of the survey have heretofore been confined to Territories. At the last session Congress authorized the officers to extend their operations into the States, and the work will now be prosecuted upon a much broader and more comprehensive plan. The object of the survey is to make an accurate history of the topographical, geological. mineralogical and other resources of the United States. To perform this work correctly explorations in the older States, as well as in the Territories, are necessary. In States where local geographical surveys have been made, the labors of the Government scientists will be greatly lessened. Congress appropriated $280,000 for the work this year, and operations will be begun in California, Colorado, Nevada, Minnesota, Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, Arkansas and Texas. The operation in California will be upon a large scale. Arrangements have recently been perfected whereby copies of all publications made by the Geological Survey will be sent to all the great libraries and scientific societies in Europe.—Virginia Chronicle.

THE following items are from the Alta-Arizona, published at Mineral Park, Mojave county, A. T., March 16th:

Our latest news from the railroad west of the river, is up to the early part of the present week. At that time the end of the track was within about twenty miles of the river and was being pushed along at the rate of two miles per day. The road will reach the Colorado about the 1st of April.

The A. & P. at this writing is in the center of the Wallapai Valley, some twelve or fourteen miles east of Mineral Park—about the nearest point to this town. They are laying down two miles of track per day. The distance from the end of the track to the river is not far from seventy miles. Kingman will be reached in a few days.

A small boat is being built at Peach Springs to go on the river in the Great Cañon of the Colorado. Two gentlemen are there in the interest of the railroad, to take photographic views of this great natural wonder.

JAM FROM TURNIPS AND TAR.—According to the correspondent of a trade journal, it is a mistake to suppose that fruit is absolutely necessary to the manufacture of preserves. He describes a visit to a large jam-producing factory, in which he found that the work was being bravely carried on without the aid of fruit at all. Jams of various kinds were being produced before his eyes—currant, plum, strawberry, apricot, raspberry, and gooseberry. Yet neither currant, plum, strawberry, apricot, raspberry, nor gooseberry was in the building. Turnips served the purpose of the fruit. The flavoring matter was extracted from coal tar, and the resemblance to raspberry and strawberry jam was further produded by mixing the boiling compound with small seeds of some cheap inocuous herb. A common form of sugar is used, and this is the only honest ingredient of the mess. These preserves are offered as made from "this season's fruit."

R. M. PETERS and Hank Knerr, says the Ward Reflex, returned Saturday last from a search after a fabulously rich gold mine in the neighborhood of Death Valley, which they failed to find, notwithstanding the fact that th y had a rude map of the lay of the land. They reached a point forty miles north of Ash Meadows and thirty miles east of Death Valley, and then concluded to return. In the valley east of Death Valley they had a rough time. They got out of water, but luckily found a little snow that had escaped the sun on the north side of a few clumps of sagebrush. This they proceeded to melt and water their jaded horses. They think they went a little too far south to find the mine they were in search of. The man who found the mine a number of years ago gave Mr. Peters a description of the country and, among other things, stated that the Indians ran him out, but he took with him fifteen pounds of rock which he sold all the way from $1 to $5 a pound.

THE syndicate of which Rufus Hatch is the head and front has succeeded in securing the lease of lands in the Yellowstone. The amount altogether is ten acres and the annual rental is two dollars per acre. The parties to whom the land is leased agree to put up one hotel which is to cost not less than $150,000, and five smaller hotels in various parts of the Park, to be built upon plans to be approved by the Secretary of the Interior. At the end of ten years the buildings and property are to be valued by arbitration and turned over to the Government. It is extremely probable that, by the time the ten years are out, some new arrangement will be made by which the lands and buildings will remain in the hands of the syndicate, for the Secretary of the Interior will probably have all he can attend to without going into the hotel business, and so the monopoly of the Yellowstone Park will remain in the hands of Rufus Hatch & Co.

JUMBO the big elephant is growing fat. His weight is now seven tons. He seems to be satisfied with this country. Bridgeport ozone agrees with him; in fact he wouldn't go back to the old sod if he could. He is very playful for one of his size, and will stick his trunk down into the pockets of all who come within reach with the freedom of an old acquaintance. He likes almost everything, and, in spite of all lectures and sermons to the contrary, will chew tobacco like an old sinner.

THE friends of W. A. Irwin and R. L. Peterson gave those gentlemen a complimentary dinner at the Maison Doree Wednesday night, prior to their departure for Mexico. The spread was excellent, and there was a general exchange of kindly sentiment. Messrs. Irwin and Peterson left Thursday morning, and expect to return in a few weeks if the Apaches do not capture their scalps.—Bodie Free Press.

SOUTHERN INYO.

DARWIN, March 26.

The business men, miners, and in fact all classes through this part of Inyo take deep interest in the approaching railroad, and each week's installment of news in regard to its progress down the valley is hailed with pleasure. That it will be of great benefit to the mines is not questioned, and the inflow of capital and revival of business is anticipated and dwelt upon as an accomplished fact.

Mr. J. S. Gorman has returned from San Francisco and has already commenced work upon

THE DEFIANCE MINE.

Although this mine has held a prominent place in the history of mining operations in Southern Inyo, a brief resumë of its workings may not be amiss: The Defiance was located in the latter part of 1874. The outcrop of the ore was very large, and as it lay between a well-defined contact of porphyritic granite and lime for a distance of nearly six miles, and by the outcrop of other mines showing an almost continuous mineral belt for nearly the whole distance, presented a most flattering outlook, and was the principal attraction that brought capital here the next year and built up a flourishing town. Two 30-ton furnaces were erected at a distance of three-fourths of a mile from the mine, and were run for about a year at a loss to the owners. This was due principally to the high cost of transportation and the depreciation in value of lead. The cost of transportation then amounted to $80 per ton from and $47 per ton to San Francisco. The rates of freight are now much less, and for the past two years the mine has paid well. It has been worked to the depth of 212 feet, 500 feet in length and 60 feet in width. The Company (known as Reddy, Gorman & Co.) propose to carry this working down to the depth of 600 feet as speedily as possible. Their facilities for doing this are good, as they have steam hoisting works capable of raising 200 tons of ore per day. They have ten men at work and will add more as their work requires them. The total yield of ore from the mine up to the present time is 18,000 tons, which produced 3,500 tons of bullion—5.16 tons of ore producing one ton of bullion. The average value of the bullion has been $200 sllver and $6 gold per ton. One notable fact is worthy of observation: The ore in the lower workings is of much higher grade than near the surface, carrying a larger per cent. of both gold and silver. Assays have been made that gave a result of 820 ounces silver and $175 gold per ton. It is not the intention of the Company to run their furnaces until August, as they prefer waiting until the railroad is completed to Owens Lake and thereby secure cheaper rates for the transfer of bullion. Nearly all the ores in the Defiance mineral belt contain gold. To the north of and adjoining the Defiance is

THE CUERVO MINE.

During the early working of this mine a chamber of rich gold ore was found that yielded $36,000, the ore being shipped to San Francisco for working. It is predicted by those well acquainted with the workings of the mine, that the Cuervo, as well as the Defiance, contains many such deposits, and that they will be found as the work of development reaches a greater depth.

Some inquiries having been made lately for

COPPER ORES,

It transpires that a fine-looking ledge of copper has been lying vacant for years but a short distance from town. Mr. J. Wilson has made a location upon it, and the ore exhibited is of high grade, principally red and black oxides, assaying from 30 to 60 per cent. copper.

SHERMAN DISTRICT.

The Company at Reilly are still moving ahead. The mill, now nearing completion, is one of fine construction and will do good work. They are now grading for a tramway from the Bonanza King mine to the mill; will procure T-rail from the old Modoc tunnel for their track. They will also commence laying water pipe as soon as a team arrives to distribute it.

Some very rich ore has been struck in the northern part of the District, assaying as high as $2,600 per ton, silver; also near Snow's Cañon, assay value $340 silver.

At the Snow's Cañon mill, Stapp & Morton are making a run on gold and silver ores.

At Lookout, Fitzgerald is at present repairing water pipe damaged by frost during the Winter. He will start the furnace in about two weeks.

TRANSIENT.

IT seems almost like carrying coals to Newcastle to transport old buildings to Hawthorne and Corey from Bodie, when the fact is considered that lumber can be bought for $37 50 per M., and other material for building purposes fully as reasonable. It may be a saving to buy the old, dilapidated buildings that have stood the storms of Bodie since 1879; yet the saving is very small, and, so small in fact as to hardly save interest on the money invested. At the same time we think the tearing down and taking away of the old buildings improves Bodie's appearance, and can but rejoice in the fact that, while Corey will be a new mining camp with old buildings, when the bonanza of the coming Summer is struck in this vicinity and the people commence business with renewed energy, Bodie will be an old camp with new buildings, outshining her would-be rival in the matter of fine dwellings, hotels and business houses. So mote it be.—Bodie Miner.

TUSCARORA, Nev., is in need of a shepherd of the proper ecclesiastical calibre. For such a one the Times-Review of that town throws out this glittering bait: "If any self-denying servant in the cause of religious reform desires to take up his abode in Tuscarora he will find a good church, neatly fitted up and and furnished, and as many sinners needing sledge-hammer pulpit eloquence as can be unearthed in any town of its size."

End of the Track.

The work of laying the track at the eastern end of the Colorado Division of the Southern Pacific Railroad is rapidly progressing. Day before yesterday 9,500 feet of track were laid, which brings the end of the same within about fourteen miles of the Colorado River. There will be one or two difficult places to encounter before reaching the river. A bridge 800 feet long will have to be built across the river, which will require over sixty days to complete it.

The western end of the Atlantic and Pacific is within about fifty-five miles of the Colorado River. Delay in forwarding material and strikes among the workmen have retarded the progress of track-laying. The grading is completed within a few miles of the river. —Calico Print, March 24.

How Arabi Pasha Went Into Exile.

Captain Thomas Osborne of the steamship which took Arabi Pasha and his companions in exile to Ceylon, and arrived at Bombay on January 16th, has furnished the following account of the voyage: "We took Arabi Pasha and his associates and their families on board at Suez, and sailed from that port on December 27th, bound for Columbo. They were seasick for the first two or three days, and after that they brightened up and were always more or less cheerful. Eventually, in fact, they became as happy as if they were going to Paradise. The dullest of the lot was Arabi. The exiled party went ashore in four squads. In the last one was Arabi. On landing the people crowded round him. I should call it fairly mobbing one. Some kissed his clothes and some got down on their knees and kissed his boots. The party were driven away in carriages to the Cinnamon Gardens, where they were located in some handsome bungalows. On the whole, I don't think any of them regretted his lot. They never exhibited any symptoms of fear, and believed a happy future to be before them."

A NUMBER of persons left Daggett and Calico during this week for the new gold fields recently discovered near Death Valley. Reports that come from that locality are very flattering. The ledges are strong and extend for a long distance. The ore contains many colors of gold and a large per cent. of silver. An abundance of wood and water, and good roads. But a few miles from the line of the Carson and Colorado Railroad, which will be completed to that point in a few months.—Calico Print.

Postal Rates.

If you will cut this out and stick it in your memorandum book you will find it convenient for reference, and be spared the trouble and expense of writing letters of inquiry to the newspapers:

On and after October 1, 1883, letter postage will be two cents for each half ounce or fractional part thereof between all points in the United States. The rate will then be the same on drop letters and all others. No changes have been made in rates on other classes of matter.

On and after the 1st of July, 1883, you can obtain at any money order office postal notes in sums of $5 and under by paying a fee of three cents. These postal notes will be made payable to bearer without corresponding advices. They will be payable at any money order office within three months of the date of issue. After the lapse of that time the holder can obtain the par value only by applying to the Postoffice Department at Washington.

On and after the 1st of July, 1883, you can obtain a postal money order for as large a sum as $100. The present limit is $50. The rates on and after that date for orders will be as follows:

Not exceeding $10	8 cents
From 10 to 15	10 cents
From 15 to 30	15 cents
From 30 to 40	20 cents
From 40 to 50	25 cents
From 50 to 60	30 cents
From 60 to 70	35 cents
From 70 to 80	40 cents
From 80 to 100	45 cents

The postal notes will no doubt be found more convenient in one respect than the fractional currency was, since they can be obtained for any number of cents under $5. There will also be less liability to loss by theft than there was when fractional notes were used for transmission through the mails, especially if the Department uses judgment in prescribing the size and form of the notes and in selecting the notes on which they are to be printed. On the other hand, they will be less convenient in that they can only be obtained at money order offices at a considerable sacrifice of time, especially in large cities. It will be observed that after the 1st of October the cost of sending any sum under $5 by postal note will be five cents—two cents postage and three cents fee.

CINCINNATI consumes 150 gallons of water per day, and the Oil City Blizzard man says he is fairly wild to know what they use it for. Under ordinary circumstances we would permit this to pass without notice, but when an oil country citizen shows a desire to know something about water it is the duty of everybody, who makes a specialty of that subject, to loose his flood-gates of information. The water is used in Cincinnati for washing beer glasses.

THE California Immigration Association reports arrivals for the week ending March 24th as follows: By the Central Pacific Railroad 636, and by the Southern Pacific Railroad 328, making a total of 964, the largest number of arrivals for any one week in the past five years. Fully two-thirds of the number are married men, who come out ahead of their families to make preparations for their comfort in advance of their arrival.

AT the meeting of the Woman's Suffrage Association in Boston one evening, one of the speakers said: "We come armed with a knowledge of the past." This is terrible! Every married man knows that when his wife comes at him, armed with a knowledge of the past, he has got to do some pretty tall lying to make that past seem all right.

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, a settlement of some 300 souls in the southern part of Los Angeles county, is without a lawyer, doctor, Justice of the Peace, Constable or Road Overseer. Fortunate San Juan!

IN order to secure custom, a Bodie saloonkeeper gives a premium of $25 every Saturday night to the fellow who wins the biggest "pot" playing at keno.

Delinquent Mine Partners.

There is no greater nuisance than for a miner to get a partner in a claim with him who will not do his share. Under the old laws it was quite difficult to get rid of him, and even under the provisions of the existing laws there are certain forms which must be gone through which take time and are of more or less trouble. Still there are means of ridding one of a non-paying partner. It must be remembered, however, that the U. S. mining laws provide only for removing a partner who fails in paying the required expenditures—that is, what the U. S. laws require—and as far as not paying the actual expenditures, recourse must be had to the Courts.

There are some other details which mine owners afflicted with delinquent co-owners should remember, and more especially when they are going to patent their claims. Where a party proceeds against one or more of his co-owners, under the U. S. mining laws, he should file with his application for patent a copy of the original notice of location; an abstract of all conveyances made of the claim; a copy of the notice published to delinquent co-owners—which notice should embrace the names of all delinquents—to which must be attached the affidavit of the publishers of the paper in which the notice was inserted, that the attached notice was published for the period of ninety consecutive days, giving dates; the affidavit of the claimant or claimants who have made the required expenditures, corroborated by the sworn statements of two or more disinterested witnesses, showing the character and extent of the improvements made upon the claim, and the time when the improvements were made. There must also, by the rules of the Land Office, be filed the sworn statement of the claimant or claimants who had made the required expenditures, as to whether or not either of the parties whose names appear in such published notice contributed his proportion of the required expenditure, either during the ninety days' notice by publication or the succeeding ninety days. The evidence must be full, positive and explicit on all these points. Miners applying for patents should call the attention of their attorneys to any delinquency of partners at any time previous, in order that all these precautions may be taken, and the time, expense and annoyance of a rejection may be prevented.—S. F. Scientific Press.

Brush Fence Titles.

There has been much complaint against those who inclose public lands for grazing purposes, and thus gain a show of possession which retards settlers from entering on lands which they have a right to do, and should not be discouraged. The matter has been brought to the attention of the Secretary of the Interior, and he pronounces upon it in no uncertain way. He has just addressed an important letter to the Commissioner of the General Land Office in regard to this matter. It says: "I need not advise you that inclosures of the character described are unauthorized and illegal, so that the settlement is a trespass only, and gives no right to the occupant, or that such occupation does not legally exclude bona fide settlement by another. Such trespass on the public lands is equally as offensive to law and morals as if upon private property, and such lands not legally appropriated are vacant and subject to disposal by whomsoever legally applies for them. Until settlement is made under the settlement laws there can be no objection to the grazing of cattle or the cutting of hay on Government lands, provided that such unappropriated lands are left open to all alike. To allow a few wealthy stockmen to fence these lands, and to thus practically withdraw them from the operation of the settlement laws, and deprive men of small means of the advantage of acquiring settlement, will not be allowed under any pretense whatever."

MRS. HELEN HUNT JACKSON, of Boston, well known as a writer over the pseudonym "H. H.," has been appointed a special agent of the Indian Bureau to investigate the condition of the Mission Indians of California. Mrs. Jackson has taken a warm interest in Indian affairs, and having received complaints regarding the alleged usurpation of certain lands belonging to the Mission Indians, by white settlers, under recent Government surveys, she applied to the Indian office for permission to investigate the charges. Her instructions are to ascertain the number of Mission Indians, where they are living, whether any suitable Government lands can be set apart for their use, and if lands cannot be obtained except by purchase, what land is most suitable to be bought for their use. She is directed to ascertain what proportion of these Indians would consent to work upon the reservation, and to recommend generally what executive action is necessary to improve their condition.

AN American drank twenty-eight glasses of lager in Washington, on a wager, in thirty minutes, beating a German, who gave out after pouring down twenty-two glasses. That ought to decide the question as to which of the two countries have acquired the highest type of civilization, coupled with capacity.

FOR clear, bracing Winter weather there is no climate equal to that of Montana. At a hotel fire there the other night a guest in the fifth story put his head out of the window and his breath froze so solid that, after fastening one end of it to the bedpost, he slid down on the main stem to the ground and escaped.

A Big Count.

The committee appointed to count the cash in the United States Treasury and to examine the accounts of the late Treasurer began work after the close of business at Washington, April 2d, by counting the Teller's cash, so that there need be no interference with the business of the office. The reserve vault was also sealed up preparatory to taking an inventory of its contents. It is thought that the count will occupy two or three weeks. There has not been a thorough overhauling of the Treasurer's office for ten years, the last full examination being the one made during Treasurer Spinner's time. When Mr. Spinner turned over the office to Treasurer New, the latter was willing to accept the cash and accounts without examination, and, his bondsmen being willing, the Secretary of the Treasury dispensed with the examination. The same thing occurred when Treasurer Wimans succeeded Mr. New, and when General Gilfillan was succeeded by Mr. Wimans, the latter expressed his willingness to forego an examination on the present occasion, but the Secretary thought that as so long a time had intervened since the last count that one should now be made. The committee is assisted in the work by a force of sixty clerks detailed from offices other than the Treasurer's office. A count will be made of the old notes in the redemption division, the new notes in the reserve vault, the silver and gold and bonds held in trust. President Upton, of the committee, has decided that an actual count must be made in all cases. Packages of notes will be opened and counted, as will also bags of gold and silver coin. He has personally assumed charge of the work of comparing the cash on hand with the Treasurer's account and with the accounts of disbursing officers.

THERE is said to be a man in Bellevue Hospital, New York, with a face that never alters its expression in the slightest degree. Something is the matter with the nerves and muscles so that they do not work at all. Not the faintest smile nor the suggestion of a frown ever varies the stolid monotony of his countenance. The features are regular and rather handsome, there being no distortion or any outward evidence of the affection other than the strange immobility. His name is Henry Stube, but he is called "Masky," because his face is like a mask, behind which he laughs and weeps unseen. He has worn this mask for two years. He acquired it after a neuralgic cold. He is being treated with electricity chiefly, and the physicians think he will recover. In the meantime he parts his lips with his fingers for the introduction of food and water, and when he sleeps his eyelids are held shut by a slight bandage. His imperfect talking is done without moving his lips, and when he speaks or listens the impassiveness of his face looks singular, indeed. There is something uncanny about it, and, after the idea has once got into your mind, you can hardly regard his face as anything else than a mask.

OUR women suffragists did not gain much by their appeals to the California Legislature last month. They are doing better elsewhere. The question is not a party issue. In Nebraska, Oregon, Indiana and Iowa, whose Legislatures have voted to admit woman suffrage amendments, the measure has been carried by the united votes of the best men of both parties. So it has been in the twelve States where school suffrage has been given, and so it will doubtless be whenever full suffrage is granted. Governor Baker recently said to the graduating classes of the Indianapolis Female College: "Young ladies, prepare yourselves for the duties of full citizenship, because it is the inevitable, whether you desire it or not."

BUHACH.—This California-grown insect destroyer is advancing in popular favor at a rapid rate. Such is the demand, based upon its tested merits, that the company with its large, growing establishment in Merced county and its well-fitted preparing mill in Stockton have been unable to keep up with the call for the product. Great energy, perseverance and intelligence and much capital have been required to build up the buhach industry in this State, but its promoters were confident in its merits and they labored on until now the powder stands the acknowledged superior of all preparations as a general insecticide.

THE new license law went into effect on the 13th ultimo. It gives all the Boards of Supervisors power to impose a license tax at a rate to be fixed annually on the first Monday of October, but for the year 1883 they are privileged to to fix the rates immediately that shall be in force until said first Monday in October. Of course this law repeals the existing license law for counties. It does away with the quarterly system and permits the rate to be fixed according to any period.

THERE is much nonsense talked about the value of foods. Chemically considered it is well known what the constituents of ordinary diet are, and it is no secret that the values of different articles vary greatly. But it is too frequently overlooked that the food which a hunter or a plowman can not only relish and assimilate would cause torture of the most acute kind to a person compelled to pursue a sedentary life. On what the former would starve the latter would live nobly.

A SHOSHONE INDIAN stoned his young step-daughter to death near Belmont, Nevada, last week. It is stated that the girl is the sixth victim of the murderous savage during the past five years.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY

JAMES E. PARKER.

THE German scientists, as well as the press, are taking the initiative once more advocated by the United States Government regarding the introduction of an "international meridian." As is well known, the German geographers adhere to the meridian of Ferro; the French to that of Paris; the English to the Greenwich meridian. The Paris Academy of Science has recently plead in favor of the proposition from Washington, and requested the French Government to call a conference for a solution of the question. It is said to be proposed, in order to save all national sensibilities, to agree upon a normal meridian by a line traversing the Atlantic ocean from north to south, without touching a single island. In this respect the old Ptolemean meridian, which only touches the uninhabited ice-deserts of Greenland, offers many advantages. At the same time, the circumference of the earth is to be divided into 400 degrees (instead of the present 360 degrees), with decimal sections so as to have every degree measure exactly 100 kilometers on the equator. The subject is receiving much attention at the present moment on the part of the German Government.

THE appointment of E. R Cleveland to be Register of this Land Office vice Judge Goodall is provoking somewhat of a newspaper breeze. Cleveland is the junior partner of the Bodie Free Press. H. Z. Osborne is the senior partner of the same institution, and is Receiver of the Land Office. Such being the case the Bodie land paper will continue to decline all land office patronage, all that it can possibly avoid—of course. The opposition paper that would dare criticise such a star-chamber arrangement ought to be squelched instanter. But "Cleve," has the merit, if such it be in the opinion of the Republican powers, of being a good Democrat, and is—but not exactly in consequence of that fact—ignorant of red-tape routine, the land or mining laws or surveying. However, this arrangement may obviate one objection, in that in contested cases the Register and Receiver may not constitute a double-headed court to split up on technicalities, as usual.

IN Montenegro, where civilization is almost in its patriarchal state and law scarcely crystalized, every man from twelve or fourteen years of age goes armed with knife and pistol. In that country the gravest degredation which can be inflicted by authority on a man is to deprive him of his arms. And yet in Montenegro personal conflicts and hot-blooded murders are very rare. The reason is that the law against murder is practically inexorable, and certain to fall on him who is the author of an unjustifiable homicide. The value of the life of a man is too great to be left to the chances of passion, and he who wantonly provokes a reconter in which his adversary is killed is treated as a murderer. Thus it is that every Montenegrin learns to restrain his passion and to keep his revolver in his belt.

ABOUT $12,000 was subscribed by the generous public for the maintainance of the wife and child of Mason, th soldier who attempted to shoot Gitteau. Of this amount $7,000 is deposited with a Washington bank, and now comes J. G. Bigelow, a lawyer of the capital city, who acted as counsel for Mason, with a claim of $3,500 for legal services. This legal luminary claims that it was through his exertions the contribution "Betty and the baby" was started, and he regards it as only fair that he should get half of the net proceeds. Judged from the standpoint of some recent legal fees, this is a modest demand, but we doubt whether any Court will allow the claim.

MARTINEZ is getting a reputation as the scene of social eccentricities. The public has not forgotten the amatory vagaries of the English clergyman which caused such a sensation in the pleasant city across the bay; now comes a marriage there of two young people of Oakland, the groom of the mature age of 16 ahd the bride of 15 years. These children were attended by their respective fathers, and instead of reading the infants in law and common sense a lesson on the idiocy of their conduct, the clergyman made them man and wife.

PETER COOPER died in New York City of pneumonia, on the morning of April 4th, aged ninety-two. His deatn was sudden and is universally regretted.

THERE is something remarkably tart in this brief obituary notice of Wagner in a Paris paper: "France has lost her most implacable enemy. So has Music."

THE last storm left more snow on the Inyo range than has been seen there before for many years.

A COUNTY MAP.

From present indications and mainly through the efforts of Mr. S. D. Woods, who has been persistent in his endeavors in that direction, it appears that we are soon to have our long-needed Inyo county map. The data for the same has been carefully collected and shaped, and it needs now only the work of the lithographer to make it a certainty. By an understanding had with the proper authorities, the county is to own the copyright of the work. Private subscriptions will divide the cost of its publication and make the expense to the county a mere bagatelle. This map, which may to some seem not a necessity, is required by those who have interests in this county and by whose efforts we can only hope to rise from our present condition of depression. Living as we do, remote from the world's centers, we do not—cannot feel the necessity of things in themselves of the very highest use to us. We look to the outside world for aid and we should not be deaf to the demands made upon us for our share in the work of reviving our long-suspended interests. The map will be upon the scale and of the size of that of San Luis Obispo county—a fine specimen of the lithographer's skill—and it will accurately represent Inyo county in every detail. THE INDEPENDENT is glad to be able to make this general statement. We hope that at the next regular meeting of the Board of Supervisors there will be some action taken officially and definite, the details of which will be interesting to all friends of progress.

A LATE press dispatch from New York says about the Panama Canal: "According to officers of the Panama Canal Company in this city, work on the canal is going on satisfactorily. There are now about 6,000 men at work. More than half the line is under contract, and the Canal Company is also at work on the other part. One of these contracts embraces about seven miles on the Atlantic side, and another about the same on the Pacific, both with American companies. A number of miles of side track have been built connecting with the Panama Railroad leading out to the places selected for the deposit of excavated rock, earth, etc. Others are building the new harbor, about three miles from Aspinwall, and it is nearly completed. The dense underbrush has been removed from sea to sea as a preliminary to the borings and location of the line. Houses have been built all along the line for employes. A large quantity of materials and machinery, including locomotives, cars, lumber, frame houses, etc., have been sent from the United States. Something is sent by every steamer from New York to Aspinwall. The health of the workmen is better than one year ago. The country in the interior away from the coast is found to be comparatively healthy. The water of the Chagres River will be kept from flooding the canal by a dam in the neighborhood of Gamber. This dam will be constructed in one of the gorges of the mountains. Such American machinery as has been sent to the Isthmus has given great satisfaction. Besides machinery many supplies have been and will be sent from this country or are already in purchase. For the Panama Railroad stock and for other purposes there have already been nearly $25,000,000 gold paid by the Canal Company to citizens of the United States. Charles de Lesseps will be here next week. Engineers have estimated that the whole forty-six miles of the canal will be finished in about seven years, unless something now unforeseen occurs.

AFTER getting an immense audience together, the proceeds of which were to go to a charity, Salmi Morse was enjoined from producing the Passion Play. The Mayors of Jersey City and Washington were present in the audience. It is reported that the Jersey City Mayor said Morse might bring the Passion Play over there and play it, and the Mayor of Washington called the stoppage of the play an outrageous act. The Passion actors were paralyzed with astonishment when they learned that the play was not going to take place. The apostles sadly disrobed, the venerable prophets took off their wrappings of skins of wild animals, Judas nearly had convulsions, and Jews, Gentiles, Assyrians, Persians, angels, Arabs and Medes crowded together in confusion and conversed with each other in strange tongues. It was a mob of all nations.

THE settlers in Arizona and New Mexico have very little confidence in the United States troops. The performances of the military in previous outbreaks have not been of a character to inspire confidence, and thus far in these raids the troops have not distinguished themselves. A gentleman from San Francisco, now at Lordsburg, sums up the Territorial sentiment in this pithy dispatch to a friend: "I have just returned from the front. The soldiers are safe—two days behind the Indians—their trail split in five different directions."

FROM the new edition of Messrs. Geo. P. Rowell & Co's "American Newspaper Directory," which is now in press, it appears that the newspapers and periodicals of all kinds issued in the United States and Territories now reach the imposing total of 11,196. This is an increase of 585 in twelve months. Taking the States one by one, the newspaper growth in some is very considerable. The present total in New York State, for instance, is 1,699—a gain of 80 in the past year. The increase in Pennsylvania is 48, the existing number being 943. Nebraska's total grew from 175 to 201, and Illinois' from 890 to 904. A year ago Massachusetts had 420 papers, now the number is 438. In Texas the new papers outnumbered the suspensions by 8, and Ohio now has 738 papers instead of 692. The most remarkable change has occurred in the Territories, in which the daily papers have grown from 43 to 63, and the weeklies from 169 to 243—Dakota being the chief area of activity. The number of monthlies throughout the country grew from 976 to 1,034, while the dailies leaped from 996 to 1,062. The figures above are exclusive of Canada, which possesses a total of 606. It is interesting to note that the newly-settled regions of the Canadian Northwest are productive of newspapers as well as of wheat, for the number of journals issued in Manitoba was nearly doubled during the year.

PRESS REPORTS in regard to the commencement of work on the Nicaragua Canal are somewhat conflicting. One dispatch indicates that the company will not wait for action by Congress, while another says that nothing is at present being done. It is not probable that there will be any difficulty in obtaining a charter from the next Congress, nor should there be any difficulty about raising the necessary money. The estimated cost of a canal which will pass loaded ships from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean is not much greater than the cost of a railroad from New York to Chicago. Yet there are several competing lines between these two cities, and all the capital so invested seems to be earning dividends. The Nicaragua Canal will eventually be built. As a business proposition its completion should precede that of the Panama Canal. The latter will be managed in the interest of Europe, from which most of the money comes. There will probably be diplomatic questions arising from its management, the settlement of which may be assisted by the existence of a canal connecting the same bodies of water, and under American control.

LAST Fall there was discovered by Mr. Beck, near the summit of the Sierras in Fresno county, the largest and richest mine ever discovered in the world. The ledge is two hundred feet in width and is three miles in length. It assays $43,000 in gold per ton and $300 in silver, and is called the Mother of Gold.—Fresno Expositor.

ANOTHER GREAT DISCOVERY.— A short time since I. G. Lyer while taking a walk for his health on the summit of the Inyos, stumbled over the biggest and richest silver ledge ever dreamed of by the wildest prospector. The croppings are 600 feet wide—the full width of a claim allowed by law—and eleven miles long. Assays made of average ore from this astounding discovery show a value of 29166.6 oz of silver per ton. Lyer calls his ledge the Great Grandfather of Silver. A 500 stamp mill has been ordered and will be immediately erected on the property. Fresno may have the biggest gold mine, but when it come to silver, Inyo is "thar."

GOVERNOR SHELDON of New Mexico has completed an organization of twenty-three companies of territorial militia, and is vigorously protecting the Mexican frontier against cattle stealing, and pursuing and suppressing cattle thieves and ruffianism generally. Fights, killings and arrests occur almost daily. Stock amounting to over $2,000,000 have been stolen. The militia shoot thieves down without any compunctions of conscience whenever found.

No special provision having been made to the contrary, the new county government law does not take effect until sixty days after its approval. It was approved on the 14th of March, Ninety days after its passage, or about the middle of June, the Secretary of State will certify to each county the class it is in, and thereafter, except as to fees, salaries and newly-created offices, the law will come into full operation.

THE San Francisco Call has issued a Birds-Eye View map of California to be given to subscribers of that paper. The lithograph is a sort of picture view of the surface of the State, showing the outlines and prominent natural objects of land and water. It gives one a very good idea of the topographical features of the State, but in general resemblance is like an agricultural report's illustration of a diseased liver.

A CHICAGO MAN has invented a chair that can be adjusted to 800 different positions. It is designated for a little girl to sit in when at the dinner table.

THE Homer Mining Index has been revived by its talented editor. The following is one of the interesting items of the present number:

During several years' residence in Mono county, and by extensive exploration and close observation, we have gathered a vast amount of interesting information relative to the early history, the geography, topography, geology, mineralogy, hydrography, scenography flora and fauna of that interesting and rugged portion of the high Sierra embraced within western Mono, northeastern Tuolumne and northern Mariposa, from Bodie to Yosemite and from Owens river to the confluence of the three main branches of the Tuolumne river—including the auriferous gravel range of Mono, the mining districts of Jordan, Homer, Tioga, Prescott and Mt. Hoffman; Mono Lake, its islands and coralline and volcanic surroundings; the principal mountain peaks in this portion of the chain, as Dana, Lyell (and its residual glacier), Castle Peak, Warren, Discovery, Theller, Conness, Bill Williams, Gilcrest, Midareta, Cathedral, Hoffman, Cloud's Rest, and the domes about Yosemite and northward; the thermal, solfataric and other mineral springs; the great glacial gorges on both slopes, and other evidences of glaciation; waterfalls, lakes and streams; Yosemite, Hetch, Hetchy, Yosemite Creek Basin and the Grand Cañon of the Tuolumne; the forest and other trees and shrubs of the western slope; animal life, etc. The facts thus gathered we propose, in the course of a few weeks, to lay before the readers of the Index, in a series of papers, prepared in as attractive a form as our ability and a strict fidelity to truth will permit.

THE trial of brakeman Patton was concluded last Friday. The jury went out about 4 o'clock, and after a few minutes brought in a verdict of not guilty. Technically, no doubt, Patton was guilty. If he had not left the train no disaster would have occurred, and the lives of forty persons, now buried in eternal sleep, would have been saved—together with the aggravated horror of several of them reaching death by the slow process of roasting. But it was evident that if Patton left the train in that dangerous place it was in obediance to an order of the Division Superintendent, W. W. Prugh, a copy of which he produced. It might have been law to have punished him, but it was not justice. The real criminals were not before the court. From the facts now known the Grand Jury will have no difficulty in determining who they are and presenting them accordingly. They will meet ere long and the matter of fixing the blame of this dreadful tragedy where it belongs should be the first subject to occupy their attention.—Bakersfield Californian, March 31.

SCARCELY a week passes that some Pacific Coast paper does not announce the departure of prospectors for Death Valley. All these gold hunters are bent upon finding the rich gold ledges that are alleged to exist somewhere in that part of the country. Much good-looking float rock has been found in different parts of the desert, but nothing permanent has ever been secured. The fabulous Gunsight lode is supposed to be located in some of the mountains adjacent to this valley. The name of Death Valley seems to have a romantic charm about it that attracts prospectors, and they flock thither, ready to take their chances of dying upon the sand of the desert for the remote probability of finding a valuable mine.—Virginia Enterprise.

A MONTANA paper is responsible for this item: There is a movement on foot, as we understand, to establish a town somewhere in the neighborhood of the Judith, to be called "Giantville." The programme is to secure 320 acres of land, to divide the same into town lots and streets, establish laws and regulations allowing only "six-footers" to obtain possession of any of the lots, and allowing no female thereon below the standard of five feet eight. By these means it is proposed to establish, in due course of time, a race of giants.

THE rainfall throughout the State has been ample to create a general rejoicing among all classes. In some few sections the grain was past saving, but the area was quite small. Here in Los Angeles county there has been sufficient rain to render a very large crop certain.—Los Angeles Express.

A GENTLEMAN in Eureka, Nevada, purchased an incubator recently and started in to hatch out some fine-blood chickens, but he came down town after starting a fire under the machine and forgot all about it. By the time he returned all the eggs were cooked.

YESTERDAY James Edgar, G. Stricker and James Delano, of East Berkeley, started with team and wagon, in the style of '49, for a prospecting trip to Inyo county. They may continue on into Nevada before they return.—Oakland Times, April 4.

THE diamonds worn by the New York bartenders are said to be worth $350,000. A Philadelphia newspaper remarks that the carbuncles worn on the noses of New York bar patrons probably cost about $5,000,000.

THEY have a nice old lady in South Boston of the genuine Partingtonian variety. She recently alluded to the illness of a friend with: "You see, he had digestion of the lungs, and then it settled into ammonia."

THE belief that the people of Pompeii cultivated cucumbers is strengthened by the discovery, in the course of recent excavations there, of the remains of a man with the hands clasped across his stomach.

S. S. BENEDICT, Government Inspector of Indian Agencies, and a practical farmer, says two-thirds of the Indian Territory is of no value for agricultural purposes, but it is the best cow pasture on earth.

A PHILADELPHIA editor thinks the enemies of General Grant ought not to object to having him put on the two-cent postage stamp, as this is the only way ever contrived to get him licked.

THE first through train from Inyo county, California, arrived over the Carson and Colorado last evening, steaming into Mound House at 6 o'clock. Starting from Bishop Creek at midnight Saturday night, they traversed the entire distance, 223 miles, in eighteen hours, including stoppages. H. M. Yerington, D. A. Bender and other railroad magnates were on the train.—Virginia Chronicle.

THE new county government law requires the Auditor each year to estimate the amount necessary to run the government, and report to the Supervisors, who are not allowed to draw in excess of the sum apportioned for each month.

JUDGE M. P. WIGGIN came up from the Bay Sunday morning. It is his intention to open a law office in this county. The Judge looks well.—Bodie Free Press.

NOTICE TO CO-OWNER.

TO J. S. MOODY: YOU ARE HEREBY notified that we have expended the sum of One Hundred Dollars ($100) in labor and improvements upon the INDEX mining claim or lode, lying and being on Mineral Hill and north of the Dauphin mine, Bishop Creek Mining District, Inyo county, State of California, in order to hold said premises under the provisions of Section 2,324 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, being the amount required to hold the same for the year ending December 31, 1882.

And if within ninety days from the first day of publication of this notice you fail or refuse to contribute your proportion of such expenditure as co-owner, to wit: $33 33⅓, together with your proportion of the cost of this advertisment, your interest in said claim will become the property of the subscribers, under said Section 2 324.

BUSINESS SENSE.—The highest, broadest sense in the world is business sense. Trade regulates affairs by certain rules of definite action. The logic of commerce is exact and certain, moving forward from known causes to natural results with a calm motion that has tremendous power, though so silent that it is scarcely felt. Noise, talk, suspense, petty jealousy disturbs the pulse and distracts the judgment. In private affairs where fortunes are sought for, a calm and dispassionate discussion of cause and effect is an essential element of success. Mathematics itself is hardly more certain than the rules by which men of sense rise to fortune and place through private affairs. The business man, or at least he who calls himself such, succeeds or fails in proportion to his observance of these rules. The balance of failures over successes in the affairs of the world is by reason of a violation of simple and fundamental principles. Judgment clouded and warped by jealousies cannot work out things which demand clear and explicit elucidation. We cannot see the sun through mists, or discern the motion of the stars through clouds. We are moved to these expressions by the present squabble—for we cannot designate it by a better name—made at Bishop Creek over the establishment of a road and the construction of a bridge to connect the town with the railroad. That a straight line is the nearest route from any one point to another; that the common good should control the desire of any one man for his personal benefit; that local jealousy should not be allowed to enter into the discussion of public affairs at the hands of public officers cannot be denied. A simpler matter than the location of a four-mile road and the building of a small bridge could hardly be imagined, and if good business sense should be allowed an hour's time, would settle the question and satisfy the demands of all. Let that good sense be used; and it is the duty of those who are in authority and who shall rule public funds raised by taxation on the property of all, to see that the common good is subserved and that equal right is done to all. The manipulation of public officers in the interest of certain favored ones is a favorite pursuit in these days. We have great faith in the integrity of our present Board of Supervisors, and hope that they will use their good sense in the settlement of this question.

SWANSEA DISTRICT.—A number of men are busy in this district prospecting and developing claims for smelting ores. The large number of fine prospects already located, and partly opened, and the probability that first-class smelting works will soon be erected on the lake, has given an impetus to mining in that section. The Cerro Gordo and Swansea districts can furnish an immense amount of ore for smelting purposes, and with the aid of the railroad to bring in fuel, supplies, and ores from other districts, and carry away bullion, this district should be the busiest smelting camp in the county a few months hence. At the Indiana mine, C. J. Johnson is busy assorting and preparing for shipment, ten tons of the rich ore from this mine, which will assay way up in the hundreds.

BEVERIDGE.- Parties in from the above district report lively times there. A large numcer of men are at work on the different mines, getting out ore. Lasky's new mill is said to be running nicely, and the owners expect to make a big showing of gold bullion for the first month's run. Charley McEvoy's mill is also pounding away on Keynot ore, and now that it has a rival, Charley is making extra efforts to keep his mill ahead, both in quantity of ore worked, and percentage of gold saved. There is said to be enough ore in sight now to keep the two mills running all Summer.

COUNTY SCRIP.—There appears to be a downward tendency in the price of county warrants amongst local buyers, the alleged cause being the passage of the county government bill. Even if the law be found constitutional and operative, which is extremely doubtful, just how it can affect any scrip issued this year or the next does not appear, as the high salary iniquity can not go into effect for two years yet. In the meanwhile, with rational economy and greatly increased revenue, all the floating debt ought to be paid off.

SHOOTINGS.—Last week, before Justice Schalten's Court at Big Pine, John Chastine was bound over to keep the peace, for an assault with a deadly weapon on S. P. Roberts. Some weeks ago an affair occurred at Fish Springs, wherein G. L. Cornell shot and wounded Thos. Douglas. It seems that no particulars can be attained about it.

A NOBBY RIG.—O. T. Mairs, of the Pioneer Livery Stables, has received his recent purchase from Los Angeles—a splendid new buggy, and a magnificent set of harness. The first was manufactured by Willey and the latter by Bell, of Los Angeles, and both are most creditable.

EXPRESS MATTERS.—L. A. Hall, one of Wells, Fargo & Co's route agents, paid the company's offices at Bishop, Big Pine, Independence and Lone Pine a visit during the week, on his first trip here for several years.

NEW ENGINES.- Two new locomotives for the Carson and Colorado Railroad, to take the places of those now in use and overworked, are daily expected at Carson City.

SLATE RANGE.—It is again stated that the big new mill of the Argus S. M. Co. will not be ready to start up for a month yet, owing to failure in getting supplies.

AT CARSON.—The Virginia Enterprise reports that "Senator Pat Reddy, of Mono county, California, is stopping in Carson."

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

Proceedings of Special Meeting.

The Board of Supervisors met last Monday in special session, pursuant to adjournment; present, Thos. Boland, A. Spencer and E. Robinson, Chairman.

A petition was received from the citizens of Bishop Creek—Road District No. 1—asking for the building of a bridge across Owens River and the laying out of a new road, commencing at the northwest corner of section 7, township 7 south, range 33 east, at the intersection of the main street in the town of Bishop Creek, running thence due east on the line between sections 8 and 5, 9 and 14, and 10 and 13, to and across the river to the C. & C. R. R. depot. James Shaw, Thos. E. Jones and Jos. Seely were appointed Viewers to survey and lay out said road, and were also ordered to report upon the feasibility and cost of any other route than the one petitioned for, which will subserve the same purpose.

COUNTY CONTRACTS.

Bid of Margaret Lewis to care for indigent sick of Inyo county for the ensuing year, as per advertisement, on the basis of an average of four patients throughout the year, for the sum of $2,200; for each patient in excess of the average of four, at the rate of $1.25 per day. This being the only proposal submitted, it was ordered accepted, upon the filing of a bond in double the amount. Bond presented, approved and filed.

Envelope not indorsed and containing bid of H. Levy for boarding county prisoners, was not considered a proposal.

Bid of S. D. Thurston, offering to board county prisoners at the rate of ninety cents per head per day was accepted.

The bid of D. Stubbiefield offered to furnish firewood for the year at the rate of $10 40 per cord; that of Frank Lawrence at $10 and of John Strohmier at $9 87½ per cord. The contract was consequently awarded to Strohmier, who filed a bond in the sum of $200.

BILLS ALLOWED.

Thos. Boland, for services as Supervisor, $28 40; A. Spencer, same, $25 20; E. Robinson, same, $6 40.

Adjourned.

The Grading Progresses.

BUTTE RANCH, April 6.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT: The advance party of railroad graders with fourteen tents are opposite this place, encamped on D. Campbell's stock range. The flying shovels glistening in the sun remind one of a company of soldiers under drill. Everything is lovely up this way. D. B. CURTIS.

TWO GOOD MINES.—The Brown Monster and Hirsch mines, which are situated in the Inyos, nine miles from Independence, will no doubt soon command the attention of capital and mining men. The unequaled facilities for cheap mining and reduction of ores by water power, together with the quantity and grade of ores that these mines show, place them in the opinion of practical mining men, high up on the list of valuable properties. Situated in the midst of a rich mineral district, with good wagon roads leading to them from all parts of the valley, with an unlimited supply of water from Owens river for power, and the Carson and Colorado railroad running within one mile of both mines and mill, insures advantages that but few other mines possess. Labor and supplies will be comparatively cheap, and the extraction, transportation to the mill, and reduction of the ores should not cost to exceed $4 per ton. The ores are what may be called medium grade, carrying both gold and silver, and the precious metals are easily saved by the ordinary gold mill process. The mill has 30 stamps, in six batteries, and the cost of running them by water power is very small. The Brown Monster is opened by an incline shaft to a depth of nearly 500 feet, and shows a large, true and regular vein of quartz its entire length. The Hirsch mine has not been prospected to the eztent of the former mine, there being about 100 feet of shaft and tunnel openings, but as far as can be seen it shows a vein of great strength, with a width of four feet, and all pay ore. The Hirsch ore is of the same general character as the Brown Monster, and assays as high as $1,600 have been obtained from it. The situation of these two mines in relation to each other is such that they should be worked and operated by one company. They would make a splendid property for a company with capital to put the mines and mill in a condition to produce and work the ores, and if properly managed they could hardly fail to pay large profits to the investors.

THE BIG PINE SCHOOL.—After two years of teaching, Crittenden Hampton has closed his school at Big Pine. Of his merits as an educator, Mr. J. J. Moore, Clerk of the Board of Trustees, writes as follows: "He attained the highest success, all parents being well satisfied with the rapid progress made by his pupils, and they all rank the teacher's ability as first-class. He has our heartiest indorsement." In making a report of the school, as per our request, Mr. Hampton submits the following: "The following is a partial report for the school year of the Big Pine school: Whole No. days' attendance, 3,578; whole No. days' absence, 302; average No. enrolled, 36; largest No. enrolled at one time, 49; average daily attendance, 30. I would return thanks to the Trustees of my school for their faithful recognition and support of all my educational plans. The idea that parents inconsistently interfere with teachers in this district, now, is entirely without grounds. On the contrary, I could wish for no better treatment than I have received at the hands of the good people of Big Pine."

SNOW'S CAÑON.—Last week the Snow's Cañon mill made a clean-up of three bars of gold bullion, from a short run, but of what amount and value we are not informed.

SUPERIOR COURT.—Judge Hannah called Court for the April term last Monday, the 2d instant. The regular calendar was called, and about fifteen old cases, the titles of which have been published semi-occasionally for the past two years, were "passed" as usual. Some new business was transacted, amongst which was the case of Boone & Wright, vs. Santos Guzman, for recovery of personal property; judgment for plaintiffs. John Clarke vs. Christian Brown, damages; passed. John Clarke vs. S. G. Gregg, replevin, on appeal from Justice's Court of First Township; dismissed. C. Meysan vs. E. Chabrie, for possession of real property; passed for the present. C. White et al. vs. Wm. Hamilton, et al.; passed. C. Crohn vs. Rafael Diaz, to quiet title; continued for the term. W. W. Yandell vs. Philip P. Keough; passed. Jas. Mitchell vs. Montezuma Mining and Smelting Co.; passed. John Clarke vs. W. M. Nichols; passed. In the matter of C. S. Swan, insolvent debtor, the claims of A. Goodrich, A. K. Briggs, C. H. Parsons, David Olds and C. F. Wildasinn were allowed, and the Sheriff was appointed assignee. C. L. Van Epps vs. A. R. Conklin et al; continued for the term. E. M. Goodale vs. Robert Arnold; case set for Wednesday, April 18th, and jury trial demanded by plaintiff. On motion of A. R. Conklin, Esq., S. D. Woods, Esq, was admitted as an attorney in the Court upon certificate from the Supreme Court.

THE HOSPITAL CONTRACT.—It will be noted that the contract for the care of indigent sick for the ensuing year has been let by the Board of Supervisors at $2,200, which is an advance of $600 over the preceding one. This is on the arrangement that the care of four patients is to be regularly paid for, whether there be one in the hospital or not; for all in excess the contractor is to receive $1 25 each per day. It was supposed that there would be two or three proposals submitted, but there was only one and the Board did not exercise its reserved "right to reject any and all bids." Warrants on the Hospital Fund are generally redeemed by the annual Sinking Fund, and should be considered a good investment at 85 or 90 cents, although there are some $9,000 in warrants on the fund now outstanding—the legacy of former days, when the hospital cost from $3,500 to $4,500 a year. The proceeds of the hospital poll tax for the present year will equal the expense of about one quarter of the term. It is quite probable that the general increase of population now imminent will correspondingly increase the number of indigent sick. Unless made up by an excess of patients over four, the present increased allowance will not benefit the contractor, as we understand the attendant physician demands $1,000 per annum instead $600 as paid heretofore.

THE C. & C. R. R.—R. J. Laws, Assistant Superintendent of the Carson and Colorado Railroad, was in town last Monday, and favored THE INDEPENDENT with a call. He stated that the iron was at that time laid eight miles this side of Bishop, while the work was progressing at the rate of about three-fourths of a mile per day. After reaching the Lake the further route of the road will only be determined after actual surveys and a thorough examination and study of the great country beyond. In all its bearings the question is one of great and intricate complications, yet to be worked out. While Mr. Laws has not the least doubt of the great future prosperity of this county, he expresses surprise at the comparatively small amount of actual development now going on. The idea that the Railroad Company, as such, is assisting prospectors or was speculating in mining properties, was simply bosh; individually, the officers and employes of the Company might be looking out for personal investments in farms or mines as they pleased. In the construction department, Mr. Laws said that he might receive definite proposals for very large quantities of wood and ties, but that prices low enough and quantities large enough were not at all likely to be obtained here.

ANOTHER INYO MILL.—Very few people of this section of country are aware of the existence of Saratoga District, way down in Inyo near Resting Springs. In fact, there is no map in existence whereby such facts can be hunted up. But at any rate, the Ibex Company, a Chicago corporation, is now putting up a complete five-stamp silver mill there. The latter is built for five more stamps, and the steam power is sufficient for such increase. The mines are rich and extensive so far as developed.

PERSONAL.—Mrs. M. Lynch, of the popular Benton Hotel, is in town today accompanied by her son John. Jack reports Benton dull generally. Among other minor items he says that Kremkow has bought the Wales property and is moving it to the Bishop railroad station, where it will be put up for a hotel, to be run by Mrs. Russell.

NEW TIME TABLE.—Elsewhere we furnish in advance of regular newspaper orders the new time table of the Carson and Colorado Railroad, down to present terminus station at Bishop Creek. It may be corrected as to some details next week.

SNOW.—Probably the heaviest snowfall of the season occurred during the first two or three nights of the week, when the weather was decidedly winterish for this country. The prospect now is certainly much better for the farming and stock interests.

LICENSES.—As a method of raising revenues the Board of Supervisors is now empowered by law to levy a license tax on merchants, traders, liquor-dealers, etc., thus re-establishing the old system.

BORAX.—The Coleman Company are putting up two large works in Death Valley for refining borax. They will much exceed the Borax Lake works in completeness and capacity.

WILD ROSE.—W. L. Hunter and W. K. Miller, of Lone Pine, are arranging to haul over to the Snow's Cañon mill some forty tons of ore from the Nellie Grant mine, for working.

SATURDAY, APRIL 7..... ...1883

ONE of the most violent and severe sand storms ever known since that windy locality was named commenced at Mojave the evening of the 23d ult. The freight trains that arrived there shortly after, from opposite directions, were unable to proceed, two engines being thrown from the track by the sand drifts, and the overland passenger train from the south, due at Bakersfield at 2:30 next morning, which arrived there on time, finding the tracks blockaded and that the fine dust which filled the atmosphere almost suffocated the passengers backed to the next station, out of the limits of the storm, and there remained until able to proceed, meeting with a detention of thirteen hours. The passenger train going southward, which left Bakersfield at 11 P. M. on the night the storm commenced halted at Tehachapi station and met with a corresponding detention. While the storm continued it was so violent the employes of the railroad were unable to work, and could do nothing in the way of clearing the track until the wind abated. The track was covered with sand two or three feet deep for the distance of a mile. Impalpable dust drifted into the closest buildings and covered everything to the depth of several inches.

THERE is a deal of honesty yet left in the world, despite the prevalent impression that things are going to the bad at breakneck speed. A refreshing illustration of this is given in a little story of the Ohio river flood. It appears that a Louisville family who contributed some clothing for the flood sufferers, afterward remembered that in the pocket of a child's garment was a silk handkerchief with its little owner's name upon it. About the same time one of the young ladies of the family missed a diamond ring, which it was supposed had been stolen from the house. A few days later an advertisement was noticed giving the name of the little owner of the silk handkerchief, and saying that something of interest could be learned by calling at a designated street and number. The call was made, and the handkerchief found with the diamond ring wrapped up in it. The family who had been at so much pains to return the lost articles to their owners had lost everything by the flood—everything but honor, and they were rich in that.

BEE, the Chinese Vice-Consul, says there are 105,000 Chinese in the United States, and in California 60,000. On the subject of releasing Chinese prisoners, provided they immediately return to China, Consul Bee favored such a course, saying: "There is a large class of men who prefer to live in prisons as they are conducted here. They say: 'We have good accommodations and good food; why, then, need we work?' The same grade of criminals we send to our State prisons would, in China, either be decapitated or bastinadoed."

FOR the third or fourth time in the history of the Comstock, buildings are being removed and hauled to and set up in new camps. In 1863 a number of buildings were torn down and taken to Reese River (Austin). In 1865 Meadow Lake came in for a share of the Comstock houses. In 1869 houses were torn down and hauled from Virginia to White Pine. This time houses that are useless on the Comstock are being hauled to Hawthorne, the coming metropolis on the line of the Carson and Colorado Railroad.

MY HARMAN, one of the orlginal mining pioneers of this county, spent several days here this week. He is interested in a borax company that have their works in the central and deepest portion of Death Valley, near where the immigrants perished. They died of thirst, near a fine spring of water, which the company use, that in their dazed and bewildered state they failed to find. —Bakersfield Californian.

THE Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Co. evidently have no design of stopping at the Colorado River, but what part of California they will strike for remains to be seen. Los Angeles and San Diego papers say they will make connection with the California Southern at Colton, while on the other hand it is maintained that the shortest route will be taken to San Francisco.

Fault-Finding.

If anyone complains that most people are selfish, unsympathetic, absorbed in their own pursuits, their own happiness and their own sorrow, the chances are ten to one that the complainant is conspicuous for the very faults which he condemns. His thoughts are so concentrated on his own concerns that he is impatient because other people think of their concerns and not his. He is unable to enter into their grief or their joy; when he is wretched he is amazed and indignant that anyone can be happy; when he is happy he thinks it intolerable that other people should be so oppressed with their own sorrow as not to make merry with him in his gladness. He has so high an estimate of the importance of his own work that he thinks other men ought to spend a large part of their time in watching and admiring it, and he wonders at the selfishness which keeps them close at their own occupations when they ought to be showing their sympathy with his. This absorption in everything that relates to himself is the explanation of the univeral indifference of which he complains. To secure sympathy we must give as well as take. The country that exports nothing will have no imports: but if it infers that all the rest of the world is in wretched poverty, with no mines and no timber and no glorious harvests, the inference will be a false one. As soon as a man finds that he is beginning to think that all human hearts are cold, let him suspect himself. When an iceberg floats away from the frozen fields which lie near the pole it cools the water into which it drifts. The very gulf stream sinks in temperature as soon as the mountain of ice touches it. In a crowd it is the man that pushes hardest who thinks that everybody is pushing him; it is the man who is resolved to make his way to the front who complains that everybody wants to get in front of him. If people speak to you roughly, take warning; the probability is that you speak roughly to them.

The Spanish Language.

It appears that many young men have been appointed by Eastern influences to positions in Mexico incident to the opening up of that country by railroad and other commercial enterprises carried on by American capital, but that not one in ten knew ten words of Spanish. Their disadvantage is apparent, while the advantage of young men in California possessing some knowledge of that language requires no argument. It will be their capital, insuring lucrative employment and divers other business advantages. Spanish is not a difficult language to learn, and from time to time pupils have dropped out of the advanced class, having qualified themselves to speak Spanish for practical purposes, and have obtained employment in Mexico or Central America. The object of all the pupils is to acquire a start in Spanish, with the expectation or hope of employment as agents, or of doing business for themselves in Mexico. It is safe to assert that no one will be disappointed who seriously applies himself to the advantages of the Spanish class. The immigration of Spanish-speaking Americans in large numbers will have an extraordinary effect in securing to the United States valuable and permanent commercial advantages in Mexico and the Central American States.

A WRITER states that he has found the application of a strong solution of chromic acid, three or four times, by means of a camel's hair pencil, to be the most efficient and easy method of removing warts. They become black and soon fall off.

THE Newport News truthfully remarks that forty-five acres is a good deal of land for Rhode Island to lose at one swoop.

IT is proposed to take away firearms from the Ohio militia, as several men have of late accidentally shot themselves.

A HEAVY MASH—"Truth crushed to earth."

Why a Man Cannot Fly.

No combination of wings will enable a man to fly until he can wield them with as much muscular power to the pound weight as a bird exerts in flying. If a man had in his legs the muscular energy and leverage of a flea, he could jump a mile in three leaps, and if his arms had, in proportion to his weight, the driving power of a pigeon's wing, he would have no use for railways or balloons. The transportation problem would be solved. Moving himself so easily and so swiftly, he would not need to move anything else. The albatross, weighing twenty-eight pounds, can keep its wings (thirteen feet from tip to tip) in motion all day, while the strongest man, weighing six to eight times as much, would exhaust all his strength in keeping even an albatross' wings in motion half an hour. "We have in the bird," says the Engineer, "a machine burning concentrated fuel in a large grate at a tremendous rate, and developing a very large power in a small space. There is no engine in existence—certainly no steam engine and boiler combined—which, weight for weight, gives out anything like the mechanical power exhibited by the albatross." Consequently no machinery yet devised can operate wings with sufficient power to sustain its own weight in the air, and there is no known machinery by which a man can wield the force necessary to fly like a bird. Keely's alleged discovery, or some new process of storing and exerting great electric power in apparatus of light weight, might supply the deficiency; but science has not learned how to develop in inanimate machinery anything like the mighty nervous energy which acts in the bones, sinews and muscles of a living bird's wing.

Irrigating Lands.

There is no better way of investing capital in California than in buying wild lands and then furnishing them with water for irrigation. Lands may possess all of the elements of fertility except water, and be utterly worthless; but bring water and supply all that is needed at all times and they become the most valuable lands in the country. The demand for these irrigable lands is so great that the parties who are doing this are realizing fortunes out of the difference between the cost of land and water and the prices they are realizing from the sale of lands which they have made desirable. What most of these have done has been simply to save and utilize the natural flow of the stream without taking any measures to increase the flow, and to save what goes to waste in floods and overflows during the Winter rains. If this were done by making dams in the mountain cañons and making large reservoirs by closing the outlets of natural basins in the foothills near the mountains in which to store the surplus waters of the rainy season and hold them to moisten the thirsty soil during the Summer, the irrigable area could be doubled, and their profits and the size of their colonies proportionately increased. If no water was allowed to go to waste, but little land that water can be got on to would be left without it. The attention of capitalists is called to this.

THE Compendium of the Tenth Census, recently issued, contains some figures which will serve to give an idea of the magnitude of the quarrying interests of the country, which in 1880 gave employment to 39,723 men, 8,059 horses, and 851 mules; had 339 machines for quarrying, 2,290 machines for hoisting, 1,308 machines for dressing, and used $192,175 worth of explosives. The capital invested is given at $25,414,497, and the value of the product in the census year at $18,356,055, there being 1,525 quarries in all. Marble and limestone lead the list with 65,523,965 cubic feet, followed by the sandstone quarries with 24,776,930 cubic feet, crystalline siliceous rocks with 5,188,998 cubic feet, and slate with 457,267 squares or 4,572,670 cubic feet.

PHILADELPHIA has the credit—or discredit, just as it is viewed—of sending abroad a gambler who has proved the terror of the faro dealers. His name is Dink Davis. A few weeks ago he visited New York and won $6,000. In a second visit to the same city he relieved the "tiger" of $17,000, after which the bank "turned up the box"—to use the sporting phrase—and would deal for Davis no more. The Chicago press invites him to come to that city and clean out its gambling dens, which abound, and which the law has found it impossible to suppress.

ILLINOIS is to erect a whipping post for wife beaters. The law not only provides that a husband who assaults his wife shall be whipped, but that he shall also pay the costs of prosecution. We venture the prediction that it will prove a most effective remedy. A similar law was once enacted, we believe, by the California Legislature, but it was declared unconstitutional. The example of Illinois ought to be followed by every State. A man who would strike his wife should be tied to a post and have the lash laid vigorously on his bare back.

THE problem of life has been solved by an Italian who keeps an eating house in New York. His bill of fare is governed by the following regulations: Tea or coffee, per cup, one cent; soup, per bowl, one cent; pie, per cut, two cents; beefsteak, four cents; roast meats, four cents; chicken stew, five cents; ham and eggs, eight cents, etc. Many a hungry stomach desires to know "Where's his place?"

THE contingent fee lawyer takes all the money in sight. His client gets the satisfaction.

EXPERIENCE proves that lime water and milk is food and medicine both to the young and old when the functions of digestion and assimilation are feeble. A stomach taxed by gluttony, irritated by improper food, inflamed by alcohol, enfeebled by disease, or otherwise unfitted for its duties, will resume its work, it is said, and do it energetically on a diet of bread and milk and lime water; four tablespoonfuls of the latter to a pint of milk.

INYO INDEPENDENT.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:
SATURDAY, APRIL 14.....1883

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY
JAMES E. PARKER.

OVER 100 non-paying subscribers to THE INYO INDEPENDENT "got left" this week. When your neighbor complains about not receiving his copy you can draw your own conclusions in the matter.

CALIFORNIA is destined to become, if it does not now occupy, the first position in the Union in horticulture and fruit-raising. To protect and encourage this great industry, and to throw around it the shielding arm of the law, a bill was introduced in the Senate by Senator Cox, crude in form, but it was re-drafted by Senator Whitney, and and put in proper form and effective shape, and under his special care was passed into a law. The bill divides the State into seven horticultural districts, with nine commissioners, one for each district, and two from the State at large, appointed by the Governor. For the carrying out of the purposes of the law, five thousand dollars per year was appropriated from the State Treasury. The Board may appoint persons competent and qualified to lecture throughout the State, for the purpose of illustrating practical horticultural topics and importing practical methods of culture. pruning, fertilizing and best methods of treating diseases of fruit trees, cleansing orchards, and exterminating pests.

NEITHER the Astors nor Vanderbilts have ever been successful in politics. Waldorf Astor spent over $100,000 trying to be elected a Congressman in one of the New York districts two years ago, but he was overwhelmingly defeated by a comparatively poor man and in a district, too, which is of the same politics as Mr. Astor. When Conkling resigned from the Senate William H. Vanderbilt tried very hard to elect his most intimate friend, Chauncey M. Depew, as Conkiing's successor; and though Mr. Depew is a very able man, neither the Vanderbilts nor all his friends could elect him to the United States Senate from New York. Secretary Folger, who ran for Governor of the Empire State last Fall, had the active support and financial backing of both the Astors and Vanderbilts, but he was the worst defeated candidate that ever ran in any State, Cleveland's majority being nearly 200,000.

THE Government has given up its fish-hatchery on the Cloud river. There was no trouble in hatching fish, but the results were unsatisfactory. The eggs hatched, the salmon grew, but when they were put into Eastern rivers they went off to the sea at the proper time and never returned. Probably, being Californians, they wanted more congenial climates, or had other reasons for staying away when once at liberty. At all events, they do stay away, and the Government is tired of trying to do anything with California salmon. The Cloud river still remains, however, and the millions of fish will continue to go there to breed, and the stream and its tributaries will still be a fine place for those who can visit it to see how a ten-pound fish feels on the end of a ten-ounce pole.

TOM OCHILTREE, the Congressman from Texas, whose salary was attached because he was in arrears to the Government while acting as Marshal in that State, has achieved a triumph. The Law Department of the Treasury decides that under the constitution, which provides that representatives in Congress shall be "compensated" for their services, the government has no right to interfere with his per diem. He is said to have been pleased at his good luck and to have regarded it with all the more satisfaction after his attention was called to the fact that a judgment was pending against the President for a loss incurred while he was acting as Collector of the port of New York, and which he would probably have to pay.

THE investigation into the Tewksbury Almshouse reveals a freezing horror. It looks as though there had been a systematic starving of the paupers to death and the furnishing of the bodies to Harvard and other medical institutions for dissection. Think only of the misery of twenty children in a single ward crying from hunger! Governor Butler is doing a grand work in pushing the investigation.

NEARLY every train going west now has in it from five to ten car-loads of corn, shipped from Nebraska and other places in the West. This corn is taken to San Francisco, where it is supposed to be made into glucose. Where the glucose goes nobody knows to a dead certainty.

IT is reported that the city of Leeds, England, of 320,000 inhabitants, not a workman owns the house he lives in or any city lots. What a contrast with an American city.

STATE MINERALOGICAL EXHIBIT.

The Mining Bureau has a project on hand which deserves encouragement. It proposes to arrange an unusually attractive collection of mineral geographical specimens from all parts of the coast for exhibition during the Triennial Conclave of Knights Templar. A committee of fifteen influential citizens has already been appointed, who will appoint sub-committees from among their number to attend to details. The committee will solicit subscriptions of money and specimens from all parts of the coast. As the exhibition will be seen by thousands, it should command the earnest support of all patriotic citizens. There is certainly no section in the State which, just at this time, is more interested in showing up its mineral products than Inyo county. We do not believe that the Coast can show another region which yields even half the extent and variety of the valuable metals and minerals. It would pay big in the long run if we could organize even enough capital to send down the Independence Cabinet for the great crowd of moneyed-men to look at.

THE original Latter Day Saints, or Josephites, are now holding a love feast at Kirtland, Ohio. They are strongly opposed to polygamy, but they pin their faith to the Book of Mormon and they accept the apocryphal story of the finding of the tablets by Joseph Smith. Certainly they are a great improvement over the Mormons of Utah, but their small numbers, compared with the strength of the Salt Lake Church, show that nothing succeeds like the gospel of lust preached by Brigham and his apostles. The latter are gaining converts at the rate of 10,000 a year and are swarming into the new Territories. The latest reports show that they have secured the balance of political power in Apache county, A. T., have bought the leading newspaper there and are already casting about for new fields of conquest.

THESE are truly strange times. Samuel J. Randall, a life-long Democrat of the most uncompromising stamp, is talked up by the New York Herald and Brooklyn Eagle as the Republican protection candidate for the Presidency. Roscoe Conkling, the long-time Republican Senator, it is reported will be an active supporter of Samuel J. Tilden's nomination by the Democracy in 1884 for the Presidency. Now comes the story that the Pope has promised to attend the coronation of the Czar next month. Whatever may be the outcome of the rumors, it is evident that the "great unrest" of the times is forcing parties and peoples out of their old grooves, and let us hope that it will ultimate in great good for all.

THE amendment to the school law supplies the missing link between the common schools and the University. The schools should be the proper recruiting ground for the higher institution, and the law establishes the needed connection between the grammar grades and the preparatory department of the University. This relation will eventually do its proper work as a siphon to to draw off the lower grades of the University and build them on as the higher grades of the common school curriculum until the standing of the University and the schools alike is greatly raised. Superintendent Welcker issues a circular letter calling attention to the change.

ENGLAND is evidently determined to crush out the dynamite conspirators without delay. A bill was rushed through both houses of Parliament which ought to strike terror to the plotters. It provides for transportation for life as the penalty for using explosives, and a sentence of fourteen years' penal servitude for having explosives in one's possession. Lesser penalties are provided for those caught in possession of the ingredients of explosives. The Act will become a law by the Queen's signature and will be enforced at once. If rigidly applied--and there is no question of any lack of severity—the days of the dynamite scare are numbered.

SECRETARY TELLER, in the Pagosa Springs case, says: Many springs and many waters are impregnated with minerals held in solution; but it does not follow that the lands bearing such waters are mineral lands and can be patented as such. Lands of a saline character are an exception and are expressly provided for in the laws relating to the disposition of the public lands. Lands containing mineral springs not of a saline character are subject to sale under the general laws, and not under the Acts relating to the sale of mineral lands.

THE latest phase of the Jeannette scandal is an attempt to foist the responsibility of the constant quarrels in the expedition upon Danenhower. It is also claimed that he was incapacitated for service and knew it before he entered the expedition. These stories are rather apocryphal and look like the efforts of malicious persons to save the memory of the dead at the expense of the living.

FRENCH INGENUITY, we are told, has devised a new and wonderfully destructive explosive compound, called panclastitis, which, literally translated, means "smash all." It is said to be entirely safe to handle, inasmuch as it consists of two distinct compositions, which singly are harmless but united explode in a short time with terrific violence. Thus it can be carried about in two phials, be mingled at the proper moment, and time enough will elapse before the explosion occurs, that fairly rocks the earth, to reach a place of safety. This, if true, will be peculiarly acceptable news to Herr Most, Louise Michel, O'Donovan Rossa, the Russian Nihilists, and the French Anarchists. Dynamite has already taken its place in politics, but while it has a more euphonious name, its new rival will displace it for effectiveness and probably be reckoned as much more an important political agent as it is a more destructive compound. The new system of governing a country by the use of explosives is becoming entitled to notice by modern economists. In America the entire business of blowing up Government departments has heretofore been committed to the press, which has discharged its trust with a fidelity and vigor almost phenomenal, but in a manner more humane than the methods adopted in Europe. It is probable that our system would meet with favor there, were it not that in most cases the Governments shut up the press before it can blow up the departments.

THERE is a mystery surrounding the tomb of Abraham Lincoln. Several years ago an attempt was made by grave-robbers to steal the body. Elmer Washburn was Chief of the Secret Service at that time. He put men on guard for three weeks, and one dark night, by the aid of a bullseye lantern, thieves were caught ih the very act of violating the grave. The attempt made a great sensation. The grave is not guarded so far as any human eyes can see, yet it is protected. Secretary Lincoln said the other day that it is absolutely certain the remains of his father could never be stolen. After the first attempt sure means of protection were employed. The secret of this security is only known to three people. It cannot be anything in the way of elaborate workmanship, for in a village like Springfield any prolonged or difficult work in the cemetery would certainly attract attention; neither could any heavy masonry work be put in by three men. Secret explosives might become impaired in time, and would endanger the tomb and its remains in case of accident. When the friends of the late General Garfield think the guard over his tomb has been maintained long enough, Colonel Rockell will be intrusted with the secret for the protection of the tomb of Abraham Lincoln.

ARE the merchants in and around mining camps aware that many capitalists are influenced greatly by their mining ventures as much by the apparent business surroundings of a mining camp as they are by the indications of the mining property? They seem to consider that the wealth of the locality is indicated more effectually by the number of merchants doing business in it than they do from the statements made regarding the ore output. The one is an easily demonstrated fact, while the other is merely an assertion, to prove which requires more determined investigation than they are either willing or capable of employing for that purpose. If the output of rich ore is large the expenditures in the locality are large, and in consequence there will be a corresponding number of business men engaged in such locality to supply the current demand for those articles consumed at the prosperous mines. Many investors never go near the mines. Then how can they know whether there are many or few merchants located at the mines? They ascertain this fact by the number of advertisers they may find in the local newspapers.

TENNESSEE repudiated in a large part her honest debts. She had not the courage to say to her creditors: "I am unfortunate, but willing to pay, and will pay, and you shall loss nothing by by me if you will be patient." Her State Treasurer, affected by the contagion of repudiation, stole $400,000 from the strong box and fled. Now this same State has just passed a law pensioning all rebel soldiers who received certain wounds in the late war. Here, then, is a State too poor to maintain its credit and keep faith with the world, but rich enough to establish a pension system of its own.

THE tremendous strength of the Palace Hotel was thoroughly demonstrated at the explosion there a few days ago—hundreds of the residents in that great building not knowing of the accident until long after it had occurred, the impression throughout the edifice being so slight.

THEY say that "David Davis is beloved at home as well as abroad." Of course he is. Mrs. Davis literally dotes on David. He is such a nice little cherub to have in the family.

CATTLE MEN express the opinion that Texas cannot compete with Nevada in supplying California with prime beef. Texas beef is stringy and seldom fat like our beef, which is tender and juicy when marketed, as there are but a few hours' travel between Nevada and the place of slaughter; while Texas steers are conveyed through several hundred miles of suffocating heat, with little feed and a scant supply of water, the consequence being a deterioration in the quality of the meat, which consumers readily notice.

OAKLAND, CAL., is to have an astronomical observatory, equipped with a telescope of ample power—there being only one superior instrument west of the great lakes—for the benefit of her common school. This is to be known as the Chabot Observatory, and is the gift of the public-spirited citizen of that name, and includes both instrument and building, and the city is asked to donate the use of Lafayette Square for a site.

THE New York Herald of Sunday, March 25th, is a wonder of journalism. It consists of thirty-two pages, or one hundred and ninety-two columns of which one hundred and twenty-two columns are filled with advertisements. It states that this enormous expansion was necessitated by reason of the demands of advertisers.

THE San Francisco Call says that among the candidates for the next United States Senatorship are J. T. Farley, Wm. W. Wallace, N. Greene Curtis, George Hearst, C. T. Ryland, Patrick Reddy, John Daggett, James A. Johnson, P. B. Tully, John S. Hager, Jackson Temple, John Boggs, J. G. Downey, J. West Martin and P. O. Hundley.

THE postponement of the Czar's coronation proves a sad disappointment to the Nihilists, who had set their hearts upon having some fine sport gunning for Aleck. As the San Francisco Exchange sagaciously observes, the constant detection of all their plots shows that he is no Czardine.

MURAT HALSTEAD thinks that Senator Edmunds is by far the most available man for the Republican nomination for President in 1884. The St. Louis Globe-Democrat says there is a "big current" flowing in favor of Edmunds, and that it will soon become a "boom."

THE last Legislature passed an Act to authorize the Board of Supervisors of the several counties of the State to appoint Inspectors of Apiaries and provide for their compensation, and defining their duties, for the further protection of bee culture.

A STANISLAUS county schoolteacher shot and killed a companion over a game of cards last Saturday. It is such men as this fellow that teach the "young ideas" of the country "how to shoot," and in consequence produce so large a criminal class.

THE Southern Pacific track-layers will reach the Colorado river to-day.

ACCORDING to an alleged statement by Villard, President of the Northern Pacific, now in this city, the Oregon and Transcontinental Company—another name for the Northern Pacific—is to complete the remainder of the road known as the Oregon and California, taking $3,600,000 in first and $3,800,000 in second mortgage bonds as the consideration. Another part of the contract is that the Oregon and California road is to be leased perpetually to the Northern Pacific and become a part of its system. The unfinished part of the Oregon and California road is from Roseburg, Umpqua Valley, to the line of this State, about 125 miles. At the State line it is to be met by the California and Oregon road, owned by and a part of the Central Pacific system of this State. The California and Oregon road now ends at Redding, or Shasta, and about 120 miles must be constructed before the Oregon and California roads can meet. This part of the California road will be very costly, as it all will run through rough country and parts of it through two formidable ranges of mountain, requiring slow and expensive tunneling and much cutting through rock. The prospect of the completion of the line from this city to Portland, therefore, is remote.—S. F. Chronicle.

THE California Southern Railway Company sent two more locomotives the other day from San Diego over the Southern Pacific road to El Paso, whence they will go on the line of the Mexican Central. The California Southern and Mexican Central belong to the same syndicate, and this explains why so much surplus material and rolling stock have been landed at San Diego. It will therefore be seen that there is nothing in the fact of this material accumulating at San Diego to induce the belief that the California Southern is to be pushed on from San Bernardino to a connection with the Atlantic & Pacific at the Needles. We believe, however, that is is only a question of time when the gap will be closed.—L. A. Express.

A SPECIES of acacia is growing on a farm near Virginia, Nev., which was brought from Australia, and is now eight feet high. It shows all the characteristics of the sensitive plant. When the sun sets its leaves fold together and the ends of the tender twigs coil up like a pigs tail. If the twigs are handled the leaves move uneasily for a minute or more.

A DOMINION journal says, in a burst of frankness: Indestructible chicken has long been a feature of some of our Canadian railway refreshment rooms.

THE Candelaria True Fissure has the following item, which has not been heard of in this section, and which we think is doubtful:

The information has been received at Candelaria that Mike Bonner, a former employe at the Northern Belle mine, perished on the desert between the terminus of the C. & C. R. R. and Calico Mining District. He attempted to make the trip on foot without a supply of water and without a knowledge of the country and it is presumed lost his way, became overcome with the heat and laid down and died. Mike was a little queer about many things, but was always considered a good and generous man withal among those who knew him best.

A DOCTOR is called in to prescribe for a sick child, and having examined the patient writes out a prescription and leaves instructions as to the treatment of the little sufferer. On making his visit the next morning the prince of science is surprised to find the household in tears. "My poor child," sobs the mother; "I never thought that he would have died of croup." "Croup!" echoes the doctor; "do you mean to say the child had croup? Why didn't you tell me?"

"JOHN," said the cashier's wife, dropping into the bank in the midst of a shopping trip, "you forgot to leave me that money this morning." "What name," asked the cashier, without looking up. "I am your wife." "No doubt, no doubt," answered the cashier mechanically, going on with his writing, "but you will have to bring some one to identify you."

"YES, brethren," said a preacher from his pulpit, "you are the passengers on a train speeding its straight and narrow way to glory, and I am the conductor on the train, thank the Lord." "You run her first class, I should say," remarked a stranger, looking over the congregation, "from the number of sleepers you are hauling."

THERE can be no excess to love, none to knowledge, none to beauty, when these attributes are considered in the purest sense.

THE young botanist was not in love with her teacher, but she took a lichen to him.

CERRO GORDO.—Among the mining districts in Inyo that will soon feel the influence of the building of the Carson and Colorado railroad, is the old and reliable Cerro Gordo district. But little work has been done there during the past three years, with the exception of some developments in the Palma and Ygnacio mines. The suspension of work on the Union company's mines and furnaces, three years ago, was a hard blow for this district. As is generally well known, this suspension was caused by the great cost of getting supplies, and hauling bullion 150 miles over the deserts to Mohave, on the Southern Pacific railroad. Now a new era seems about to dawn on this neglected district. The magic influence of the railroad starts the miner's pick and drill with new life, and the deep booming of the blast will tell of new treasures of gold and silver being brought to light. Cerro Gordo is famed as the richest mineral district in the Inyo range. It has produced its millions, and there is "millions in it" yet, as the present development of the mines show. On account of the great distance from railroad lines, and consequently heavy expense of mining and transporting bullion, but little capital has been induced to take hold of these mines. The Union Consolidated, the only company that ever operated to any considerable extent in the district, bought some of the richest ores from the different claims, but when the company stopped operations, all work throughout the district ceased, as there was then no market left in which the miners could dispose of their ores. The classes of ores to be found in this district are carbonates and sulphurets of lead, or smelting ores, rich in silver, and also chlorides of a milling character. Among the many valuable mines in Cerro Gordo, the Ygnacio stands out prominently as one of great richness, and showing an immense amount of ore in actual sight. The number of feet of development in the mine will aggregate over 1,500, consisting of tunnels and shafts. An eminent mining expert has placed the amount of ore in sight in this mine at from 1,500 to 1,800 tons, and other good authorities estimate it as high as 3,000 tons, One hundred and fifty tons of the ore, worked in the Hawley mill at Keeler City, averaged $102,78 per ton in silver and gold, and twenty tons shipped to Darwin, assayed 195 ounces of silver per ton. These ores are of a strictly free milling character. The situation of the mine is excellent for convenience of working, and a good wagon road leads directly to the foot of the dump. The distance from the mine to the railroad will be about eight miles. A small force is kept at work running a tunnel to cut the vein 400 feet below the surface; it is now in 700 feet, and about 100 feet more remains to be run to complete the work. The Ygnacio property consists six claims, the Ygnacio, San Francisco, Matilda, Mono, Greenly, and Summit, all adjaining each other, and the whole constituting a magnificent mining property for a company with the necessary capital to operate it.

AN IMPROVEMENT.—S. D. Thurston, of the Blaney House, last Sunday set in operation a neat little joker which amounts to a decided convenience to the hotel property. It is a small hydraulic ram, placed at the flume on the creek where it falls from the level of the Court House yard. The little, self-acting machine raises water to a tank in the top a building fitted up for a bath house. Pipes will also carry water into the kitchen for use there and where it will be heated for return. Mr. Thurston is a practical engineer, and at a considerable outlay has thus introduced a great improvement, in lieu of public water works. We can recall a great many places on water-courses in the valley where similar works, on a larger scale, would be just the thing and of vast practical benefit. Parties who "catch on" to the idea might do well to pay a visit of inspection to the "ram."

CARSON AND COLORADO.—The Carson and Colorado Railroad is gaining business steadily. Last month the receipts were several thousand dollars more than for any previous month. Thirty new freight cars, built at Carson, have just been added to the rolling stock of the road. Grading and track laying progresses at the usual rate. For the present the company will make no stoppage at Big Pine but come right along to a point nearly opposite Independence. After depot buildings have been constructed there they will return to Big Pine and construct a station for the accommodation of that part of the valley.

PERSONAL.—Mrs. Dr. W. H. George passed several days in town during the week, visiting old friends....Judge A. R. Conklin, at latest accounts, was still at Bodie....Mr. J. S. Rothschild, accompanied by Henry Levy's family, will leave for San Francisco to-morrow—the latter intending to remain visiting relatives there for some months....W. A. Greenly arrived yesterday from Deep Springs. He reports everything lovely over there, especially as to fine developments in the '78 mine....John Blair, the Bishop Creek miller, is paying Independence and Lone Pine a business visit.

SULPHUR.—Messrs. J. T. Jeffries and J. E. Jacobus, of Oakland, were in town Thursday, en route on a visit of inspection to the Sulphur Spring in Old Coso district. Mr. Jeffries has for years been the principal manager of the great sulphur works of Humboldt, Co., Nevada, and is therefore thoroughly well versed in the business. If the banks at Coso prove to be as represented the property will be taken hold of by a powerful company, when another very important industry will be created in Inyo.

MORALS IN TEACHING.

[COMMUNICATED.]

The education of the young demands the highest moral excellence in those to whom it is intrusted. That anyone who has acquired sufficient learning to pass the ordeal of a set examination is fit to teach, is a heresy. A fine, delicate and sustained moral sense is more a part of the character of a true teacher than mere intellectual acquirements. The intellect alone does not suggest the great moral responsibilities which should lie deeply upon the heart of him in whose hands lie the plastic mind of the young. The immortal faculties that stand upon the threshhold of existence, and before which lie the great problems of an untried and fitful life, should be moulded and directed by a mind steadied by a keen sense of the awful responsibility and by a deep, calm and abiding sense of duty. A sober rectitude, an undeviating course of pure and upright conduct should clothe a teacher as his garment. The keen eye of the young watches with acute interest the manner and conduct of those to whom they have a right to look for guidance and example. They take on the shade and temper of their guides as surely as the flower takes in the dew that falls upon it from the heavens. They follow their guides through example either into high places or into the sloughs to be mired in things impure, immoral, vicious and unworthy. Example is the great teacher of the young. Precept may, line upon line, fall from vicious lips upon barren ground, but a pure example bears a sure and sudden fruitage. To the example of a pure life the young turn with unerring instinct, won by the ever serene, sweet and noble graces of a truly pure heart. This instinct of the child is as true and strong as that silent but awful force that holds the needle to the eternal north. He who has not the fine quality to feel the force of the necessity of pure conduct and example, out of as well as in the schoolroom, should be denied his office. He should be scourged forth to herd with unclean things, not left like the upas to blast the lives that seek its shelter. It is a terrible offense to mould a human mind in an evil direction, to mar moral impulses and give a hellward tendency to faculties that should aspire to the very heavens. Many great souls, rendered immortal by reason of splendid offices performed in the interests of mankind, received their first impulse towards greatness by the example of some teacher, remembered and beloved forever, while throngs of warped and ruined lives cast into "outer darkness" can trace their downward career to the evil example of vicious teachers. No man has a right legally or morally to teach the young whose conduct is not exemplary. He should be compelled to by a strong and overruling public opinion to put on if he does not feel a strict observance of the common and ordinary decencies of life. He should be forced to eschew the low vices and habits which lower the tone of manhood and have an ever-increasing tendency to debase the character and degrade the moral sensibilities. Dissipation and teaching should be divorced by a public sentiment as inflexible as the Medean laws. There should be no excuse received from or pardon offered to a dissipated teacher. Indulgence in intoxicating liquors, gambling and kindred vices should be allowed to be no part of the accomplishments of a teacher. The evil influences which surround the young in these degenerate days are full enough of peril without allowing the very fountain-heads to be poisoned. We cannot hope that honest men and virtuous women shall be graduated from schools presided over by a genius immoral and impure. The common experiences of life render such a belief impossible. Our age, though flushed with the triumphs of great intellectual activity, is not strikingly marked by a moral tone. The cry of the ages is and has been for a nobler, higher, purer life, and i. we hope to accomplish it we must see to it that our young are guided by clean hands. Our teachers must be of noble make, endowed with fine moral perceptions and of conduct pure and consistent. Beasts cannot direct us Godward.

MINING TRANSFERS.—Record has been made in the Recorder's office of Mono county of the following deeds of property, which is situated in the Piute Mining District, just adjoining our northern county line: Pablo Flores to Alonzo Valverdi, 250 feet of California; Manuel Silva to S. L. McNaughton, 1,150 feet of Lisbon; Frank Blaisdell to H. J. Lent, 116½ feet of Comet; James G. Birchim to H. J. Lent, 116½ feet of Comet; John N. Kellogg to H. J. Lent, 116½ feet of Comet.

MORE LOSSES.—The dread black-leg cattle disease has appeared along the plains east of town, John Willet having lost five and Julius Roper thirteen head so far as reported. It attacks only those younger than three years. There is considerable doubt about the propriety of eating beef at all during the prevalence of the disorder.

THE WEATHER.—Winds, strong and cold, have prevailed nearly all week, accompanied by storms in the mountains. Ice formed in places, and much of the early fruit and vegetables have been destroyed. Notwithstanding these late cold snaps there is always plenty left to supply the market every season.

STOCKHOLDER'S MEETING.—A meeting of the Bishop Creek Ditch Company is called for June 16th, for the purpose of increasing the capital stock of the corporation.

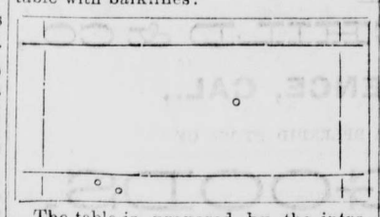
COPPER.—Messrs. Malone & Jordan, of Big Pine, brought in some fine, rich specimens of black oxide of copper from the vicinity of Death Valley.

ANOTHER "IRISH DIVIDEND."—The New Coso Company has levied assessment No. 16, of forty cents per share, delinquent May 12th.

THE BALKLINES.

How the New Game of Billiards is Played.

The recent tournament brought prominently to public attention the new balkline game. To illustrate its peculiarities, the following is a diagram of a table with balklines:



The table is prepared by the introduction of four white lines marked in crayon upon the cloth eight inches from each cushion and extending from end to end and side to side of the table, crossing at the corners and forming eight spaces along the cushion. The game is played with three balls, and the distinguishing feature is that not more than two shots are by the rules permitted when both the object balls are inside the same interdicted space, or, in other words, "in balk." Once the two object balls are in balk, the player may make one counting stroke within the space, but on his second shot he must get at least one of the object balls outside the line; or, failing to do this, his second stroke is a foul, no count is allowed and his opponent plays. An object ball driven out of one balk space into another and back into the same space from which it started, is called by the maker "out and in," and the player then has a new life as regards his two shots. So long as he is able to drive a ball out and back he can keep on playing, and he may do the same if he can "straddle" either of the corner balklines, which play keeps one ball in balk and the other just over the line. In all other respects the rules are the same as those of the regular three-ball game.

LOST.—See notice elsewhere of a valuable gold ring having been lost. Sheriff Gregg will pay a liberal reward to the finder for its return.

STORE ENLARGED.—J. J. Moore, of Big Pine, has built an important extension to his store, making a great improvement.

Physical Characteristics of Old Age.

The whole of life may be divided into three periods—growth, maturity and decay.

The first is characterized by changes in substances, size, form, powers and susceptibilities.

The second is characterized by fixedness. Food no longer goes to growth, but simply makes good what the system wastes in its working. It is the period of labor, enterprise and intellectual mastership over nature.

The third, say from sixty onward, is the opposite of the first, and would be of the second were we not able to carry along our accumulated treasures of experience, knowledge, habits and much of the momentum gained in our best years. At the best, however, it is one of increasing decay. Two facts—"atrophy" (wasting from lack of nourishment) and "degeneration" (change of muscular fibre into fat or lime)—explain this decay in the main. The food may be enough, but the power to get rid of the waste of the system and to replace it with good nerve, muscle, membranes, heat and strength is lessened. Hence there is universal shrinkage, which is not confined to the muscles, but extends to the brain, spinal cord, nerve trunks, lungs, liver, and in a still greater degree to the spleen and lymphatic glands. The heart and kidneys, by a wise provision of nature, retain their normal size, the first even generally becoming larger. The vacuum around the shriveled brain and lungs is filled with a watery fluid from the blood. The lungs are drawn toward the backbone and the chest proportionately falls in. Their power to throw off carbonic acid yearly decreases, becoming from one-fourth to one-half less. This is largely due to the weaker and shallower breathing. The veins lose much of their elasticity, and their walls especially in the lower half of the body, increase in size and thickness. The blood is less in quantity—more fluid and coagulates more readily.

SEVERAL years ago a sharp broker in Chicago took into his employ as cook a sharp-witted female, who kept her ears open for "points," and invested all her money in stocks. A year ago the broker's wife died, but the cook still remianed. A few days ago an unlucky speculation chopped off the big end of the master's purse, and he sent for the cook and said:

"Maria, I must move into a smaller and cheaper house, and I can no longer afford to pay you such high wages."

"Did you sell short?" she asked.

"Yes."

"And got squeezed?"

"Yes."

"Well, you have given me a great many pointers and enabled me to lay by about $60,000, with two or three good things yet to hear from. I feel grateful, and in case you might wish to marry me and take the sugar down on the street for a new deal with the boys, I'll not go back on you!"

He hasn.t appeared with the "sugar" yet.—Wall Street News.

IT is reported, says the Los Angeles Times, that a gentleman by the name of Childs, who lately purchased an extensive tract of land near the Verduga rancho, is about to plant the whole of it with olive trees, and hopes in a few years, if the trees thrive, to establish an olive-oil manufactory near the city.

OF course we don't want the championship to go out of town, but there's no objection to having some Boston man to wallop Sullivan.—Boston Post.

THE man who sued a Colorado paper for $50,000 damages for libel and was awarded six cents now believes in the "freedom of the press."

THE English papers call Egypt the "Gate of India." One of those uncommon cases where the fence costs more than the park.

THESE are the days when an impecunious young man can pass an ice cream saloon without a shudder.

IF this country runs so much to wire fence, every man will have to wear a piece of plank in the back of his trousers.

THE reason girls love to play billiards is because there are so many unexpected "kisses" in the game.

WHAT the market needs is "a long pool, a strong pool, and a pool altogether."

Treatment of Diphtheria.

M. Czartorski, M. D., of Stockton, California. writes as follows to the London Lancet: During a prolonged residence in the interior of China I became acquainted with the fact that the Chinese place great reliance during epidemics of diphtheria on the internal use of the fresh juice of limes, and of the fruit itself, which they consume in every form—as lemonade, with native spirits, cut in slices, etc.—during attacks of this dreadful disease, with apparently most successful results, it hardly ever failing to effect a cure. The Chinese consider it a specific and will, in case of need, do anything to obtain a supply. Since I have come back to California, as also in Louisiana, I have used limes and their juices in my practice as a physician with most successful results in cases of diphtheria, even in the most desperate cases. As soon as I take charge of a case of diphtheria I order limes to be administered as freely as possible in any manner the patient can be prevailed upon to take them, especially in the form of hot lemonade sweetened with white sugar or honey, or cut in slices with powdered white sugar. Besides lime juice (which I suppose acts by imparting an excess of oxygen to the circulation and thereby prevents formation of vibriones, etc., and so has almost a specific effect on disease), I prescribe whatever drug may be indicated to relieve symptoms as they develop and impart strength by appropriate stimulants and nourishment.

A Georgia Editor on Early Marriages.

Nine-tenths of the unhappy marriages are the result of green human calves being allowed to run at large in the society pastures without any yokes on them. They marry and have children before they do moustaches; they are fathers of twins before they are proprietors of two pairs of pants, and the little girls they marry are old women before they are twenty years old. Occasionally one of these gosling marriages turns out all right, but it is a clear case of luck. If there was a law against young galoots sparking and marrying before they have all cut their teeth, we suppose the little cusses would evade it in some way, but there ought to be a sentiment against it. It is time enough for these bantams to think of finding a pullet when they have raised money enough to buy a bundle of laths to build a henhouse. But they see a girl who looks cunning, and they are afraid there is not going to be girls enough to go around, and then they begin to get in their work real spry; and before they are aware of the sanctity of the marriage relation they are hitched for life, and before they own a cookstove or a bedstead they have got to get up in the night and go after the doctor, so frightened that they run themselves out of breath and abuse the doctor because he doesn't run, too, and when the doc or gets there, there is not enough linen to wrap up a doll baby.

DE LESSEPS' SEA in the Desert of Sahara, if he succeeds in creating one, will be four times as large as Lake Superior. This is the statement now made, and if correct, it throws much doubt on the success of the enterprise. Lake Superior contains 31,000 square miles, and the proposed sea would therefore spread over an area of 128,000 square miles. To flood this area and neutralize the immense evaporation that would take place would require the flow of a vast volume of water, which could only be obtained by the expenditure of a very large sum of money in the construction of an artificial channel. It would probably produce a rapid and constant flow into the Mediterranean from the Atlantic through the Straits of Gibraltar, and would perhaps reverse the current now running from the Mediterranean into the Red Sea through the Suez Canal.

GERMANY, which has prohibited the importation of American hog products, was not a heavy customer in that line, except in lard. Her importations of American bacon amounted to but 3,500,000 pounds, out of a total export of 428,000,000 pounds. Of pork she last year imported only a little over 1,000,000 pounds, out of a total which we export of 80,000,000 pounds. In hams she is also a small customer, but of lard she took last year 55,000,000 pounds. Our total export of hog products to Germany last year was 60,457,084 pounds, and the total to all countries was 798,921,846. So the American pig will not have to be abolished, even if Germany does repudiate him.

THE Bodie Free Press says: Captain John, of the Piutes, has hit on a happy plan of curing the bucks of his tribe of getting drunk and creating a disturbance. He keeps a long rope in his private office, and when the drunk reels to the wickiup he is captured. John calls on two of his lieutenants and they march the prisoner to a deserted shaft forty feet deep and lower him down to the bottom. He is kept there forty-eight hours. During the Indian's imprisonment he is fed on bread and water. Captain John says this system of treatment will be thoroughly tested, and if it fails to have the desired effect some other plan will be devised for destroying the taste for Bodie whisky.

THE Chemical News states that the deleterious effects of the use of tobacco can be counteracted, if not entirely annihilated, by moistening the tobacco when in course of preparation, previous to its delivery to the consumer, with a strong infusion of watercresses, since the author has discovered that this vegetable contains principles which, without destroying the peculiar aroma of tobacco, destroys the deleterious effects of nicotine.

A REBELLION of the smaller boys is imminent in New Jersey. The Legislature of that State has passed a law making it a criminal offense to sell cigarettes to minors. The young idea is not to be taught how to smoke.

Mount Ætna.

Ætna, the most famous of volcanoes, is again in agitation and promises another eruption like some of those that have in past times carried death and destruction to the smiling towns and villages that cluster on its slopes. There are two villages and sixty-three towns, of all sizes, on the mountain, having a population, with the agricultural districts about them, of no less than 300,000 souls. Ætna differs in some respects from other celebrated volcanoes. Its eruptions, whether more or less terrible, have a general resemblance. They are preceded by earthquakes, which are sometimes felt as far as Cyrus. Rifts open down the mountain sides, from which sand, smoke, ashes and scoriæ are poured with great violence. Lofty cones are thrown up to the height of 800 or 1,000 feet. Similar phenomena are sometimes observed in the eruption of Vesuvius, the volcanoes in Iceland and in other parts of the world, but the peculiarities of Ætna give it an individuality that has made it famous since it was first celebrated by the writers of ancient Greece and Rome, and the old fable of Enceladus has been verified by Longfellow.

Some of the historical eruptions of Ætna have been even more destructive to life than that overflow of Vesuvius that buried Pompeii and Herculaneum so deep that they were forgotten for 1,700 years. In 1669 a city of 8,000 inhabitants and some twenty villages were totally destroyed. The stream of lava ran fifteen miles in four days, and reaching the walls of Catania, which were sixty feet high, rose slowly to their top and poured over in a continuous cataract of fire. In 1693 an earthquake destroyed 18,500 people of Catania, and of people living on the slopes of the mountain no less than 100,000. Other eruptions have been less destructive. The most important of the present century, none of which have been so violent as the two specified, have occurred in 1805, 1809, 1811-12, 1819, 1831 and 1852. Remembering so terrible a past and living on a crust of lava that bends and sways at the slightest movement of the forces within, it is no wonder that Ætna is regarded with awe and every sign of activity feared as presaging a storm of fire and lava that may destroy a score of pleasant towns and a hundred thousand lives.

Physical Training.

Physical training of pupils in all schools, from the lowest grade in our public schools to the highest class in college, is a subject that is beginning to receive such attention as its importance merits. How to cultivate and educate the physical system, as the mental powers are being developed and trained, how to prevent the mind from outgrowing the body and to keep the strength of the latter up to a proper standard without impeding or misdirecting the growth of the former, is a problem that many educators are trying to solve. One of the most popular means of physical culture for advanced pupils, or students, is the college crew, but a good deal of opposition is manifested to this mode of exercise because it is supposed to interfere with the progress and interest of the students in their courses of study. The New York Telegram has obtained the views on this question of a number of gentlemen who should be regarded as experts. Among others, Professor Barnard, President of Columbia College, was questioned, and replied that in his opinion athletic exercises, such as the Columbia College students engage in, are wholly beneficial. With regard to the club crew and the practice necessary to keep them in a condition to enter a contest with another crew, it was not hurtful in any way to those taking part in it. The practice or exercise of the students is never carried to extremes. The Professor did not know of a case in which the interest of a student in his studies was in any way impaired by his outdoor exercise.

Prospecting for Gold and Silver.

For the thirty-fourth Spring in the camps of the Pacific Coast the prospectors are fitting out for the discovery and occupation of new ground. At first the limit was Nevada, Sierra, Plumas, Butte and Placer counties in California. With another year Siskiyou was reached, and all the long line of hills from Mt. Shasta to Mariposa. It was then so many colors to the pan, so many dollars or ounces to the day with rockers. After awhile the long tom was invented and it was confidently told that with it a miner could double his work. Later a year or two the first great deal began in Mariposa, and still later an English company built a costly but crude quartz mill above Marysville, at Brown Valley. Sir Henry Huntley was in charge, and though he knew very little about quartz or how to save gold from it, he rode a magnificent blood horse and looked as though he might be familiar with all the chemistry of the rocks.

Those were the days of wild sprees, of fandangoes, of pack trains, and when in some little building a theatrical play was advertised, and when on the little 12x14 stage a girl in spangles appeared to sing or to execute a fancy dance, great hearty shouts greeted her and the stage was showered with gold pieces. Those were the days of generous hearts and quick, sharp quarrels. The fashion of honoring murderers and hanging horse thieves was inaugurated then on this coast. With every year new mines were found and new improvements in working them were made. Those were the days when rivers were turned aside at great cost, and when, not unfrequently, just as the day for commencing to reap a reward corresponding with the outlay arrived, the rains came and all the labor and money expended were hopelessly lost.

In Calaveras, Amador, Nevada, Sierra and Plumas counties quartz mining and milling grew to be a business, but it was uncertain; it was something which men knew nothing of, but the thought that if from the ore the precious metal could be obtained it meant quick fortunes, such as Astor and Girard gathered through long years of toil, stimulated men to keep trying. Who ever thinks of Astor and Girard as rich men now? Those were the days of steamers; those were the days when letters from home were kissed and cried over as never letters were before. Then hydraulic mining was invented, and the hills with their shaggy pines began to bow before the new destroyer. Every Autumn the immigrants came in from the plains with the crowd, and as the settlements in the deep hills grew permanent, toll roads were introduced and stages and big teams; year after year the volume of gold with increasing millions rose and floated away to the East and became an infusion of new blood to the arteries of trade.

Those were the days of clipper ships, and every time a man went down to San Francisco from the hills, his story on his return never failed to include descriptions of some new ship which had come into port and which was more beautiful than any ship had been before. And gradually at the point of the Peninsula the sand hills melted away and a regal city took form inside the Golden Gate. But the placers began to fail; the beards of the early miners began to grow grizzled, and they commenced to grow garrulous when they talked of the Winter of '49 and the Spring of '50. A few of them tried farming, and when the river bottoms were tested the result was astounding. There was better wheat and more to the acre than the richest lands of the East could produce. Still, as yet, all the upper lands of the valley were flower-crowned, and old miners did not take kindly to farming. Something new was wanted. So in 1857, when it was told that in British Columbia there were rich placers, a new exodus began. The steamship companies fanned the flame and the exodus grew to be a stampede. It was short-lived, but it was fatal to many a trader of easy fortune; fatal to the future of many a miner, for thousands in that journey and search acquired the restlessness which never more permitted any contentment in this world. At last from beyond the Sierras a man carried some peculiar-looking material to Placerville and was told there by Prof. Frank Stewart that it was black sulphurets of silver, and he advised the man to have it assayed when he reached Sacramento. The result was a return of $1,400 to the ton. Then there was new excitement, indeed. Then the energy of the California mountains was transferred to the other side; then farms and gardens were left to camp followers; then the exploration of the desert began, and what has happened since is modern history. How the boys learned to timber mines; how Idaho, Montana, Arizona and Utah were explored; how at length the locomotive came along, is it not all written in the chronicles of these days? But the prospector still haunts the hills. With every year he fixes his pack and blankets and starts for new fields with the old dream in his heart and the old eager look in his eyes. This year he means to bring up in the Kootenay country, and he goes away with the determination that if he fails this year he will try Alaska. His generation is almost gone, and his work is almost finished.—Salt Lake Tribune.

THE following excellent compendium of what a house of worship should be is from an English paper: "Free from all doubts, free from all delusions, free from all false doctrine, free to all men and free from all debt."

IN round numbers there are 4,000,000 Methodists in the United States. Counting the children as the Catholics do, would give them a probable Methodist population of 12,000,000.

In sending packages by mail the law allows the sender to write his or her name on the package. If it miscarries or is not called for it goes to the dead letter office, and the name of the sender thereon enables the authorities to return it, on remittance of return postage. This should be remembered, as somewhere about 10,000 packages thus failing to find owners are advertised to be sold from the dead letter office.

THE EADS SHIP RAILWAY.

The proposed ship railway across the Isthmus of Tehauntepec has not been abandoned, as many suppose. Eads, its proprietor, has returned home, and from him it was learned that work is being vigorously prosecuted and that the massive railroad will be finished long before the De Lesseps Panama Canal is opened. Six weeks ago a strong syndicate was formed for the purpose of beginning the work and making additional surveys to see if the route selected could be improved upon. Four parties of engineers are already in the field, under the general charge of M. Van Bracklin, and a large force of laborers and mechanics are engaged in construction. The neighborhood of Minatitlan, on the Coatzacoalcos river, has been selected for the northern terminus of the railroad. The survey of the northern terminal sections has been filed with the government of Mexico, and approved by its officers. Mexico has appointed one of its most distinguished engineers to be associated with the work, in accordance with the terms of the concessions, and he is now at Salina Cruz, on the Pacific, and has been ordered to repair to Minatitlan. E. L. Erthell, who was Captain Ead's chief engineer in the construction of the Mississippi river jetties, is chief engineer. Sir Edward Reed and John Fowler of London and Captain Eads will be consulting engineers. Colonel James L. Andrews, who built the jetties, and Hon. A. G. Cochran, Captain Ead's attorney, have been in London for the past thirty days to complete arrangements for the advancement of the project. The road will be constructed to carry ships and cargoes of a gross weight of 5,000 tons. In speaking of the prospects of completing the road Eads said he had not the slightest doubt of the work being finished and the line open for traffic before the end of 1877.

ACCORDING to the New York Public, which has a great maw for statistics, the United States has now 54,800,000 inhabitants, or an increase of 4,700,000 since the last census. This authority predicts a round total of 55,000,000 by July next. Considering the wholesale emigration from Ireland and the strong tendency of Germans and Italians to seek their fortunes in this country there is no doubt that this prophecy will be fulfilled. The only doubt is of their value as citizens.

TO-MORROW there will be a partial eclipse of the moon, visible on the coast. About one-tenth of the moon's disc will be obscured. Mercury is a morning star until the 26th, when he will be an evening star, on that day passing behind the sun at 9 a. m., appearing on the eastern side of the sun in the evening. On the 27th, Mercury comes in conjunction with Neptune, but the two planets will be so near the sun that the conjunction will be invisible—at least to dwellers on this world.

A CHICAGO editor who publishes a journal in the interests of mining, expresses his opinion that "mining, with the great enduring wealth of the nations of the future hidden in her bosom, stands silent like a mighty mountain range in the grandeur of her power, while the shadow of the wings of a polluting vulture crosses the sunshine of a glory that stretches across a continent." The situation could not have been more clearly defined.

THE largest order for printing legal forms ever given to the Public Printer, is that of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue for blanks and labels necessary to carry out the provisions of the law relative to the rebate on tobacco and cigars. The order was for 50,000,000 labels and 750,000 blanks for use of manufacturers and dealers. There is a great demand for these blanks, one St. Louis manufacturer having sent for 50,000 labels alone.

THE French are carrying war into two continents, but their opponents in one case are savage tribes on the Congo, and in the other the semi-barbarous inhabitants of Anam. In both cases the only ground for French aggression is based on commercial necessity. If in either case the weak nation receives the aid os a strong European power, France will wish she had been less energetic in her colonization.

A TEEEGRAM says that a meteor fell in Texas, a few days ago, on Williams' ranch, killing an entire family. This huge monster of the "upper deep" now lies hissing and steaming over the space of an acre. There is some fitness in its falling in Texas. It would have been mighty bad on Rhode Island had it struck that diminutive commonwealth.

OF INTEREST TO THE MASONIC FRATERNITY.

The Secretary of Inyo Lodge No. 221, F. & A. M., of this place, is, as were his immediate predecessors, sorely pestered with letters of inquiry concerning an old scoundrel, who, while perambulating the Union, claims to be a member of this Lodge, and always in need of relief. His story—varied, as is his name, to suit circumstances—is always so plausible, coupled with the fact that he is unusually bright in the work, that he invariably succeeds in his claims for "relief," generally getting it in cash in sums of from $10 to $40—sometimes from Lodges, but oftener from individual members, especially officers. In this manner he has "worked" through about half the States in the Union, after having "done" this coast pretty nearly in its length and breadth. Now, having swung around the circle east of the Rockies, he is again among the Pacific coast brethren, and is "cinching" them right along—in February, in Phoenix, Arizona; a few days later, in Tombstone; and so on to Vallejo, and, at last accounts (April 16) at Dutch Flat, this State. He figures oftenest as "Robert Wentworth Ford, of Inyo Lodge," etc., but when aiming for a bigger haul than common, or, apparently, in keener distress than usual, he personifies a P. M. of said Lodge, William Walker being a favorite character at such times. But others of the most respected members of this Lodge are, in like manner, made to appear as beggars and scoundrels—and thus it comes that Inyo Lodge, No. 221, F. and A. M., has become widely, very widely, known among the fraternity throughout the Union, and all through the efforts of one old scoundrel who, it is needless now to say, never was a member, or known to it or any of its members previous to the date when he victimized it as he has so many others since. This Lodge has done all that could be done in the usual way to stop the career of this old imposter, but as the "usual way" does not suffice when the nearest telegraph is a hundred miles distant, the press may next try to suppress him; that failing, old age is a safe reliance, for that must stop him some time, more especially as he is said to get magnificently drunk as often as circumstances permit.

Copies of the following circular, which explains itself, were sent to every Grand Lodge on the continent;

HALL OF INYO LODGE, No. 221,
F. & A. M., INDEPENDENCE,
INYO CO., CAL., April 19, 1880.

To the G. L. of ——, F. & A. M.:

Brethren—About one year ago a man giving his name as "Hall" was relieved by our Lodge. Since then he has been roving over the Pacific coast, and is now in the Eastern States, passing himself off as Bro. R. W. Ford, of our Lodge, and is receiving aid. When last heard from he was at Rockford, Tennessee, April 7, 1880.

This man is a bilk and a scoundrel, and should be arrested for obtaining money under false pretenses. He is about sixty years of age; has gray hair, and limps a little.

Please notify your subordinate Lodges, that they may not be imposed upon by this rascal.

A. R. CONKLIN, W. M.

Had the officers of the several Grand Lodges performed their whole duty in the premises, the old rat would have been trapped long ago. It is a matter for regret that the said officers themselves had not each got a square nibble from the said rat.

IN the following item from the Virginia City Enterprise will be found several ideas to remind one of the old Indian troubles here: "We had a long talk with Dave Williams, an old Comstocker, who has been down in the Arizona country. He is bitter against, not the 'law's delays,' but the delays and red tape of the Government and everybody else. He says: 'Bigger —— nonsense you never saw than this Indian business. It looks to me—and so looks to all the boys down there—as though they were nursing the whole thing, and that it was putting coin into the pockets of some one. Now,' said he, 'what is the use of all this fuss and the bringing out of the whole force of the Government to keep down about one hundred Indians? It is costing our people millions. If let out by contract tomorrow, I could go down into New Mexico or Arizona, and pick out fifty men who will stop the whole business. Down in the mines the boys all see how things are going. They don't blame the soldiers, as no man wants to work very hard or be killed at the wages that is being paid.'

THE story that is revived about Ben. Franklin's mother-in-law, serves well to illustrate the growth of the printing business in this country. It is stated that the prudent old lady seriously hesitated about allowing her daughter to marry a printer, as there were already two printing offices in the United States, and she was uncertain whether the country would support a third.

ON this page to-day will be found a striking and instructive illustration of the comparative worth of the various kinds of baking powders now in the market.

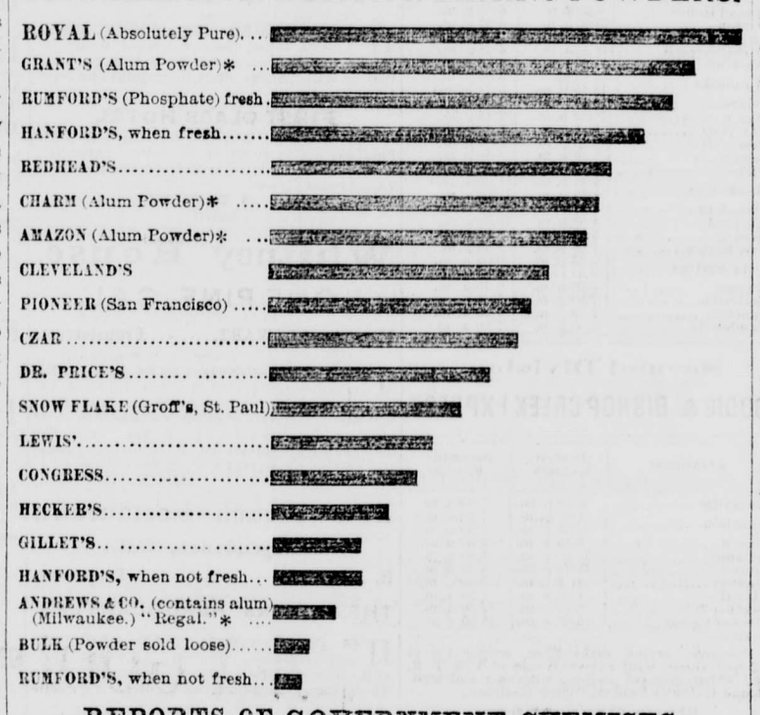
COMPARATIVE WORTH OF BAKING POWDERS.



REPORTS OF GOVERNMENT CHEMISTS

As to Purity and Wholesomeness of the Royal Baking Powder.

"I have tested a package of Royal Baking Powder, which I purchased in the open market, and find it composed of pure and wholesome ingredients. It is a cream of tartar powder of a high degree of merit, and does not contain either alum or phosphates, or other injurious substances. E. G. LOVE, Ph.D."

"It it a scientific fact that the Royal Baking Powder is absolutely pure."
"H. A. MOTT, Ph.D."

"I have examined a package of Royal Baking Powder, purchased by myself in the market. I find it entirely free from alum, terra alba, or any other injurious substance. HENRY MORTON, Ph.D., President of Stevens Institute of Technology."

"I have analyzed a package of Royal Baking Powder. The materials of which it is composed are pure and wholesome. S. DANA HAYES, State Assayer, Mass."

The Royal Baking Powder received the highest award over all competitors at the Vienna World's Exposition, 1873; at the Centennial, Philadelphia, 1876; at the American Institute, and at State Fairs throughout the country.

No other article of human food has ever received such high, emphatic, and universal endorsement from eminent chemists, physicians, scientists, and Boards of Health all over the world.

NOTE.—The above DIAGRAM illustrates the comparative worth of various Baking Powders, as shown by Chemical Analysis and experiments made by Prof. Schedler. A one pound can of each powder was taken, the total leavening power or volume in each can calculated, the result being as indicated. This practical test for worth by Prof. Schedler only proves what every observant consumer of the Royal Baking Powder knows by practical experience, that, while it costs a few cents per pound more than ordinary kinds, it is far more economical, and, besides, affords the advantage of better work. A single trial of the Royal Baking Powder will convince any fair minded person of these facts.

* While the diagram shows some of the alum powders to be of a higher degree of strength than other powders ranked below them, it is not to be taken as indicating that they have any value. All alum powders, no matter how high their strength, are to be avoided as dangerous.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, APRIL 21..... ..1883

HIS FATE.—There are no former residents of southern Inyo who did not know George Snow, the prospector and discoverer of the Snow's Cañon mines. An old resident of Cerro Gordo returned during the week, and, in substance, gives the following account of the sad fate of poor George: "He was killed more than one year ago, being mistaken for a cow-boy. It seems that a party of cow-boys stole some cattle from a Mexican near Prescott, Arizona, and were driving them towaads Tombstone. Snow, falling in with the party on the road, was keeping them company. The Mexicans raised a party to pursue the cow-boys—overtaking them, they killed them all, poor George among the rest."

SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT AT LONE PINE.—The Lone Pine public school, County Superintendent C. H. Groves, teacher, and Miss Eva Shepherd, assistant, closes for the term on the last of this month. This is to be the occasion of a grand entertainment given by the school and the help of numerous volunteers, to take place during the afternoon and evening of Tuesday, May 1st. Judging from what is set forth in the printed programme, and the well known abilities of a number of those who are to take part, the entertainment is likely to be the best in that line we have had in the county. The wind-up is to bo a dance, or grand ball, itself to be made as fine and enjoyable affair as possible.

DIRECTORY.—After several delays incident to such a work, the Inyo County Business Directory is now out, and being delivered fast as possible by Mr. R. C. Julian. The work is plain, but nevertheless very handsome in appearance—for which fact it speaks for itself. Orders for extra copies may be given to Mr. Julian or sent direct to this office. As stated in the first place, subscribers are expected to pay for them on delivery. Mr. Julian will return from Lone Pine to-day and start northward to-morrow. So far as heard from the work has given complete satisfaction. Next year, should nothing unforseen prevent, THE INDEPENENT will issue a full County Directory in a book form.

LASKY'S MILL.—Mr. Lasky received yesterday from his new mill at Beveridge 69½ ounces of gold bullion, worth some $900, which supplemented 80 ounces received the week before. The five-stamp mill is reducing seven tons of ore per day, mostly from the Keynot. On Thursday last he sent over thirty-eight pack mules, loaded with supplies. Amongst other things was a large arastra, to be added to the working machinery of the mill, which is now unable to keep up with the ore supply.

NO REPORTS.—Local items and, in fact, news at all of any kind of general interest, may be set down as decidedly scarce this week. Our southern country correspondents have failed to show up what progress affairs are making down that way, and things are pretty much at a stand-still in this immediate whereabouts. The work going on in the Kearsarge and in the Golden Star mines, located respectively in the Sierra and Inyo ranges, comprises all we can learn of just now.

FISH.—The Carson and Colorado Railroad Company has placed in the river, near Bishop Creek, some 5,000 trout—little fellows for breeding. It remains to be seen how they will come out with the cat-fish, which were planted some four years ago, and are now reported to be flourishing and plentiful. The carp, which have escaped to the sloughs and creeks will have to take a back seat in the course of time.

SCHOOL.—According to present arrangements, school will be commenced in this place Monday next, April 23d, under charge of Mr. E. Gibbs, who, accompanied by his wife, is expected here to-day. Mr. Gibbs comes well recommended as a teacher, of long experience and first class abilities, having taught in several of the principal counties of the State, latterly in San Francisco, whence he now comes.

PERSONAL.—W. A. Greenly was in town several days from Deep Springs. He thinks that is the coming region, of Inyo....Mr. S. D. Woods passed through on his way to Carson and probably San Francisco... Charley McEvoy is over from Beveridge, and reports matters slow with his mill. He is arrangeing to put on a force of chloriders at work getting out ore from his own mines.

COURT.—In the Superior Court last Monday the calender was called and several cases set for trial. The water suit of Goodale vs. Arnold was continued until Monday next, when a venire of forty jurors was made returnable.

THE COLD.—The freezing weather of the past two weeks has undoubtedly damaged the orchards and gardens to the extent of at least $10,000. It is considered almost certain now that there will be little or no fruit raised this year.

A CALL.—Jas. Oliver, Chief Engineer of the C. & C. R. R., paid Independence a visit last Monday, en route to Carson. His force of surveyors are now at work just above the bridge opposite this place.

ICE.—S. Zaun, the Lone Pine ice and ice-cream man, will open out for the season's business next Saturday. He will be able to supply the local market all the time, at lower rates than ever before.

LODGE.—The stated meeting for April of Inyo Lodge, No. 221, F. & A. M., will be held at the hall to-night.

ARRIVAL.—R. S. Miner Esq., accompanied by Ramon Montenegro, an old Inyoite, arrived here from Bodie last Tuesday. They got here from Bishop by a scratch, or not until after getting several. The team from Bishop, Dr. Kernodle's horses, driven by H. Levy to his own wagon, was being turned around a freight team, when one side struck the rut of the road and the other a sage brush. The wheels went up and the wagon covering was scraped off, while the boys barely scratched out of the game. The horses ran a short distance and stopped, the damage being mainly confined to the wagon. Mr. Miner will appear as counsel in some half dozen suits in the Superior Court.

AGENTS.—Copies of the Inyo County Directory will be delivered to subscribers and purchasers at Lone Pine by J. J. Stewart, the INDEPENDENT regular agent. At Darwin John B. White will receive the same and attend to their delivery and collecting therefor. Mr. Julian went north to-day, and will arrange for the delivery of whatever copies he does not himself present by agents at Big Pine, Bishop and Round Valley.

THE I. O. O. F. BALL.—Next Thursday, the 26th, occurs the grand anniversary ball of the Odd Fellows in this place, and there is no question but it will prove a really grand affair. Curt. Ober's famed string band is to furnish the music, and, of equal importance, all the little "etceteras" necessary to make such an occasion a success are being well looked after.

OFF FOR A TOUR.—Mr. V. G. Thompson left last Wednesday for Los Angeles, from whence he will make a month's tour into Arizona and New Mexico. He drives his own rig, which includes a couple of the finest roadsters in Inyo County.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES.—Rev. W. Nims will preach in Round Valley on Sunday, April 29th, at 11 o' clock a. m., and at 7 in the evening.

A REPLY.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT—In the last issue of THE INDEPENDENT I note an article under the heading "Morals in Teaching." Now, there are some ideas in the sophisticated article which are certainly very erroneous.

The writer seems to be of the opinion that the chief object of the public school is moral training. This I emphatically deny, and claim that moral and religious creeds belong entirely to the church. Improvement of the mental faculties alone is the object of the school. You cannot mix the two and support our present school system. The church and school house are not synonymous.

Perhaps the learned friend of the moral code would have the school open with prayer, or a chapter from the Holy Writ; perhaps would have a barbarous picture of the tortures of hell-fire or a fierce, cloven-hoofed devil on the walls in place of wall maps.

The best possible thing that could be done for our schools would be to let them alone. Now show us the great things that have been accomplished in the past history of the world by moral example. Look to-day to the religious institutions of our lands, where every professor, every instructor is a divinity personified, and then compare their graduates with those of the glorious free-thinking universities. As far as moral example is concerned a child should, if the teacher does his duty, be taught to reason and think for himself, and not follow every example recommended to him.

When the moral code is continually stuffed into a pupil, what may be the result? At Oberlin, where a cigar would insult the faculty and a billiard cue would make walls tremble—that divine place where a white-winged angel is supposed to sit on every fence post, and where the light of religious morality ever shines from heaven—a man is graduated. What is the result of all this training? Does he agree with his infallible spiritual teachers? No; the direct opposite. Out of the continual stream of religious piety came the greatest infidel of the age—Robert Ingersoll.

Our learned dictator states as follows: "A fine, delicate and sustained moral sense is more the part of the character of the teacher than mere educational acquirements." This word "mere" would imply that intellectual acquirements cut a very small figure in the school. How reasonable! How learned! Of what a length must be thy ears!

Again, he further states: "He (the teacher) should be compelled by a strong and overruling public opinion to put on if he does not feel a strict observance of the common and ordinary decencies of life." Then any dummy with a testament in sight and a deck of cards in his pocket can be the true example for the pupil. Since when did deception become a virtue? A hypocrite and a moral example, too. What a happy combination! Perhaps would be one of those deceptive agents of the devil who would throw up his holy hands in horror at the thought of a licensed house of ill fame, but at the same time would religiously decoy, deceive and seduce one of his own pupils, and still be found in the church regularly every Sunday singing psalms of praise to God.

The most important part of the school law denies the right of teaching sectarianism at all. A teacher has no right to reprimand a pupil in any way for breaking the Sabbath, or teach that it is wrong; for the Jewish children have as much right to have their creed defended as have the Gentiles. Truth, justice and patriotism are all the morals the teacher must instill. Further he says: "Our age is not marked by a moral tone." Why? What was once called morals has been undermined by education. For this reason catholicity is trembling in America, and recently Father Gleason, of Oakland, said that the public schools are destroying his church. Ecclesiastical power has begun to lose its influence. And the public school is the chief factor of its decay. Compare free-thinking America with all the God-fearing priest-ridden governments that have ever been established and then compare also the results. And then he calls these days "degenerate days." At what particular period would his "worthyness" wish to live? When the massacre of Bartholomew blotted the world's history with blood? When a philosopher must die because he said the earth moved? When morals were improved by the rack with its hell of torture? For my part I thank God that I live in the present day of free schools, the foundation of free government. The communication he closes with the precept: "Beasts cannot direct us Godward." We suppose from this that he has given up in dispair. Religion rules the schools of Spain and has done so for centuries. What is the result? Out of her sixteen millions today three millions only can read and write. The school is for the pupils not for the parents, and nothing should be taught in the schoolroom excepting that which will prove itself. All else should be left to the conclusion of the pupil and what influence the parents desire to exert. The teacher should excite an interest in his pupils to know the cause. Then when a child observes an effect he will begin to look for the cause. Now, after so many years of thraldom, the schools are free, and for the sake of our posterity and the welfare of our government let them so remain.

A TEACHER.

Why We Have Slow Mails.

There is a very vexatious delay in all mails from the south for points along the Carson and Colorado railroad and points divergent therefrom. We have been puzzled to account for the fact that letters from Bishop Creek, Independence or Lone Pine for Bodie are four days on the road. The INYO INDEPENDENT of Saturday does not reach here until the following Wednesday, while the Denver papers are no longer time on the road. It appears, however, that when mails get on the Carson and Colorado railroad bound north, there is no way to stop them until they reach Reno. They are distributed on the V. and T. road, and then sent back over the same route they have traveled on the preceding day. Thus, if a man at Candelaria wishes to send a letter to Soda Springs, a few miles this side, the letter must pass through Soda Springs and go to Reno, 150 miles beyond, then return to Soda Springs again, making a trip of over 300 miles to reach its destination of about twenty miles only. This is an intolerable nuisance, and we desire to call the attention of the postal authorities to the fact, in order that it may be remedied. A postal clerk should be placed on the C. and C. and the letters properly distributed as soon as they reach the train. Until they do so people in southern Mono and Inyo county who desire to have their mails in this direction reach their destination in a reasonable time had better send them by Wells, Fargo & Co.—Bodie Free Press.

THE California and Iowa statutes provide explicitly that men and women may lawfully marry by simply expressing an agreement to become man and wife. The Connecticut, Delaware and Kansas statutes expressly nullify any marriage not solemnized according to one of the modes prescribed by law. In about a dozen States, whose statutes contain no words of nullity as to marriage by mere agreement, the courts hold such marriages valid. The contrary ruling is made by the courts of Massachusetts and four or five other States, whose statutes are likewise without words of nullity on the subject. This confusion of statutes and rulings may have something to do with the loose ideas prevailing with regard to the marriage relation.

THE distance from San Francisco to Oakland Pier by the Southern Pacific Railroad is 4.5 miles; to Lathrop, 94.3 miles; to Tulare, 251.1; to Mojave, 381.7. From Mojave, which is at the junction of the Colorado Division of the Southern Pacific Railroad, the distance to the first station, Yucca, is 20.3 miles; to the next, Kramer, 38.2; to Harper, 51.6; Hinckley, 61.3; Waterman, 70.2; Daggett, 80.6; Newbery, 92.6; Hazlett, 105.3; Ludlow, 128.8; Ash Hill, 131.5; Siberia, 141.6; Bagdad, 148.9; Amboy, 156.5; Bristol, 163.1; Cadiz, 170.8; Danby, 180.9; Edson, 192.4; Fenner, 199.4; Goffs, 209. The distance from San Francisco to Goffs is 590.7 miles; to Daggett Station, 462.3.

IN London there are about 100,000 Jews. They excel any other religious order in the number and magnificence of their hospitals, alms-houses, synagogues and free schools.

SATURDAY, APR L 21..... 1883

A Close Call.

The following remarkable story was telegraphed from Tombstone: John Lyons, a well-known citizen of this county, on Friday last, while at work in the shaft of a mine near Tres Alamos, had just put in four shots, when, on reaching the top of the shaft, he beheld four mounted Apaches approaching. As they saw him emerge they increased their pace, and their fiendish yells relieved Mr. Lyons of all doubts as to their intents toward himself. For an instant he was paralyzed with terror. Being entirely unarmed, resistance was not to be thought of while escape by flight was equally impossible. His first impulse was to hurl himself into the shaft and be blown to atoms by the explosion of the blast, rather than perish miserably at the hands of the remorseless fiends who had him at their mercy. These reflections occupied but a moment's time—but now the Apaches were almost upon him. Suddenly, with the instinct of despair, Mr. Lyons threw himself behind a pile of rock close at hand, and at the same instant the blast in the bottom of the shaft exploded with terrific effect, throwing a shower of rock and debris high in the air, which was followed by a dense volume of smoke rolling up from the shaft. The Indians, who were sure of their victim, halted a moment at this unexpected and to them mysterious eruption; then with a yell, not of triumph but of rage mingled with terror, wheeled their horses and galloped off in the direction whence they came. Mr. Lyons could at first scarcely realize that he escaped almost miraculously from a horrible death, but as soon as he had recovered from his amazement, departed for Tres Alamos, meeting on the road a party of neighbors going out in search of his remains, they having seen the Indians heading in the direction of the mine, and not doubting that Mr. Lyon had fallen a victim of their savage ferocity.

Microscopic Land Sale.

A unique sale took place yesterday in the Treasurer's office. It was like a slow mule race, each bidder endeavouring to see who could secure the smallest portion of a certain tract of land which was encumbered by taxes and a couple of mortgages. The bidders were T. J. Pereles and Henry Herman and the bidding commenced at a certain number of feet and finally finished by being knocked down to Herman, when it decreased to 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,-000,000,000,000th part of the lot. The price of the scrap of dirt was $90 76. The land was sold for taxes yesterday and the law governing the matter is found in section 24 of chapter 18 of the charter: "The Treasurer shall sell on the day and at the place designated in his notice all tracts and lots, or parts thereof, upon which the taxes or assessments shall remain unpaid. The sale shall be the smallest undivided portion of the lot or tract which any person will take and pay the taxes and charges on the whole lot or tract."—Milwaukie Sentinel.

Our readers will remember that about three months ago newspaper reports stated that Jay Gould had lost already about $100,000 in trying to run the New York World, and that he had ordered the publication suspended. His experience in the newspaper business is very much like that of the Devil's, who once upon a time contracted for a man's soul on the condition that if he should furnish all the money the owner could spend for the term of five years the soul was his, otherwise the contract to be void. The man, thinking he had a sure thing on the Devil, started out to spend money in the most reckless manner possible. He gave costly banquets to his friends, purchased fast horses, fine residences, built steam yachts, visited watering places, traveled abroad, returned home and invested largely in mining stocks, buying when they were high and selling when they were low—but all to no purpose, the Devil honored all his drafts. Time along and the fifth year was drawing to a close—only a few months remaining in which to exhaust the Devil's funds. In this emergency he sought the counsel of a friend, who advised him to establish a morning newspaper. He done so. His draft for the first month surprised the Devil, the second month it paralyzed him, and the third month he succumbed—flat broke; and the man retained his soul.

The late transit of Venus curiously proved the accurate calculations of the ancient makers of that famous horological curiosity, the Strasburg clock. A few days before the transit, visitors to the cathedral inspecting in the planetarium attached to the clock noticed that one of the small gilt balls, representing Venus, was gradually moving toward a point between the sun and the earth, and on the day of the passage the ball stood exactly between them. Old Conrad Dasypobius, the Strasburg mathematician, superintended the manufacture of the clock and its accompanying planetarium some time between 1571 4—the dates differing according to various authorities—and it is interesting to note that after 300 years of existence the clock faithfully fulfills the calculations of its dead inventor.

The Secretary of the Interior has decided that in the case of lands claimed under the desert land law that the question of character of lands that have been reclaimed from a desert state and are now producing crops by means of irrigating ditches, etc., are not subject to entry under the desert land laws. A desert land entry of 640 acres cannot embrace land in such form that the tracts in linear extent shall exceed one mile and a quarter. In entries of smaller quantities the side lines must be reduced in proportion. A school section or part thereof cannot be embraced in a desert land entry.

Liberalism is creeping into all the churches, but the poor preachers notice that it has not yet struck the contribution box.

An American gentleman, member of the Legation at St. Petersburg, left recently at the Winter Palace a parcel for one of the ladies in waiting of the Duchess of Edinburgh. The packet was accompanied with his card and an explanatory note. The card and note were duly delivered, but the parcel, on being opened as a precautionary measure before being permitted to reach its destination, was instantly hurried off to the chemist for analysis. Although proved to be nothing more deleterious than horehound candy, there was a lurking fear that dynamite or strychnine might be mysteriously introduced through its means into the sacred precincts of the palace, and so it failed to reach the hands of its destined recipient.

This part of a sermon by a preacher in Colorado. The boys understood it: "Boys, you'll find this life a game of seven-up. You want to save your tens and look out for the game, an' never beg when you hold a good hand. Also, recollect, in the long run low counts as much as high, if it is only a trump. The devil has stocked the cards, but jist play 'em honest, and when it comes your deal yer boun' ter get a winnin' hand every time, and old split-hoof will jist have to jump the game and look after a softer snap. Also, if you happen to turn Jack call it lucky, but don't forget to remember that turning Jack is uncertain business, and will never do to bet on."

Fish of the Tropics.

A letter from Nassau, in the Bahama Islands, says: Dame Nature, in accomplishing her work for tropical climes, always seems to have made the sad mistake of doing everything for the eye. She gives pure air, but it is full of lassitude. She creates a vast range of most luxuriant vegetation, but her trees are small and their fibers tender. She begets a huge variety of fruits beautiful to look upon, but if we except the orange, lemon, pineapple and banana, they are for the most part insipid and of species which decay so quickly that they are rarely or never seen in our northern markets. In tropical seas her work is of the same kind. Her fish seem made to feast the æsthetic eye rather than the craving stomach. In these crystalline waters, where clean living is the necessary habit of the finny races, one might expect every fish to at least rival the flavor of the shad, trout and other dainty dwellers of northern streams. But, instead, every thing seems to run to color. The supremest tints of beauty—gold, orange, blue, green and red—are lavished wantonly on these tropical tribes of the sea. Even fish of northern species when found in the tropics have some added line of beauty in gold or crimson. The pogy for example, is one of the fish most abundant in Bahama water. But here, unlike his northern kin, he has a scarlet mouth and deep lines of gold on his scales. Something in the clear water seems to generate these vivid tints, and by the same occult process extract all fishy esculence, for tropical fish, with one or two exceptions, taste alike. They have a negative insipid flavor when cooked—something half way between fish and cheap beefsteak—and when first caught they smell more like fresh meat than fish. Nay, many of these fish are really poisonous. I have heard of one well-authenticated case, where some passengers on a Bahama-bound schooner caught a tropical fish called the barracuda, a fierce creature, often growing to a great size, and much resembling in structure and habits the fresh water pickerel. The fish was cooked, and every man who ate was seriously poisoned. One of the victims became almost a confirmed invalid in consequence of that terrible repast. Nevertheless the baracuda at certain seasons and under particular conditions is eaten freely by the Bahama negroes, and I have seen it when sun-dried on sale in the Nassau markets.

Gin Statistics.

In the State of California there are 8,638 licensed saloons where alcoholic and intoxicating drinks are sold. Each saloon clears at least $1,250 a year. To do this they must receive for drinks at least double that amount, or $2,500. Multiplying 8,650—the number of saloons—by 2500—the average amount of money paid for rum—and we shall get some idea of the magnitude of the gin industry in California. The result in dollars is $21,645,000. Divide this amount by the number of voters—164,000—and it will be seen how much each voter must pay—$129. The amount of liquors consumed yearly in the United States is $800,000,000. The amount of money thus expended would in two years pay the national debt. It is $300,000 more than is required to support the national government, all the State, county and city governments, the army and navy, and all the public schools in all the States of the Union. There are 174,000 licensed saloons in the United States. Divide the $800,000,000 by the number of saloons, and it appears that $4,500 is the average taken by each saloon in a year. Add to this the secret distillations and importations, and the figures of Judge Hargraves are not far out of the way—$5,000—which, in California, would show an annual expenditure in support of the gin industry of $43,290,000. To this add the consequent expenses of this industry and it is clear that the gin fiend costs the people not less than $100,000,000 a year.—S. F. Argonaut.

Stampeding Cattle.

I went up to visit a herd owned by Mr. Reeve, of Minnesota, and the day being cold we took an ambulance with a top. For some reason or other, the cattle became frightened at my conveyance, and resented my bringing it among them. In all their lives they had never seen an ambulance with a white top, and a railroad could not have made a greater impression on a Dutch farmer. They would have none of it. A dozen cows and calves ran away, bellowing like mad, and a few fat steers came up and shook their heads menacingly at us, but trotted away, their big sides shaking with beef. We laughed heartily and were enjoying the commotion our arrival had created when we saw the herder coming on his horse at full speed and firing his revolver to attract attention. He pointed to some timber near by and we understood. Whipping up the mules we got into timber as quickly as possible, and just in time, for here came the herd, shaking the earth with their tread. A thousand maddened cattle surged around us. In the timber we were safe but if not we had been crushed in an instant and every mule disemboweled by the horns of the herd. It took some time to quiet them down and induce them to yield to the authority of the whip of the herder. One old bull, who knew perfectly well that it was all right, kept up a display of fight, and would not stop bellowing till I told the herder to give him a shot from his revolver through the brisket, when he trotted away. We sneaked the ambulance off under the the hills and got it out of sight.—Gen. J. B. Bishon.

THE phenomena of mind in the animal kingdom are just now receiving the earnest attention of scientific men. It is inferred that the author in this instance will conform to the theory which Darwin had years ago made prominent in his published works. Man is the product of evolution, both as to his physical nature and as to his mental constitution. The author first lays the foundation for his theory in this book of facts. Aside from this theory of evolution, these incidents and illustrations are so well classified and so well set forth, that they will enlist the interest of the general reader, who has any love for any part of the animal kingdom. A single paragraph is here cited on the emotional phase of life in the horse: "Another curious emotional feature in the horse is the liability of all the other mental faculties in the animal to become abandoned to that of terror. For I think I am right in saying that the horse is the only animal which, under the influence of fear, loses the possession of every other sense in one mad and mastering desire to run. With its entire mental life thus overwhelmed by the flood of a single emotion, the horse, not only loses, as other animals lose, 'the presence of mind' or a due balance among the distinctively intellectual faculties, but even the avenues of special sense become stopped, so that the wholly demented animal may run headlong, and at terrific speed, against a stone wall. I have known a hare come to grief in a similar fashion when hotly pursued by a dog; this, however, was clearly owing to the hare looking behind instead of before, in a manner not, under the circumstances, unwise; but as I have said, there is no animal except the horse whose whole phychology is liable to be completely dominated by a single emotion. As for its other emotions, the horse is certainly an affectionate animal, pleased at being petted, jealous of companions receiving favor, greatly enjoying play with others of its kind, and also the sport of the hunting field.....I myself had a horse which was very clever at slipping his halter after he knew that the coachman was in bed. He would then draw out the two sticks in the pipe of the oat bin, so as to let the oats run down from the bin about the stable floor. Of course he must have observed that this was the manner in which the coachman obtained the oats, and desiring to obtain them, did what he observed to be required. Similarly, on other occasions, he used to turn the water tap to obtain a drink, and pull the window cord to open the window on hot nights."

THE Carson and Colorado is experiencing a succession of mishaps. Not quite a week had elapsed before there came another general tangling up of rolling stock. The last accident occurred at Belleville on Wednesday evening. The down train was pulling out of the station, when it ran upon a switch which had been left open. As a consequence the engine left the track, as also did three freight cars. The wreck presented a deplorable sight—one overturned engine, lying on its side and completely obstructing the main track, broken and twisted rails, rods and braces, and a general scene of demolition. The ore train, then waiting at the Junction, was sent for, and its crew assisted in righting matters as speedily as possible. After laboring industriously for three hours it was found that the engine was so seriously disabled that it could not proceed further on the trip. Accordingly, a new engine was telegraphed for from Hawthorne, arriving upon the scene of disaster about 3 o'clock on Thursday morning. The wreck had been cleared away sufficiently and the train left for Bishop Creek about seven hours late. —Candelaria True Fissure, April 21.

"COME," said a Cincinnati man, showing a Chicago friend the institutions of the city, "come, let us go and see the Widows' Home." "Not much," cried the terrified visitor. "I saw a widow home once, and it cost me $16,000 for alleged breach of promise. No, sir. Send the widows home in a hack."

DURING the past year the United States lost several eminent citizens, among them being Thurlow Weed, William E. Dodge, Peter Cooper, Marshal Jewell, Edwin E. Morgan, Alexander H. Stephens and Timothy O. Howe. Some of these belonged to a class of citizens far above the average of those who are to-day coming to the front in public affairs—men who have to recommendations except such as belong to well-filled money bags.—S. F. Bee.

THE STATE MINERAL EXPOSITION.

The exhibition of California and Pacific Coast minerals, as proposed by Prof. Hanks, is taking form and may prove a success. At a recent meeting in San Francisco an executive committee was organized to arrange the programme of financial support. Messrs. Melville Atwood, L. L. Bullock, W. M. Bunker, Wm. T. Coleman, James V. Coleman, C. O'Connor, Jacob Z. Davis, John Daggett, Warren B. Ewer, S. Heydenfeldt, Jr., C. A. Hooper, Geo. T. Mayre, Jr., W. H. Mills, Almarin B. Paul, I. M. Scott, J. R. Scupham and Chas. M. Tyler compose the committee. A circular letter addressed to the Board of Supervisors of Inyo county sets forth the object of the exposition, and asks the county to be represented. They propose, First—That the citizens of the city and county of San Francisco (and liberal minded citizens of the State who may so desire) raise all the funds required to project and carry out a Free Pacific Coast Mineral Exposition, and make the display one of unequalled attraction and interest to all who may visit the city. Second—That the respective counties, and the citizens thereof, be earnestly solicited to contribute the sum of one hundred dollars—by appropriation or by private subscription—which may be sent to Lloyd Tevis, Esq., treasurer of the Committee, to go into what will be styled 'The County Case Fund of the State Mining Bureau and Museum,' to provide neat and uniform cases which will bear the names of the respective counties so contributing."

Several "whereas" premises are incorporated in the address, followed by a general conclusion "that the main thoughts aimed at and brought out will afford an ample incentive to earnest and practical effort, and that opportunity will be furnished for one of the most important displays the State has ever made, we submit this circular, hoping that what it asks for and aims at will meet with your approbation and receive your hearty co-operation."

Inyo could make a magnificent showing at the proposed exhibit, in a great array of ores and minerals; it is, in fact, now represented in the State Museum by a fine collection. The State of California and San Francisco mining capitalists are to be commiserated if the matter of providing suitable show cases cannot be accomplished. That city, by reason of being the grand depot of supplies, reaps a direct benefit from every dollar produced by mining in this State. Yet, from this, the struggling miner is expected to contribute his finest ore specimens and back them up with gold dollars so that San Francisco can exhibit them. This wealthy committee has evidently labored hard and brought forth a mouse, when it is suggested that each county, as such, appropriate $100 for a State show case. Even if they had the legal power there is not a Board of Supervisors in California which will or would do it.

But above all others the counties of Inyo and Mono can not afford to miss this great opportunity of exhibiting their minerals and attracting capital to open their mines. If there is a particle of life or public spirit left let us organize local committee, raise some money from general subscriptions and see that a decent and creditable representation is made.

THE old-fashioned system of memorizing from text-books is now attacked with great vigor in many quarters. Speaking on this subject, the Philadelphia Times says: "There should be a great deal more oral instruction and great deal less of text-books. Especially should there be a less stringent and exacting rule in regard to memorizing from text-books. A teacher who cannot teach history or geography without requiring a pupil to answer questions in the exact language of the text-book is not fit to be a teacher—is, in fact, utterly unfit. Some teachers exact from pupils a degree of accuracy and verbal memorizing in this regard which the teachers could not attain to, and which not a single member of the School Board could reach, even if they had to be 'kept in after school' every day in the year."

IF the present state of affairs continues, it may not be long before the United States will herself be needing relief from Ireland's paupers, of whom England is ridding herself. This nation professes to be the refuge for the oppressed and downtrodden of all lands, but it should not allow itself to be made a poor-house for the convenience of Governments too heartless to care for their own sick and indigent.

THE jury in the case of Coombs, on trial for the murder of Ross, at Carson, failed to agree and were discharged. The 601 failed to get in their work, and Ormsby county is about $2,000 out for expenses so far.

ANOTHER REPLY.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT: As you have allowed communications in regard to "Morals in Teaching" in your last issue and the one preceding it, please allow a small space to me, to whom the question of morals in teaching may be of more vital import than to either of the writers of the articles that have already appeared, viz: a parent. After a careful perusal of "Morals in Teaching," I am at a loss to know wherein "Teacher" has found a sentence, a phrase or a word from which he could have derived the impression that the writer would mix religious creeds and the improvement of the mental faculties in our present school system. He seems to have the impression that morality and religion only exist in sectarian tenets. This is an erroneous impression, for both morality and religion do exist outside of any peculiar religious sect or sectarian opinion or doctrine. And to the extent that both do exist independent of sectarian creeds, should both be, and to that extent both are intended to be, taught in our public schools.

One who has been instrumental in perfecting our present school system, says: "A brilliant and cultivated intellect may dazzle and attract, only to poison and destroy, unless chastened and controlled by right heart-training." Another, who has spent years of a precious life in endeavoring to perfect our school system and elevate the profession, remarks: "It is often said that 'knowledge is power,' and as truly that knowledge, without principle to regulate it, may make a man a powerful villian. It is all important then that our youth should early receive such moral training as shall make it safe to give them knowledge." True education is "the proper culture of all the faculties of the heart and intellect, and the right development of the physical powers;" and of these educators say that "the first-named are most essential, and any system of education which neglects to provide for this is sadly defective." Fowler, in his work on "Self-Culture," says: "The harmonious action of all the faculties constitutes a fundamental condition alike of perfection of character and happiness of life;" and further says that "the most effectual way of subduing the dormant propensities is to array the moral sentiments against them." Now, as a Nation, proud of our Republic and her free institutions, and anxious for their continued existence and prosperity, have we not a right to expect and demand that the teachers in our public schools shall so educate those under their charge that the knowledge they impart may be used for the greatest good? As parents desiring perfection of character in and the happiness of our offspring, have we not a right to insist upon it that they be educated so that they may attain to them? Is there anything in our public school system or the laws governing it that can be mistaken by the dullest or construed by the most prejudiced as prohibiting such education? "Teacher" says: "The most important part of the school law denies the right of teaching sectarianism at all." Admitted. Right that it should, and admitted to be right by every mind unprejudiced by sectarian creeds; but there is nothing, not a sentence, a line or a word that prohibits the teaching of morality or even that higher religion—above all sectarian creeds or dogmas common alike to Jew or Christian, common alike to Catholic or Protestant, and not denied by the infidel—that belief in the being and perfections of God, His almighty power and in men's accountableness to Him. "We live in a Christian land. It is our glory, if not our boast, that we have descended from an ancestry that feared God and reverenced His word. Very justly we attribute our superiority as a people over those who dwell in the darker portions of the world to our purer faith, derived from that precious fountain of truth—the Bible." "Very justly, too, does the patriot and philanthropist rely upon our faith and practices as a Christian people for the permanence of our free institutions and our unequaled social privileges." No candid mind will deny the truth of the above quotation from one whose whole life's work was to elevate and perfect our present school system. Is it possible that "Teacher" can ease himself for a moment of the responsibility which to a degree rests upon him by reason of his position between the pupil and the nation, the parent and the child, to guide and direct the unformed minds intrusted to him to that higher moral and religious life so necessary to the happiness of the individual, and the permanence and prosperity of our Government and her free institutions? Can he for a moment think that the law forbidding the teaching of sectarianism prohibits him or even releases him from pointing his pupils to that God whom we as a nation acknowledge in our public acts; that God to whom we, the people of the State of California in convention assembled, are grateful for the blessings of freedom; that God common to Jew and Christian, to whom the vilest sinner in times of physical danger turns and cries in piteous tones for mercy? I am charitable enough to think he does not; but if he does, may we not attribute to it and like opinions why "Our age is not marked by a moral tone?" He has not advanced a single argument to prove that the teachers in our public schools are released from the responsibility that we insist rests upon them in regard to teaching, by precept and example, morality in our schools. "At Oberlin a man is graduated. * * Out of the continual stream of religious piety came the greatest infidel of the age." Does "Teacher" generally take the exception to prove the falsity of the rule? Out from among hundreds of noble Christian men, whose lives stand and will ever stand as monuments in praise of the training there received, to take one man, the exception, to prove what—that the efforts put forth by the faculty at Oberlin were valueless, or that there may be exceptions to all rules? Or does he think that morals cannot be taught, as he would teach for the improvement of the mental faculties, without stuffing the moral code continually into the pupil? As a teacher he knows that stuffing of any kind, whether morally, mentally or physically, is injudicious and hurtful. He says: "Religion rules the schools of Spain." Let me correct the assertion, which is calculated to mislead. A religious sect, blinded by sectarian prejudice and misled by sectarian creeds, rules the schools of Spain—a sect which he quotes Father Gleason as saying "the public schools are destroying."

"Now, after so many years of thralldom the schools are free" from sectarian influences and prejudices and let them so remain is the earnest desire of every true citizen of our glorious Republic, and of every patron of our schools unbiased by sectarian feeling. But teachers whom we employ to instruct our youth are not freed, either by law or public sentiment, from the responsibility that always has rested and does now rest upon them to train and direct our children in such a manner that they may reach to higher moral and intellectual standing than that attained by us. And "for the sake of our posterity and the welfare of our Government," may they never be released.

PARENT.

TROUBLE seems to be brewing between China and Japan, and both Governments are increasing their armies and navies. It is to be hoped the struggle, if one does come, will be such a hot one that the Flowery Kingdom may have to call to its aid all the wandering sons now on the soil of America.

Is Alum Poisonous?

Dr. Hall's Journal of Health, in a recent issue says: "This question has caused a good deal of discussion. Alum is used by many bakers to whiten their bread, enabling them to use an inferior flour. It is more extensively employed as a cheap substitute for cream of tartar in the manufacture of baking powders. It has not been considered immediately dangerous; although if continued it induces dyspepsia and other obstinate constipation. But the fact that many cases of poisoning have occurred from baking powders which contained alum, puts the question in a more serious aspect, and prudent people will exercise caution in the selection of baking powders.

"Under what conditions, then, does this substance—formerly used only for mechanical or medicinal purposes—become poisonous? They are certainly obscure, and at present we can only surmise what they may be. We suspect that the cause exists in the individual poisoned; some peculiarity of the constitution producing a morbid change in the secretions of the stomach, with which the alum combines and forms an active poison; or the secretions may be healthy but in unusual proportions, and that these less or greater proportions, in combination with alum, constitute a poison.

"For example, two parts of mercury and two parts of chlorine form calomel, which is not poisonous; but change the proportions to one part of mercury and two parts of chlorine, and we get corrosive sublimate, which is a deadly poison.

"Then, again, we know nothing of the causes of constitutional peculiarities. Why is it that one person can eat all kinds of green fruits and vegetables with impunity, while the same course might cost another individual his life? One person can handle poison ivy and sumac without being in the least affected; another is poisoned if he approaches to within ten feet of them. Out of a family residing in a malarial district, some of the members will suffer half the year with fever and ague, while the others will enjoy excellent health during the entire year. Foods that are wholesome to some persons are actually poisonous to others. This is especially true of some kinds of fish. There is no safety in taking alum into the stomach, as it is shown to be always injurious, and often dangerous. Baking powders properly compounded, and containing pure cream of tartar instead of alum are more convenient than yeast; and bread and pastry made with them are just as wholesome, and far more palatable. We are in entire sympathy with the manufacturers of the Royal Baking Powder—who commenced the war against the use of alum in baking powders.

"Before committing ourselves, however, we made tests of a sufficient number of baking powders to satisfy ourselves that the substitution of alum for cream of tartar in their composition has not been over-estimated, while a careful examination of the Royal Baking Powder confirms our belief that Dr. Mott, the Government Chemist when he singled out and commended this powder for its wholesomeness, did it wholly in the interests of the public.

"We do not hesitate to say that the Royal Baking Powder people deserve the gratitude of the community whom they are endeavoring to protect.

"Will not some prominent manufacturer of pure Candies follow their example, and expose the secrets of a business that is doing untold mischief to little children."

FURTHER particulars of the late overturning of the Carson and Colorado south bound passenger train are given by the Hawthorne Bulletin. It appears that as the train was rounding a curve the trucks of a new box car, which was coupled next to the engine, refused to turn on their centers sufficiently to fit the track, and the wheels, climbing the outer rail, suddenly threw the car over on its side. The couplings did not break, and the engine was pulled off by the car. Both rolling off the bank, pulled one car off after another until the whole train was laid over on its side, just as though it had been laid over to make room for the passage of another train, and ready to be rolled back and start again on its journey as soon as the track was cleared. Fortunately, with the exception of a few unimportant scratches no one was injured. Master Mechanic Quinn immediately took a force of men to the scene of the disaster, and brought the wrecked train in, which was sent to Carsos for repairs.

IN deciding a contested land case, the Secretary of the Interior makes the following definition of the word "settlement," as used in the Pre-emption Act: "Residence is not essential to a pre-emption settlement. A settler is one who does some act on the land indicative of an intention to claim the benefits of the law. Although the erection of a house and residence thereon may manifest such purpose, in connection with other acts, yet there may be a valid settlement without residence. To fell trees, to plow or fence the land, or lay the foundation of a house, or to do any other act which clearly manifests a purpose to convert the land into a home, will, if followed by residence, give the party a pre-emption right which relates back to its first act. No definite time within which residence must commence is fixed by law. It must, however, be within such reasonable time as to manifest a purpose to comply with the requirements of the law and to retain and not abandon the tract. In such case his right will not be forfeited,"

A WOMAN was the only passenger in a Montana stage except her baby, whom she wrapped in a fur cloak, leaving herself unprotected from the zero temperature. The driver saw that she was benumbed and would freeze to death unless roused to violent exercise. He dragged her from the coach and left her by the roadside. "Oh, my baby!" she cried. The driver cracked whip. The stage flew over the snow with the woman running after. The race was kept up for nearly two miles when the driver took the mother in again and wrapped his coat around her. He had warmed her blood and saved her life.

IT may be of interest to persons who receive, by mistake or otherwise, letters not intended for them, to know that they should take a second thought before breaking them open, and read Section 1,224 of the Postal laws of 1879, wherein it is prescribed that the penalty attached to the act of opening by any person of a letter received from a Postoffice and not addressed to such a person, but intended for another, shall be a fine of not over $500, or imprisonment at hard labor for not over one year, or both.

IT is charged that not a penny of the $200,000 contributed in America for relief of sufferers by the Rhine floods, and forwarded to the President of the Reichstag for distribution, had, up to the 22d of March, been applied to the purpose for which it was designed.

TWO RICH SPECIMENS.—Phil. Cartier presented yesterday to the Independence mineral collection, two of the finest specimens of gold quartz that it has been our fortune to see for a long time. The pieces are six by four inches, and two inches thick, composed of a whitish gray quartz somewhat stained with iron oxide. One surface of each piece is literally covered with fine grains and flakes of bright free gold, which does the eyes good to look at. The specimens are from the Golden Star mine, which is situated in the Inyo's nearly opposite Independence. Mr. Cartier has been engaged during the prst two months in sinking a shaft on the vein, which stands nearly vertical, and shows an average width of twenty inches. The shaft has reached a depth of 115 feet, from which continuous pay ore has been taken out. The specimens above mentioned were taken from the bottom. A drift has been started on the vein, which at the present time has only reached a length of eighteen feet, but all in rich ore. About fifteen tons of ore has been taken out of the shaft that will average $100 per ton. The Golden Star is proving to be a mine of considerable value. The showing in this mine proves that it is only necessary to go to work on some of the many fine prospects in the Union district to get some good mines. With one other exception, Cartier is the only man holding claims in Union district who has had the pluck to expend some of his muscle to find out if his mine was of any value. There are fifty claims in Mazourka cañon that have a better showing on the surface than the Golden Star had when Cartier commenced work, but mines will not develope themselves, and those who expect to reap any benefit from their claims, must take the pick and drill and find out what is under their surface croppings. The railroad now offers every inducement to go to work, for the miner can now sell his ore for money, and with the proceeds he can prove if his mine is valuable or not. Miners in this section have had too little confidence in their claims. They sink a pot-hole five feet deep, and if they don't find six feet of solid ore assaying $100 a ton, they cry "Oh, there's nothing here!" and they go off to Calico, New Mexico, or Alaska, and leave better mines at home than they find elsewhere. There has been too much of this in Inyo. If the mining claims in the Inyo range, showing such fine prospects as they do, had been located in some new and distant country, every one of them would have a hole one hundred feet deep on it in a short time, and a number of valuable mines proved up.

MIKE BONNER.—A late issue of the Candelaria True Fissure contained an article saying that Mike Bonner, a former employe of the Northern Belle mine, had perished somewhere on the deserts of this county. In copying the article we expressed a decided doubt as to its correctness, and now Mike comes to the fore as follows: "CERRO GORDO, April 18, 1883.—Mr. Editor: The inclosed item having come to the eyes of the one itemized, I wish it to be distinctly understood that I am still alive and hearty as any old mountaineer would care to be. I have decided objections to having my obituary published before I 'obituate,' although it enables me to know what people say about me after I am dead. This does not lessen the annoyance I feel at being addressed as 'The Dead Man,' 'The Ghost,' etc., and the wide berth given me on the mountain trails by people, lest they should jostle me and be arrested for 'shoving the queer.' Yours, etc., MIKE BONNER."

SERIOUS LOSSES BY FIRE.—The Bishop Creek country during last week was visited by a small cyclone of fire. During the high wind of last Saturday the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hutchison—one of the finest houses in the valley—caught fire from a disjointed stovepipe between the ceiling and roof, and was entirely destroyed, with all its contents. The loss amounts to some $6,000, there being no insurance. It was only with the greatest exertions that the residence of T. K. Hutchison near by was saved. Other fires occurred during the week: G. M. Clarke lost his barn and contents of agricultural implements; Thomas Williams lost a small dwelling on his place, and James Shaw had a large hay stack burned.

COURT.—The Superior Court, lawyers, jurymen and witnesses, have been absorbed nearly all week in trying the suit for damages brought by Ezra Goodale against Robert Arnold on account of some water question. The general jangle was relieved slightly yesterday by one witness, who swore positively that the Sierras were actually the White Mountain or Inyo Range. As a matter of solid import he also lucidly remarked: "I destructed the ditch; the waters became deranged and flew over the land."

A CORRECTION.—Dr. and Mrs. W. H. George desire THE INDEPENDENT to emphatically deny the rumor circulated that they intended returing from Bishop Creek and re-locating in Independence. The Doctor says: "I am well content with Bishop Creek and my business prospects, and have no thought of changing. Much as we think of our Independence friends, we must consider our pecuniary interests before indulging in the pleasure of returning to them."

AGENTS.—Mr. S. G. Sneden at Bishop Creek, Crittenden Hampton at Big Pine and J. J. Stewart at Lone Pine are duly authorized agents for the County Business Directory. They will deliver copies to subscribers, collect for advertisements, and have extra copies on hand for sale. The copies on paper are just the thing to send abroad, as a compliment to friends and for the good of Inyo and her business men.

SOUTHERN INYO.

[Special Correspondence of THE INDEPENDENT.]

LOOKOUT, April 24.

Someone at Darwin last January proposed to bottle up some of the cold weather for Summer use; but from present appearances there will be no demand for it, this Summer at least. If this thing keeps on, there will be no need of sending parties out in search of the north pole—it will find its way here of its own accord. It began to snow here to-day at early daylight and continued for several hours, and as the clouds lift, the Panamint Range, to the east and north of the valley, and the region about Lee District, as well as the Argus Range, appear to be covered with a "beautiful white mantle." Those are the usual words used, I believe, upon such occasions as this—an occurrence so seldom seen by the denizens of this burg that one would think Nature herself had reformed and joined some cold-water society and thought to initiate us all. At least it has proved a good reminder of other days, days of our youth, when sleigh-rides, Christmas bells, coasting, buffalo robes and pop corn were the order of the day.

To add to the solemnity of the occasion, and while the "storm was at its height" (another quotation), the old Modock office building caught fire and soon became a thing of the past. It was one of the most useful structures on the hill, but as there are many other buildings to take its place, the loss will scarcely be felt. And the old adage, true in all cases—"Where there is a loss to one there is gain to another"—is exemplified here: If the Modock Company have lost the building they will no longer have to pay taxes upon it. This thought has occurred from the fact that our County Assessor, J. C. Irwin, was paying us a visit and, of course, as usual, mixes up business with pleasure. However, I don't think he took much pleasure in seeing the county's taxes going to waste.

F. Fitzgerald got his pipe repaired and started up his furnace on the 21st, but had to close down again yesterday, owing to the leakage of his new water-jacket. This will cause another suspension of furnace work for several days, or until one of the old water-jackets can be repaired. The new jacket was a new departure from the make of ordinary furnaces, so long and so successfully used both here and in Darwin, and although its form and capacity was all that could be desired, it proved defective in one very important matter—a portion of the riveting of the plates were left exposed to heat and unprotected by water, thereby causing a leakage that chilled the furnace. Anyone acquainted with smelting knows that accidents of this kind incur a heavy loss and, while they embarrass the miner, reflect but little to the credit of the manufacturer who may have so poor judgment or forethought as to send such a piece of work from his shop as this new jacket has proved to be. But "Where there is a will there is a way," and Fitzgerald never tires. He will put some twelve or fifteen men at work in one of his own mines—the Black Warrior—and will take out ore while the repairs are going on, thus adding materially to his run. Davis, teamster, is now hauling wood and coal, adding to the supply already on hand. TRANSIENT.

BELL'S MILL.—A notice, which should have appeared last week but for an almost inexcusable oversight, was received from the Oak Creek Flouring Mills—to the effect that all parties wanting any work done before the first of June should have the grain delivered there during the past week. The proprietor has a great work on hand preparing for this season's crop, involving complete and extensive remodeling and repairs, and during the meantime work will necessarily be shut off.

FINE STOCK.—Through the enterprise of Mr. Wm. Rowan the stockraisers of Inyo are to reap some solid benefits. He has imported from a celebrated breding farm in Illinois three magnificent Norman Percheron stallions. One of them—"Sherry"—cost $1,800. All are noble animals and of perfect disposition.

NO REPORT.—It is probable that the viewers appointed to locate the new road and bridge from Bishop to the Railroad have got through with their work and come to some conclusion on the much discussed question, but so far we have no report as to their findings.

THE BALL.—Society people generally, dancers of both young and uncertain age, are unanimous in a verdict to the effect that the ball and supper given by the lodge of Odd Fellows, on Thursday evening, was a success—very creditable to the management and enjoyable to all participants.

RAISING A CALF.—Barney McClusky and Sheriff Steve Gregg are accredited with having raised a calf at Big Pine—"raised" it into the buggy, as it were, whereat Judge Campbell filed a protest. For particulars see illustrated edition of the Big Pine Gazette.

LOST.—The finder of a small cameo watch charm, lost somewhere on the streets of Independence, can get a reward of $2 50 by returning it to Under Sheriff Crough.

Then How Did the Story Start?

FISH SPRINGS, April 22.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT: Sir—You will please to correct your mistake in THE INYO of Saturday, April 7th, stating that G. L. Cornell had shot and wounded Thos. Douglas, as it is untrue. Please to correct it, and oblige.

MRS. ADDIE JONES.

THEY say down East that the Maine Legislature, in its desire to prevent cruelty to old, maimed and disabled animals, passed a bill which authorizes societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals to put to death all such animals. The bill then defines the word animals to mean every living creature.

Fence or No Fence—Revival of An Old Issue.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT—I desire, with your permission, to say a few words about the Fence or No Fence law; more in the hope to gain information than with any idea that I can say anything to interest the public. I understand a law was passed by the Legislature of California in 1873-4 providing that persons cultivating the soil should be protected from the inroads of horses and cattle although no fence was around their ground. Now, it appears to me only right that as Uncle Sam has, in his generosity, given to every American citizen the right to homestead or pre-empt land that such land should be protected. Those owning cattle or horses have the same right to pre-empt land as those who have nothing but their muscle and energy, and more, they have the privilege to use the public domain to pasture their stock, and I think it nothing but right and just that they should keep their stock off private lands belonging to other parties; for the presumption is that they having property in horses or cattle have the means to fence if they so desire, or, herd their stock if they prefer; while he with only his lahd may not have the means to fence it, and as his land will not damage the man who has stock why should the man with stock damage the man who has none? There are thousands of acres of land in Owens Valley suitable for agriculture, and many poor men could make a good living cultivating it, if they were not afraid of having their crops trampled and eaten up by other peoples cattle. You often hear the assertion that the cattle men pay large taxes to support the county and that the poor rancher pays comparative little; very true, but is that any reason why the the poor man should not have a chance to increase the value of his property, and then he would pay large taxes to the support of the county. And I think that as there would be a large number of the latter class the aggregate would be greater than as at present from a few large cattle owners. In a few years the cultivators of the soil would have means to bring in ditches and thus increase the area of agricultural land; and then if they should become possessed of cattle and horses they would be able to fence them in so that they would not damage their neighbors. Now, if the poor rancher be compelled to fence in his vegetables or grain, why should not the rich cattle man be also compelled to fence in his cattle?

A Ghost Story.

There is a genuine supernatural sensation at the Charonnat mine, according to the stories current around town, and which the gentle reader can accept for what he or she thinks they are worth. As the talk goes, the bell in the hoisting works jangles like wild at odd hours of the nights when no human being is near the wire, and a ghastly apparition stalks around the premises. The workmen hurl picks, shovels and other missiles at the strange visitor, but they make no more impression on it than a butcher knife on a ray of sunshine, if passed through it. Wednesday night, it is solemnly asserted, one of the men mustered up his courage sufficiently to seize the spook, and although the latter immediately vanished, there was left in each of his hands a large lock of long white hair. One mill-man that is on the night shift has taken his shotgun out there with him and proposes to see how a few ounces of buckshot will affect the mystery, if it fools around there any more.—Nevada Transcript.

If you are feeding the baby be sure that the little treasure has sweet, pure and rich milk. Sometimes we are furnished milk by the milk vendors which is good, except that part of the cream has been removed. It is very dangerous, as is shown by the report of the New York City Board of Health last year 17,520 children under five years of age died in that city. Of this number 13,462 were under two years and 9,867 under one year. The number of these deaths resulting from diarrhœal diseases was 3,479. This great mortality is largely due to cholera infantum and other complaints brought on by skim milk. It takes a certain amount of fat to secure digestion. A grown person eats enough fat in other articles of food to aid in digesting skim milk; but with infants, who live almost wholly on milk and eat no other fats, skim milk congulates in the stomach and produces disease and speedy death. There is no difference of opinion on ths subject among competent and disinterested authorities. The infants die mostly in the months when the skim milk turns stale quickly.

A Citizen of Paducah, Ky., recently became posessed of a litter of pups of an utterly worthless breed, but being a humane man, was averse to slaughtering them. So he proposed to the Captain of a steamer that he should take them up the Tennessee and try to give them away to the denizens of that region. The Captain assented and told the owner to put them in the basket, cover the same with mosquito-netting and invoice them to some person in Florence, Ala., at a value of $25 each. This was done, and the basket of pups placed at the foot of the cabin stairway, where they were surrounded by an admiring throng, the Captain occasionally speaking a good word for them. Before the boat reached Johnsonville every pup in the basket had been stolen and spirited away by the admirers of choice dog-flesh on board. Why is it that horse jockeys and dog fanciers are so tricky?

Lawyer Biglow's claim for one-half of the money bestowed by a patriotic people on the wife and baby of Sergeant Mason reminds the Boston Herald of a story. In the first place, Biglow's charges for the past and future, amount to exactly $3,500, which is, curiously enough, the sum that Mrs. Mason is known to have saved. Now for the anecdote of Mr. Choate, the great Lufus Choate of the Boston Bar. One of his clerks performed a certain service for a client, and when Mr. Choate asked how much he had received as a fee, the reply was "two dollars." "Two dollars!" exclaimed Choate; "why that was not enough. Why did you not get more?" "I took every penny the man had," was the meek answer. Then Choate ran his hands through his curly locks and said: "Young man, you did the best you could under the circumstances, and your conduct in the affair has been strictly professional."

The Nevada City Board of Education recently made an order that no pupil should be admitted to the public schools without a physician's certificate to the effect that the bearer has been vaccinated within the past eight years. A pert and pretty girl of sixteen presented herself at school without a certificate. When the teacher inquired for the certificate, the girl saucily displayed a shapely limb, on which there was an unmistakable vaccination mark, and asked, "How's that for a certificate?" The teacher thought it a very good one, and admitted the girl.

Open restaurants make a feature of all Mexican towns. In the larger cities they open at night under the great "portales," or covered streets, which almost invariably surround the plazas; at any time from sundown to the following sunrise one may get there at a very good meal of fried chicken, tortillas and coffee for a sum varying from 12 to 15 cents; while a less ample meal can be had for sums ranging from 3 cents upward. Mexicans, who must, live at an astonishingly small cost.

An experimental farm and hospital for the treatment of domestic animals is to be established near Washington by the Bureau of Agriculture. It is designed to investigate especially the most common forms of contagious diseases of cattle and horses.

The penal code in New York providing punishment for attempts at suicide has been in operation nearly four months, but statistics which have just been gathered show that the act has not been at all instrumental in diminishing the number of suicides.

John Duffy, a laborer at Stockton, was bitten on the ear by a centipede last Tuesday. He did nothing for the bite and his face swelled rapidly and to an alarming size. The man was placed in a hospital and it is thought he will recover.

Curious Use of Eggs.

Comparatively few persons are probably aware of the fact that eggs are used to any extent except as an article of food. Yet such is the case, and there is an establishment in this city—one of three in the United States—which utilizes large numbers daily. A curious reporter of the Union recently paid a visit to the Albumen Paper Company's works on Water Street. The first sight which met his eyes was an immense basket of eggs. The reporter made known his wishes to a representative of the company, who kindly, in answer to numerous questions, gave all the information in his power. As above stated, there are only two other albumen paper factories in the country, one being located in Camden, N. J., and one at Philadelphia. These three firms supply the 7,000 photographers in the United States with the peculiar kind of paper necessary for their business. The manufacturing season begins in the latter part of February, and continues until nearly the first of the following December. During this season the Rochester Company uses on an average about 200 dozen eggs (2,400) per day, which makes a total of about 50,000 dozen (600,000 eggs) per year. Grocers in the surrounding towns furnish the greater part of the eggs, which must be perfectly fresh.

Some idea of the extent of the business may be obtained from the fact that paper sufficient to print 200,000 photographs has been prepared in one day. The paper used is of the finest quality, and is imported from France. The reporter was shown into a room where a young lady was busily engaged in breaking eggs and separating the whites from the yolks. The whites are prepared by a chemical process and then spread over the surface of the paper, leaving it glossy as seen in the photograph. Noticing that the yolks were also carefully preserved, the reporter inquired if it was possible to utilize them, and was answered in the affirmative. They are nearly all sent to Johnstown and Gloversville, where the glovers use them for dressing kid. The skin and yolks are placed together in a trough and tramped upon with the feet. A finish is thus imparted to the skins which is obtainable in no other way. Information was volunteered to the effect that a large number of the dog-skin gloves and kid shoes worn so extensively are nothing more than sheep or calfskin dressed with the yolk of eggs. Colonel S. S. Eddy's morocco factory is the only establishment in this city using the yolks in dressing leather. Mr. Eddy said he also used the whites to some extent, but only in the finishing of the roan leather.—Rochester Union.

NOTED criminals in America have their photographs taken and hung in the "Rogues Gallery." In China they take impressions of the thumbs instead. On the ball of the thumb, and of the fingers also, may be seen a kind of spiral formed of fine grooves in the skin. These lines often run into each other, and it is claimed that the thumbs on each hand perfectly match each other, but those of two individuals are never precisely alike. So, when a Chinaman falls into the hands of native police the first thing done is to take an impression of his thumb by dipping it into printers' ink and then pressing it on a piece of white paper. This is stored away to be brought forth if the man is arrested again and anything is needed to prove his identity. Queer people are the Chinese.

THE Detroit Free Press says that a plot was once formed to abduct David Davis and hold him for a ransom, but the plotters found that it would take a six-horse team and a caravan wagon, and they gave it up on the ground of economy.

THE magnitude of the pearl fisheries on the coast of Lower California is not extensively known. There are not less than 1,000 divers constantly employed, and some of the finest and choicest pearls extant come from those fisheries.

Nature in Siberia.

"The history of animal and vegetable life on the tundra," says our author, "is a very curious one. For eight months out of the twelve every trace of vegetable life is completely hidden under a blanket of thick snow, which effectually covers every plant and bush—trees there there are none to hide. During six months of this time, at least, animal life is only traceable by the foot-prints of a reindeer or a fox on the snow, or by the occasional appearance of a raven or snow-owl wandering above the limits of forest growth, where it has retired for the winter. For two months in mid-winter the sun never rises above the horizon, and the white snow reflects only the fitful light of the moon, the stars or the aurora boreallis. Early in February the sun only just peeps upon the scene for a few minutes at noon, and then retires. Day by day he prolongs his visit more and more, until February, March, April and May have passed, and continuous night has become continuous day. Early in June the sun just touches the horizon at midnight, but does not set any more for some time. At midnight the sun's rays are hot enough to blister the skin, but they glance harmlessly from the snow, and for a few days you have the anomaly of unbroken day in mid-winter.

"Then comes the south wind, and often rain, and the great event of the year takes place—the ice on the great rivers breaks up, and the blanket of snow melts away. The black earth absorbs the heat of the never-setting sun; quietly but swiftly vegetable life awakens from its long sleep, and for three months a hot summer produces a brilliant alpine flora, like an English flower garden run wild, and a profusion of alpine fruit, diversified only by storms from the north, which sometimes for a day or two bring cold and rain down from the Artic ice."—Chambers's Journal.

FRUIT-RIPENING by electric light is one of the newest experiments of electricity. The London Gardeners' Magazine says: The employment of the electric light in plant-growing may be said to progress steadily, because the possibility of quickening production by this means has been demonstrated, and several kinds of fruit have been brought to apparent perfection under the direction of Dr. Siemens. But hitherto "apparent perfection" is the only point attained; the perfection demanded by the palate is still wanting, and there appears no prospect whatever of its attainment. The strawberries grown last year were pretty, but worthless. The melons Mr. Buchanan, gardener to Dr. Siemens, has ripened lately and presented to the notice of the scientific committee of the R. H. S., are of such poor quality that to render them eatable they would need to be strongly flavored with condiments, as the things called melons were in the time of Queen Elizabeth. But the fact remains that the electric light is in some degree suitable to supplement the light of the sun in plant-growing, and there may arise opportunities for its useful and profitable application, for there are many things besides strawberries and melons the world is in want of, and will gladly accept when the gardener can produce them.

WE know a good deal about work—honest, square, steady, effective work—but about overwork we have a great deal of doubt. Generally speaking, when a man is said to be overworked, the truth is that he has been guilty of some excess which breaks down his strength. There may be cases in which there is an excess of work, but of these cases there are very few, indeed. The excess is in eating, in drinking, in neglect of exercise, or in some other mysterious way. A man of ordinary health can stand all the real work that he has to do, but the additional strain which he puts upon himself outside of work is more than he can bear. There is no delusion more frequent or more absurd than this delusion of overwork. There is always excess in the case, no doubt, but not an excess of labor. It is an excess of some other kind.—N. Y. Sun.

IT is proposed to form a company in Los Angeles, to be known as the "Electric Fishing Company," for the purpose of catching fish at night off the sheltered side of Santa Catalina island. A "search light" of three electric lights, each of sixteen-candle power, inclosed in a hermetically sealed glass case, is to be sunk in the water. This light will attract the fish over a net which is sunk beneath the light, when they can be drawn up in countless numbers and placed in tanks of water and delivered alive in the city of Los Angeles at at a merely nominal sum, early in the morning.—Los Angeles Herald.

A SMART traveling man from Chicago tried to paralyze a dining-room girl at Fort Dodge, Iowa, during the snow blockade. At dinner, one day, he ordered "sponge soup" and "quail on fence." The girl went to the kitchen, got a quail and built a fence on the plate of kindling wood. Then she got a piece of sponge from the bath room and put in the soup, and served his order in the presence of several other traveling men. The landlord charged him one dollar extra for serving articles not on the bill of fare, and it cost him six dollars for cigars and drinks to keep the matter quiet.

A COMPARISON of statistics shows New York to be the third German city in the world, coming after Berlin and Vienna. Chicago, Philadelphia and St. Louis rank close to Frankfort, Hamburg and Dresden. Boston is the only large city in the country where Germans are not found in large numbers.

He Sailed Away.

Down at Pyramid City, Grant county, New Mexico, Bob Howland, the irrepressible, bought a claim of a good honest fellow from the Buckeye State. He was a good man, but a bad stammerer. Bob paid him $2,500 for his claim. This was probably more money than the man had ever before had at any one time in his life. He was delighted.

"Boys," said he, "I've sold my cla-claim. I hain't been h-home for t-twenty years. All hands come up and take a d-drink. I'm going b-back to O-oio—to the land w-where the rac-coo-coon lives and the p-p-pennyroyal grows!"

The poor fellow felt rich and happy. He bought an emigrant ticket, stuck his feet out of the car window and away he sailed for the "land where the raccoon lives and the pennyroyal grows."—Enterprise.

ACCORDING to the statistics of the Census Bureau, of the 50,000,000 population in this country there are about 500,000 dependent persons, of whom 90,000 are insane, 75,000 idiotic, 50,000 blind, 30,000 deaf and dumb, and 250,000 paupers and prisoners.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY

JAMES E. PARKER.

FOR OUR MINERAL EXHIBIT.

Elsewhere will be noted a favor from Hon. J. M. Keeler relative to the necessity of Inyo being properly represented at the proposed Mineralogical Exposition at San Francisco this Summer. THE INDEPENDENT has no occasion to change its position in anyway. 1st—It is child's play to ask the Board of Supervisors to perform an illegal, unprecedented act by appropriating the taxpayers' money—or rather by pledging their credit in the shape of a County Warrant—where they have no tangible voucher for work done. 2d—It would be a positive misfortune and a lasting disgrace if Inyo county should not be represented at the exhibit. Hence the necessity of personal subscriptions to the object in view, and that brings the question right down to the point where our correspondent arrives—i. e., who will be the other nineteen to "put up" $5 each beside him. There is no question but that the amount can be raised for the purpose, but in order to enlist general interest in the enterprise, popular subscriptions should be solicited and received by a responsible and authorized committee. That committee should also see that the county is represented by specimens from every one of the hundreds of mines in Inyo.

COUNT DE LESSEPS has explored the route for himself, and he declares that the construction of a canal to flood the great African desert with the waters of the Mediterranean is feasible. There has been doubt as to whether the surface of Sahara is higher or lower than the surface of the sea, but his triumphant dispatch from Tunis indicates that he has obtained information that to perform his feat it will not be necessary to make water run up hill." It is proposed to cut a channel through the narrow neck of land which separates the salt marshes south of Tunis from the Gulf of Gabes, and thus pour an ocean into the vast basin of sand whose farther rim is the border of the Soudan—a land of the riches of India and the population of the United States. France has been eager to bring the heart of Africa to the light of civilization, and the wealth of the same to the pockets of Frenchmen, and Colonel Flatters expended three years of toil and $100,000 in treasure in the attempt to fulfill his ambitious prediction, "I will cross Africa with a railway." Since his slaughter by Arabs the scheme to penetrate the heart of the "Dark Continent" with a railway has dropped from public attention, and Count de Lesseps, the great uniter of the earth's waters, has laid his stupendous project before his admiring countrymen, with sublime confidence in his ability to secure $45,000,000 for the work by merely asking. The Count is nearly eighty years of age, and in his long and romantic career he has accomplished prodigions achievements; but if he restores to the burning sands of Sahara the waves which in a remote age rolled over them, the creation of an ocean and the civilization of a Continent will be the climax of his career and the chief marvel of his fame.

SINCE the opening of the civil war the Government has been benefited to the extent of $41,000,000 by the destruction of fractional currency and greenbacks. The national banks having about $400,000,000 worth of paper money in circulation, must make a very large profit in the same way. Every time a vessel is lost on the coast or on inland waters, and every time a dwelling or hotel burns down, some of this paper money is liable to be destroyed. In issuing it the bank obtains its value and it is not returned for redemption. This peculiar profit should accrue to the Government, and not to individuals or corporations. Such would be the case if the Treasury notes were retired and greenbacks were issued in their place.

THE news by the late mail of to-day brings the sad intelligence of the death of Hon. Jos. Wasson, United States Consul, at La Paz, Mexico, on the 18th of last month. In his demise Inyo and Mono counties have lost a tried and powerful citizen, and many of us a personal friend. Save this bare mention, nothing further can be given this week.

THE London Lancet says if children would wear woollens next to their skin, and wear longer clothing, suspended from the shoulders, we would have more of boisterous health and less of backaches, pains, colds and infantile mortality.

AMONG other improvements Portland, Oregon, is this year to have railroad depots, shops, etc., costing $5,000,000, and a $1,000,000 bridge across the Willamette River. This is what a boom does for a place when it strikes it.

MOUNT WHITNEY.

It is proposed to establish a signal service station on top of Mt. Whitney, and this Summer an officer from the Presidio will be sent down to survey and locate a reservation. The elevation of the station will be 15,000 feet, more than twice as high as that on Mt. Washington, where, in the Winter, an ordinary zephyr travels at the rate of about 100 miles an hour. The Mt. Washington station is of great importance to Eastern New England in respect to the prediction of storms, but the Mt. Whitney station will not be so useful to this coast, as it is situated too far south and in a direction opposite to that from which the storms come. It will, however, be of great general scientific use in the study of the atmosphere, the amount of heat received from the sun, and other classes of facts that delight the hearts of scientists.

The foregoing is from an article in the San Francisco Bulletin. It refers to what is probably a new effort to get the Government to establish a regular signal service station where in 1881 Prof. Langley and his accompanying party of scientists and military escort made such extended scientific observations. People of that distinguished party and prominent citizens of Lone Pine have made strenuous exertions to secure an observatory on Mount Whitney. The detailed reports as to the cost of necessary trails, daily weather observations and all have been duly forwarded to the authorities, but the last Congress failed to appropriate a cent for the purpose. In fact, the whole Signal Service Bureau got the cold shoulder generally.

Mount Whitney was shown to be the highest peak in the United States, and to enjoy the purest atmosphere and clearest skies—conditions essential to valuable astronomical and weather observations. But on this subject the Bulletin further says:

The data upon which storm predictions are made for this coast are obtained from the stations north of this city. A low barometer at Olympia or Portland indicates that a storm is coming from the north, in which region of ice, frosts, mists, seals and Aleutian Indians all of our storms are born. The rarefaction of the atmosphere causes a fall of the barometer, and this rarefaction produces the storm proper, making, as it were, a path or trough for it to follow. Therefore, the direction of low barometer indicates the path that the storm will travel, and its rate of progress can be determined. In many parts of the country, as in North Carolina, where there are not so many disturbing elements in the shape of mountain ranges as there are here, a fall of rain can be predicted within two or three hours. At Cincinnati, not only can rain be predicted, but the temperature can be foretold within a degree. The great storms of the Middle West come down from the north, sweep over Chicago and travel through Ohio. Storms that arise on the Pacific Coast and sweep across Arizona are deflected up the Mississippi River as soon as they strike New Orleans, and at Cairo they turn to the northeast and follow up the Ohio River.

As to Mt. Whitney, the facts are that certain parties are preparing to bring a strong pressure to effect the establishment of a U. S. Signal Service Station and Government Observatory there. What their success will be depends on the exertions of our Congressman in getting money appropriated to pay the cost.

IT is a cheerful contemplation for the Washington lawyers that when the present Star-route trial comes to an end another will be commenced. The Grand Jury of that city has several indictments on file against persons implicated in these frauds, and may possibly return others. The national treasury is situated in Washington, and as there are regular statements of the amount of funds it contains, the prosecuting attorneys will feel easy until they have learned that it is exhausted.

WE are in receipt from the Department, through courtesy of Congressman Pacheco, of "Compendium of the Tenth Census," of 1880. The volumes are at the command of anyone who will contract to wade through the mass of figures on any one page thereof. If the work in detail shall be ready for the edification of the next generation we have no doubt of its being appreciated by some appropriate machinery; for instance, something with mechanical powers of application and digestion.

SIXTY LETTERS, from as many parts of the State, received by a prominent grain firm in San Francisco, show that the crop this year will be something akin to the phenomenal yield of 1880. Colusa county is set down for one-fifth the yield of the State. Reliable men say the crop will be the largest ever harvested, except that of 1880.

THERE are now some 8,000 men employed in the construction of the railroad from Redding to Oregon. About 9,000 more will be put on in Oregon and the two crews will work toward each other. Times are said to be lively up north on account thereof.

IT takes an army of 4,000 office holders at a cost to the people of $5,000,000 a year to collect the internal revenue of the United States. The amount collected in 1882 aggregated $146,523,274. The receipts up to the present time show an increase of several millions over last year. Congress at its last session reduced the revenue from this source about $40,000,000, leaving still one hundred and ten or twelve millions to be collected.

The Grand Old Lode Soon Again to Come to the Front.

The men of friendly neighboring camps, who have felt that the only manner in which they could inform the world of their existence would be by kicking us, the Comstock "Dead Lion"—of a record of over $300,000,000 in bullion—will probably be sorry to hear that we are likely to come to the front again. That we shall soon again come to life is now apparent, however sad the news may be to some regions of our "beloved country." The Comstock nor the people of the Comstock have never felt jealous of any other mining camp in the United States. On the contrary, Comstockers have always been pleased with evidences of prosperity manifested by the people of other camps, and have sent off expert miners to assist in the development of all newly-discovered mines.

Take the history of silver mines in all countries and it is to the effect that they were so many years in bonanza and so many years in borasca. It is just as true and just as natural as that there are silver mines. Look at the big mines of Mexico. How often have they had bonanzas and how often have they been in borasca? It is the same here as in Mexico. There is a broad silver-bearing belt lying between certain kinds of rocks. These rocks (called east and west walls) are the guides of the miners. All within is what may be called a sort of pudding. It is conglomeration of stuff called vein matter, in which ore is liable to be found at any time. So long as we have the distinctly-marked east and west walls, with a goodly width of the vein (or pudding) material, we are liable at any time to find ore.

Now, on the Comstock, even at the lowest level, there is found to be an immense breadth of vein material—from 1,000 to 1,500 feet. No one can tell the depth to which this vein formation may extend. Now, a very encouraging feature at the north-end mines is the coming in at the 2900 level of a vein of ore of good milling quality, which has been explored to a considerable distance in the Union Consolidated, and also into the Sierra Nevada ground.

This ore streak is one of excellent promise. It is not exceedingly rich, yet is of fine milling quality. In the Sierra Nevada the deposit is about nine feet in width, at a distance of some twenty-five feet from the main east crosscut; southward, at a distance of thirty feet from the crosscut, the deposit is wide enough at the bottom of the drift for two sets of timbers, but only some nine feet wide at the top. This shows downward widening. The deposit shows that it is either the top or the bottom of a deposit. As no top has before this time been seen this cannot be the bottom.

At the middle mines the outlook is very flattering. Owing to lack of air the Hale & Norcross folks have discontinued work on their north drift, on the 2600 level, for a time, and have commenced drifting across to the point where the winze from the 2400 level will come down. Connection with this winze will be a new departure. It is of vital importance to all the middle mines. Instead of bringing all their air from the Combination shaft, they will be able to get it 1,000 feet to the front.

The Chollar folks have in crosscut A an excellent prospect. They are pretty sure to catch the ore found by the Hale & Norcross folks in their drift (65 feet) south. This will give them a good breadth of vein and a chance of much ore.

At the Yellow Jacket is the opening out of what may prove a good, big deposit. At other points also the "earth is beginning to crack" and things open out.—Virginia Enterprise.

Coinage of Silver.

It is probable that no more absurd nonsense was ever published than the common charge of the superficial scribblers of the daily press, that those who demand justice from the Government in regard to the use of silver coinage, also demand that the Government shall buy all the silver offered at fifteen per cent. above its market value. The Director of the Mint officially states the fact that he never paid more than the price in London, less exchange and transportation, and then compelled the seller to take the "stove lid," "cart-wheel," "depreciated," "83-cent" dollar, so that the "compulsory" coinage of the silver dollar during the last year was performed at a profit of $3,438,829 41 to the Government.

While the people are groaning under the burden of this terrible outrage which compels the Treasury Department to pay to the silver miner 412½ grains of coined silver in exchange for 480 grains of silver bullion nine-tenths fine, when delivered at the Mint, they have lost sight of the fact that the seller of gold receives an equal weight of gold coin for his gold bullion, and transportation is paid. In other words, the silver miner receives 412½ grains of coined silver for 480 grains of bullion and pays transportation, while to the gold miner the Government pays gold coin, ounce for ounce in exchange for gold bullion, and pays in addition the cost of transportation to the Mints. While the silver miner is made to pay a tax of nearly $3,500,000 per annum upon the silver purchased by the Government for coinage, the gold miner is paid for his product the premium of the cost of coinage and transportation above the actual value of the bullion. Some economical financier might well question the expediency of coining gold when gold bullion is, as shown, actually more valuable than coin.—Chicago Mining Review.

RUSSIA practices economy by building a prison for 500 men and crowding 1,200 into it. America saves money by not arresting the criminal, or by acquitting him if he is tried, or by pardoning him if he is convicted. The American doctrine seems to be: "Let no guilty man fail to escape."

ABOUT 450 miles of thread are made each day in American mills. It was all imported thirty years ago. So much for protection which keeps millions of dollars in the country to be paid to American laborers.

Gold.

While it is claimed that well-defined fissure veins carrying silver are inexhaustible, on the theory that the metallic body was thrown up from below by eruptive forces, it is a well-known fact that the history of gold mining shows that where there was in ancient times the greatest activity there is now no profitable workings. According to the records of the oldest history, Persia, Africa, Arabia, Egypt and other Oriental countries were prolific in their production of the precious yellow metal, and the people were prodigal in its use and display. Coming down to more modern times and countries, many would be amazed to learn to what extent England, Scotland and Wales have been worked for gold. The savage chiefs of Britain, at the time of the first Roman descent, were profusely adorned with trinkets of gold which the island then produced. During the reign of James IV, gold mines were discovered in Clydesdale, and a nugget weighing over two pounds was discovered about the year 1502 at Crawford, where work was prosecuted from 1511 to 1513. In Queen Elizabeth's reign the Scottish mines at Leadhills were operated by London merchants, who are reported to have sent to the Mint at Edinburgh £450, the result of thirty days' work there. These are but part of the many operations once profitably prosecuted in localities that are now abandoned and deserted.

The gold that was so abundant in the earlier history of different nations and peoples was doubtless secured by the most primitive methods, yet the advent of the most approved modern appliances, with more careful and systematic examination and thorough working, fails to keep the product of this precious metal from showing a marked decline year after year.

It seems hardly probable that there can be new fields yet unexplored that will in the future supply the constantly increasing demand, and it is clearly evident that the most careful working of the old productive localities will not produce better results than at present.

With constantly improving advantages, and an increasing field that has widened out until it covers the globe, the product of gold has steadily declined with an astonishing rapidity. All other metals, with enlarging territory and increasing facilities, show a marked improvement in product and promise of future supply. Development reveals immense resources to meet the wants of coming generations, but gold—which has been one of the chief motors in moulding the world's history, now that there are no more new worlds to conquer and no unknown lands to be peopled with strong, brave and heroic souls—appears to be vanishing as a shadow of the past from the products of the earth, which it has, by its influence, opened up to the civilization and advancement of the present day and generation—higher and broader than the pen of Time has ever recorded.—Mining Review.

Tornadoes.

Prof. Nipher states that he made a thorough study of the Collinsville tornado in 1879, the Marshfield one in 1880, and that of Grinnell, Iowa, last year. From his observations he was convinced that the days on which tornadoes originated were invariably abnormally hot ones, and were commonly in the Spring, as the conditions of hot strata of air bordering on cold ones were most likely to exist at such time. A condition of unstable equilibrium existing between the hot and cold strata, the hot air in rising causes a whirl, similar to the whirl when water flows through a hole in the bottom of a vessel. The air enters this whirl or vortex at the surface of the ground and pours in spirals toward the center. Centrifugal force produces rarefaction and tends to carry upward. At the bottom of the whirl the air rotates with high velocity and forms a rarefied region. On going inward toward the vortex the velocity increases so that a movement of four miles an hour 3,280 feet from the vortex would be 450 miles an hour at ten feet from it. A velocity of 33 miles an hour at the same distance would give at the rate of 2,000 miles an hour at the center, or enough to cause a more perfect vacuum than can be produced in a common air-pump. This velocity is computed from observation on the width, etc., of the destructive path. Prof. Nipher was next questioned as to various points of Mr. Tice's evidence in the similar Wisconsin case. Mr. Tice stated that electricity was the motive and destructive power in tornadoes, but Prof. Nipher was of opinion that electricity does not play any part in the destructive effect, and that none of the facts of tornadoes can be explained on that theory.

IMMIGRATION is coming to this State more rapidly than for years. Indeed, the influx begins to resemble that which followed the discovery of gold, with the difference that the men who come now bring their families and for the most part money to engage in farming or business. Those parts of the State where agriculture is independent of artificial irrigation naturally hold out the greatest inducements to these immigrants, and nothing can stand in the way of their rapid settlement except the difficulty of procuring suitable tracts adapted to their resources. As a rule the large ranches are held for sale in a body and the difficulty is to be met by a system of colonies, a number of immigrants pooling their means to buy a large body of land and then so dividing as to equalize its advantages and allot to each the desirable acreage with its share of water and grazing and timber. Lake and Colusa and many other counties offer alluring opportunities for this kind of settlement, which should commend itself to farmers accustomed to the methods of agriculture common to the prairie States of the Mississippi Valley. These colonies up to this time have selected locations further south, notably in Los Angeles county, and have there proved the flexibility in habits of our people by accommodating themselves to the novel conditions enforced by an arid country. There the well-advertised climate has proven the great attraction, but we are not sure but what as genial seasons may be found farther north, where production is not so entirely dependent on moisture artificially secured.—Oakland Times.

Bitter Bread.

Complaint is frequently made by those who use baking powders that they leave in bread, biscuit or cake raised by them a disagreable, bitter taste. This taste follows the use of all impure baking powders, and is caused either by their containing alum (introduced to make a cheap article), by the impure and adulterated character of other ingredients used, or from the ignorance of their manufacturers of the proper methods of combining them. These baking powders leave in the bread a residuum formed of lime, earth, alum or other deleterious matters, not always though frequently tasteable in the food, and by all physicians classed as injurious to health. The Royal Baking Powder is free from this serious defect. In its use no residuum is left, and the loaf raised by it is always sweet, light and wholesome, and noticeably free from the peculiar taste complained of. The reason of this is because it is composed of nothing but absolutely pure materials, scientifically combined in exactly the proper proportions of acid and alkali to act upon and destroy each other, while producing the largest amount of raising power. We are justified in this assertion from the unqualified statements made by the Government chemists, who, after thorough and exhaustive tests, recommended the "Royal" for Governmental use because of its superiority over all others in purity, strength and wholesomeness. There is no danger of bitter bread or biscuit where it alone is used.

THE first day Artemus Ward entered Toledo, travel-worn and seedy, he said to an editor whom he met on the street: "Mister, where could I get a good dinner for two shillings?" He was told, and then inquired: "I say, Mister, where could I get the two shillings?"

Lessons Given in Painting and Embroidery.

PERSONS DESIRING TO TAKE LESSONS in Oil Painting and Embroidery can do so by calling on me, as the only one in the city. Having taken a great many lessons in both, I feel competent to teach; come and see my work and judge for yourselves. This Embroidery is the South Kensington Stitch—is very stylish everywhere, not only to ornament our rooms but our dresses, aprons, etc. I am also prepared to do Stamping, from the latest patterns in San Francisco.

Respectfully, Mrs. Dr. KENNEDY.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.

SATURDAY, MAY 5.....1883

PERSONAL MENTION.—A. H. Willis and H. C. Thompson, of Virginia, Nev., have been spending a few days in Independence. The object of their visit is in the mining interests—to examine and report on the general prospect. The gentlemen left on Thursday to visit Darwin and Cerro Gordo Districts ....Curt. Ober, the well-known assayer and mining man, left last week for new fields in San Bernardino, taking along his assaying outfit and his violin. Curt. has been the rounds of as many mining counties, probably, as any man in the State, but wants to see more of the mineral world. His fixed purpose is, however, to return to Inyo and settle down....We neglected, two weeks ago, to note the arrival of Mrs. A. M. Edgington, formerly of Virginia City, who is here looking after old mining interests of her husband, the late capitalist and mining man. Mrs. Edgington was quite severely hurt in the train accident at the Summit on the Carson and Colorado, having sustained a fracture of two ribs, with a knee and ankle painfully injured. She is at the Blaney, under care of Dr. Kernodle....Mr. F. A. Chalfant has returned from a ten days' jaunt to Deep Springs District....County Surveyor Seely has got back from Bishop, with a couple of reports on that road and bridge business....."Boney" Aguillar, an old timer, the one who discovered and extracted from the dumps of the Jefferson mine at Cerro Gordo all the coarse gold—some $12,000 or $15,000 worth—was here this week ...Our host Thurston, of the Blaney, left for San Francisco on Thursday, taking the insane Mexican along to Stockton....J. W. Murphy, from Slate Range, and J. T. Thompson, from Lone Pine, were among those in town during the week....J. B. Riskey, formerly of this county, but of late years of Aurora, is at Los Angeles, lying low with the consumption.

SUPERIOR COURT.—The case of E. M. Goodale vs. Robert Arnold came to a conclusion in the Superior Court last evening, after having occupied the attention of Judge, jurors, attorneys and officers for eleven days. The action was brought for $1,000 damages and a decree enjoining Robert Arnold from using the waters of Black Rock Saw Mill Creek, which stream supplied Goodale's ranch. A number of witnesses testified as to the facts of the matter on both sides. The jury, consisting of J. C. Mills, Jos. Garringer, L. Lasky, John Shepherd, A. G. Bowman, John Barnes, Ben Williams, J. W. Brown, Geo. Hall, John Johnson, Wm. McLaren and D. H. Williams, Foreman, required but a few moments to render a verdict—allowing the Plaintiff $200 damages. District Attorney Laird conducted the case for Goodale and Judge A. R. Conklin for Arnold. The defendant, through his counsel, gave notice of a motion for a new trial, but it is generally thought that the matter, which has excited considerable interest, has been settled for good.

BORAX MATTERS.—My Harman, the enterprising business man of Darwin, paid Independence a visit last week. He is one of four owners of the Eagle Borax Works in Death Valley, near Bennett's Wells. The plant consists of 320 acres of borate lands, situated about 22 miles south of the Coleman works, and 90 miles from Dagget Station, on the "P. I." branch of the S. R. R. R.; hence all the freighting goes that way. At the works the raw material is boiled in tanks 20 feet long, three wide and two deep, and is afterwards cooled and crystalized in twelve galvanized iron tanks. The production of refined borax so far amounted to 22 tons per month. Mesquite wood from the borders of the valley and nut pine from the Panamint range furnishes plenty of fuel; good water abounds, surrounded by about 20 acres of meadow land. The first shipment of 37 tons of crude material realized 8 cents per pound, the article being of unusual purity, and according to Prof. Price about equal to the best refined article.

FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—Hon. S. P. Moffat left for San Francisco last Wednesday, in a buggy driven by Arlie Mairs to Mojave. As is known, Mr. Moffat has been very seriously ill for some months, and the trip is made to test the possible beneficial effect of a change of climate. He will be cared for at St. Mary's Hospital by the brotherhood of Odd Fellows. We doubt if there is a man in Inyo who has more friends and sympathizers than Mr. Moffat, who hope for his early recovery of health.

CALL AND GET THEM.—Our neighbors around and about Independence who subscribed for copies of the Business Directory are respectfully notified that they are expected to call at this office and get them. They wer'nt printed simply for the fun of it, and those owing for copies or advertisements should come to the center. The work is very well spoken of, by the way, by contemporaries and competent judges on the outside.

SUNDAY SCHOOL FESTIVAL.—It is on the tapis that the ladies of Independence intend holding a grand strawberry and ice cream festival at some early date to be announced. The programme will include an excellent supper, coffee-tables, ice cream, strawberries, and perhaps grab bag, ring cakes and a postoffice. There will doubtless be lots of fun, and the object being to aid the church and Sunday school, the proposition is commendable.

ART TEACHING.—Parents and young folks generally will note with interest the card elsewhere of Mrs. Dr. Kernodle, announcing that lessons will be given in oil painting and embroidery. No one can doubt her ability to impart a knowledge of these accomplishments after having seen some of the beautiful specimens of her skill.

Lone Pine School Exhibition and Ball.

Before 12 o'clock on May-day the Lone Pine school-house was crowded. Over the inner door of the ante-room was the following: "Welcome. Visitors will please register." Our genial friend Web. Walker had charge of the stand and register in the ante-room, and endeavored to have each visitor sign before entering; but after registering 173 persons he had to give up the job on account of the crowd. It is estimated by the officers of the day that there were at least 300 visitors. Bob Carrasco stood at the door and handed to each one as he entered a highly perfumed printed programme. Henderson Barry, Relles Carrasco, Mike Lasky, and James Sutcliffe acted as ushers and seated visitors as comfortably as possible.

On the wall facing the audience were the following mottoes: "Our school is our kingdom;" "These are our jewels." On the left hand side of the room could be seen the flag of the United States, while opposite it was the Mexican flag. The flag of Ireland also occupied a prominent place. The ceiling was beautifully decorated with evergreens, wreaths, flags, etc.

At precisely 1 o'clock the orchestra, consisting of Prof. Curt. Ober, Prof. Ed. Shepherd, Castro and Gill commenced the opening overture and grand march, during which the school, consisting of 53 members marched to the seats reserved for them. After the grand march the Principal read several complimentary letters, prominent among which was one from President Arthur and one from Gov. Stoneman.

The duets, "What are the Wild Waves Saying?" and "Larboard Watch" were received with applause from the audience, as was the quartette "Come in Beautiful Dreams;" but the encore after the rendering of the chorus "Come Where my Love Lies Dreaming" was so emphatic that the vocalists had to respond. The chorus "The Distant Land," and also the song "Women's Rights" were immense. The declamations were all good, but I haven't got space for details. The school report which was read, showed that the average daily attendance was just exactly double that of last year. Hon. J. M. Keeler being present made a neat and brief speech, in which he complimented the teachers highly and deservedly. The organists, Misses Mary Meysan and Eva Shepherd, handled the organ very skilfully.

The dance given in the evening was was one of the finest ever given in the county. The music was of the best quality. Nearly 200 person were present, about 100 partaking of the excellent supper at Mrs. Stewart's. In spite of a windy and dusty day over 30 people from Independence were present, and for their attendance they have Lone Pine's thanks. I am informed that on account of the many complimentary tickets issued the managers are behind.

The success of the teachers of the school has been unequaled. The school is more promising now than ever before. The teachers have worked earnestly and patiently and are rewarded by the well-earned commendation of all. They desire me to thank all those who aided them in decorating the school room; and the young men certainly do deserve their thanks. The managers of the ball did their best, and added much to the enjoyment of those who participated.

INDEPENDENCE.

Independence, May 5th, '83.

A PLEASANT AFFAIR.—The friends of Ramon Montenegro, who has been stopping in Independence for the past two weeks, have given expression to their feelings toward that gentleman by contributing a large number of elegant and artistic specimens to his scrap book. The affair was managed with great secrecy by a committee who had got posession of the book, which was completely filled with beautiful gems of art, consisting of pictures, drawings, and exquisite designs. Ramon's delight was unbounded when his book was returned to him, and he could not find words to express his feelings. The book has been sent to Bodie, where it will be placed on exhibition in the Bodie Art Gallery.

INSANE.—On complaint of L. Lasky, in the Superior Court, Tuesday last, Rafael Maldona was adjudged insane and ordered committed to the asylum. Drs. George and Kernodle conducted the inquiry. According to the evidence taken his dementia is of a violent type, manifest for the past twelve years. The singular part of it appears that the complaining witnesses have only just found it out.

THE BOARD.—The County Board of Supervisors will meet in regular session next Monday. Outside of the allowance of bills, about the main business will be to take some action regarding a county map and to settle the Bishop Creek road matter.

WOOD CONTRACT.—My Harman was up from Darwin and bought a teaming outfit to haul some 800 cords of wood contracted for by the Argus Range Company. The works are now said to be nearly completed.

FOR A PATENT.—The Poleta Company this week advertise their notice of an application for a United States patent. This is the first mine in the county to be patented north of a line to the eastward from Kearsarge Peak, or Independence.

RELIGIOUS SERVICE.—Preaching tomorrow morning and evening by the pastor, Rev. W. Nims. Sabbath School every Sunday at 2 P. M.

An investigator into the influence of climate upon consumptives says that in choosing places of residence for such patients too little attention is given to the character of the soil. It is shown that other things being equal, the prevalence of the disease is in proportion to the habitual dampness of the earth. The atmospheric conditions to be sought for are "rarity, calmness, purity and sun warmth."

Let Us Hear from the Other Nineteen.

LONE PINE, May 2.

EDITOR INYO INDEPENDENT—I sincerely hope you will, before your next issue, see just reasons for reviewing your comments on the circular letter sent to the Boards of Supervisors in the respective counties by the citizens "Mineralogical Exposition Committee" in San Francisco connected with the Mining Bureau and Museum, and which has been organized and approved by Professor Hanks, State Mineralogist, or rather started at his earnest suggestion. The appeal to the counties is simply for an amount to provide suitable county cases in which may be placed distinct county specimens, which will be of great importance to every county and call the attention of visitors and men of capital to our county and State mineral wealth. Men of wealth in San Francisco propose to raise the large sum of money necessary to make a display on a large and attractive scale. Now, so long as as the Legislature would do no more than simply enough to keep the doors of the Museum open, and there are 150 unopened boxes of specimens and no means to display them, should San Francisco County purchase cases for the other counties? Should not every county do something to secure such great advantage? I would like to be one of twenty to make up this $100, and no county can afford to be counted out.

Very truly, J. M. KEELER.

THE COW TREE.

SIR JOSEPH HOOKER, of London, publishes a description of a tree which has been discovered, called the "cow tree," which gives milk when an incision is made in the bark. Several of the trees have been brought to England, and they are being watched with much curiosity. Nothing could have been discovered that would more effectually fill the bill, and fill the want long felt, than the cow tree, and we shall herald its introduction into this country with great joy. The parties who are interested in the propagation of the cow tree can send us two or three by express. We do not want full sized cow trees, but just saplings, or calves. With a few such trees in the front yard, the citizen can make up faces at the driver of the milk wagon, and bid him defiance. Instead of going forth in the morning armed with a milk ticket and a tin basin, a man can take his little hatchet and a pail and cut a hole in the cow tree, sit down under its umbrageous shade and let nature take its course. The farmer will have no more kicking cows to contend with, but can let the cow tree milk itself, while he sits down at the root of his milk producer and smokes his pipe or plays seven up with the hired man. "There will be no more hoisting there," no tail to switch in his face, and no more will the cow tree get nervous at having its bag agitated by the rough hand of the farmer, and kick the milk pail over the fence and kick the milk stool through the granger. There will be no more fodder to throw down, no more bran mashes to mix, and calves to wean as it is probable the cow tree will be farrow forever, and not go bellowing around trying to hook the butcher who tries to take the calf away. The cow tree will take work off the tired farmer, and he can go to town to attend the lodge without hurrying up the milking, as the girls can mind the dairy. It will be a mighty poor girl that cannot milk a cow tree. By building an ice house near the cow tree one can have ice cream, and by the aid of a handy jug, milk punch can be made to the queen's taste. Instead of driving the cows up from the pasture at night, and slopping them, and sitting cramped up, milking with one hand and fighting mosquitoes with the other, the farmer's daughter can have a double seat under the cow tree, and take a pail and a lover and go out to milk, and while the cow tree is giving down its blessings, the young people can put in the time sparking. No family should be without the cow tree, and we trust the day is not far distant when the old-fashioned cow will only be raised for beef, and the calf that is now more trouble than he is worth, will not be tolerated at all, and the cow tree will grow in profusion, always ready to fill a patent pail full of rich milk, and not hook the daylights out of the milker. We take it for granted that the cow tree will not wear a cow bell, and that it will not bellow mournfully and paw the earth when the people are trying to sleep. Good bye, old brindle. You have been a faithful servant, and have given milk when you had to, but you have gone off and got lost when most we needed milk, and when you came back you were not worth a continental. You never knew enough to come home without having a barefooted boy sent after you, and you would eat leeks when you knew we were going to have company and your milk was bad. Step aside brindle, and give the cow tree a chance.—Peck's Sun.

TO PROTECT TIMBER AGAINST FIRE. The following notice is being extensively circulated throughout Oregon, Washington and Idaho, and should be circulated in the timber sections of California:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
WASHINGTON, D. C. March 8, 1883.

The attention of the public is called to the fact that large quantities of the public timber is annually destroyed by forest fires which, in many cases, originate through the carelessness of hunting, prospecting and other camping parties; while in some instances they come through design. I take this method of warning all persons that hereafter, the cause and origin of all forest fires will be closely investigated, and where the fire is ascertained to have originated through either carelessness or design, the parties implicated will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

Special timber agents are hereby directed to proceed against all offenders under the local laws of the State or Territory, relating to the unlawful setting of fires, in which the same may occur. The public, generally, are requested to aid the officers of the government in its efforts to check the evil referred to, and in the punishment of all offenders.

The Calico Homicide.

In regard to the shooting affray last week at Calico, there have been several statements, all of which conflict most diametrically. The true version appears to be that the man Sullivan was an Apollo in physique, and hated and feared by all his rivals, who stood in mortal dread of his powerful arm. Repeated attempts had been made to get him out of the way. He had been arrested by a bogus officer and let go on paying $25. Afterward, on ascertaining the fraud, he encountered the pretended officer and gave him a terrible thrashing. This only infuriated the gang, who took especial pains to annoy and threaten him in various ways. On the night of the killing, Colonel Markham of Los Angeles and C. M. Sanger of Milwaukee, in whose employ Mr. Sullivan was occupied as a miner on the King mine at Calico, and a first-class miner, too, met him in sound mind and condition, little dreaming that they would in ten minutes close his dying eyes and take care of his listless frame.

It appears that he stepped into a saloon across the street and expressed a desire to punish the gang that had persecuted him, but had offered no violence to any one, when a man named Williams, who is said to be the man who shot another, not long since, at Mojave Station, placed himself behind a German, and fired over his shoulder at Sullivan, hitting him in the left eye and penetrating his brain, and as he turned under the fatal shot, fired another into the rear portion of his head, both shots being fatal. There was some talk of lynching Williams, but not enough were ready to assist in the job before he placed himself under the protection of Sheriff Burkhardt of San Bernardino.

The employers of Sullivan say that he was an excellent miner, a high-toned Irishman, who would not be imposed upon, but did not fight unless he was imposed upon, and offered no violence to the man who murdered him. Our informant, who was on the spot, pronounces it a cold-blooded, willful murder.—Los Angeles Herald.

Exposure and Exposure.

Mrs. McFadden—It's you, is it, Mrs. O'Brien? How can you come to me house and how can you look me in the face?

Mrs. O'Brien—Och, murther, Mrs. McFadden, what have I done?

Mrs. McFadden—What have ye done? Sure, an' didn't ye go talkin' it about that my poor little Jamesey died of exposure? Now didn't ye say he died of exposure?

Mrs. O'Brien—I belave I did, ma'am, but not of undacent exposure. I said he died of exposure to the maisles, ma'am.

Mrs. McFadden—That althers the case. I'm glad ye're able to explain, Mrs. O'Brien. It's not all kinds of exposures that I'll hear of wid patience. Come in, dear, and have a dhrop of cowld tay.—Bodie Free Press.

A RECENT decision of the Postoffice Department is to the effect that a letter, after being sent, can be recalled by the sender upon his making application to the postmaster, who has authority to recall the same by telegraph.

TOURISTS in this country are subject to all sorts of restrictions while sight-seeing. "Please do not tumble down the shaft" is the notice posted at the mouth of a Nevada mine.

Ostriches.

The editor of the Anaheim Gazette has been interviewing the ostriches on the ranch near Costa Station. He tells some of the family traits of the gentle creatures as follows: The female lays an egg on alternate days to the number of fifteen, when, if permitted to set, she considers her work done. If, however, her eggs are taken from her, she will lay thirty before she discovers the deception. And such eggs! The one shown us weighs 3½ pounds, and contains food sufficient to furnish a plentiful breakfast for four men. One would suppose that the flavor of such eggs would be unpleasantly pronounced; such is not the case, however, the flavor not being as decided as that of duck eggs. What schoolboy has not read of the ostrich egg, and of its being hatched in the hot sun of Africa's sunny shore? But this pretty little legend, like many other cherished stories of the past, is all gammon. The chicks are brought forth in the good old way. The female sits on the eggs in the daytime, and the male assumes that duty at night, allowing the female to seek rest and recreation while he attends to the household duties. It must be noted here that the male is much more solicitous for his household than is the female. It not unfrequently happens that the latter prefers to gad about rather than take her turn at setting, and on such occasions her lord and master administers to her a deserved chastisement by kicking her heartily around the paddock until she manifests proper contrition and signifies her willingness to settle down on the eggs. There is a moral somewhere about this incident, which, when found, make a note of.

DR. HENRY MCCORMAC, of Belfast, Ireland, writes that it is not necessary that a person knowing nothing of the art of swimming should drown, if he will depend on the powers of self-preservation with which Nature has endowed him. The pith of the doctor's remarks is contained in the following paragraphs: When one of the inferior animals takes the water, falls or is thrown in, it instantly begins to walk as it does when out of the water. But when a man who cannot swim falls into the water he makes a few spasmodic struggles, throws up his arms and drowns. The brute, on the other hand, treads water, remains on the surface and is virtually insubmergible. In order then to escape drowning it is only necessary to do as the brute does, and that is to tread or walk the water. The brute has no advantage as to his relative weight in respect to the water over man, and yet the man perishes while the brute lives. Nevertheless, any man, any woman, any child who can walk on the land may also walk in the water just as readily as the animal does, and without any prior instruction or drilling, whatever.

NO HIGHER compliment can be paid to the institution of marriage than the fact, as exhibited in every day life, that those who have once entered there are anxious to return. The widow and the widower alike feel their lonely life and hasten to seek a new companion. Every observer knows that the widows can beat, two to one, the young girls at winning husbands, and the widower will snap out of the young men's arms, as it were, almost any girl he takes a fancy to—not because he is richer or better looking, but because he means business and proposes at once, or it might be a dozen times, while the shy ones are working themselves up to the ordeal.

ON the 16th of February an ærolite fell near Bresieu, Italy, weighing between 400 and 500 pounds. The fall was preceded by a loud report and it was accompanied by a train of bluish smoke hustling through the air, to the great fright of the peasantry. The report was heard many miles distant.

IT is estimated that the wheat crop this year will fall short of that of 1882 by 50,000,000 bushels.

The Grand Army.

The vivid contrast between a host of settlers in a new country and an army of invaders equal in number is sketched in an article in the Salt Lake Tribune of a recent date, from which we make the following extract:

The Minnesota journals assert that 10,000 people are passing through St. Paul weekly on their way to make homes in the West. Think of that! Ten thousand a week, 500,000 per annum, passing through one city. What does that signify? It means that further west, where all is silence now, 2,000 homes will be planted next week, and probably 100 times 2,000 acres of land be put under cultivation, land that heretofore has furnished nothing save food to wild beasts. When the smoke rises over 2,000 new homes in a week, where a week before there was nothing but barbarism, it means progress. The voices of 10,000 men and women and children all at once sounding and driving back the immemorial echoes of the wild, is music which the angel in the sun will hear in his daily round and make a note of. It means that new cities are to be created, new temples built; it means that new thrones to industry, to learning and to order are about to be dedicated. When Napoleon, with the "Grand Army" of 500,000 men, started to make the conquest of Russia, all Europe was awed by the spectacle. There was a pomp and power about the movement which the then existing nations had never dreamed of before. Five hundred thousand men, with eagles and plumes, with breastplates and helmets, with horses, cannons, swords and guns, the terrible "Old Guard," the Marshals that had each won his place by deeds of genius and glorious valor, and with all—and in effect doubling the actual number, by the nameless energy and superhuman resources of his brain—the wonderful Emperor. That was, indeed, a grand picture; so grand that the white winding sheet which was made to enfold it a few months later could not hide it. Rather, it was so grand that it will move on in everlasting panorama with the roll of years, and cause the blood in young arteries to throb faster so long as time lasts. But after all it does not in thought compare to this army of conquest which is sweeping through St. Paul. With this army is neither swords nor plumes, but the march is fairer, nevertheless. The marshals are nobler than were the mighty men who gathered around their Sovereign. In lieu of the trumpet's blare there are the scream and the heavy respiration of the locomotive; the marshals are Hope and Faith and Courage and Industry; in lieu of the cannons this army carries the plow; in lieu of the sword, the reaper and mower; the conquest is aimed at the wilderness, and the intention is not to tear down, but to build up. There is to be no Borodino, no Moscow in flames, no camping in the snow, which to whole squadrons is to be an eternal bivouac.

THE editor of the London Sportsman, who recently visited this country, seems to have accommodated himself to the ways of the Republic with remarkable sweetness and content, as the following extract from an interview with him on his return to London sufficiently demonstrates:

"Did you make many speeches when you were in America?" they asked him.

"Yes," was the reply; "I was frequently called on to respond."

"And what did you say for the most part?"

"Thank you. I don't mind if I do."

AMONG the numberless incidents illustrating the power of prayer the following is not the least striking: A Vermont deacon prayed that the man who stole his horse might be blessed, and at that very minute the thief was selling the animal to the deacon's brother, who didn't know the horse, for twice what it was worth. Let skeptics stand aside and cover their faces!

STRAWBERRY farms in the vicinity of Little Rock, Ark., pay an average profit of $154 per acre.

Ore Veins and Reduction Works.

The experience of mining communities elsewhere goes to further the opinion that mining and milling operations are best conducted where they are not combined under a single management. The practice of locating small mills on single claims is rapidly giving way to that of having larger and more complete mills erected at central points, to which the product of many mines are made to contribute. This is eminently the Colorado idea and is the natural outgrowth of rebellious ores and rich but small veins. The cost of transporting ores to such mills and reduction works is more than offset, in most cases, by the larger percentage of the precious metals saved under superior management, costlier appliances and the superior facilities of these large works. It is one of the very palpable causes of failure in mining enterprises in Yavapai county in the past, that neither the money nor experience of certain mine owners who essayed the treatment of their ores at the mines were adequate to the attainment of even fair results. The character of our ores is such that only expensive appliances can successfully and economically treat them, and we have the example presented to us of shipments of our ores thousands of miles by wagon and rail to Eastern works after we have failed in the profitable working at home. The Colorado idea is one which should commend itself to the mine owners and capitalists of the county as the only feasible solution of the question of economical treatment of ores, and should be adopted to the entire exclusion of the monumental folly that would fill our gulches with worthless cast-iron rattletraps in no way fitted to perform the duties required of them.—Prescott Courier.

A PHILADELPHIA physician has made a special study of the phenomena of death, both through his personal observations and those of others, and his conclusion is that death is painless. "I mean," he explains, "that it approaches as unconsciously as sleep. The soul leaves the world as painlessly as it enters it. Whatever may be the causes of death, whether by lingering malady or sudden violence, dissolution comes either through syncope or asphyxia. In the latter case, when resulting from disease, the struggle is long protracted and accompanied by all the visible marks of agony which the imagination associates with the closing scene of life. Death does not strike all the organs of the body at the same time, and the lungs are the last to give up the performance of their functions. As death approaches, the latter gradually become more and more oppressed; hence the rattle. Nor is the contact sufficiently perfect to change the black venous into the red arterial blood; an unprepared fluid consequently issues from the lungs into the heart, and is thence transmitted into every other organ of the body. The brain receives it, and its energies appear to be lulled thereby into sleep—generally tranquil sleep—filled with dreams which impel the dying to murmur out the names of friends and the occupations and recollections of past life."

THIS is the season when hens run mad and will not be comforted unless they can hide away somewhere and sit day and night on a wooden nest egg or an old door knob. Several men were discussing this question in a grocery store one evening recently. A man who owns a large flock of Dorkings remarked: "Not even an Act of Congress can break up a settin' hen." "Ever tried jammin' 'em under a barrel an' pourin' water on 'em?" demanded the man on the sugar barrel. "Yes," said the Dorking man; "I've poured water on 'em till they grew web-footed, like a blamed duck; afterwards found 'em in an old coal hod settin' away on lumps o' coal." "Tie a red rag round one wing," said a man who was eating cheese and crackers. "That'll fix 'em." "Might's well offer 'em a chromo," said the Dorking man. "I tied a whole red woollen shirt on one last Spring, and dog my cats if she didn't make a nest of it and set three weeks on the buttons."

A BILL has been introduced in the Canadian Parliament to extend the right to vote to all who have an income of $400 a year, to tenants paying an annual rental of $20, in cities to owners of real estate valued at $300, and in counties to owners of real estate valued at $200. Sons of the owners of real estate are to be allowed to vote on the proportion of one son to every $300 of value. In addition, it is proposed that unmarried women may vote on the same condition as men. Thus the right to vote or the privilege of voting belongs not to sex, or age, or intelligence, but to property—to the dumb, dead property, —whether it be in houses, lands, coin or asses. It is property that votes in Canada, and not men or women. And this in the nineteenth century!

A FRESH Boston Transcript reporter was sent out among the fishermen to get "points" as to the season's prospects, etc. He returned late at night with a countenance highly illuminated with spring smiles and bringing the single piece of information that the reason why a fisherman carries a flat bottle with him is that he may wait for a bite with baited breath.

A COUNTRY clergyman who recently preached in an Austin church is a great admirer of the writings of Charles Dickens and quotes from his novels almost as often as he does from the Bible. He surprised his congregation by winding up a gorgeous peroration with: "It is thus you see, my brethern, as the Scriptures say, 'Barkis is willing, but the flesh is weak.'"

They Don't Affiliate.

A colored man was busily engaged in sawing wood for Colonel Powis, says the Texas Siftings, when the latter observed that the bosom of the man and the brother, so to speak, was adorned by an Odd Fellow's breastpin.

"Do the white Odd Fellows and the colored Odd Fellows in Austin affiliate?" asked Colonel Powis.

"Don't fillyate wuf a cuss, but they helps each other out."

"Well, that's the same thing, ain't it?"

"No, sir; hits not the same thing."

"What's the difference?"

The colored man stopped sawing wood and made the following explanation:

"Last week, when dat norther was a freezing der marrow in yer bones, I went inter de saloon of a white man and what totes this very same emblem. I was in distress, rale distress, as I hadn't had a dram dat morning, so I gib him de signal of distress."

"Did he respond?"

"He didn't gib de proper response. De proper response would hab been to hab rubbed his lef' ear wid his right han' an' to hab sot out de bottle."

"Then he did not respond correctly?"

"No, sir; he made a motion at de doah wid one hand and reached under qe bar wid de odder. I made de Odd Fellers' signal ob distress once moah, and den somefin hard hit me on de head and knocked me clean out inter de street. Hit was de bung-starter what dat white brother Odd Feller had frew at me in response to de distress signal."

"Then the colored Odd Fellows and the white Odd Fellows do not affiliate?"

"Jest what I toled yer. Dey won't fillyate, but dey helps each odder out. I was helped out inter de street wid de bung-starter, but fillyate means to set out de whisky."

A Star Route.

J. V. Hicks, of How, near Redding, has been awarded the contract for carrying the mail, tri-weekly, between Lundy and Bennettville, his bid being about 75 per cent. lower than that of any other, or $439 per annum, or about $36 50 per month, or $1 20 per day. Mr. Hicks certainly could not have been cognizant of the topography of the country when he put in such a ridiculously low bid; for, while the distance is only about nine miles, the ascent and descent involves a vertical difference of fully 9,500 feet, or nearly two miles, to say nothing of the hazard of ascending to and following along for three miles the backbone of a mountain 12,600 feet high, and that summit swept, almost daily, for ten months in the year, with a freezing wind sweeping squarely across the narrow ridge at a velocity of varying from sixty to ninety miles per hour—and not to mention the blinding and suffocating snow storms that writhe and whirl about this lofty and pathless mass of angular rocks seven months in the year, compassing it about with an awful terror and real peril beside which the thunders of a midnight surf breaking on the ears of passengers on board a storm-stranded and helpless ship would be music as sweet as the bagpipes of the gallant Highlanders who went to the rescue of the besieged of Lucknow. —Homer Index.

THE Kern county Californian, after mentioning that alfalfa hay does not have a good reputation in the market, argues that it is owing to the mistake of cutting it before it is matured. "It is usual to cut it when in blossom, and it reaches that state about four times in the course of the season. Its nature as to nutritive properties is just the same as any other grass, which no one would think of cutting before the seed is either whole or at least partially formed. Any grass cut before that time would be almost worthless, but that alfalfa is as good as it is, cut when it is, well illustrates its valuable and nutritive properties. Bdt when cut at the right stage of growth, as other grasses are, or the cereals when cut for hay, it makes the best hay in the world, its strengthening and fattening properties being remarkable. It arrives at this stage twice or at most three times in the course of the season."

SOME years ago, when the late Alexander H. Stephens was believed to be dying, an attendant said to him: "Mr. Stephens, if you have no objection, I will read a chapter in the Bible and we will have prayer." Mr. Stephens said quickly: "I do object, and most decidedly. I have no objection to prayer, for I believe in it; but I do object to death-bed repentance. I have made it a rule of my life to live each day as if it were going to be my last. In the heat of politics I may have sometimes forgotten myself, but I am no better to-day on my death bed than I have tried to be every day of my life, and I have no special preparations to make and no special pleas to offer."

THE verdict which a jury sometimes renders is one of the queerest of the many strange conclusions which mark the working of our social system. Here is an illustration: "In the action of Joseph E. Card against the New York, Lake Erie and Western Railroad Company, to recover damages for 10,000 pear trees frozen while in transit between Lockport and Woodland, Cal., the jury rendered a verdict for the plaintiff for $1,200. The company have taken an appeal, as they have no control over the weather, notwithstanding their great corporate power."

SPIRIT of turpentine is now made, says a contemporary, from sawdust and refuse of the sawmill. It is extracted by a sweating process, and yields fourteen gallons of spirits, three to four gallons of resin, and a quantity of tar per cord.

INDEPENDENCE, CAL.:

SATURDAY, MAY 12.....1883

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY

JAMES E. PARKER.

A YOUNG English curate in a London suburb has been made the victim of woman's ingenuity and applied science. It seems that he was called upon by a young woman dressed in deep mourning, who implored him to accompany her to her home on urgent business. There she confessed that she had fallen hopelessly in love with him and his ritualistic garb. She declared that the only return she could hope for was a kiss from the curate's lips, a clerical courtesy which he could grant without misgiving, as she felt that her days were numbered. The flattered curate sweetly kissed her and departed. Not many days after he received a parcel which contained an instantaneous photograph of the scene of the kissing, with a letter from the fair one saying that she held eleven more copies, which he could have for $100. The curate is now making negotiations for the pictures, and his awful example may be a warning to sympathetic American clergymen.

A MRS. DAVIS, of North Adams, Mass., forbade John Doyle, a saloonkeeper of the town, to sell her husband any more rum. "As long as he has money to it with," said Doyle, "he can get it at my bar." Davis abused this privelege by getting drunk at once, and while in that condition had both legs cut off by a locomotive. Mrs. Davis got a verdict of $7,500 against Doyle, and the Supreme Court of the State has affirmed it. Suits with similar results are constantly being brought in several States under civil damage laws.

THE mystery of Keeley's motor is now explained. He himself has given the whole thing away to a reporter of the Philadelphia Bulletin, to whom he explained it like this: "You must understand that molecular disintegration is the generator of vibratory phenomena. Propulsory forces emanating from analytical action upon compound fluid and vapor foundation evolve ethereal matter distinctive from oxydized hydrogenated and nitrogenated componomponents." Now the principle of the thing will be plain enough to everybody.

IT is an open secret that the Department of Justice does not look for the conviction of the star-route thieves. The evidence of their guilt, in the two trials they have had has been overwhelming, but their money has found them loop-holes of escape. It is not likely, however, that they will be permitted to escape without another effort that may exhaust their ill-gotten gains. But they will not be again tried on the same indictment, new ones having been found on evidence that has been discovered since the last trial began.

THE appointment of a Chinese Deputy Sheriff in New York several months ago was hailed by the Eastern sentimentalists as a laudable act of justice to the Mongolian race. It now turns out that the enterprising alien has not found his official duties so pressing as to prevent him from managing an opium den and lottery game in direct defiance of he law he swore to enforce. He has been dismissed by the Sheriff in disgrace, and it now remains to be seen what apology the pro Chinese press will make for his misconduct.

SECRETARY CHANDLER appears to be carrying out with commendable zeal the law of Congress to reduce the personnel of the navy. He has just ordered Rear-Admiral C. H. Baldwin and his dozen staff officers to proceed to Moscow to witness the coronation of the Czar. As dynamite is no respecter of persons, there is a strong probability that the great event in Russia will help the Secretary in the work of weeding out superfluous officers.

AN Indiana newspaper having asked the very pertinent question, "What is home without a newspaper?" the Kansas City State Journal made answer as follows: "It is a place where old hats are stuffed into broken windows; where the children are like pigs; the housewife like an aboriginal savage, and the husband with a tobacco-juice panorama of the dismal swamp painted on his shirt bosom."

THE news from Europe indicates that dynamite and other powerful explosives that modern chemistry has placed within reach of the poorest classes will enable them to destroy monarchial forms of government and special privileges, whenever they become sufficiently obnoxious, by shorter and more certain methods than the ordinary revolutionary processes hitherto in vogue.

NO FURTHER particulars have been received concerning the death of Joe Wasson. The papers of Coast have united in paying high tributes of respect to his memory, and they have been justly earned.

A TRIPARTITE agreement has been consummated, the parties to which are the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, the St. Louis and San Francisco, and the Atlantic and Pacific railroads. Under the agreement a controlling interest in the St. Louis and San Francisco is secured to the Atlantic and Pacific, the latter agreeing to stop the construction of its line west of the Colorado river for the present, but to permit it to proceed to the completion of the work eventually to the Pacific Coast, making San Francisco the western terminus as originally contemplated. Should the agreement be faithfully kept by the other parties, the Atlantic and Pacific will not be permitted to reach San Francisco for the full term of the contract, which is twenty years, and the controlling interest which it has secured in the St. Louis and San Francisco is a practical stoppage of the extention of this line and equivalent to merging its franchises in the Atlantic and Pacific connections. This line to the Pacific coast will be from the Colorado river over the branch of the Southern Pacific to Mohave, thence by the main line to San Francisco and Los Angeles. The new arrangement goes into effect at once. This is practically a perpetuation of the Central Pacific R. R. Co's complete domination of this coast. We of southeastern California had hoped for a vastly different result.

THE question arises as to how to make a successful move in the matter of raising Inyo county's proportion of the money necessary for its proper representation at the coming Mineralogical Exposition at San Francisco. In lieu of other action, THE INDEPENDENT proposes that a committee of six be generally agreed upon, whose duty it shall be to take charge of the whole business. Will the gentlemen named do it? M. E. Harman of Darwin, J. M. Keeler of Lone Pine, S. D. Woodhull and A. W. Eibeshutz of Independence, W. A. Greenly of Big Pine and Deep Springs, and A. C. Freeman of Bishop Creek. For Treasurer, make Mr. N. Rhine custodian of the funds, and for Secretary Mr. S. D. Woods. Here is a brief, clean-cut proposition, and if there be any suggestions or amendments send them in.

ST. PAUL used to be a western city. Now it is a central. "Take the map of the United States," says the Christian Union, "and place one arm of a pair of dividers at St. Paul and the other at Jacksonville, Florida. Move the latter northward toward New York, and you are 300 miles out in the Atlantic ocean; move it toward the southwest and you at the City of Mexico; move it to the northwest and it falls short by 300 miles of reaching the utmost limit of fertile and productive country capable of sustaining a large population. The railroads have brought the Assinboine and Saskatchewan valleys and those of Montana within forty-eight hours of St. Paul, and have opened to the inrush of an enteprising population what else must have remained a howling wilderness.

EXPERIMENTS with the electric light on a large scale in New York and London are again noted as demonstrating its inutility as a rival to gas. It has been the habit to compare cost of the two by estimating the cost of producing a gas illumination equal to that produced by the electric light, but now it is discovered that this calculation is at fault, since the electric light furnishes a far greater illumination than is required, and that reduced to an even comparison with gas, by quantity of light, the gas is produced so cheaply as to render competition with it impossible, since the coal burned to move the engine which generates the electricity, will, on a quantitative basis, produce more gas than it does electricity.

IF crime is punished and justice done in the English courts more uniformly and more speedily than in America, it arises from the preponderance of influence that custom has assigned to Judges in criminal trials. In this country the tendency is to shift the responsibility of the punishment of criminals mainly on juries. But more is to be feared from the ignorance of a jury than the bias and severity of a Judge, which a jury can usually be relied on to checkmate.

IT is reported at San Diego that a desperate band of outlaws, waiting for a chance to rob the custom-house at Tiajuana and Ensenada, are camped in San Diego county between the county seat and Campo, and are killing cattle and making jerked beef preparatory to a raid. They are supposed to be ten of the most desperate robbers of Monterey, Mariposa and Yuba counties, and in this state, with two from Baja California.

MISS KATE FIELD declares that the most satisfactory way to live "is not to exert one's self too much for other people."

PETER COOPER'S great success in accumulating wealth was due more to his prudent methods than to his inventive genius. A New York paper in speaking of his distinguished traits says he was strongly opposed to the methods of many merchants who launched into extravagant enterprises on borrowed money for which they paid exhorbitant rates of interest. Once while talking about a project with an acquaintance, the latter said he would have to borrow the money for six months, paying interest at the rate of three per centum a month. "Why do you borrow for so short a time?" he asked. "Because the bankers will not negotiate bills for longer." "Well, if you wish," said Mr. Cooper, "I will discount your notes at that rate for three years." "Are you in earnest?" asked the would-be borrower. "Certainly I am. I will discount your note for three years at that rate. Will you do it?" "Of course I will," said the merchant. "Very well, said Mr. Cooper, "just sign this note for $10,000, payable in three years, and give me your check for $800, and the transaction will be complete." "But where is the money for me?" asked the astonished merchant. "You don't get any money!" was the reply. "Your interest for thirty-six months at the rate of three per centum per month, amounts to 108 per centum, or $10,800; therefore your check for $800 just makes us even." The force of this practical illustration of the folly of paying such exorbitant prices for the use of money was such that the merchant determined never to borrow at such ruinous rates, and he used frequently to say that nothing could have so fully convinced him as this rather humorous proposal by Mr. Cooper.

"Buggy."

The Carson Appeal says: A few weeks ago there came to one of our local physicians a logger from Marlette & Folsom's wood camp, at Crystal Bay, Lake Tahoe, who is afflicted with one of the strangest maladies which ever puzzled the skill of a physician. The man's name is Richard Anderson. He complained of curious pains in his stomach, accompanied by excruciating itchings, which rendered sleep impossible. The doctor was at a loss to know what to call the malady, until he finally administered a powerful emetic, and to his astonishment discovered that the unfortunate man had in his stomach bugs known as the cimex lextularius, whose bites were driving him to distraction. After three days of repeated emetics he was cured, and went back to work. It appears that about a month ago he left some bread in his cabin for several days, while off on a trip to Cascade Lake, and on his return ate some of it. He took but a couple of mouthfuls, when he discovered some fine, white eggs upon its surface, and threw the remainder away. This bread, upon which were the minute eggs of the cimex lextularius, evidently did all the mischief. These pestiferous insects are a small, flat bug, which infest the cabins and loggers' camps in the Sierra mountains, and are sometimes found in lower altitudes. Being flat they glide into every conceivable crevice, and can live without air. The particulars of the case will be forwarded to the New York Medical Journal.

The Arrest of Tom Pheby.

A San Francisco Chronicle special from New York of the 3d instant gives the following interesting but not very surprising information:

The arrest of Thomas B. Pheby, Manager of the Inyo Mining Company, will tend to bring mining into greater disrepute. He was arrested at the Hoffman House on Wednesday night, on an action brought against him by the company to recover $50,468, which, it is alleged, he converted to his own use while acting as agent of the company. The suit is brought in the Supreme Court on complaint of George M. Pinney, General Manager of the company. In his affidavit Pinney says the company owned a valuable silver mine in Inyo county, Cal., and also owned large mills for the reduction and treatment of ores. On September 6, 1881, Pheby was made Superintendent of the company. On October 4th his salary was fixed at $500 a month. On June 30, 1882, Pheby reported to the company that he had on hand money belonging to the company amounting to $10,872, except such as was due to him for his salary. It is alleged that since October 4, 1881, Pheby extracted from the company's mines ore which, when treated and reduced to bullion, consisted of twenty-five bars of bullion of the value of $25,865, which he disposed of for the company and for which he received the above amount.

On December 19th the mill and machinery of the company was partially destroyed by fire and the insurance became payable. The company had no representative in San Francisco, and Pheby was given a power of attorney to go to San Francisco and receive the the insurance money. He was also directed, upon receipt of the insurance money, to pay all the outstanding obligations against the company at the mines or in San Francisco, and then to proceed to New York and bring with him all the moneys remaining. Pheby, it is alleged, went to San Francisco, and the insurance was adjusted at $33,500. In February he received that amount, and, it is said, had in his hands belonging to the company about $70,238.

On March 24, 1883, Pheby arrived in this city and went to the office of the company. There he submitted a statement of his accounts, in which it appeared he had received for the company $70,238 and had expended $69,901 since June, 1882. His statement was closely examined, and it is alleged that he expended for the company but $19,770. This amount also includes his salary. He was informed of this examination of his books and of the result, and was very much surprised.

An explanation was desired, and it is alleged that Pheby admitted that he caused a set of books to be made up while he was in San Francisco, by which the large amount in his hands was to be absorbed; that the books were made up before he left San Francisco, and that he had paid experts $250 for doing the work. It is also alleged that the defendant admitted that he had brought with him about $2,500, and that with a portion of the balance he had paid off a mortgage upon his house owned by his wife in Oakland; also that he had purchased stock. He was allowed bail in $2,500, but was unable to furnish it and was lodged in jail.

Pheby said: "Pinney and I were full partners in the company. Besides acting as Superintendent of the mines, I conducted two boarding-houses, in which Pinney was partner also. The mines never paid expenses, but I kept them going by using my share of the profits from the boarding-houses and store. Pinney was general manager of the concern. He issued stock, how much I don't know. He never accounted to me. Well, when the mills were burned I went to San Francisco to get the insurance. I collected it and came here to settle. I deducted the money which I paid to keep the mines in operation, but I gave Pinney more than was due him. He wanted to get everything and was anxious to use my money in other schemes in which he wished me to interest myself. I refused, because I intended to go into business on my own account. Why, during the time that company had control, which was from October, 1881, only about $55,000 in ore was taken out. However, I am confident I will come out all right. To-morrow I expect to be bailed."

Pinney stated that the arrest had been made by the Inyo Mining Company and was not in any respect a personal matter between himself and Pheby. He had merely given his opinion as manager of the company that the transactions of Pheby were not what they should be, and that he should be compelled to make an accounting for the moneys received by him. In conclusion Pinney stated that no one would be more gratified than himself to see Pheby either produce the money or show that he had expended it properly in the interest of the company.

THE real estate sales of Los Angeles for April foot up $1,098,633 56, while the mortgages only amount to $178,822 58. This is a gratifying state of affairs. The figures not only signify a most healthy condition, but they point with emphasis to the fact that our county is making steady and rapid advance on the highway of progress. No section of country on the continent, of the area of this county, is attracting as much attention, perhaps, as Los Angeles. Notwithstanding the sales of last month have been large, at good prices, we fully expect even more lively real estate transactions in the near future, and at still higher figures. The number of visitors is steadily increasing, and we feel such a confidence in our incomparable country that we have no hesitancy in saying that a large proportion of those who merely come to see will conclude to remain or return at an early day.—Los Angeles Express.

'No, indeed,' was the answer, 'she's a person of refinement and education.'"

The County Hospital.

EDITOR INDEPENDENT: This morning in strolling around I visited the County Hospital, and am pleased to say that I found the house neat and clean, with as nice beds, I will venture, as can be found in any hotels of Inyo county. I found Mrs. Lewis at work in her garden at 6 o'clock A. M., and she has all kinds of vegetables. And it gives me pleasure to say that I do think that our County Hospital will compare favorably with any in the State. Respectfully,

W. T. GRANT.

SUPERIOR COURT. — The Superior Court, Hon. John A. Hannah presiding, held sessions on Thursday and Friday. John Clarke v. S. G. Gregg, Sheriff—Appeal case from Justice's Court of the First Township. On April 2, on motion of appellant (Gregg) by his counsel, A. R. Conklin, Esq., the case was dismissed on the ground that summons was served on defendant Gregg by Constable and not by Coroner. May 11th, on motion of R. S. Miner, Esq., attorney for respondent (Clarke) the order of Court made April 24 dismissing the case was vacated and set aside, and further on motion of respondent the appeal taken was dismissed on account of irregularity in perfecting appeal. Yandell vs. Keough—Demurrer to complaint argued and sustained, and plaintiff given until June 20th to file amended complaint. Clarke v. Nichols—Demurrer set for hearing Monday, May 14, and Clerk instructed to notify plaintiff. Wemple and Chastine vs. Campbell and Roberts—Demurrer set for hearing, Monday, May 14, and Clerk instructed to notify plaintiffs. Currier vs. Gregg, Sheriff, etc.—Motion to place cause on calendar and to hear demurrer denied.

"WHITE STAR."—In an advertisement elsewhere Mr. J. H. Bulpitt, at Bishop Creek, offers to farmers and gardeners for planting a lot of the noted White Star potatoes. The wondrous yield of over 2,300 pounds of potatoes from only twelve pounds was reported in these columns last Fall. Mr. Bulpitt, who is well experienced in the business, says that the potatoes should be cut so as to leave but one "eye" to the piece, and these planted singly in rows three feet apart and eighteen inches distant the other way. In good soil they require but very little irrigation.

PHENOMENAL.—The eclipse of the sun, which was observed last Sunday way down in the South Seas, or Wiggins, or somebody else, or something or other, has assumed considerable responsibility in regard to this weather question. At noon today it was snowing on Kearsarge Peak and the "High Sierras" generally. At the same time it is a fact that certain fruit trees are in full blossom again after the buds having been frozen cold on their first appearance. Where the fault lays for all this extraordinary condition of weather affairs remains to be seen.

THE KEYNOT.—Assessor Irwin has returned from an official visit to the Beveridge country. He says the Keynot mine is yielding plenty of free gold ore which works from $35 to $40 per ton at the new Lasky mill. The yield of gold bullion is from $1,000 to $1,200 per week. THE INDEPENDENT has so far found it impossible to get at any authenticated statements of the regular shipments, however much desirable such "solid" items are. The McEvoy mill is idle for the present.

PERSONAL.—Seth G. Sneden, John Blair, George Stevens and others of Bishop Creek, with ex-Supervisor Olds from Round Valley, were in town during the session of the Board of County Supervisors, intent on a settlement of the much-mooted road question. Supt. R. J. Laws, of the C. & C. R. R., was in attendance, with his attorney, S. D. Woods, Esq., who has just returned from his trip to San Francisco.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES.—On Monday, the 4th day of June, occurs—or should occur—the annual election of School Trustees for the various districts. Parents and teachers will "make a note on't it," hold regular elections and choose good men.

SCHOOLS.—The school at Round Valley will be resumed next Monday, with Co. Supt. Groves in charge. Miss Eva Shepherd on last Monday took the youngsters of the George's Creek school in hand.

THE ENGINES.—The two new locomotives of the Carson and Colorado Railroad are called "Benton" and "Darwin"—names conveniently short and appropriate.

TOO LATE.—Our regular report of the proceedings of the Board of Supervisors is necessarily laid over until next week.

THE two new locomotives for the Carson and Colorado Railroad, so long and anxiously looked for, have arrived at Carson. One of them is called the Benton and the other the Darwin. They are now in the Virginia and Truckee machine shops, and will be taken to the Carson and Colorado Railroad as soon as Mr. Fording, the Master Mechanic, has them in fix. The tenders are built entirely of iron, so that no such thing as burning a car will occur.—True Fissure.

WHEN they have a banquet down at Los Angeles, the reporter, in writing up the affair, speaks of the wines as "the rare vintages of La Belle France." There is not much local pride about that. The reporter should whoop up home wines, and say that the banquet wines were the choicest vintages of Los Angeles county. It might not make the banquet seem so high-toned, but the wines would have been just as good and perhaps a great deal better.—S. F. Post.

THE DEEP SPRING COUNTRY.

The undersigned returned late last week from a brief visit to Deep Spring Mining District. This visit was not undertaken for fun, still less with the view of writing any account thereof, but solely as a personal matter, shared by Mr. Oscar Stickney, wherein the moving cause was the hope of finding some clue to the lost key to the GREAT GRUB QUESTION.

But, as others, perhaps quite as worthy, are looking for that same clue, it is well to record a few observations for their benefit. It would fill a book to tell of all the mining claims bordering on Deep Spring Valley; their name is legion—though they are all recorded under other names than that.

Numerous as these locations appear to be, they really represent but comparatively few distinctive ledges; as a rule scarce a ledge but has at least two 1,500 foot claims located upon it, while there are some with not less than six. This is notably the case with one, which, for want of a better-known name, will here be called the after "old Gid. Whiteman," one of the most widely-known prospectors on the coast, and also one of the original locators of the ledge in question. There are no less than six consecutive locations on this lode, besides two or more on what appears to be a branch of the same. The ledge, having a plainly-discernible dyke of porphyritic rock for a foot-wall, and cutting across several lateral ravines, runs northeasterly from the valley along the high ridge, facing Soldiers' Pass, on its northwestern side.

The deepest of these lateral ravines cuts the ledge near the middle of its length, there exposing decomposed ledge matter "in place," full 30 feet in width. This seems to be the joining point of the branch lode alluded to. Bold and solid sun-burnt croppings are to be seen at various points all along both ledges. As a rule these croppings, as also the solid surface rock in the ledge, assayed so high as to give the locators good grounds to believe they had at last struck the master lode of the entire country. Scores of assays were had, and scarce one fell short of a hundred dollars to the ton, silver almost exclusively, while a fair proportion went double that, some even to $600. Some coyote holes, the deepest not exceeding 15 feet, were sunk on each of the several locations, and quantities of good ore, ranging from a hundred pounds or so to eight or ten tons were extracted from all of them, the largest pile being found on the branch lode. Besides these, a tunnel on the hillside just above the wide cropping in the ravine, was run in along the foot-wall for about 90 feet, gaining a depth of perhaps 45 feet vertically above the inner end. But nothing, save mere flecks of rich ore, was found in this tunnel; the hanging wall was not exposed at any point; the full size of the tunnel was in decomposed ledge matter, which is, likewise, the case a few feet below the surface in every other opening on the ledge. Except in the croppings and undecomposed rock of the surface, but little pay ore is found in this decomposed matter. It looks as if the agencies which caused the decomposition of the ledge matter, also at the same time leached most of the silver to greater depth, as is often the case in all minerals not in a metallic state. Certain it is that the croppings and solid rock near the surface of the vein yet retain their silver in paying quantities, as has been demonstrated time and again. For the most part, if not in its entire length, the vein cuts across the general stratification of the granite country rock. It is not for a novice to say what it is, or what it may be shown to be, but he can and does in perfect confidence invite those better versed in such matters, and on the look out for a real and permanent mine, to go and examine this most promising ledge for themselves. About half a mile north of this Whiteman Lode is a parallel ledge, called

THE GILBERT,

Which crops out for a distance of about 1,600 feet, the southern end extending quite down into the valley. William Hodge, whose faith in this ledge and the district in general is sufficient to remove mountains, is working away upon it, single-handed and alone. Thus he has managed to get a shaft down some 25 feet. While he does not claim to have "struck it" in the full sense of all that phrase implies, he does find about three feet of ledge matter in the bottom, and interspersed through it, small quantities of rich ore, mostly black or brown oxides, but also considerable stephanite. He has sorted out several sacks of ore with a view of shipping to San Francisco or elsewhere for reduction. In general, all that has been said of the Whiteman applies to this ledge, apparent length excepted. Directly across the valley, on the side of the main Inyo range facing the valley, are to be found numerous claims, some of them having been located and worked twenty years ago, and with which, notably

THE CINDERELLA,

Are associated some thrilling tales of the subsequent Indian troubles. Not having myself seen these mines, as well as dozens of others overlooking the valley on all sides, especially the west and north, all that need be said is that so rich have several of them always shown themselves to be that some of the very first locators are still at work upon them. This work has often been interrupted, sometimes for years at a time, murdering Indians at different periods, and the impossibility of obtaining supplies at others, being the causes, but never a lack of faith in the real value of the mines themselves. In the main these produce gold ores, or silver-lead. And it is also reported that at the greatest depth yet attained (about 100 feet and that on but one), the value of the ore varies but little from top to bottom. The

HICKEY AND WALKER FIVE-STAMP MILL,

Erected in 1872, worked several months on gold ores from a number of these ledges, quite a large lot from the "Blue Bird" going as high as $625 per ton. It was claimed that this mill turned out more bullion per stamp than any other ever run in the county. Nevertheless, after a few months' operation, the superior attractions of the Lida Valley mines, 40 miles distant, caused the removal of the mill to that place, where it yet stands. This mill stood on Wyman creek, the only permanent stream putting into the valley. At its lowest stage it affords about 250 cubic feet per minute, giving sufficient power for a small mill. But no other has ever been placed there or elsewhere in the district, since the removal of the first one.

The rather lofty ridge at the north end of the valley is the divide between Wyman and Cottonwood creeks, the two being some eight miles apart. The latter debouches into Fish Lake Valley. It furnishes about the same quantity of water as Wyman creek, and gives life and a high value to several hundred acres of excellent land comprising N. T. Piper's well-known ranch—the best-appointed, and, probably, the most valuable farm anywhere to be found on the eastern slope of the Sierras, but from which it is cut off by the intervening Inyo range. Some five miles up Cottonwood from Piper's, and mostly on the northern face of the ridge above alluded to, are to be seen many locations. In general, these ledges are small, but yielding exceedingly rich ores, both gold and silver. This has been the scene of some 13 years' continuous operations by Mr. O. K. Berry, the Recorder of the District. During all these years Mr. Berry has wrought, often entirely alone, sometimes in bonanza, sometimes in barasco (especially in the matter of a sufficiency of "grub") on different ledges in the vicinity, from which, at intervals, he has shipped enough high-grade ore to supply necessities, although it has happened that even $300 ore, in lots of two or three tons, barely paid shipping and reduction expenses. The arastra process was tried, but results were not highly satisfactory, chiefly on account of the sulphurets and carbonates of lead—a metal which, in some form, is found in most of the ores of the district. Among others of Mr. Berry's locations was one now known as

This he had opened in several places; the principal work was just below the summit of a narrow ridge, permitting a tunnel from the east side and a 45° incline from the croppings on the west side. Ill health and attending obstacles compelled him, about a year ago, to almost entirely suspend work. He then turned the property over for joint development and ownership to Scott Broder and W. A. Greenly, both of whom had prospected in the vicinity as long ago as 1861. During the year just past these two, by their own unaided efforts, have connected the incline and tunnel, their work, added to that already done by Mr. Berry, making a total length of well on to 300 feet, perhaps more. The greatest vertical depth reached is about 90 feet. From the croppings down the incline 210 feet or thereabouts the ledge is as plainly marked as "a mud streak in a snow-bank"—is without a break, sometimes narrowing to 8 inches, but generally holding up to 10 or 12, till near the bottom, when, by actual measurement, it widens to 5 feet 10 inches. I will not undertake to say that in this width the ore is as uniformly good as in the narrower parts, but it is safe to say that taken as a mass it is all pay ore, barring a small proportion of interspersed white quartz, such as is to be found in all ore bodies. Not a single foot of stoping to obtain ore has been done, yet they have now piled up very nearly if not quite 100 tons of milling ore, which from numerous fire assays, as well as innumerable "hornings," rate the lot as about $100 ore. No powder has been used in cutting this incline or tunnel. It is but half a mile on a wagon-road grade from the dump to the creek. The "'78" is a valuable mine, beyond question. The owners may well believe it contains their key to their part of the "great question."

The ores generally of the district are of a class susceptible of successful concentration, both silver and gold. It is likely that method (concentrating) will give better results than any "silver process" involving roasting and all that sort of thing. The gold ores can be worked to a pretty high percentage by battery and plates alone, but they, too, should be concentrated. The "'78" mine can certainly furnish ore enough to keep a five, perhaps a ten-stamp mill going right along. There are other ledges near by apparently quite as large or larger than this, and, so far as opened, no less promising. There are perhaps a hundred dumps within reach of the two creeks named, on each of which paying ore is now piled up. There is an immediate need for a small mill on each of these creeks. With such, and square and liberal dealing, Deep Spring would give profitable employment to a very large number of chloriders, saying nothing of the prospect for deep and permanent mining.

P. A. CHALFANT.

AN Eastern newspaper contemporary complains that our foreign diplomatic agents are so poorly paid that unless they are men of wealth, who can draw from their own private purses, they would cut a sorry figure in giving entertainments as compared to like public functionaries of other countries. It instances that the salary attached to first-class missions is but $17,000 per year, and notes that the English Ambassador at Paris gets $50,000, at Vienna $40,000, at Berlin $35,000, and at St. Petersburg $30,000. American representatives at Vienna, Rome, Madrid, Pekin, Yeddo, Rio De Janeiro and Mexico get $12,000, at Guatemala, Santiago and Lima $10,000, at Brussels, Bogota, Stockholm, the Hague, Port-au-Prince, Constantinople, and Honolulu $7,500. The English Ambassadors get at Constantinople $40,000, at Washington $30,000, at Madrid $25,000, Lisbon and Rio De Janeiro $20,000, the Hague $28,000, Athens $17,000, Stockholm $15,000, Santiago, Bogota and Lima $10,000. The German Ministers get, at Paris $30,000, at London and St. Petersburg $37,000, at Vienna and Constantinople $30,000, at Rome $25,000, at Pekin $15,000. It is overlooked by our contemporary that it was never designed republican simplicity should attempt to compete with monarchial extravagance. Giving state dinners is not necessarily a part of diplomic duties.

Imitation Baking Powders.

TO THE PUBLIC:

The public is cautioned against the practice of many grocers who sell what they claim to be Royal Baking Powder, loose or in bulk, without label or trade-mark. All such powders are base imitations. Analyses of hundreds of samples of baking powders sold in bulk to parties asking for Royal have shown them all to be largely adulterated, mostly with alum, dangerous for use in food, and comparatively valueless for leavening purposes.

The public is too well aware of the injurious effects of alum upon the system, to need further caution against the use of any baking powder known to be made from this drug; but the dealer's assurance, "Oh, it's just as good as Royal," or "It's the genuine Royal, only we buy it by the barrel to save expense of can," etc., is apt to mislead the unsuspecting consumers into buying an article which they would not knowingly use in their food under any consideration. The only safety from such practices is in buying baking powder only in the original package, of a well known brand, and a thoroughly established brand.

The Royal Baking Powder is sold only in cans securely closed with the Company's trade mark label, and the weight of package stamped on each cover. It is never sold in bulk, by the barrel, or loose by weight or in measure, and all such offered the public under any pretense, are imitations.

If consumers will bear these facts in mind, and also see that the package purchased is properly labeled, and the label unbroken, they will be always sure of using a baking powder perfectly pure and wholesome, and of the highest test strength in the market.

J. C. HOAGLAND, President,
Royal Baking Powder Co., N. Y.

LAST week, while descending the steep and icy grade near Hallah's arastra, Lake Canon, a shoe of one of Penter's large and heavily-loaded ore wagons broke loose from its fastening, when the ponderous mass shot forward down the ice and upon the team. Although in imminent danger of going over the grade and being dashed to atoms, Dan Jones, the driver, kept his seat and calmly "herded" his sliding team ahead of the flying wagon until the latter reached the foot of the grade, a distance of several hundred feet. No damage.—Homer Index.

WATER and sulphuric acid are the chief component parts of one of the delightful French white wines which foolish Americans pay two dollars a bottle for in preference to the pure California article at at 50 cents.

Benefits of a Free Country.

A free country is one where people who do wrong, it is considered must certainly be crazy. A lady thief in a free country is called a kleptomaniac, and instead of being jailed she is watched, and if detected in the theft somebody pays for the goods and that settles it. If she gets away with the plunder without detection she is that much ahead.

Men who hold positions of trust in the banks of a free country, and who wind up their business therewith by making a clean sweep of the funds, are unfortunate or misguided. Once in a great while a very harsh word is used in distinguishing them—they are called defaulters—but that is exceptional.

There is a tradition that two or three losers by one of the original bank busters met together upon an occasion and in an unguarded moment one of them termed the defaulter "a damned scoundrel." An outraged public got wind of this stab at the unfortunate man's character, and it was only with great difficulty the offender was saved from being lynched.

Men who kill their fellow men in free countries are cranks. A crank will blow somebody's brains out if he cannot get something that he wants. The first crank that we know anything about was a man named Cain; he desired to stand as high with his government as did his brother Abel, a much better man, and because he could not make it, he killed Abel. Civilization was at a very low ebb in those days and Cain was called a murderer, and the poor fellow had a very tough time of it.

THE following are a few of the original names of mines at Calico: Devil's Dream, Cream Station, Pumpkin Roller, Total Wreck, Seven Sisters, Dead Beat, Holy Terror, Blue Blazes, Miss Langtry, Editor's Dream, Black Jack, Suspicion, Last Chance, Hoodlum.

THERE is lying in the United States Treasury more than $10,000,000 of unclaimed money—interest and principal of the public debt, some of which dates back to 1837.

POLETA QUARTZ MINE.

No. 239.

U. S. LAND OFFICE, BODIE, CAL., April 28, 1883.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT THE Poleta Gold Mining Company, a corporation, whose postoffice address is Room 79, Nevada Block, San Francisco, California, has this day filed its application for a patent for 1 500 linear feet of the POLETA Quartz Mine or Vein, bearing gold and silver, with surface ground 600 feet in width, situated in the Bishop Creek Mining District, County of Inyo and State of California, and designated by the field notes and official plat on file in this office as Lot No. 37, in Township 7 South, Range 34 East, of Mount Diablo Meridian (unsurveyed), the exterior boundaries of said Lot No. 37 being described as follows, to-wit:

Beginning at a stake in mound of stone at the SW cor of the Pajaro claim, from which the side line center monument of La Nina claim bears N 59° 15′ W 9 ft dist, and the NW monument claimed for the Schuman claim bears S 65° 45′ W 7 ft dist, and running thence N 24° 15′ W 300 feet or 4 545 chs to a stake in stone mound at the northwest cor of the claim and the westerly end and center of the Pajaro claim, from which the original NW stone monument of the Poleta claim bears N 68° 45′ W 12 5 ft dist, and the NW cor of the Pajaro claim bears N 24° 15′ W 300 feet dist. Thence N 65° 45′ E at 9.45 chs the side line stone monument of La Nina claim bears N 24° 15′ W 1 feet dist; at 10 81 chains the side line monument of the Garfield claim bears N 24° 15′ W 2 4 ft dist; at 1469 2 ft the NE cor of the Pajaro claim; 1500 ft or 2 725 chs a stake in mound of stone at NE cor of the claim. Thence, S 24° 15′ E, at 300 ft or 4.545 chs a stake in mound of stone at easterly end of lode line, from which the original stone monument for the Poleta east end and center bears N 65° 45′ E, 119 30 ft dist, and a stake at easterly end and center of the Pajaro claim bears S 65° 45′ W 20 8 ft dist; 600 ft or 9 09 chs to a stake in mound of stone at the SE cor of the claim. Thence S 65° 45′ W at 30 4 ft or 0 46 chs the SE cor of the Pajaro claim; at 10 95 chs the east end center monument of the Schuman claim bears S 13° 58′ W 3 49 chs dist, the SE cor of La Nina mine bears S 17° 52′ W 6 67 chs dist, and the SE cor of the Schuman claim bears S 0° 35′ E 9 64 chs dist 1500 ft or 22 725 chs to stake in mound of stone at SW cor of the claim from which Mineral Monument No 2, Bishop Creek Mining District, bears N 36° 46′ E 6 36 chs dist. Thence N 24° 15′ W 300 ft or 4 545 chs to the place of beginning.

Magnetic variation 15° 45′ East, containing 20 65 acres.

The location of this mine is recorded in the Recorder's office of Bishop Creek Mining District, in Book "A" of Bishop Creek Mining District Records. The adjoining claimants are the "Pajaro," "La Nina," "Garfield" and "Schuman," claim-owners.

Any and all persons claiming adversely any portion of said POLETA quartz mine or surface ground are required to file their adverse claims with the Register of the United States Land Office at Bodie in the State of California, during the sixty days period of publication hereof, or they will be barred by virtue of the provisions of the Statute.

How the Widows Are Taken Care of in the Coal Regions.

While no organized relief societies exist among the colliers, there is a general system in vogue which does its work well and promptly. Every printing office in this region is visited weekly by persons wanting raffle tickets. These tickets cost $1 a hundred, and are headed: "Raffle for a Cooking Stove," or clock, bureau, quilt, table, or some other article of domestic use. It is announced that the raffle is for the benefit of a widow or an injured miner, and will be held at a place designated on the "night after pay day." The price of the tickets is generally 50 cents. The raffle is in charge of a committee whose names appear on the ticket. Take the case of a woman, for instance, lately made a widow. She has been left penniless, as miners' widows usually are. Everybody understands this, and the 100 tickets are promptly disposed of among the miners, who pay for them on pay day. On that day the widow gets $50 cash. The night of the raffle comes, and possibly one-fifth of the ticket holders assemble. A fiddler, a keg of beer and a little "hard stuff" form the elements of the entertainment. The young lads join in a dance with the lasses, the old men sup and smoke their pipes, and the old women recount the virtues of the deceased miner. About midnight the raffle begins. The names of the ticket purchasers are put into a hat and well shaken. Whoever secures the prize at once turns it over to the beneficiary. The company breaks up happy over the good time they have had and the kind deed they have done. That $50 goes a long way in keeping the shadows from the little house. It will sometimes pay a whole year's rent, and it only requires one or two more raffles to keep the widow's poor larder stocked, for it must be understood that potatoes, cabbage and meal form the staple articles of diet in these humble homes.

A year is a long time for a comely and thrifty woman to remain a widow at the mines, no matter how many children she may have. Jim is killed to-day, and possibly before the Summer ends, Jack, who was Jim's best friend, insists upon marrying Jim's widow. Jim's babies become his. And if you go below the surface you will find the foundation of Jack's action to be pure charity. It is a matter of record that when the terrible Avondale disaster occurred, so many widows and helpless ones were left that the matter of caring for the former speedily was discussed. It was quickly settled by propositions of marriage, and within a very short time after the calamity the household of every victim was protected. The same spirit exists in every mining community, and is a shield against distress.

"CREMATED" is becoming a favorite word with reporters in describing fires where there is loss of life; but it is not an accurate use of the word. In the improved furnaces now used in crematories there is no contact of flesh with fire. The heat is 2,000° or more, and at this temperature the body simply withers away into pure white ashes. The gases generated are burned in a separate chamber, and there is absolutely no smoke, odor or other unpleasant attribute to offend the sensibilities. The furnaces cost from $3,000 to $5,000.

THE clergy of Los Angeles refuse to officiate at weddings where either party has been divorced except for scriptural cause, and then only where the party is the innocent one. Now how are these gentlemen to establish the fact of innocence? Do they not know that in about half the divorces for adultery the supposed innocent party has colluded with the other that the divorce may be obtained, that "cause" affording the speediest means of severing the knot?

MR. BEECHER says: "It is not what we take up, but what we give up, that makes us rich." This is especially true in the stock market. Any man can buy securities—but what fortunes are lost by not giving them up at the right time. It is the holding on that "busts" the credulous outsider.

God in Nature.

In a recent scientific lecture, Prof. C. A. Young, the astronomer of Princeton College, used the following language: "Do not understand me at all as saying that there is no mystery about the planets' motion. There is just one single mystery—gravitation—and it is a very profound one. How it is that an atom of matter can attract another atom, no matter how great the disturbance, no matter what intervening substance there may be; how it will act upon it, or at least behave as if it acted upon it, I do not know, I cannot tell. Whether they are pushed together by means of an intervening ether, or what is the action, I cannot understand. It stands with me along with the fact that when I will that my arm shall rise, it rises. It is inscrutable. All the explanations that have been given of it seem to me merely to darken counsel with words and no understanding. They do not remove the difficulty at all. If I were to say what I really believe, it would be that the motions of the spheres of the material universe stand in some such relation to Him in whom all things exist, the ever present and omnipotent God, as the motions of my body do to my will—I do not know how and never expect to know."

THE United States Supreme Court in a case before it settled the following points: That land embraced in a town site on the public domain, when unoccupied, is not exempt from location and sale for mining purposes, even after the establishment of a regular municipal government, but only from settlement and sale under the pre-emption laws; the act of issuing a patent by the General Land Office, in cases within its jurisdiction, is conclusive of the legal title and of all the facts on which it has to pass before the issuing of patent, and cannot be attacked collaterally; hence in an action of ejectment brought by a patentee, it cannot be set up as a defense that the land was not of a character required for the issue of such a patent, or that the patentee was not a citizen, or that he had used fraud and perjury in obtaining the patent, such being matters which the commission had to act upon, or which only could be raised by direct proceeding attacking the patent. The issue of a patent is conclusive proof that the requisite notices were given; the point that an owner is estopped from claiming land when he has lain by and seen another make improvements on it can be raised only by one who is ignorant of his defective title.

AMONG the curious exhibits at the Munich Electrical Exhibition were a series of photographs representing the various changes and contortions produced in the human face by subjecting the different facial nerves of a patient to the action of electricity. These were the experimental photographs made by Professor von Ziemssen. The expressions of joy, pain, surprise, doubt, disgust, etc., were easily realized, according to the nerve that was touched by the electrode. Other observations and experiments by Professor von Ziemssen promise to be of great importance. They institute a comparison between the continuous and the induced current in the stimulation of the important accelerator and depressor nerves which control the heart. He has found that an induced current, so far from stimulating the nerves of the heart, as heretofore believed, is perfectly inoperative, whereas a continuous current from an ordinary battery is of the very greatest activity.

A ST. LOUIS paper tells an amusing incident that occured in a church of that city a couple of Sundays ago. A gentleman was the owner of a very unique pin in the shape of a black spider, the body of which is a large amethyst. This ornament was presented to a young lady friend, and she wore it on her dress to church. It so happened, and unfortunately, that a young gentleman near her perceived the life-like ornament on the young lady's dress, and to all appearances crawling up to her face. A look of terror spread over his features, and without any hesitation he endeavored to brush off what to him appeared a tarantula. He missed it and brushed at it again, when the almost audible smiles of a few who witnessed the gentleman's heroic endeavors attracted the young lady's attention. He became very red in the face when he discovered his mistake, and it will be a long time before he attends that church again.

ONE of the worst habits young people form is that of leaning forward too much while at work or study. It is much less tiresome and more healthy to sit or stand erect. The round-shouldered, hollow-chested and almost deformed persons one meets every day could have avoided all the bad results from which they now suffer had they always kept the body erect, the chest full and the shoulders thrown back. A simple rule is, that if the head is not thrown forward, but is held erect, the shoulders will drop back to their natural position, giving the lungs full play. The injury done by carelessness in this respect is by compressing the lungs, preventing their full and natural action, resulting in lung disease—usually consumption. Sit erect, boys and girls, and look the world in the face.

DAKOTA is getting a large share of this Spring's emigration. Two trains a day leave Chicago bound through to that Territory, and it is estimated that its southern half will contain before the end of the year a population of over 350,000. One peculiar feature is that fully ninety per cent. of the present inhabitants are Americans. Why is it that California fails to secure a portion of this westward movement?

He Got Thar.

Going down the great Jackson route from Grenada, Mississippi, a regular homespun native of the State entered the sleeping car and paid for a berth. He had never been inside of a car of the kind, and everything astonished him. When the porter came to make up the beds I saw that the native was greatly perplexed, but as he made no direct appeal, it wasn't my duty to post him. He was the first one to make preparations for bed. He glanced anxiously around, pulled off one boot, and then took a rest for five minutes. When the other boot came off he had solved the problem. Pushing his boots under the berth, he started for the rear platform, and nothing was heard from him for about ten minutes. Then he put his head into the door and called out:

"All you uns in thar, look out, for I'm coming."

And come he did. He had disrobed while standing on the platform, made a bundle of coat, vest and pants, and as he shot into bed after a run up the aisle, he gurgled out:

"Old Mississip' may be a little slow, but she allus gits thar, just the same."

THE butter, or fat, is a valuable constituent in milk, but milk which has little fat is still wholesome and hearty, because the caseine of milk is converted into fat by the digestive organs of the system. Milk as human food is sadly undervalued by the American people. A New York physician who, at the age of forty years, found his health gone, adopted a diet of boiled milk and rice with nothing else whatever, and lived another forty years in almost perfect health, and was able to do the greatest amount of mental work of his life. Many persons suppose that milk is not adapted to all stomachs, but he did not believe that there is one in a thousand who could not use it with advantage. Milk is now being used largely as a means of restoring sick persons to health. In Pennsylvania, a hospital for the bed ridden patients it has become very popular. Patients who have lost the use of their muscles are put upon a diet of milk and nothing else. About two ounces is given at first, once in two hours. In one hour and a half it is digested. The amount is gradually increased until the patient will take a gallon per day. This treatment is accompanied with rubbing of the body, and in a comparatively short time the muscles are renewed, and become healthy and strong enough to allow the patient to get up and walk.

DIVING FOR GOLD.—Down in the State of Cauca in the U. S. of Colombia, there are many deposits of auriferous gravel. Most of the small gulches and ravines have been worked out a hundred years ago, though more or less mining is still going on. Many large streams have auriferous beds and the natives are not up to turning the course of the river, so they mine in a peculiar way. The women take a batea in their hands and dive down in ten or fifteen feet of water, scrape the loose sand and gravel into it and bring it to the surface. Then they climb on the bank and "pan" it out. They get all the way from a few cents to four bits a batea. Sometimes the men engage in the work, but it is mainly done by the women. After a dive they sit down on the bank and smoke a while before going down again. They teach the children of twelve to dive for gold also. Sometimes rich pockets are struck. Nobody but natives engage in this sort of work.

WE read in a London paper: "We are, so to say, in a state of seige, certainly under the very strictest military and police surveilance. As night comes on we see all the public buildings delivered over to soldiers, gates are closed, sentinels with rifles loaded with ball cartridge pace rapidly to and fro, and some large apartment is for the nonce turned into a guard room. This has a truly martial aspect absolutely quite picturesque, and worthy of being commemorated by some enterprising R. A.; soldiers are gathered around the blazing fire, arms are glistening in the light, the drummer boy is waiting to beat to arms, and all are on the alert, ready to rush into the streets and do some bloody business there. This be it remembered, is in London in 1883!"

AN enormous quantity of water passes through the roots of plants. An English experimenter has ascertained that for every pound of mineral matter assimilated by a plant, an average of 2,000 pounds of water is absorbed. At the French Agricultural Observatory of Montsouris it was found that in rich soil, 727 pounds of water passed through the roots of wheat plants for every pound of grain produced; while in very poor soil, 2,693 pounds passed through the wheat roots for each pound of grain.

THE track of the Southern Pacific was laid to the Colorado river, at the Needles, some time ago, and the grading on the Atlantic and Pacific, coming from the East, is finished to the same place. Settlers have taken up Government land in the vicinity, and the prospect is considered good for the growth of quite a town at that point. About 1,200 Mohave Indians, engaged in agriculture on a small scale, are living in the vicinity.

A BOSTON Sheriff made the following level-headed remark: "Many women come to me at the jail and want to read and talk to the criminals, but I tell them to go and read and talk to the same class that are not as yet criminals, and keep them from becoming such." Very good advice, which ought to be followed. An ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure.

SATURDAY, MAY 19.....1883

JAMES H. PARKER.

A WASHINGTON dispatch says the Fair divorce suit has created little surprise at the Capital. The Senator had taken his wife to Washington only once, and it was rumored there that they did not live happily. A Congressman who claims to know something of the relations of Mr. and Mrs. Fair says that she frequently accused him of infidelity. This Congressman says Fair was not overly pleased with his Senatorial lite, and he thought this divorce suit might influence him to resign. "Should Fair conclude to resign his seat in the Senate," says the Winnemucca (Nev.) Silver State, "it would devolve upon Governor Adams to appoint his successor until the meeting of the next Legislature. This would make the next election in Nevada doubly interesting in a political and pecuniary sense, as the Legislature would then have two Senators to elect—one for the short term, to succeed Fair, and one for the long term, to succeed Jones. As it is said, and doubtless the truth, that victory is always on the side of the heaviest purse in Nevada Senatorial elections, a sack of unusual weight might be brought into the contest next year, as two candidates for Senatorial honors on each side would probably make a joint contribution to the election fund, and votes would bring about double the usual price."

THIS State is as diverse in its resources as it is in climate. If anyone knows of anything in the mineral or vegetable kingdom which this State does not produce, or is not capable of producing, we would like to know what it is. As the oil regions of Pennsylvania are approaching the period of their exhaustion, this State promises to step in and furnish the world with that illuminating article. Petroleum is known to exist in many parts of the State. Oil wells have been successfully worked for several years in the San Fernando oil regions, in Los Angeles county; and lately a new well in Pico Cañon has been successfully sunk, which promises an abundance of petroleum. A company has also lately been organized to sink wells in Contra Costa county, where petroleum has long been known to exist, if promising indications are of any account. There are most promising oil lands in Santa Barbara and several of the southern coast counties, which only await capital for their development. When Pennsylvania steps out, California will step in and supply the markets of the world with petroleum, as she has supplied the markets of the world with wheat. The developments of the resources of this State are still in their infancy.

MRS. HANNAH S. GRANT, mother of ex-President Grant, died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Corbin, Pavonia avenue, Jersey City Heights, Friday, the 11th inst. Mrs. Grant arose in the morning apparently in good health, but was seized with severe pains in the region of the heart shortly before noon. A physician was at once summoned, but she expired before his arrival. Mrs. Grant was born in Berks county, Pennsylvania, November 15, 1789, and was married to Jesse R. Grant at Claremont, Ohio. She was the mother of six children, three now living—Mrs. Corbin, U. S. Grant and Mrs. Kramer, wife of the present Minister to Switzerland. Her remains were interred in the family plot at Spring Grove cemetery, Cincinnati.

SECRETARY TELLER has rendered a decision in which he holds that the Act of June 3, 1878, in which are granted permits of sale at the minimum price of $2 50 per acre of lands valued principally for their timber and unfit for cultivation, does not apply to timber lands which may be rendered susceptible to cultivation by ordinary farming processes. "Such lands," the Secretary says, "are not within the purpose of this Act. It is intended to embrace within its provisions timbered tracts only on broken, rugged or mountainous districts, with soil unfit for ordinary agricultural purposes when cleared of timber."

GENERAL CROOK evidently thinks more of capturing Apaches than of sending bulletins to the War Department. He has been urged, it seems, to relieve the War Office of suspense by sending an occasional telegram, but thus far he has preserved an admirable reticence. If all our Indian fighters indulged in more work and less talk we would not hear so much about trouble on the border.

THE following is the coinage of the Carson Mint during the month of April: Double eagles, $120,000; standard silver dollars, $100,000.

EVERY mill on the Carson river will be kept in active operation during the coming Summer on low-grade ore.

GOOD NEWS FOR MINERS.

The main business in hand by Superintendents Yerington and Laws, of the Carson and Colorado, upon their present visit, is to fix upon the location on their line of two or more sampling mills, where ores can be received, sampled, bought and paid for by ore-buyers. Such a "plant," consisting of a steam engine, rock-breaker, small pulp mill, assay office, etc., can be established at a cost of about $2,500, and it is probable that three will be needed—at Bishop, Big Pine or Independence and near the Lake. Mr. Wm. B. Miller, Superintendent of the Melrose reduction works near Oakland, accompanies the party and will spend some time in examination of the various districts, mines and character of the ores, in furtherance of the enterprise.

In this our mine-owners and prospectors, whose properties have dragged upon their hands as almost worthless because of the absence of any way of realizing upon the ore extracted, will at once begin to see a gleam of daylight. Many old ore-dumps will be cleaned out, realized upon and new work and actual deep developments begun. The railroad managers are wisely determined that the purchasing agents shall satisfy all ore-producers that their sampling is perfectly fair, and that the prices paid, by whatever works wanting the ores, shall be exactly in accordance with their true value in the metals contained. This is accomplished by the seller taking a precisely similar sample and sending it here, to San Francisco or where he pleases to acknowledged experts for assay and comparison of results.

Now, if we want better times, let those who can and who know they have good ore get to work and take it out—the cash therefor can be obtained, at the most liberal prices consistent with safety to the buyer. These affairs will lead up to the final establishment of some great central reduction works in the valley, capable of handling any kind of our mineral products.

A MATTER OF INTEREST.

The State Mining Bureau has invited Inyo County to exhibit her mineral products at the coming mineral exposition, to be held at San Francisco during the Knights Templar Conclave, in August next. Now this is a matter of special interest to all citizens of this county, farmers and merchants, as well as miners. It will afford us a rare opportunity to show something of what this county contains in the way of valuable ores and minerals. Such a showing as we can make by the different mining districts acting in concert will attract much attention to this part of the State, and will no doubt be of great benefit in the near future. We believe that Inyo can make as good, if not a better showing, than any other county in California, if an effort is made to that end, and we hope that all who have the interests of Inyo at heart will take hold of this matter in earnest. It will be necessary to raise a small amount of money for the purchase of show-cases in which to properly exhibit the specimens collected. This may be easily done by subscriptions in any amount, from one dollar up. Specimens of ores and useful minerals are solicited from all parts of the county, and should be sent to Messrs. Harris & Rhine at Independence, for proper packing and shipment. Messrs. Harris & Rhine have consented to act as treasurers of the money collected, and also as agents to receive the specimens contributed, and see that they are properly marked and packed for shipment. The name of the mine, and district where located, should accompany each piece. Specimens can be sent free of charge by Wells-Fargo's Express to Independence. A proper person should be appointed in each district, who will attend to soliciting subscriptions of money, and collecting specimens, and forwarding the same, as above noticed. Let us all move in this matter, and make a showing that Inyo will be proud of.

THE new steamer Oregon, of the Guion line, a sister ship, but larger than the Alaska, and which is now nearing completion, will be the very monarch of the seas. Her engines will be of 13,000 horse power, 3,000 more than those of the Great Eastern; 2,700 tons of steam will pass through her engines daily, and her daily consumption of coal will be 300 tons. She will have a 24-foot screw, with nearly a 40-foot pitch. It is believed that she will develop a speed of nearly, if not quite, twenty miles an hour, and hence will considerably shorten the swiftest time heretofore made across the big ferry.

THE New York Legislature is wrestling with the dime novel problem. Cheap literature of the demoniacal kind is as dear to the youthful heart as whisky to an old toper. If possible the dime novel should be either controlled or banished.

THE BROOKLYN Bridge Trustees have fixed the toll for foot passengers at one cent. The disbursements thus far on account of the construction of the bridge amount to $14,689,905.

GEN. ALBERT PIKE, the distinguished thirty-third-degree Mason and jurist, poet, statesman and warrior, is now a visitor on this coast. He was interviewed by an Examiner reporter on the 4th instant. In the course of his remarks in regard to his impressions of this State, he said: "With the utilization of the great lakes and other water resources of the Sierras, California is capable of a development now undreamed of. She will be equal to Egypt—yes, a half-dozen Egypts. Every foot of land in the San Joaquin Valley will receive continued fertility, and yield the heaviest crops. The development of this country must remain comparatively scanty until your incomparable valleys are fattened by the copious and unfailing water supply ready to pour down upon the inviting plains at the solicitation of energy, skill and capital. It will be done, too. There are untold fortunes in these enterprises. I was born fifty years too soon. I would like the pleasure of seeing and taking some part in the grand things that are to be accomplished within the next half century. Water will do astounding work on this coast. Sometime the Government will make De Lesseps' incision through Lower California, and run the waters of the Pacific into the great Arizona desert. The climate of that region, through the conversion of that terrible sand waste into an inland sea, would be all changed and the country would become moist, rainy and fruitful."

A SINGULAR case of change of name comes from Troy, New York. A well-known dentist there, named Matthew T. Ryan, recently applied to change his family name to Millington, for this reason: "Because the name of Ryan, owing to the notoriety of one Patrick Ryan, more commonly known as 'Paddy Ryan,' a pugilist, seriously injures and affects the name of your petitioners, displaces them from good society and social intercourse in the community of the city of Troy." The slogger should wait upon the tooth-carpenter and demand reparation for his wounded honor.

PROFESSOR JOSEPH LE CONTE, of the California University, in a paper read before the California Academy of Sciences, said that the question is now settled forever that metalliferous veins are deposited from liquid forms, and in proof instanced the phenomena of deposit at Sulphur Bank, California, and Steamboat Springs, Nevada. The Virginia Enterprise claims that it, years ago, called attention to the fact that a big quartz vein was in process of formation at Steamboat Springs. The work is going right along, and the ledge has the true north and south trend.

A CABLEGRAM has been received in New York announcing that Mr. Langtry is soon to sail for this country. This is the first time the silent partner in the firm has been heard from for many months. It would be touching to witness his meeting with Freddie and his gratitude to the "cavalier servente," who has so graciously brought the British beauty into disrepute in this country.

AT Uniontown, Pa., threatening letters continue to be sent to the Dukes jurors, signed by vigilance committees, Mollie Maguires, etc., but no violence has yet been offered. If any vigilance committees exist they are of a most guarded and secret kind and will do their work in such a way as to render detection extremely difficult.

UNCLE SAM is richer than Vanderbilt yet—that is to say, he has more ready cash on hand. The debt statement, as published at Washington recently, shows a decrease in the public debt during April of $2,851,402. Cash in the treasury, $319,159,401. The total reduction of the debt in ten months of the fiscal year has been $114,834,575.

A LIVE ISSUE in the next campaign will be the abolition of internal revenue taxation. The party which refuses to put that plank in its platform will stand on a slippery foundation.

IT is said that the Union Pacific Railroad Company earned $1,219,000 during the first half of April.

IT is an asonishing thing that you cannot kill a pig with arsenic. I had a friend who was an enthusiastic chemist. He had preserved a lot of cherries in an arsenical solution, and having no further use for them threw them one morning from his laboratory window. A rambling porker, on the lookout for edible trifles, saw them drop, and looking them over and contrasting them with the usual expanse of tile, brickbat and old tin cans on which it had been his daily wont to browse, eagerly swallowed them. My friend was alarmed, and visions of a bill for the value of a dead and uneatable pig rose like a spectre before his eyes. He chased the pig away, and thought perhaps its death might not be laid at his door if the pig was not there when it expired. The incident warned him; but on the following morning he was dumbfounded to see the pig waiting for more of the deadly fruit. Some were prepared, for my friend was an investigator, and doled out to his hogship. He devoured them, and grunted for more. Each morning that pig returned, and each morning the dose was increased until my friend was ruined and the pig's confidence in arsenical cherries stronger than ever.—Ex.

A Crucial Test.

The severe chemical tests to which the various baking powers have from time to time been placed have demonstrated clearly to the public the relative merits of the different brands from an analytical point of view. For instance, Dr. Love, the eminent Government Chemist, in his analyses made the comparative strength as follows:

	Cubic inches Gas Evolved
"Royal" (absolutely pure)	127.04
"Charm" (alum powder)	116 09
"Dr. Price's"	102 01
"Snow Flake" (Groff's)	111 88
"C. E. Andrews & Co.'s" (alum powder)	78.17

The Royal Baking Powder was found, besides being of absolute purity, to evolve the highest amount of leavening gas of any of the powders tested, and hence it was placed at the head of the list and recommended for Government use.

But the crucial test of the kitchen is, after all, the most satisfactory to the housekeeper. A baking powder that never fails to make light, sweet, wholesome and palatable bread, biscuit, cake, etc., upon all occasions, is the one that will be placed at the head of the list by the practical housewife, and received into her kitchen for continuous use. This test the Royal Baking Powder has stood for over twenty years without a single failure, and hence its reputation as the best baking powder made has spread from house to house, and its use has become as universal as its merits are unrivaled.

A JUDGMENT for the defendants has been rendered by Judge Hunt in the case of John G. Klumpke vs. Sarah S. Ackerson and others. This was an action to quiet title, the property in question having been sold to the plaintiff for the delinquent State and municipal taxes for the fiscal year 1879-80. The tax deed did not recite what is required by Section 3,786 of the Political Code to be specified in the certificate of sale—namely, "the time when the purchaser shall be entitled to a deed," the revenue law, as it now exists, allowing the owner twelve months from the date of purchase for redemption. Such deed, when duly acknowledged and reciting the matters contained in the certificate of sale, is made by law prima facie evidence that the property was assessed, the taxes levied according to law and not paid, and that at the proper time and place the property was sold and not redeemed. The plaintiff relied for recovery entirely upon his deed and the matter whereof it was primary evidence under the section noted. The question was whether the omission is fatal. Judge Hunt holds that in reference to tax deeds the statutory recitals prescribed for such deeds become matters of substance and the omission thereof will render the deed void.—San Francisco Chronicle.

"ENGLAND," said Rufus Hatch, who has just returned from Europe, "is bankrupt in soil, politics and religion. Between tithes and rent, which are spent in London and on the Continent, the farmers are unable to get along and are giving up their farms. Business and professional men are waking up to the fact that the country is over populated, and within the next twelve months 500 wealthy emigrants will come to this country, bringing at least $50,000,000 with them. Next year not less than $100,000,000 of foreign capital will arrive here. In Ireland I saw nothing but squalid misery, and in France the condition of the peasantry is about as bad as possible, and economy is with them not a virtue but a necessity. The English are beginning to see that every thousand miles of new railway in this country is opening up the great West to the English and bringing its products nearer to the English markets. They want and will buy at fair prices every pound of food we can send them. Their crops will be a failure this year, and we will have an ample market for all we can export."

I USED to think it hard that I was not a bonanza man who could enter good society or the penitentiary, according to circumstances, or who might be a Senator or a son-of a gun whenever I chose, but now that I have seen it tried I am content to labor on through life without winning deathless notoriety as a lecherous Congressman and thick-necked snoozer, who, under the shadow of the great National capitol at Washington, flaunts the tail of his $250 night-shirt ie the face of the Goddess of Liberty, spells cabbage with a k, and doesn't know the difference between the Dred Scott decision and the statute in such case made and provided. I'm glad, though, that nature and cruel fate have fitted me to walk in the humbler trail and in a sixty-cent night-shirt, that I am content. Though I may not be so bewitching in the robes of night as Senator Tabor is, I am not afraid that previous and pro tem. wives will burst in upon my child like slumbers and wreck the joy of my whole existence. It may be only a slight difference in taste, but that's the kind of social outcast I am.—Bill Nye.

SATURDAY, MAY 19..... ..1883

A WONDERFUL SPRING.—The greatest discovery of the age has been made on the shore of Owens Lake, in this county. A spring of water was found on the lake shore by a thirsty traveler, short time ago, which has a wonderful effect on the human constitution. The discovery was made in the following manner. A man who had taken in a heavy cargo of Lone Pine tanglefoot, found himself the next day wandering on the lake shore, with a head on him about the size of a beer barrel, and his soul longed for a cooling fluid that would reduce the temperature of his coppers. He looked sadly at the lake and sighed to think that its sparkling waters were undrinkable. In this unhappy condition he suddenly stumbled upon a clear spring of water that bubbled up under his feet. With a sigh of relief he fell upon his face and took in about a gallon of that water. The effect was magical, his head immediately resumed its natural size, his burning thirst was gone, his spirits rose, in fact he felt like a new man. His first act was to fill two empty whisky bottles, which he had with him, with the water, and start forward. In a few days he returned and procured a considerable quantity of the water, with which he has been making long and exhausting experiments, the result of which he now gives to the world. The water, he claims, not only cures all known diseases of the human body, but it has the effect of curing persons of dishonest and unpleasant peculiarities of character, and occupation. Henceforth, St Jacobs Oil, Walkers Vinegar Bitters, and all other patent nostrums will be cast into the shade. Among the complaints that the water is warranted to cure are the following: Kleptomania, Snakes in the boots, Big head, Swelled head, Gin drinkers liver, Office seekers fever, Defaulters' weakness, Cross eyes, Rum blossoms, Printing office bites, Liars, Spring poetry scribblers, Stud-horse poker players, Dynamite fiends, Wild cat mining operators, Dudes, Bummers, Mine jumpers, Lunch fiends, Damphools, Old soakers, Blackmailers, Dead beats, Scandalous tongues, Bilks, Female book agents, Character defamers, Chronic embezzlers, Political blowers, and Shysters. Five million bottles of the water has been put up, and will be sold at the low price of one dollar per bottle.

A MATTER FOR REGRET.—At the lower end of Deep Spring Valley, close on to the borders of its somewhat celebrated acrid lake, is a large spring or pond of pure water, and of unfathomable depth, from which fact comes the name of the valley. Mr. J. W. McMurry, of Big Pine, is the owner of the spring and ranch upon which it is situated. Some months since, at an expense of something near $100, he fully stocked this pond with carp. For a time the fish flourished finely, but lately not one is to be seen. No one can account for their mysterious disappearance on any other theory than that some vandals temporarily stopping there had destroyed them with giant powder. Men who would do such a thing as that would steal the sucking-bottle from a weakly baby provided they incurred no risk of detection. No man in the country has done as much in the way of public enterprises of this as well as other kinds of like nature as Mr. McMurry, which fact makes this loss all the more a subject for general regret. It is possible, however, that some natural causes may have occasioned the disappearance of the fish, and that the alleged vandals have been unjustly suspicioned. Otherwise, it is to be hoped the next time they try a thing of this kind a premature discharge may leave them minus at least a finger or two.

CARRO GORDO.—This once flourishing camp, after several years of torpor, now bids fair with the coming of the railroad to reassume something of its former activity. Of late very little work has been done on any of the mines and claims in the district, the Palma mine being the only one employing any force, though this force has not been large for the last four or five months. The burning of the company's tug boat on the lake last Summer greatly interfered with more extended operations in this mine as well as others on the hill, as the stoppage of the Hawley mill prevented the excavation of ores; yet work on the Palma has gone on without stoppage, the principal development being through the "Hawley Tunnel," which has been pushed in to a distance of over 400 feet, Mr. Wheeler having gone quietly opening and developing the mine and making improvements generally, getting ready to occupy a full force when the railroad shall have reached the Hawley mill and there is a certainty of a constant supply of wood, etc. A few weeks ago the greater part of the men were withdrawn and put to work on some of the lead mines owned by the Swansea Company.

SCHOOL CENSUS.—The school census just taken for Independence School District gives results as follows: Total number of children under 17 years of age, 75; between 5 and 17 (census children), 51. Of the latter, 21 are boys (one colored), and 30 are girls. There were three births during the past 12 months. Three were born in foreign lands, and 21 were of parents both foreign, and 41 were of native born parents; 10 were of parents one native one foreign born.

A LIBERAL OFFER.—Mr. S. D. Woodhull, of the Independence Assay Office, offers to send his whole collection of Inyo county minerals to the exhibition at San Francisco, provided the money is raised to purchase cases in which to show it to advantage. This would make a grand addition to what other minerals may be collected, and would insure the complete success of the Inyo exhibit.

PETITIONS.—Anent to the several road petitions from Bishop Creek before the Board of Supervisors last week was one praying for the establishment of lighthouses at the various harbors and landings on Owens Lake, such internal improvements being necessary for the protection of Inyo's vast maritime interests, etc., for and in consideration of which the petitioners would agree to build a suspension bridge from the summit of Buena Vista Mountain in the Inyos across the Lake to a corresponding hight on Mount Whitney in the Sierras. The petition was promptly placed on file—in the Chairman's coat pocket. Another prayer was sent up from leading citizens, engineered by a man who was about to start a bit saloon, asking that a county wholesale and retail liquor license be established at the rate of $2,000 and $1,000 each per annum respectively. Probably in response to this, and under the provisions of the County Government bill, the Board did pass an ordinance levying a license tax upon all classes of dealers and vendors. The document is quite lengthy, the particulars of which may be learned upon its official publication; and until this is done we apprehend that no one can be compelled to pay much under its operation.

A BEAUTIFUL MINERAL BOX.—Mr. Woodhull, of the assay office, has shown us one of the handsomest things of the kind that we have ever seen. It consists of a box, five by seven inches, and five inches deep, lined with velvet. The outside is covered, or encrusted with one hundred beautiful mineral specimens, about the size of small walnuts, and consisting mostly of gold and silver ores, carefully selected for their beauty, rarity, and bright colors. The specimens are strongly cemented to the surface in regular order, and a ground work is put in of fine brilliant crystals of galena, the whole making a magnificent ornament. The article was ordered by a gentleman from San Francisco, for presentation to a friend. A diagram of the box is drawn on paper, and each specimen is numbered, and name of mineral given with assay value, so that a person may read the the whole thing. The work shows fine taste on the part of Mr. Wooodhull, in the general make up and arrangement of the minerals.

CARSON AND COLORADO ELECTION.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Carson and Colorado Railroad Company was held at Mound House Station, Lyon county, Nevada, May 14. The following Directors were elected: S. P. Smith, H. M. Yerington, D. L. Bliss, W. D. Tobey, Alfred Helm, B. C. Whitman and D. A. Bender. H. M. Yerington was elected President and General Superintendent; D. L. Bliss, Vice President; S. P. Smith, Treasurer; D. A. Bender, Secretary; E. B. Yerington, Assistant Secretary. Following are the officers of the company: H. M. Yerington, General Superintendent; R. J. Laws, Assistant Superintendent; D. A. Bender, General Freight and Passenger Agent; R. H. Wright, Auditor; C. P. Mason, Purchasing and Supply Agent; E. W. Clark, Master of Transportation; A. M. Ardery, Superintendent of Telegraph; W. B. Bullions, Road Master.

SWANSEA.—The old Swansea works, which have for years been a landmark on the margin of Owens Lake, will soon cease to be. For about ten days past Mr. Wheeler has had a small force at work taking down the old furnace building, preparatory to the erection of works on higher and more suitable ground. We learn from Mr. Wheeler that it is the intention of the Swansea Company to at once put up first-class smelting works of furnace capacity of thirty tons per day, with every recent improvement. We have not learned of the precise location where the new works are to be erected, but understand it will be somewhere southeast of the present old works. In another article it will be seen that Mr. Wheeler has men working on some of the company's lead mines, which indicates that the company is in earnest. There is a chance for some of our enterprising teamsters.

THE EFFECTS.—Some more of the natural and consequent effects of the selling of whisky to Indians may be noted in the following authentic item from Lone Pine: "Lone Pine had two Indians for breakfast last Monday morning, they having been killed with knives, and all cut to pieces as only Indians can butcher each other. Another was badly wounded. The Indians 'heap no sabe what for;' and it is white man all the same." The bodies were found on the road between Dr. Colleau's place and Dodge's. The Indians belonged at George's Creek. LATER.—A later report is to the effect that the killing was done by a Mexican, who on Thursday night stole a horse from Dodge and made his escape. Yesterday, upon this becoming known, a party started from Lone Pine in hot pursuit.

ANOTHER FIRE.—The residence of Mrs. Williams, situated about three miles east of the town of Bishop Creek, was destroyed by fire one day last week, during the absence of all. Fires have become alarmingly frequent of late in that region, and incendiarism is suspected to be the cause. The lady was the recipient of a very substantial benefit at a ball and supper given at Drake's Hotel last Tuesday night—the tickets ranging from $2 50 to $10 each, as the contributors and participants felt disposed.

THE SACRAMENTO.—The reconstructed Sacramento mill, Piute District, will be started up again next Tuesday. New amalgamating pans, settlers, etc., have been added, under the supervision of a practical millman sent there by the Railroad Company. That the mine is big and rich there is no question, and now we ought to have good reports regularly from the Sacramento.

COMPLETED.—The railroad station building at Big Pine is now completed. It is a spacious and comfortable structure.

A Lively Time.

The even tenor of Big Pine life was pleasantly interrupted a few evenings since by an enjoyable dance at the residence of Mrs. S. M. Bell. A large number of persons were present, including quite a delegation of the "railroad boys." The rooms were cleared and ample room given for all who wished to dance. Old and young alike seemed to enjoy the event. Messrs. Beasley, Allerton and others not often seen at dances were as ardent as the mustacheless youth. Supper was promptly served at 12—and a fine supper, too. I can vouch for its excellence, for I can judge of the "good things" with a vim when I'm hungry. Early dawn caught the dancers still keeping time to the music. And then to see the long procession of "sleepy heads" coming home. Wm. McDonald came very near having a serious runaway. Otherwise no accidents occurred to mar the occasion. About twenty-five couples enjoyed and appreciated the effects of having passed a sleepless night. This was the event of the season. Everyone was satisfied, and Mrs. Bell surely deserves credit for the excellent management and preparation.

WADE.

PERSONALS.—S. D. Thurston returned Thursday from San Francisco and the session of the Grand Lodge I. O. O. F. at San Jose. He was made Deputy Grand Master of this, the 68th District. While in the city he received Judge Moffat and placed him in the noted German Hospital, while the Odd Fellow authorities have secured for him the services of eminent physicians. The Judge was no worse for the trip and there are strong hopes for his recovery. ....H. M. Yerington and R. J. Laws, Chief and Assistant Superintendents of the C. & C. R. R., were in town yesterday, and have gone on a visit of inspection to Cerro Gordo....Wm. P. Miller, of the Melrose Reduction Works, with S. D. Woods, has gone out to Darwin and southward....Judge A. R. Conklin and family are off on an excursion to their orange grove in Los Angeles....R. S. Miner, Esq., has gone to Bridgeport, intending to return here for the July term....J. W. P. Laird has been rusticating for a time at Gospel Swamp....Sheriff Gregg is at Big Pine....Mr. I. P. Yaney and Mrs. Seth G. Sneden of Bishop paid a pleasant visit to Independence during the week, as did also Mrs. Dr. George.

CURIOUS.—A few days ago Dave Hock, of Big Pine, observed what appeared to be something white flying with a flock of blackbirds. On a near approach the white object proved to be a two-colored bird, one half being white, and the other half wholly black, the dividing line being along the center of the back. Several persons have since seen this "white blackbird," or black whitebird. Sportsmen are on the lookout for it.

ACQUITTED.—The San Francisco Chronicle of May 10th contained an item from San Bernardino stating that Johnny Williams, who killed a man named Sullivan at Calico a few weeks ago, had been acquitted of the charge of murder on his trial. Williams was a well-known sport of this county, and we regret that no authentic particulars of the affair have been attainable.

COURT BUSINESS.—In the Superior Court on Monday last Mrs. Kate L. Sneden was authorized to become a sole trader in her own name. Beyond some routine orders in in probate matters there was no further business transacted. There are likely to be quiet times about the Court House until the beginning of the next Court term in July.

NEW INCORPORATIONS.—Articles of incorporation were filed in the County Clerk's office on the 15th of the Henry Clay Mining Company and the Harmony Mining Company, of San Francisco. They are organized to work borate lands somewhere down on the deserts, and have a paid up capital of $500 each.

FOR SALE.—By an advertisement elsewhere it will be seen that Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hutchison offer for sale their valuable ranch and property at Bishop Creek. It is one of the oldest locations and most valuable in the valley.

THE COLD WAVE.—A Lone Pine correspondent says and asks: "Jack Frost last night finished what he overlooked two weeks ago. Wonder if the advent of the railroad has changed the climate?" Wiggins, my boy, Wiggins.

CAT.—Big Piners are enthusiastic over 'fishing for cat." About one hundred have been caught during the last week. These fish were put into the river about four years ago.

RE-ELECTED.—At a meeting of the miners of Deep Spring Mining District, held at Gilbert's ranch, May 1st, Mr. O. K. Berry was unanimously re-elected Recorder for that District.

SHEEP.—A band of 4,000 sheep is passing up on the east side of the river, en route from Visalia to Montana.

THE Anaheim Gazette of the 12th inst. says: The first serious accident at the ostrich farm happened on last Saturday. The largest and finest looking of the male birds is possessed of a most ferocious temper and on the day mentioned gave his mate such a severe kick as to break her leg and she shortly afterwards died. It is said that no instance is known of an ostrich recovering after having its leg broken. Hereafter the belligerent bird will be kept alone in his paddock. The value of the bird killed was $1,500."

MR. F. W. ROSE, 58 years of age, was brought to town last Thursday in a very bad condition, being paralyzed from his hips downward. He has been engaged in farming, wood-cutting and prospecting at Ash Meadows, Inyo county, 200 miles distant from here. He was brought over the long, weary road in a wagon, then sent by rail to the Sisters' Hospital, Los Angeles.—Calico Print.

SATURDAY, MAY 19.....1883

RECENTLY a man in Carson, Nevada, attempted to extend a sort of trestle-work out from the roof of his cottage. He got on a step-ladder and his head came up just above the roof. In nailing on the last strip he was obliged to lay his neck alongside one of the pieces already nailed, while the one he was nailing came along the other side of his neck. When he got through nailing and started to go down on the ground to admire his job he found he could not get his head down. Then the old step-ladder threatened to fall, and if his brother had not come out and extricated him he would have probably hanged himself.

EXTENSIVE mica beds are being found in Custer county, Dakota, of unsurpassed purity. This has become a large business, which is gradually assuming mammoth proportions. The demand for mica is increasing in proportion to any possible increase in the production. This branch of our mining industry is destined to become a very important one in the near future.

ABOUT 93,000 acres of land were planted to trees in Kansas last year. That State has an Arbor Day, on which every person in the State is supposed to plant at least one tree. Would it not be a good thing for California to inaugurate the same system? It would have a great effect upon the dry plains, and for the better.

THE juice of the red onion is a perfect antidote for the sting of bees, wasps, hornets, etc. If applied freely soon after being stung, it gives almost instant relief. The sting of the honey-bee is always left in the wound and should be extracted before applying the onion juice.

DURING the recent Mississippi cyclone a mule and a fence rail went up among the clouds in company. The mule came down first and landed on his back. The rail followed, and, striking the stomach of the mule, not only went entirely through the animal, but two feet into the ground, besides.

SHERIFF'S SALE.

BY VIRTUE OF A DECREE OF FORECLOSURE of mortgage and order of sale issued out of the Superior Court in and for the County of Inyo, State of California, in the suit of O. I. Mairs, Plaintiff, against J. M. Horton, Defendant, upon a judgment rendered in said Court on the Second day of May, A. D. 1883, duly attested this Fourth day of May, A. D. 1883, whereby I am commanded to make the amount of $1 304 56 100 in gold coin of the United States, besides accruing costs and interest, I have levied upon all the right, title and interest of the said Defendant in and to the following described real property, to-wit:

All that certain piece and parcel of land situate in the County of Inyo, State of California, described as follows, to wit: Commencing about one hundred feet south of the northeast corner of the fence on the northwest quarter of Section No. Seven (7) in Township No. Seven (7) South, of Range No. Thirty three (33) East, and lying on the west side of Main street in Bishop Creek, having a frontage on said street of fifty feet, and running back a distance of one hundred feet in depth. Said described property being what is commonly known and designated as Jack Horton's saloon.

Notice is hereby given that on TUESDAY the TWENTY NINTH day of MAY, A. D. 1883, between the hours of 9 o'clock A. M. and 4 o'clock P. M., to wit: at the hour of 1 o'clock P. M. of that day, in front of the Court House, in the town of Independence, County of Inyo, State of California, I will sell all the right, title and interest of the said Defendant, J. M. Horton, in and to the above described property, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy said judgment and all costs, at public auction, to the highest bidder or bidders, for cash in hand in gold coin of the United States.

A Possible Parallel.

Lady Florence Dixie has an American imitator in Richmond, Va. A girl 16 years old, who has probably heard a surfeit of conversation about robberies on account of her father's business being that of Police Captain, was found tied and gagged in her room, and she told a wonderful story about burglars having bound her. As this was the third or fourth attempted robbery of her father's house, a close investigation was made, and it was discovered that the young woman herself had been the moving spirit in all the alleged burglaries. Such strange freaks of women are not so rare as to be extraordinary. They are often due to well-understood physical causes, and do not necessarily imply a deceitful nature or wicked desires. Lady Florence stands stoutly by her original story, but the Richmond girl has confessed to her deception. To that extent, therefore, the latter has given evidence of an earlier return of reason than has been shown by the former.

SPEAKING at Milan of the great comet of 1882, Prof. Schiaparelli, the eminent Italian astronomer, remarked that such a body is very small in the cold of distant space—so small as to be invisible. As it approaches the sun it gradually becomes heated, and its solid or fluid matter is largely converted into a gaseous state, causing it to swell enormously in size. It then develops a tail of very diffuse substance, the immense tail which stretched across the eastern sky during the mornings of last Autumn having been estimated by one astronomer to contain only a few pounds of material. The cometary body reaches its greatest expansion when nearest the sun, and as it returns into distant space it again contracts into insignificance. No exact calculations have yet been made of the orbit of the great comet of 1882, but from observations in September, October and November it is assumed that its period is included between 800 and 900 years, that its aphelion is 175 times as far from the sun as the earth at its mean distance and that its velocity is 23,000 times as great when nearest the sun as when farthest away.

HERE is an illustration of the folly of meddling with things you do not understand: While a party of scientific men were preparing to observe the recent transit of Venus in New Mexico, a powerful equatorial telescope was mounted in an observatory with a clock-work mechanism which enabled the telescope to accurately follow the sun. Professor Davidson was constantly watching the slow course of the planet, which, through the darkened glass, appeared like a small black shot rolling across a plate of pale, gleaming gold. A bystander was about to apply his eye directly to the end of the telescope, when Prof. Davidson snatched him away in alarm, exclaiming: "It will burn your eye out!" and he told how, for experiment, he had placed a direct object glass in the opening and the powerfully concentrated rays had melted it almost in a flash.

THE Pomona Times tells a little story as follows: We have to chronicle the "complete ruin" of one who came to Southern California. He came to this county last Fall, leased a large tract of land and sowed it to barley. Just before our last glorious rain he grew homesick, wanted to get back near the old place and offered to take $100 for his crop, which would be enough to take him back. Some man, who has been in the country for more than "two or three years," gave him the $100, and immediately after the rain sold the crop for $6,000.

BUT few persons are aware of what constitutes 1,000,000. We will illustrate this with the standard dollar. This piece of money is 1½ inches in diameter. Place 1,000,000 of these coins in a straight line, touching each other, and this silver line will reach nearly twenty-four miles. Again, to engage a boy to pick them up, averaging one a second, for ten hours a day, it will take him 41⅔ days before his work would be done.

Florida Insects.

A Florida letter says: More feared just now by the traveler in Florida than the Indians are her insects. In some seasons the flea is omni-present and innumerable. He is recognized in polite society, and scratching is tolerated, as in Scotland. Ticks abound in the cattle pastures. They consist of an india-rubber sack attached to a small corkswrew head, which latter they insert under your cuticle and through which they draft your precious sanguinous fluid into the sack. You are apprised of one's presence by suddenly feeling a protuberance as large as a buckshot, occasioned by the expansion of the sack. You attempt to drag it off, but succeed only in pulling the body away, after which you can dig out the head at your leisure with your hunting-knife. The red bug is to be found on nearly all the hunting grounds, near fresh water, exactly where you desire to encamp, and is very apt to appear in a swarm when he comes. I cannot describe him, as I have never subjected him to microscopic examination. To the naked eye he has the appearance of a light prick from the point of a very fine needle. He burrows entirely under the cuticle. The poison is sure in its action, the irritation is insufferable, and the general result is a sore as large as a half-dollar, which will resist cure for weeks. Jiggers exist in some localities. They generally insinuate themselves between the fingers and toes and deposit an egg, from which is hatched a worm that in many cases, in addition to great pain, causes serious lameness and inconvenience. Mosquitoes, after the 1st of May, become a terrible pest. They are of the small black variety, exceedingly poisonous, come in clouds and make life unendurable in some localities. But the worst of all, to the hunter or fisherman, is the sand fly, comes all at once and his name is legion. You are hunting on the sea beach among the mangroves or palmettos, or anchored in a bay, or out in one of the keys, when the breeze suddenly dies out. A cobweb of fire falls upon forehead, cheeks, neck and hands, and fills up your eyes, ears, nostrils and mouth. Blind, breathless, sore and suffering, there is nothing for it but to surrender at once and run or row for your life. They are infinitesimal black gnats, resembling those which are the pests of the Lake Superior forests, and are so light that the smallest breath of the breeze is sufficient to relieve you of them, otherwise they would render some regions uninhabitable.

AN exchange, which probably speaks from experience on the subject, says: Solitaire is not a game that requires deep thought or profound study, and its principal use seems to be to induce people to sit around grocery stores and wear out the day trying to beat some imaginary power that is supposed to control the cards. Soltaire playing is proof positive of poverty and laziness. No man with $10 in his pocket ever played soltaire, and no man with ambition enough to hunt for a job was ever guilty of such an act. Under a chain of circumstances so unlikely to form any basis for a calculation, a man might play soltaire to determine upon some course of action; but if he did, it is a thousand to one the cards out of spite would lead him astray. He eats sausage and crackers and smokes a clay pipe, for which, when not playing, he spends his time in begging tobacco. A man who would play soltaire would be too lazy to steal; the soltaire player is therefore exempt from police suspicion.

IN a new work Paul du Chaillu describes a curious scene, encountered by him in Laplond, illustrative of the habits of the most generally known of Arctic animals. On entering a forest he suddenly found himself in the midst of a great number of reindeer which were digging through the snow for the moss of which they are so fond. All except the younger ones were working lustily, evidently very hungry. They dug first with one fore-foot, then with the other, the holes gradually becoming larger, and the bodies of the animals becoming more and more hidden. The snow was about four fee in depth, and some of the holes had been dug so far that nothing but their swaying tails could be seen. In every direction these busy creatures were to be seen toiling with the sole object of reaching the moss covered by the snow.

IF the Raymond & Ely and Meadow Valley Companies had erected furnaces for the reduction of their ores, instead of mills, they would have been over a million dollars better off. We are led to reason thus, says the Pioche Record, partly from the rich bonanza that the Smelting Company is now reaping in Bullionville from the reduction of the tailings of said ores—they having realized some $300,000 thus far with a twenty-ton furnace—and partly from the enormous amount of quicksilver that was wasted by the mill process. It is very true a furnace was erected in Pioche when that camp first came into prominence, but the art of reducing ores by the smelting process was then in its infancy, and the venture could not prove otherwise than a failure.

THE New York World recently perpetrated the following: Theodore A. Havemeyer, who is one of the most amiable men alive, took a large party of friends up to his stables in West Seventy-second street yesterday to inspect the remarkably fine collection of young Jersey cattle. One of the guests, inspired by the scene, electrified the rest with a conundrum: "What is the difference," he inquired, "between Mr. Havemeyer in these stables and Mrs. Langtry on the stage as 'Rosalind?'" Os coursé nobody could guess. "Well, one of them shows us Jersey calves worth seeing, and the other doesn't!"

The Florida Cow.

All dairymen can recall instances of bovine perversity, for fool cows exist, though they may not be so abundant as human fools. The native Florida cow, however, seems to furnish the most shining mark for the bovine fool killer. A writer in the Florida Dispatch says: Many Florida cows refuse to eat anything whatever except the wild grasses on which they have grown up, and no amount of coaxing or imprisonment, with such dainty food set before them as would delight the heart and fill the stomach of a properly educated cow, will induce them to eat or drink. We know of one instance (among several) where a cow was penned up and an abundance of corn, fodder, cow-pea vines, bran, cornmeal, turnips, potatoes, kitchen slops—in short, everything that could be thought of to tempt her—were laid at her feet, all in vain; not a morsel would she touch, not a mouthful of water would she drink. "Greek met Greek;" the owner resolved to starve the cow into eating, and the cow resolved to show that she had a mind of her own. So for five days the struggle went on, and just as the owner, alarmed at the rapidly departing flesh of his mulish animal, concluded to own himself vanquished, the cow settled the disputed question in a very emphatic manner. She leaped the fence (an unusually high one) and was never more seen by her owner.

THE curious mud volcanoes of Southern Colorado are located about ten miles to the southeast of Mount Purdy, an extinct volcano some 600 feet in height. In its center is a mud lake which constantly boils, throwing up jets of thick viscous liquid. Around this seething caldron are hundreds of craters of dry, gravish mud. The cones are from three to six feet in height and five to twenty feet in diameter. Some, having a narrow opening, eject sulphurous vapors; others, with large mouths, seem filled with mud, which they throw out at irregular intervals to heights of from four to six feet. The temperature of the mud and of the sulphurous vapors is about 210°. A small stream of clear water near the central lake reaches 199°, and ponds in the neighborhood are found to be respectively at 96° and 100°. Lieut. Wheeler, in his geographical survey, discovered a vast hill near this mud lake which was the product of ancient eruptions. The soil is chiefly composed of sulphur, which exists in many cases in a purely crystalline state. It has been suggested that the pitted surface of the moon might be caused by volcanoes of this sort.—Scientific American.

THE Saginaw (Mich.) News tells a story of a gentleman of that city who writes a friend in England, the envelope bearing his business card, as follows: "If not called for in ten days return to H. H. Thomas, dealer in nitro-glycerine, dynamite, giant powder and high explosives, Bay City, Michigan." Mr. Thomas being engaged in the business of torpedoing salt wells and handling dynamite for stump-pulling purposes. The result was that the excitable Britons jailed his friend, thinking him to be an Irish Fenian, Land Leaguer, Phœnix Parker or something of the kind, and that he was in league with an awful Saginaw house for materials with which to demolish every Clerkenwell jail and Parliament building in the United Kingdom. A brief explanation, however, was sufficient to let the prisoner go free and to call in the extra guards.

THE increase of insanity in the past few years, as shown by recent publications of the Census Bureau, appears to be very great. According to this statement the number of insane persons per thousand population in the United States has doubled in the past ten years. This statement is probably somewhat in excess of the real facts, as the inquiries in the last census were much more searching than on former occasions, but at best it seems that the percentage of insane persons in the population of this country must have increased very materially. It is a startling fact that out of our 50,000,000 of people, over one-half million, or one per cent. of the population, are either insane, idiots, deaf mutes or blind, are suffering imprisonment for crimes committed, or are inmates of reformatories or poorhouses.

MINING, to result successfully, admits of no neglect and must be watched attentively. Confidence and good staying qualities go far to make the successful mining man. Never give up while hope remains, for another foot further may bring the desired object. Never be carried away with the idea that heavy ore bodies must be the immediate result, or disappointment will follow. The cool, calculating, careful, energetic miner is the one who always wins. Good, honest mining ability, well encouraged, never yet injured a mine or harmed a district.—Esmeralda Herald.

UNDER the illumination of an electric lamp photographs have been made of the human vocal organs in the act of singing. The pictures obtained are to be used by two European writers—Herr Behnke and Mr. Lennox Browne—for illustrating a forthcoming work on the mechanism of the human voice.

THE building boom in Great Britain is marvelously prosperous, and railway construction seems to be almost feverishly active. Public works are starting up everywhere.

THE present is the severest Spring ever known in Nevada, and vegetation is at least six weeks backward. There will be fine pasturage, however, when the grass does get a fair start.
